Of the 375 boarding students enrolled at Belmont, this year, 22% are from northern states, the following being represented: Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvanie, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin. Four students are enrolled from California and four from Mexico, and thirty-one from Illinois, New York will have thirté four and Ohio eight. Twenty-nine states are represented in the enrollment as against thirty-four last year, though the attendance is considerably larger. The return of old students is greater than ever before.

A new teacher has been engaged as an assistant in the departments of English and Literature, --Miss Mary Cantwell, M. A. of Ohio Wesleyan University, where she and her twin sister led all of their classes. Miss Cantwell, in addition to her specialty which she has taught for six years, is an accomplished Spanish scholar, having acquired the language by five years' residence and teaching in South America.

Mr. Vratislav Mudroch, the new director of the department of stringed instruments, in the School of Music, has arrived and is locating his home in Nashville. It is expected that Mr. Mudroch will be a distinct and valuable addition to the musical life of Nashville. He is a native of Austria, spent six years under the tuition of Seveik as a fewllow-student with Kubelik, whom he is said to rival in native and acquired ability as a violinist. He is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory, Prague, in both violin and piano, and has spent three years on the concert stage in Europe and Australia and the United States.

In the School of Music th Alto there will be a new plane teacher in the person of Miss Helin I. Moory, who is also an Austrian, and for eight years a student in the Piano Conservatory of Vienna, from which she graduated as a medallist. Miss Moory is teaching for the first time in an American Institution of learning, but she has taught several years in Europe and has done concert work.

The organ department at Belmont College will be fully equipped this year, and to it Mr. Frederick Arthur Henkel will devote practically his entire time, though he may take a few piano pupils at Belmont, also. In addition to the great concert organ in the Auditorium Mr. Henkel and his pupils will have the advantage of a smaller pipe organ for practice, both instruments being run by electric motors. Mr. Henkel is a graduate of the Metropolitan College in Cincinnati, and a musician by inheritance, love and training.

The School of Household Economics at Belmont, including the departments