Recipe? We didn't use a recipe. We just threw in some odds and ends that we found around the school. You'd be amazed at how many things happen that give flavor and spice to a dish like MILESTONES. Of course, we needed a little help serving, so get ready for a treat while the MILESTONES chef helps us give you a taste of what's cooking at Harpeth Hall.

take one girl,

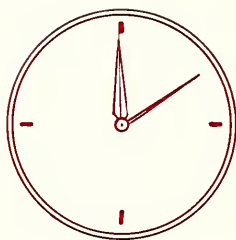

add one full day . . .

Dedication

Who could find a scale to measure what Mrs. Souby has done for Harpeth Hall? Yet, as the test of the pudding is in the eating, so the test of Mrs. Souby's work is in our school and in every Harpeth Hall girl. She has watched the school grow—an idea materializing, difficulties receding, buildings rising to accommodate an increasing student body. She has seen girls fluttering in confusion on registration day, girls learning, girls competing in sports, girls approaching the threshold of maturity—young ladies departing. Every girl who has laughed, studied, and worked here carries her own memories of Mrs. Souby with her. When Mrs. Souby leaves, our school will lose a basic ingredient, but her influence will remain in the spirit of the school and in every Harpeth Hall girl.

To you, Mrs. Souby, with gratitude and affection, we dedicate MILESTONES of 1963—on behalf of the girls who have gone before, the girls of Harpeth Hall today, the girls who are to follow. . . .

. . . because of Harpeth Hall, there is a path to follow; because of you, there is a Harpeth Hall.
