As memories of high school linger in the minds of Harpeth Hall students, so do memories of movies from years past. A milestone in itself, a movie can give itself to a time, place, or a memory. As movies document fictional characters' lives, they document our own. Everybody has a movie that they can relate their life to and therefore hold a special meaning for them. We depend on films to entertain us, to enlighten us, to provide a topic for conversation, or to just help us pass the time. Only in movies can we find the magic that starts when the lights fade, the screen glows, and we are transported to different places, times, and frames of mind. The 1994 Milestones Editors would like to dedicate this yearbook to films, and we welcome you to share the nostalgia we felt in recalling these movies. Just as movies help form our common social conscience, we hope this yearbook will form a common school memory.

The Doctor

A true hero of the school, he's a visible supporter of every Harpeth Hall organization. From his attendance at sporting events and plays to concerted efforts at sponsoring Youth in Government, he has repeatedly earned his well-deserved name "Mr. Nice Guy." He has endeared himself to the students of his American History classes by his adorable holiday socks and ties as well as his personal and caring manner of teaching. Adoring cries of "He's so cute, I love him" follow him wherever he goes. A man who is his own visual aid and who possesses a plethora of demanding inquiries such as, "Did you have a nice day?" and "Any questions?" strives to instill in Harpeth Hall students the importance of this country's history. A man that always wears a smile as well as a Lands End's outfit could not be a more apt candidate for the Milestones dedication. Therefore, the Editors of the 1994 Milestones proudly dedicate this year's edition to Dr. Jim Cooper.

Merrie Poppins

The eighth grade class of 1994 would like to honor someone who is back from the past — a member of the faculty who has provided continuous support to the entire Harpeth Hall community. A alumn of Harpeth Hall, she previously taught here and returned to us last year to enlighten bewildered seventh graders on the heritage of the United States. Not only does she teach her classes of the adventures of Columbus and Colonial America, but she also gives them overwhelming love and attention which will remain with them throughout their years. This lady's cheerful smile and joy of teaching always leads her students to new discoveries of the past. Whether watching "Days" or deciphering the research papers of her students, her course's atmosphere is one of exciting and creative learning. For her open mind, belief in academic challenge, and compassionate heart, the 1994 edition of Milestones is dedicated to Miss Merrie Clark.

The Gods Must Be Crazy

Mrs. Wills and Beth do some Risky Business

Faculty

Okay, here's the deal,

Our creativity has suddenly been restricted in the middle of the year. Therefore we can no longer use real movie pictures. Some random movie pictures slid by but others did not. So to solve this dilemma, we've decided to make a game out of it. It's called "Can you guess what movie this picture is from?" So go on and guess and then turn to page 220 to find the answer.

Thank you
The Management

Ms. Leah S. Rhys

Supporting the faculty and students in their academic endeavors and achieving the school's mission for excellence are two of Mrs. Rhys' top priorities. She oversees the necessary functions of the school, and while keeping the entire school running smoothly, she manages to remain accessible and attentive to needs of the Harpeth Hall family. Other from Mrs. Rhys' day to day responsibilities, she must work with the Trustees and deal with more outreaching issues than the issues within the campus. She works with the Trustees to develop the annual budget, oversee the maintenance of the campus, and raise funds for the school. She is also responsible for making sure that the school complies with appropriate laws and procedures. When describing her enormous job as Head of School, Mrs. Rhys says, "I try to be reasonably available to all Harpeth Hall's constituencies — faculty, parents, students, and alumnae . . . Obviously, I have a great deal of excellent help in my work which makes my days very, very enjoyable!"

Ms. Susan Baughman

The old saying, "Variety is the spice of life," may be trite, but in Ms. Baughman's case, it is true. Each of her days at Harpeth Hall is truly different as she meets with students, faculty, and parents trying to solve problems, set dates, listen, and counsel. From September to May, she works with many people, juggling and balancing a multitude of daily responsibilities and demands. Her summer is spent scheduling all three hundred students' courses for the approaching school year. When asked to comment on her job as Head of the Upper School, she will say, "Each year the cycle is the same, but the excitement and fun comes from being a part of all the students' lives as they learn, grow, and prepare for college and beyond."

Ms. Lindy Sayers

In her fifth year at Harpeth Hall, Ms. Lindy Sayers continues to enjoy the new adventures she finds each year as the Director of the Middle School. Not only does she serve as a positive role model with her big smile and optimistic attitude, she also takes an active part in the lives of her students. When talking about the involvement with her students, she says, "Being a part of the lives of middle school girls means sharing their enthusiasm, their curiosity, and their energy. It means I can laugh with them, cry with them, and learn with them." To further her involvement with the students, Ms. Sayers teaches the Life Skills courses where she is able to make a time of enormous change into a positive and creative change for the Middle School students of Harpeth Hall.

Mrs. Brown, Director of Admissions, and Jane Groos, Associate Director of Admissions, are the two people with the privilege and responsibility of choosing the newest members of the Harpeth Hall community each year. They are both sponsors of the Ambassadors Society and meet with each candidate personally to ensure that the girls selected will add to the flair of the already top notch student body.

Polly Nichols and Diane Wild put tremendous effort into their work, including volunteer training, the annual giving fund, and taking care of Harpeth Hall's 6,000 constituents. Mrs. Nichols comments, "Development: It's all about cultivation of prospects, friend raising, and fund raising." Diane Wild, in addition to her other work, contributes her time to writing articles for the HH News and Highlights.

Mr. Bill Hayward, the Business Manager, and Mrs. King, the Assistant Business Manager, prove their ability as great money managers through their meticulous budgeting of the Harpeth Hall business account. They also keep in tact with the students with their various other responsibilities. Mr. Hayward is an excellent economics teacher to a group of underclassmen and has been seen at Christmas wearing a Santa suit. As book store manager, Mrs. King is also able to meet various members of the student body.

Dr. Jones modestly says he is "Nobody's Boss" but he does have the significant job of the Dean of Faculty. His responsibilities range from convening the Curriculum committee to encouraging the teachers in professional development through observation and evaluation. Although he has these numerous responsibilities, he still finds time to teach Physics and AP Physics. His talent and commitment is limitless!

As Harpeth Hall's guidance counselor, Mrs. Lentz helps students to discover solutions to their individual problems. Her peer counseling and classes raise controversial yet important topics. She listens and tries to make a difference in everyone's lives.

Being Director of Special Programs keeps Mrs. Fuller busy all year long, especially with the school's Winterim program. She organizes the resumes and locates jobs for the Junior and Senior programs as well as planning the Sophomore/Freshmen on-campus program. Leadership Conference and the Summer Program are two of her many other responsibilities to add to her long list of special programs here at Harpeth Hall.

College counseling is the Pepto Bismol to the student's worries as she goes through the trying process of selection of a college. Giving relief to the angst-ridden students, Mr. Hooper guides each girl through the confusing world of college choices. With Mr. Hooper's help as college counselor, each girl does find the right college for herself after a long and in depth study of her own choices in colleges.

If a body in a blur of brightly colored warm-ups races by you as you go to lunch one day, it will probably be Mrs. Russ. Serving as Athletic Director, P.E. teacher to the Middle school, and coach of Upper School cross-country and track, Mrs. Russ is always on the run. Also coordinating the Parents Athletic Association, she is continually gathering support for the Athletic community at Harpeth Hall.

9 to 5

Anything the students and faculty can't handle the secretaries can. Each one of these women has responsibilities in different facets of Harpeth Hall, but all make contributions to the community as a whole. Whether answering phones, typing, checking attendance, sending out report cards, or taking care of us when we are sick, they are warm, kind, and always capable. Because of their hard work and caring natures, the secretaries are well appreciated by both the students and faculty. Harpeth Hall would never survive without them.

"It's no use going to school if the library is not your final destination." This famous quotation immediately comes to Mrs. Nancy Rumsey's mind when describing the Harpeth Hall library. Mrs. Rumsey along with Karen Douse organize and make all books, materials, and computers available to the Harpeth Hall community. The library and its diligent librarians are a true educational asset to the students and faculty at Harpeth Hall.

The Department Heads are the teachers that exemplify the utmost leadership and concern for the education of the students in their field. The Department Heads are as follows: Head of the Science Department — Jane Norris; Head of the Math Department — Carol Oxley; Head of the P.E. Department — Pat Moran; Head of the History Department — Art Echerd; Head of the English Department — Nancy Grimes; Head of the Art Department — Ann Blackburn; Head of the Language Department — Joyce Ward.

rom ice storms to sweltering summer days, the maintenance crew orks persistently in its efforts to improve the Harpeth Hall campus. Whether rescuing shoes (yes it has happened), cutting down trees, mak- g repairs, or landscaping, the Maintence Department plays a vital art in the task of beautifying the campus and maintaining security.

Barb and Jude

Best known for their desserts, especially the Reeses peanut butter cookies and tea cakes, Barb and Jude's catering service brings home cooked lunches to the students during the week while also preparing the food for special school functions, and more than once they have been known to break up a fist fight over the last Colonel Crunch ice-cream bar. "Catering" to the students' needs, Barb and Jude have managed to create a staff and service that strives for culinary success.

Weird Science

When a Harpeth Hall student is asked about science, she will either say that she survived it or that she loved it in spite of the strenuous and rigorous challenges it entails. With new editions to the Science Department and the return of Ms. T., the teachers continue to use their creative and sometimes crazy teaching skills to help their students comprehend the difficult ideas of Science. Through their innovative teaching skills such as Frog day, Mole day, and the help of Norm and Frazier, the teachers continue to succeed in making their learning spontaneous and enjoyable. If the students at Harpeth Hall did not have these teachers plus wonderful resources, Biology, Chemistry, Physics, Botany, and Ecology would leave no lasting imprints on their minds.

The Power of One

As Mrs. Oxley says, "We want to give each girl the very best Mathematics education as possible taking into consideration ability, interest, and necessary preparation for success in college and life in general. We want our students to become life long learners who are competent and efficient contributers and consumers." The Math Department continues to achieve these goals in educating women in the field of Mathematics. With the aid of the new graphing calculators, students become more secure in the comprehension of ideas in classes such as Pre Cal, Discreet Mathematics, and Calculus. With Mrs. Oxley's Madonna impressions and Mr. Wert's political tangents, the teachers continue to bring in humor to lighten the stress in learning complicated mathematical equations.

The English Department has worked hard to attend to the school-wide task of examining scope and sequence of materials and skills in grades five through twelve. The English Department tries to become better informed about what teachers at different grade levels are doing so that it can coordinate with and complement each teacher's efforts. In addition to working supportively with each other within the department, they are also enjoying some mixer-departmental projects, such as research papers and summer reading. Though each English teacher enjoys refining her individual classes, she finds it nice to be part of a larger effort.

The Harpeth Hall Language Department strives to enable students to read, write, and communicate proficiently the language of their choice. Harpeth Hall desires to fulfill the urgent need of effective, interculturally literate communicators. Not only does the Language Department educate students in the fundamentals of Latin, French, or Spanish, but it also encourages the appreciation and acceptance of other cultures. They are advocates of travel and exchange programs and sponsor the foreign language week. The Language Department opens the channels of communication of the world to the student body. Their dedication is reflected through their unique yet effective teaching methods. Their enthusiasm uplifts the minds of the students so that they may be more receptive to not only foreign languages but foreign ideas and cultures.

The History of the World

The Harpeth Hall Social Sciences Department, chaired by Dr. Echerd, allows students to learn about events and societies in both the United States and coutries abroad. As Dr. Echerd says, "History is the most difficult discipline among the liberal arts, since it is best able to illustrate the interrelationship of politics, war, economics, religion, and the arts." Juniors and Seniors are required to take European and American History while many Freshmen and Sophomores elect to take Psychology, Economics, or American Government. In the Middle school, students study an array of subjects ranging from Ancient civilization to Colonial America. Dr. Echerd specifies the goal of the History Department when saying, "The department hopes to impart to the student a subtle but nonetheless practical skill — cultural literacy, the ability to understand and digest material written for an informed general audience."

A League of their Own

Where can you find tennis balls bouncing over the fences, golf balls soaring over Souby Hall, and countless injuries from poorly executed jazz splits? The Harpeth Hall Physical Education Department. Department head, Ms. Pat Moran says, "The primary goal is to give the student activities that she can use in later years, mainly lifetime sports. Unique to Harpeth Hall is the strong dance program that is part of this department. All three instructors in the department have graduate and or undergraduate degrees in their field which lends real professionalism to the entire physical education department." The Harpeth Hall students have the opportunity not only to strengthen their minds, but also to strengthen their bodies with the help of the Physical Education Department.

Fame

The Fine Arts faculty continue to challenge students in a varied program with a long tradition of excellence. Art classes afford students the opportunity to experience first hand the commitment and discipline required for success. Individual creativity and growth is sometimes realized long after an image develops or a sound expressed. Better community participation and celebration of the arts through exhibits, concerts, and plays continues to be a departmental goal.

It's finally proven that for every dance the Student Council puts on, Saturday night fever strikes. From the soothing ballads of the magical Stuart Adamson to the soul power of Clifford Curry's beach music, each dance has been spectacular. Living it up is not all the Student Council is about. Organizing the Upper School Community Day and sending a "banner of a Valentine" to Dr. Paschall, prove these girls are dedicated to being leaders. Supported by a spectacular senior staff, including: Holly Whetsell, Robinette Weiss, Jennifer Moroney, and Kathryn Ozier, President Miller Wild has been able to accomplish above and beyond her goals for the year.

Thirteen girls, one leader, and a common goal; Truth. The Harpeth Hall Honor Council strives to up hold the integrity of the school community. This year, president Holly Whetsell created a new theme for the Honor Council. "We are the representatives, you are the system." By trying to get the student body involved, the honor council has given the girls a greater sense of security and trust. This year the Honor Council felt that it was important to include the student body in their quest for integrity. In order to do this, they formed discussion groups in which students participated in mock Honor Council trials, had guest speakers from other schools' Honor Councils, and open discussions on the importance of honesty in the Harpeth Hall community.

The Harpeth Hall Key Club, one of the school's most active organizations, is extremely dedicated to community service. Founded fourteen years ago, Harpeth Hall was among the first all female Key Clubs. Mrs. Louise Wills is the dedicated sponsor, and Amy Knowles served as president with enthusiasm and determination. The Key Club volunteered at Second Harvest, the Angel Trees, and a Robert Fulgrum benefit lecture. Amy was also seen on the Easter Seals Telethon answering phones and receiving donations for a worthy cause. This club not only touches the lives of girls at Harpeth Hall, but affects the entire Nashville community.

The Student Faculty Committee brings together what could be two very separate bodies of the school into one coherent committee. The group meets in the bottom of the library once a month to discuss issues concerning the students at Harpeth Hall. Students from each class are appointed to the committee but everyone is welcome at the meetings to speak and listen. With support from the administration, the committee was able to fix the plumbing and find quiet places for students to study. The main task of the committee this year was to discuss and plan future uniform changes. Due to the decisions of president Julie McDonald and the rest of the Student Faculty this year, parts of Harpeth Hall in need of reform were given attention and changed for the better.

Hot Shots

The Middle School Student Council provides a way for Middle School students to become involved in planning their school's events and to participate in leadership roles. Led by president Mandy Lomax and vice-president Booth Blanton, the Student Council organized such fun-filled activities as the talent show and the Halloween carnival. With their hard work and persistence, both activities were great successes! The Middle School Student Council with much thanks to their sponsor, Sally Mabry, made a valiant attempt to bring the student body together, both socially and academically. Next year is a promising one, with such great prospective leaders!

Gathering around a table full of food and timeless literature, the Middle School Book Club discusses many novels. During their fourth period lunch meetings, they can be seen huddled in a circle heatedly arguing the theme of a chapter or of an entire novel. The Book Club is composed of eighth graders who all love reading and feel reading broadens their minds and their souls. The Book Club is giving these girls an asset they will keep forever — knowledge.

Seventh graders Brie Brown and Courtney Rogers were elected to the prominent positions of president and secretary general (respectively) in the government for next year. Sponsor Mrs. Clark says, "Mrs. Girgus and I thought the Model U.N. was a wonderful experience for the girls and we are so pleased that they did so well, especially since it was their first time."

In their second year, the Ambassador's Society has been busy promoting the school in the Nashville community by encouraging girls to come to Harpeth Hall. On any given day an ambassador's job could include helping show prospective students around campus, serving on panels at the BLT lunches, holding telethons for thank-you calls to alumni, or distributing information about the school out into the community. In the words of member Anna Kristin Coker, "Not only does the society help bring new people to the school it allows the community to have a new perspective on how the school's run."

Distinguished Gentlewomen

Why would a bunch of high school students give up two weekends of their school year to debate current world and national issues? Because they are members of the Youth in Government Club. Each year, the Harpeth Hall YIG club participates in two state-wide conferences — Model United Nations and Youth Legislature. At Model UN, the students represent a country in the UN and write a proposal concerning that country. At Youth Legislature which is held at the State Capitol, the students are either Senators, Representatives, lobbyists, or members of the press corps. Legislators present bills concerning the welfare of Tennessee. This year's Model UN delegation was 38 members strong and at Youth Legislature, Harpeth Hall had 36 members of the 730 delegate conference. Jamie Heller served as Vice President at Model UN. Becky Clark, Jamie Heller, Dawn Craddock, and Christie Fontecchio were picked to attend National Affairs this summer in North Carolina. Each year the YIG club becomes larger and stronger and has an even more successful year than the last.

Legal Eagles

The Law Club, with the help of Louise Fontecchio, Ann Russel, and David Core, participated in Mock Trial, bringing home first place in the city. Their case was about Terry Bell (played by Mary Pillow Kirk) who is charged with inciting a riot and arson to property owned by a cult, the "Believers," led by Kelly Parker (Sarah Oliver). As well as taking home first prize, two students received awards: Sarah Oliver for Best Witness and Christie Fontecchio for Best Defense Attorney. After taking part in the city competition, the Law Club went on to State Mock Trial Competition and were the Runner's Up even though they deserved first place over MUS.

Cry Freedom

With Mr. Wert's sponsorship, this year's Amnesty officers are seniors Sarah Phillips and Aimee Blount as coordinator and co-co-ordinator. Treasurer, Katie Earls, secretary Anjali Shenai, and publicity officers Elizabeth Adams and Jennifer Crants make up the Junior staff of this charity group. The objective of Amnesty International is to do their best to peacefully free political prisoners in remote areas of the world. They write letters, nicely but persistently, asking the Emperor, Dictator, King, etc. to free our man/woman/childfrom an unjust jailing. The club is steadily growing as Harpeth Hall students become aware of the injustices of the world.

A Star is Born

Once a month, a group of talented actresses meet to discuss upcoming theatrical events. The club, headed by Mrs. Klocko, performs two plays a year. This year, with the help of some MBA actors, they put on Quilters and A Flea in Her Ear. These incredible plays would not be ready for the stage without the long work hours contributed by the tech crew. They come ready to drill, paint, and build whenever required, devoting their precious Saturdays to the all-important cause of putting on a play. Aside from handling the publicity, making the set, and acting in the plays, the club members participate in theater sports and has play outings to see productions around Nashville. When asked about Playmakers, Lauren Melkus and Bev Statland simply said, "All the World's a stage and men and women are merely players."

The Secret Garden

Sister Act

If you've ever seen your friends flying out of the cafeteria in the middle of the lunch period, they're probably in upper school chorus. They practice Monday through Wednesday during the last half of fifth and sixth periods. The groups sings in the bijou. And if you've ever walked by, you know you know that hey are not tone deaf. In fact, they've even performed at the Symphony Ball and Bookstar with MBA. According to Sophomore, Val Byrd, "Dr. Cassel makes chorus invigorating." The chorus' singing sounds as though they sacrifice is well worth their performance in the auditorium.

The Sound of Music

Once a week, during a free period, chamber groups practice together in the music room. These groups are comprised of two to four students who have a love for music. Not only do the student musicians give up a free period to play together, but they also practice outside of school. The chamber orchestra is also part of Upper School Instrumentals. This big group of students practices with MBA every Friday afternoon for an hour. Both sections of instrumentals perform in concerts and open houses for the school. The chamber group compete in the metro contest for student musicians every year. Each group agrees that Dr. Cassel's enthusiasm makes Upper School Instrumentals a lot of fun.

A Chorus Line

The first year for the Middle School chorus has been quite successful. Each Wednesday and Thursday the girls meet for an hour to prepare for their concerts. Lead by Mrs. Rothrock, a large group of fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth graders performed at both the Holiday and Spring concerts with the Upper school. They had many other recitals, and the grandmothers enjoyed listening to them at the Grandmothers Tea. The alumni were also pleasantly surprised to hear this young chorus sing for them for the first time. The Middle School chorus would not have been such a hit without the enthusiasm and effort put forth by this group of talented girls.

Swing Kids

This year the Middle School Dance Ensemble consisted of a hearty bunch of fifth through eighth graders and was headed by the ever-talented Stephanie Hamilton. Every Monday from three thirty to five o'clock, this group assembled in the Auditorium and experimented with many forms of dance. On Colonial Day, the hard work paid off as these young prima donnas strutted their stuff for a very impressed audience. These girls are the up and coming Upper School Dancers and promise to show great talent sprouting from this fresh start.

Common to all Logos II editors is the outcry "Deadline? What deadline?" Logos II editors have picked up the pace this year by releasing six copies throughout the year instead of only releasing four as done in the past. Co-editors in chief, Mab Byrd and Jennifer LaRue have spent hours scratching out layouts on post-it notes. From stories on sexual harassment, to religion, to interesting snow experiences, Logos II found creative topics on which to inform the student body.

Not when did you say that deadline was?

What do Friday afternoons, layouts, and tons of food have in common? They're all typical of a Milestones meeting. Every Friday, from 2:15 to 4:00, the Milestones editors (especially the copy editors who slave away at typing copies on an incompetent computer program that people do not even read) and staff come together to help compile the yearbook. With plenty of snack foods to help them get rough the afternoon, the staffers work consistently to help meet the deadline of the publishers.

Gothic

Every Wednesday night at 6:30, members of Harpeth Halls Dead Poet's Society gave up a night of 90210 and Melrose Place to ponder the question of life in Carrie LaBrec's living room. The meeting is a time when students can express the meaning of their own poetry as well as discuss other students creative works. Although meetings may begin with trivial conversations concerning prom or T.V. shows, they almost always end on topics with a more meaningful or philosophical note. These stimulating conversations are sparked by stories or poems members have brought to share. A past faithful attendee of Penstaff said that "There is always something learned; or at least the possibility is there." Some of the original poetry shared at these sessions is selected for publication in the annual Hallmarks.

Poetic Justice

Hallmarks is a memorable collection of student photography, artwork, poems and creative writing. Any student may submit work to be considered for publication. Hallmark's provides Harpeth Hall's students with a forum to express their creativity. This year editors Halle Hayes and Robinette Weiss decided to have two smaller editions of Hallmarks instead of the usual one. The Hallmark editors collaborate with English teachers to choose creative staff members for the 1994 edition of Harpeth Hall's literary magazine.

Best Seller

By producing two issues of the Middle School Literary Magazine this year, the students were able to publish an enormous amount of student literature. Although it is primarily made up of the work of seventh and eighth graders, fifth and sixth grade contribution is just as important. The students do all of the work that goes into putting the magazine together. In addition to contributing the literature, they type out each piece of work, proofread, copy, and bind every single issue. They hope to continue this publication next year and for years to follow since so many people enjoyed reading and participating in the creation of this work.

The Paper

The Club Chronicle, the Middle School Newspaper, has worked hard this year to cross new horizons. The staff of the paper has grown to thirty-five girls and is primarily made up of seventh and eighth graders with younger girls joining at the end of the year to learn about the paper. The eighth graders serve as editors. Averaging one paper every six weeks, the goal of the chronicle was to publish six issues this year.

One of the main focuses of this year's staff was to have more editorials on important issues such as cliques and how the Middle School needs to be more handicap accessible. The Middle School girls have once again proven their journalistic talents in the Club Chronicle.

An American in Paris

Bonjour tout le monde! This year's French Club has almost turned Harpeth Hall into its own City of Lights. They began the year with French Immersion Day, where students suddenly found themselves in their own France within the confines of a gym. The French Club has also sponsored some fabulously fattening French meals and foreign language week. They had the special opportunity this year to host French high school students on an exchange program to Harpeth Hall. Above all, tres chic students have shown every one else just how marveilleux French can be.

The Last Tango in Paris

The Middle School French Club, sponsored by Mr. Bill Lauderdale, holds meetings in which all French students meet and discuss ideas about the French language. Meetings happened at ten thirty on various assigned days. French Club organized the French Banquet, a fun event for all who attended! The French Club in the Middle School gives all of these girls a chance to exercise their French accents and bond with Mr. Lauderdale. Barrets were seen on these girls' heads during Foreign Language Week when they learned cultural ideas and fashion tips on the French society. The enjoyment of other cultures and languages will hopefully follow these girls for the rest of their lives.

Salsa

Under Charlotte West, this year's Spanish Club participated in and held many events: dinners at Mexican restaurants such as Rio Bravo and On the Border, an all-school pinata bust, and a service project for orphans from Honduras in need of various supplies. The Spanish Club is one of the more involved language clubs at Harpeth Hall, and secretary Katie Earls attests to its popularity by saying, "We usually have really good attendance" at their events. Basically the Spanish Club speaks a lot of Spanish and eats lots of fajitas and salsa.

La Bamba

There's more to the Middle School Spanish Club than eating enchiladas and dancing the lambada. These seventh and eighth grade girls meet throughout the year to participate in any and all language events. At the school wide international food fest, the Middle School Spanish table was a hit with its spicy fajitas. The lunches sponsored at various Mexican restaurants throughout town give strength to their bodies and minds in order to gear up for the challenging national Spanish exam. The Middle School Spanish Club keeps the culture of the Spanish speaking world alive and strong in Nashville. La Bamba!

Caesar

This year the Latin Club has become more active in the Harpeth Hall community. For Saturnalia they got the school in the JCL spirit with flyers and candy. In trying to become more involved, the Latin club created t-shirts and sponsored a scavenger hunt for all of those who wanted to attend. As always, the large-hearted JCL'ers gave to a charity to help children in all walks of life. Also, in hopes of being more widely known, the club has been working hard to earn many awards at mid-state and all-state competitions. After last year's success with the scrapbook, Historian, Emily Cowan, has been working hard all year to compile a complete and amusing keepsake of this year. JCL has truly achieved become a more outgoing and acknowledged club.

Sparticus

Led by a group of dedicated seventh and eighth graders, the Middle School J.C.L. completed several of it's goals this year. They attended the Mid-State J.C.L. competition, as well as the state competition at F.R.A. The competitions were fun for all, especially those who participated in the performance of the skit which they prepared. Several of the club members submitted tee-shirt designs for a school-wide J.C.L. shirt. The middle school officers also met with upper school officers to plan strategies for the next school year.

High Spirits

We've got spirit! Yes we do! We've got spirit, how about you. The Pep club, led by Leslie Freeman, a Freshman, started the year strong supporting soccer and fizzled out by the time basketball rolled around. At the beginning of the year, the pep club was vibrant, putting candy on the board for the athletes and rooting for our teams. Even though they weren't that alive by the end of the year, Harpeth Hall's spirit still shined through.

Forensics is a new club that was introduced into the Harpeth Hall community this year. It was primarily made up of Freshmen, since the freshmen started it. Led by a Freshman, the small group went throughout Middle Tennessee competing in a number of events including debate, improvisation, and dramatic interpretation. The group was small and usually outnumbered at the competitions, but the group promises to be bigger and even more outgoing next year.

Over the Top

The dedication, hard work, and leadership of this year's Varsity Volleyball team led them to a second place title in district. They began practicing during the summer and even spent a week at volleyball camp in Chattanooga. Under the wise coaching of Pat Moran and the abundance of senior spirit, the volleyball team consistently showed unity and expertise in their athletic skills as they spiked, set and served their way to victory.

The freshman volleyball team "spiked" their way to success. They were so good that they were often mistaken for the varsity team and their enthusiasm and determination led them to a winning season. Next years varsity team will be lucky to receive the addition of these talented girls. As one freshman said "Working together as incoming freshmen was a great opportunity to promote unity both on and off the court.

The eager seventh and eighth graders began every day after school practice in August and diligently worked until the end of October. They were able to "sharpen their skills" individually as well as develop a sense of unity as a team. The Middle Schoolers fiercely competed against other volleyball teams in the HVAC. The enthusiastic Middle Schoolers proved to have much talent and skill on the volleyball court.

Go Speed Racer!

Led by Coach Susan Russ, the Upper School Cross Country team had an exciting year. The team consisted of sixteen runners and one manager. At the beginning of the season, the Freshmen were scared; but at the end of the season everyone had shown improvement. The team really came together and had an enjoyable season. The Cross Country team's grueling practices finally paid off when they won the regional championships. Not only did the team have a rewarding year, but they also met Elvis at a Cross Country meet in Memphis. The team is sad to be losing their two Seniors, Kate and Lindsey, but they are looking forward to another great season next year.

Lacey, Carrie, and Beth show their stuff

On a green, grassy field, with twenty-five girls wearing only sports bras in the 100 degree heat, soccer season began. Coach Peter Gunn started his players early in July. With a rookie coach, team unity seemed to be an impossibility, but this group of women pulled together to support each other through the tough practices. Coach Gunn's driving hopes for the State Championship motivated the girls to work harder and strive to be all they could be. These girls could easily invision themselves at the top while others viewed them as the underdogs. At the end of hard work, Harpeth Hall's soccer team brought home the Regional runner-up trophy.

The Middle School cross country team, consisting of avid sixth, seventh, and eighth grade runners was coached by Ms. Bean and Ms. Mason this year. Through heat and rain, grass and mud, they diligently ran all through August and September. The team finished a fantastic sixth place overall. Team members, Georgia Yowell and Katie Kaminski said, "It was hard and challenging, but we tried really hard, and we hope we can beat Ensworth next year!" Spouting energy and pouring sweat, these girls ran their hearts out giving them the chance to be all they can be.

The Mighty Ducks

This year's Middle School soccer team, led by coaches Tad Wert and Tim Wallace, had a very eventful season. They rounded out the year with a winning record and fun filled season. Their record, however, did not show off these girls' full potential. Their expertise in ball handling as well as their team spirit and sportsmanship left the competition shaking in their cleats. Most importantly, the Middle School soccer players had a great time just being together. They worked hard, and had an excellent season.

Led by riflemen Bob Van Cleave and Ed Stevens, the female terminators of the rifle team shot the bullseye more often than not. Armed with .22 caliber rifles, these tolerant women are given forty nine minutes to shoot one target in each of the four positions: prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing. Although the rifle team has gone unnoticed in the past, this year they earned the privilege of their own sweatshirt. This team, led by seniors, Maya Narula and Jennie Stevens, won the League Championship and went on to win the state.

Mermaids

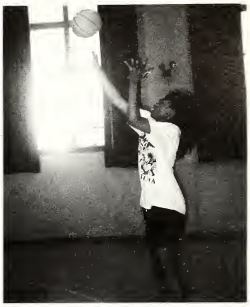

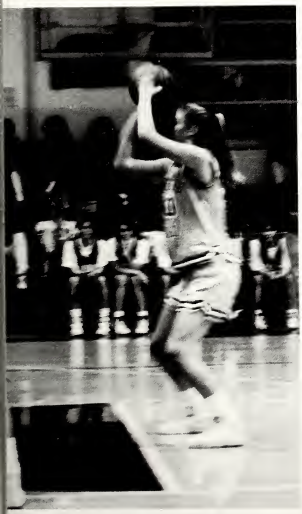

This years swim team dove headfirst into the water and definitely made a giant splash. Led by senior captain, Sara Brown, these Bearacudas were so amazing in the water, rumor has it that some of them started to grow scales. Though their record was less than perfect, this young team gained experience and confidence until they were so tough that they had other teams shaking in their speedos. The Bearacudas and coach Trish Petrie certainly represented Harpeth Hall well and proved beyond a doubt that chlorine and green bathing caps are the height of fashion.

The Air Up There

Harpeth Hall's Junior Varsity Basketball Team once again had a steller performance. Their record shows their great effort and they demonstrated great team work on the court while enjoying themselves. Coached by Susan Trzkowski, the girls played beautifully and carefully. Sophomores Damali Booker and Jennifer Kain led the way among star freshmen like Catherine Workman, and Megan Tally. This year the Junior Varsity Team showed great talent and Harpeth Hall spirit this season.

Team, team, team. Five players on the court functioning as one unit, no one more important than the other." These words spoken by co-captain Mary Southwood before every game. Coached by Mr. Springman and Ms. Trzuskowski, the team was led by captains Mary Pillow Kirk and Mary Southwood. Always ready to do their best, the team came together and became close both on and off the court. Never lacking in spirit, several events were sponsored throughout the season to encourage fans support, including the exciting "Pack the gym night." With a promising group of J.V. players, the Varsity basketball team should be ready to take on the world next season.

The 1993-94 Varsity cheerleaders cheered their team on to a winning season. Dedicated and hard working, this group of girls practiced throughout the summer and fall to prepare for the upcoming basketball games. In the July heat, they attend a week long cheerleading camp at Vanderbilt. At the first game, their hard work paid off. They did a variety of cheers and performed a dance at half-time. The peppy group of girls definitely helped to raise the spirits of crowds and did a fantastic job of supporting the Honeybears.

Over-flowing with Honeybear spirit, the Junior Varsity cheerleaders brought spirit and pep to the J.V. basketball games. The squad, made up of vivacious freshman, was led by the small but spirited Sarah LeBlanc. Starting early, the J.V. squad attended a summer camp and came back with even more enthusiasm than before. The cheers and chants of the cheerleaders brought a new life to the J.V. basketball games. The basketball players felt they had immense support because the cheerleaders encouraging cheers and lively smiles showed the team that they were behind them one hundred percent.

Dolls

Wearing their green and white and showing their spirit, the Honey cub cheerleaders helped to raise support and voices for the Middle School basketball team. The squad was composed of nine girls in the seventh and eighth grades who were determined to cheer the honeycubs on to victory. The girls steadily improved their skill from late fall to the winter by practicing and from the experience of cheering in many games. One eighth grade basketball player said that she could always hear the cheerleaders shouts of encouragement as she dribbled down the court during the exciting games of her last year as a cub. The cheerleaders were a vital part of the basketball team and the players', fans and parents all appreciated their hard work.

White Men Can't Jump

ABOVE THE RIM

This year, the sixth grade basketball team tried something new. Instead of having a team that consists of all the eligible basketball players, they split up into an A team and a B team. The A team was coached by Tom Roberts and consisted of nine sixth graders and three fifth graders. They played eight games and lost only three games. Their biggest rivals were Oak Hill and USN. The B team was coached by Melissa Wert, Mr. Wert's younger sister and consisted of eight sixth graders. They played six games all together. Even though they were two different teams this year, the girls became close and worked well together. Catherine Walton commented on the season by saying, "We didn't play just to win, we played to have fun." The girls obviously learned a valuable lesson.

Running Scared

Flash Gordon

Everyday about thirty-five girls get together after school to run track. This big team practices rain or shine, no matter what the temperature is. They even practice during spring break. Not only do they practice all of the time, but they also have a lot of meets. In fact, the team wins the majority of their meets. They even came in fourth place in a meet in McCalie with only five of their runners competing. According to Sophomore Colleen White, "You're not ready to win if you haven't lost. By the end of the season I'd say we were all winners." Not only was the team made up of winners, but they were also record-breakers. The Harpeth Hall track team definitely had an incredible season.

Grand Slam

This year's tennis team was especially enthusiastic as they began practice before spring break and continued through the end of May. Each members efforts contributed to the great success of the team, and there were many people who went to the region, district, and state tournaments. With the help of Ms. Moran and Mrs. Meadows, the tennis players practiced everyday and took many road trips this year. The bad weather conflicted with many practices and matches, but the players continued to work their hardest, using indoor courts when necessary. Due to each player's efforts, this years' tennis team has made many progressions including their success in the district, region and state tournaments.

After having a miserable and nearly traumatic season last year, the softball team got their act together and started winning. As a matter of act, the softball team won four games! They even beat CPA by the ten-run rule. However, the bears did meet some stiff competition like Page and David Lipscomb. In one game, against David Lipscomb, Caroline Mullins was pitching and the fourth batter stepped up to the plate and smacked the ball clear over the fence. The all still has not landed. This was a crucial year for the softball team since there was some consideration about not having a team next year. The team led by the three seniors, Lauren Marler, Rachel Reeves, and Nikki Voysey, came through with shining colors and made a complete circle. The team gelled around the lone pitcher, Lauren Marler, and pulled themselves out of the gutter. The team morale is high and they plan to be better than they ever this year. The softball team is not a joke anymore.

Sneakers

This year's Middle School tennis team served and rallied their way to an overwhelming season. Led by eighth grade captains, this team showed everyone that Honeybears are just as fierce in white skirts as they are in kilts. Their coach, Nan Reed, remarked that this was an exciting season, there were rumors that more than one opposing player ran away in terror when faced by this fierce team and their racquets. The Harpeth Hall Upper School tennis team looks forward to these players in the near future.

The Bad News Bears

The Middle School softball team played an outstanding season this year. Led by coaches Marie Burr and Liz Gilbert, the team ended the season with a record of four wins and three losses. Every game they played was a crowd pleaser. Practice was held every day after school until four thirty and every member gave their best effort for the team. With a seventh grader, Brie Brown, as the main pitcher, this team has the opportunity to be even better next year! All of the girls loved having the chance to play on such a unified team. Player Jessica St. Cyr says "It was so much fun that I hope to do it again next year!" These girls certainly have made their marks on the softball field, and next years team will have a lot to live up to.

Protocol

Why would over eighty girls cut their summer vacation short and hop on buses headed to Eva, TN? The only answer is the 1993-94 Upper School Leadership Conference! For two days, all elected student leaders planned activities and discussed issues concerning the upcoming school year. The girls practiced their brainstorming techniques and Bill Hayward explained how our tuition is used. One of the finer points of the conference was the low ropes course. The students were divided into strategy groups to complete this challenging task. Obstacles such as a twelve foot wall, a carpeted log, and a giant spider web taught the girls how to successfully work together. The students also had the opportunity to observe a faculty meeting. Except for efforts to make "You go, girl," the school theme for the year, the Leadership Conference was more productive than ever.

Urban Cowboy

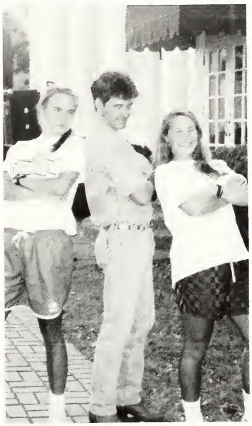

Forget U2, the Spin Doctors, and Garth Brooks — how about going to a concert to hear your old geometry substitute? Well, that's exactly what the Student Council had planned for this year's Concert on the Lawn. Mr. Adamson, the evenings entertainment, made the concert a little more intimate by reminiscing with his former students about their good times together at Harpeth Hall. Audience members joined him at the microphone to the tunes of "The Brady Bunch," "Pink Cadillac," and "Friends in Low Places." Students and musicians alike chowed down to food from S.A.T. Co., while catching up on each other's summer escapades. Junior Lacy Galbraith even went so far as to say, "Mr. Adamson — his magical feet, shining eye, and Billy Idol flair kept the whole lawn rockin'!"

The Freshman

Each year at Harpeth Hall, the freshman class is trucked off to what is traditionally known as the "Freshman Retreat." This involves spending the night in mosquito infested cabins in the woods where they begin to learn the new names and faces of their new classmates. The retreat gives the freshmen class time to organize and prepare for the upcoming year by electing class officers and planning events. The class learns to work together as a whole and develop class spirit by learning the class song. This year's gigantic freshman class of almost one hundred girls accomplished all of these tasks and still managed to survive the ropes course. The one night retreat was an enjoyable event to help the freshmen start their first year of high school on a positive note.

Snow White

Definitely white dresses. They set the Seniors apart from the other students for the day signifying class unity. Besides, it's a good tradition that doesn't need to be broken," says Rachel Reeves about the vote to carry on the tradition of wearing white dresses for the 1993-94 Senior Recognition day. The traditional capping of the seniors by the class officers was abandoned, instead the senior class presided over the entire student body and had the privilege of placing their sapphire and jade fishing hats on their own heads. Rachel Reeves, president of Cum Laude, Miller Wild, President of Student Council, and Kate Terry, president of the senior class, each reflected on the advantages and responsibilities of being a Harpeth Hall senior in their speeches addressed to the entire student body. The graduating class of 1994 made known what a spectacular time they have had over the past four years, especially during their last year as seniors.

This year the seventh graders packed up and went to Wesley Woods. Their teachers, Mrs. Malone, Mrs. Girgus, Mrs. Clark, and Mrs. Sayers accompanied them to this activity filled camp for three days in the great outdoors. The seventh graders participated in many wilderness activities which helped them come together as a group. They also enjoyed repelling, rock climbing, hiking and participating in the high ropes course together. The trip was a great experience for all, and each girl enjoyed this bonding experience.

Staying up late, watching movies, eating popcorn and making friendship bracelets were some of the highlights of this year's sixth grade trip to land between the lakes. Coming in the middle of November, it was chaperoned by Mrs. Sayers, Mrs. Bean, and Mrs. Russwick. Living in the midst of nature for three days, the sixth graders were able to see deer and take night hikes. A chance to grow closer as a class, the trip provided the sixth graders with an exciting diversion during the fall.

What in the world could bring stars such as M.C. Hammer, Milli Vanilli, and Vanilla Ice to Harpeth Hall? The answer is the first annual Upper School Talent Show. Produced by the Student Council, members of the student body proved that they were as, or more talented than the famous superstars of the nineties. Live performances by "Madonna" (seniors Mary Pillow Kirk and Rebecca Russel) and "Michael Jackson" (A.K. Dettwiller) brought tears of laughter to the faces of the audience. The faculty also showed off their singing abilities as they sang "Lean on Me." The 1994 Talent Show proved to be a huge success and even received a standing ovation. Hopefully, it will continue to be a tradition in the future.

Taking Care of Business

"It really put things into perspective and made me appreciate what I have," says Sophomore Sukey Tully. After the entire Upper School gave thanks for "no school" on October 22, everyone returned with a feeling far more rewarding than anything a day off from school could have given them. The Nashville community opened their arms and welcomed two hundred and ninety-two girls for a day of helping others. From playing with mentally handicapped children to cleaning up after abandoned animals at the Humane Shelter to boxing goods at Second Harvest Food Bank, the entire community received the fruits of our labors. Junior Dee Dee Wade says, "I've been to Second Harvest two years in a row, and I like it because it's warm and we get to stay inside and talk to each other a lot. Plus, we were told exactly how many people we were helping." So, all in all, it can be concluded that everyone benefits from Community Day, and perhaps the greatest rewards are those smiling faces and warm hugs we will never forget. Maybe next year, those that got lost (there were quite a few) will have a chance to experience the feeling also.

Little Women

I hate shelling peanuts — why can't I have a man?

Oh! please don't let him drop me, please don't let him drop me!

During the weekend of November 18th-20th, the cast and crew of the fall musical Quilters transported the Harpeth Hall community back to the pioneer days of America. The show revolved around the lives of the women in one particular pioneer family. Hallie Anderson played the role of an aging mother in the play quilting her last quilt for her seven daughters. The actors and actresses were taught special singing techniques that were characteristic of the time period. The show was also viewed by members of the National Thespian Society who invited the troop to perform at the National Thespian Convention this summer in Muncie, Indiana. Quilters was a very moving story of the struggles and hardships pioneer women had to endure.

An Affair to Remember

A truly festive occasion, this year's Grandmother's Tea was a smashing success. Preparations for the tea were truly learning experiences for the girls, as they learned how to write a proper invitation and were coached on their manners. The girls certainly wanted to live up to their Grandmother's expectations. Each girl clad in her Sunday clothes, looked lovely and excited as she eagerly awaited the arrival of her guests. Both generations enjoyed refreshments and tea, as well as each other. Quite a few of the Grandmothers were already old friends and welcomed this occasion as an opportunity to become reacquainted with one another. The Grandmother's Tea is a wonderful tradition and truly is an affair that Grandmothers and Granddaughters will always remember.

The Round Table

The Renaissance Banquet is a senior tradition that takes place every fall. Sponsored by Ms. Myers, the banquet incorporates two hundred pounds of fruit, one hundred and fifty candles, plenty of garland, authentic entertainment and costumes to create the atmosphere of a bona fide Renaissance Banquet. Each senior was required to bring four pounds of fruit, candles, and come dressed in clothes from the Renaissance era, which could be obtained at the Salvation Army, sheets, or the costume closet. Several seniors did arrive in the same dress, but that did not dampen the atmosphere, as the night was spent sampling foods of the time period, such as lemon-almond rice, cheeses, breads, and hot tea and learning the period's most scandalous dances meaning, gasp! an ankle could be seen. The night was enjoyed by everyone. As senior Victoria Green says, "I never knew what a couple of pounds of fruit and candles could do to the gallery. It was the best time I've ever had at school!"

With A Song in My Heart

Both the winter and spring Choral Concerts were products of Dr. Cassell's so called "Pearls of Wisdom." He transformed our eighteen person chorus into a group of performing artists. The winter concert was carried off with a great amount of pride... "We actually did it! ... with only one (major) mistake!" Though it was cold and dreary outside, many people attended. The chorus sang many songs, some of which were holiday songs and songs in foreign languages. The chamber orchestra contributed a lively aura to the show. The spring concert included an ensemble of both the Harpeth Hall and M.B.A. chorus's, orchestra, and band. All of the instrumentalists were amazing and the solos were not so bad either, including a lovely number sung by senior Mab Byrd. The students who performed in this year's choral concerts did a fantastic job, and it was obvious from the loud applause that the audience enjoyed the musical entertainment.

As juniors Courtney Pace and Lacy Gailbraith exclaimed, "It was really exciting to be able to kick off our pumps and let off all of our teen steam after a hard week of exams by groovin' to the tunes of Clifford Curry!!!"

WINTERIM '94

No Way Out

Once again, on campus Winterim proved to be both fun and a beneficial learning experience. This year, many new curriculum choices added to the variety of widespread subjects. Sophomores were instructed on the many new ways to use their TI-82 graphing calculators, while freshmen were once again instruced on teenage survival in "Life Choices". From dancing with the C.R.P. dummies, to learning about lotis-feet in "Mirror, Mirror", this year's Winterim was the variation from every day classes that the students needed after a rigorous fall semester, and also gave students the opportunity to learn about new and different subjects.

After ringing in the new year, Harpeth Hall's Juniors and Seniors ventured out into the "real world" for three weeks, in the name of Off Campus Winterim. The trips this year included New York City, Spain, Washington D.C., and France. Along with the school trips to foreign lands and big cities, many students did independent or work studies of every kind. Harpeth Hall students spread their wings, worked hard and, of course, had fun on these three week excursions. Off Campus Winterim is a privilege and a tradition at Harpeth Hall that is both rewarding and fun.

Fumigating the doghouse

During the last week in January, Hobbs Road was magically transformed to Broadway with the opening of the Middle School production of "Kiddleywinks." Showcasing their dramatic skills, these young actresses presented a chronicle of a day in the life of several young girls. Displaying a talent that rose far above their ages, the comical and musical storyline was an amusing portrayal of the struggles and triumphs of young teenagers. In this show, the Middle schoolers showed both the Upper school and Broadway to look out!

The Great Outdoors

Don't worry, I'll save you!

The annual trip to Jekyll Island, Georgia, happened between February twenty-second and February twenty-eighth. The eighth graders learned about the sea, the marshes, as well as the environment. The girls had a great time, lunging into the frigid waters of the Atlantic Ocean in shorts and tee-shirts. Mrs. Sayers, Mrs. Nash, Mrs. Russ, and Mrs. Clark led the girls in this wonderful trip of learning combined with fun. The students were able to get to know one another better. It was a trip with memories the girls will never forget.

All the President's Men

Tallu Schuyler (Martha Washington), Mandy Lomax (George Washington), Katherine Frazier (Captain of the Guard)

In the morning of Thursday, February seventeenth, Harpeth Hall celebrated George Washington's birthday once again with the seventh graders fabulous production. This is one of the oldest traditions at Harpeth Hall that has continued since the Ward Belmont days. There were many authentic dresses of Colonial design and several deviations in the sailors choreography, which was very enjoyable. Mandy and Tallu made a very dignified George and Martha Washington adding to the production's elegance. Patriot songs of freedom rang throughout the gymnasium and the program was ended with the singing of "God Bless America" and "The Star Spangled Banner." The George Washington celebration is a unique and creative way to learn about and celebrate our nation's history and will continue to be a long lasting Harpeth Hall tradition.

One Flew Over the Cuckoos Nest!

On the week-end of March 11th, one might have heard discussions revolving around fleas in peoples ears. This was because of the opening of Harpeth Hall's hilarious production of "A Flea in Her Ear." Being a farce, it was a play about lies, deceit, sex, and mistaken identity filled with comical Caos and mahem. The cast consisted of guys and girls of all grade levels and was an opportunity for people to get to know one another. Many parts in the show were so Caotic and involved so much improv, that audience members could come every night and still find something new to chuckle at. This sensational play was directed by Mrs. Klocko, with the help of Reese Witherspoon. The cast had audience members roaring with laughter, and falling out of their seats. This years spring show was one that should not have been missed.

Aladdin

From shirtless male models in turbans of gold to marketplace scenes from days of old, this year's prom of magic carpet rides sailed us away through Arabian skies.

Trapped in the gym for two days at least, the junior class fervor not once decreased. Working all day and into the night, A mess was created but turned into a sight.

As the hours progressed and the time drew near, the palace arose and the rubble was cleared. At nine o'clock sharp, presentation began: each girl looked dazzling on the arm of her man.

Upsetting the mothers, exceptionally well the dancing continued as all raised some hell. Midnight drew near but the floor was still full. Til the boys on our arms began to pull.

All in all, the night was a blast and for many, it seems, it sped by way to fast. Memories were made, before, during, and after. On this Arabian night filled with smiles and with laughter.

My Father the Hero

The General Jackson was rocking to the tunes of "Sound Therapy" on the night of April 13th. After feasting on a three course meal, the fathers and daughters had a chance to explore the enormous boat, and discover the beautiful views from the deck of three levels. Around seven thirty, the band started playing its notorious "oldies" songs, and the dance floor became a mob off boogying bodies. Calls of "Go Dad!" were heard as everyone danced the jitterbug, the twist and even some gatoring was witnessed. When the Davettes (Julie Asbury, Hallie Anderson, Mab Byrd, and Dionne Gardner) took the stage, pandemonium struck. After singing "Moonglow", the Davettes were joined by Mrs. Leah Rhys for a thrilling rendition of "Respect." The band leader was a hit with versions of "My Girl", "Soul Man", and the traditional ending song "Shout!" Fathers and daughters were able to capture this precious night with pictures taken on the upper level of the boat. Finally, at the end of this special evening, friends said goodbye and the fathers gathered themselves together. The seniors were particularly sentimental because this was their last dance. As Genevieve Fitzgerald said, "This is probably the last time I will dance with my father before I get married."

Father Daughter Banquet

Risky Business

The Main Event Auction at Harpeth Hall has become an exciting and at times, vicious, competition between the students for various items such as gift certificates, baked goods, autographed country music souvenirs, and activities with teachers. Many different shirts from different countries and locations were main items this year. Girls, mostly from the Middle School, poured into Bullard Gym throughout the day until the last minute when the silent auction ended. There were many bids on each item which increased the competition between each bidder. Due to the enthusiastic Middle School girls, the auction made a great deal of money for the school. Once again, the student auction proved to be a success. "It was like a shopping mall in our very own Bullard Gym!"

The Forbidden Dance

As the curtains parted and the stage lights came up, the young dancers glided across the stage with excitement in their eyes and hearts pounding. From ballet to jazz, tap, and modern, the audience was enthralled throughout the performance. With the Storm as Modern 1and Initiation as Modern 2, not only the dancers but the spectators became emotionally involved. Jazz pumped up the volume encouraging the energy to hit the roof. As usual tap and ballet were well choreographed and equally well executed. Overall, the concert this year drew an enormous crowd and left an impression on everyone who attended. Watch out Broadway, the Harpeth Hall dancers are up and coming.

With Honors

Girls straggled into the auditorium to the early morning assembly. Three girls gave speeches on the importance of the quality of our faculty. Carrie Kline told the student body how during the past four years her teachers have been more than just educators, they have been her friends and supporters. Nikki Voysey felt the same because she came from a school where she was one student in a class of seven hundred. She felt the specific attention that each teacher lavishes on their students. The Middle School teachers were not forgotten. Katie Kaminski talked of all of the trials and tribulations that the Middle School teachers face everyday. Then Ms. Peggy Warner, chairman of the Board of Trustees, presented the Owen chair to Mrs. Joyce Ward. Mrs. Ward's deeply felt concern for the community of Harpeth Hall and the students of Harpeth Hall earned her this honor. Faculty recognition was meaningful for everyone, especially Mrs. Ward.

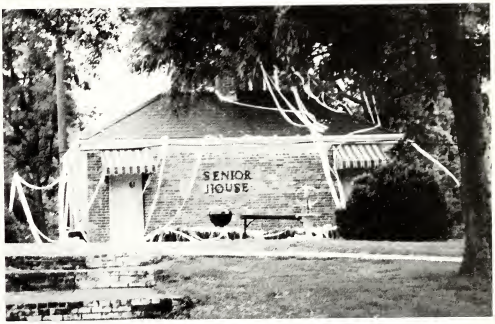

Wild At Heart

As graduation approaches, the Seniors had their final fling during the annual Senior week. The activities included wearing college attire, wearing the class colors of sapphire and jade, cookout for the junior class, hat and tie duds day, and the grand finale of Junior/Senior day. The theme for Junior/Senior day was the juniors as cowboys and the seniors as Indians. The day proved to be extra messy, especially vengeful, and extremely WET. Senior Week ended with laughter and happy memories.

Athletes in the Mist

On Thursday, May 19 Harpeth Hall had their sports banquet to honor the 1994 sports teams. In order to shorten the program the whole team was not called up on the stairs. The reception went faster than usual because of the change but just as effective. The teams were all recognized for their achievements and many individuals were given special recognition for outstanding accomplishments. The evening ended with the traditional speeches from the Senior athletes. Though a tear jerking event, it is the most memorable for many of our school's best competitors. Finally, Lindsey Orcutt and Mary Southwood received together the best athlete award.

Last Action Heroes

On Friday, May 20th, the whole Upper School could be found shivering on Souby Lawn, waiting for Awards Day to begin. The club songs were sung, and Triad, copying a song that Ariston sang two years ago, was declared the winner. This year proved to be more interesting because n one girl dominated the majority of the awards. Many different girls received their respective awards along with the mysterious present. During a break in the day, the Student Council provided the traditional gourmet popsicles. Holly Whetsell was announced as Lady of the Hall, to no one's surprise. Dr. Cooper received the Milestones dedication, along with a standing ovation. Awards Day was well attended by parents and all students and faculty, making it a special day for everyone to be together.

Terms of Endearment

Following the awards ceremony on Friday, May 20th, the Senior class traveled to the Leah Horton Garden with their mothers for the annual mother and daughter luncheon. Here, mothers and daughters reflected back upon the past years with laughter and tears while enjoying Barb and Jude's specialities for the last time. The nicest surprise was a gift from the parent's association to the class of 1994, a beautiful engraved silver picture frame, which was presented at the luncheon. It was a wonderful afternoon filled with memories as well as hopes and anticipation for the girls next year at college.

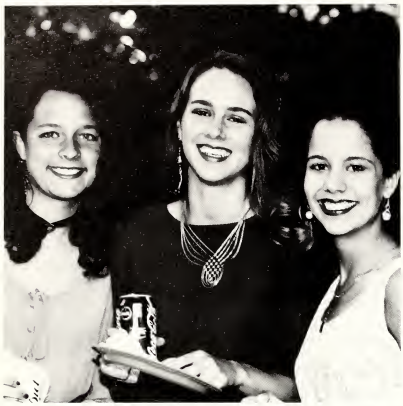

House Party

Starting promptly at 4:45, the senior slide show began the Senior Banquet on May 28th at Josephine Proctor's house. It was made up of many pictures from the sixth grade Santa pictures to Mr. Sellars all the way up to Senior spring break. The background music was a mix of songs colleced all through our high school years consisting of the Bangles and "Whoomp There It Is" and ended with "I Will Remember." After that grand beginning everyone headed outside for a SATCO dinner and listened to the Senior Roast which told where everyone would be in ten years. This was a great chance to bring everyone together and replay the good times we had at Harpeth Hall.

The Crying Game

This year's Step Singing ceremony was the most poignant in Harpeth Hall's history. At this annual spring tradition, Harpeth Hall honors the girl who best represents the ideals of the school by crowning her Lady of the Hall. After she is crowned, the Juniors and Seniors sing reminiscing upon the memorable moments of Harpeth Hall. This year's ceremony was honored by the presence of the speaker, Amy Grant. Alumna of Harpeth Hall and famous singer, Amy Grant presented a wonderful speech full of touching anecedotes. It seemed to the audience that there was another famous singer in their presence when Senior Dionne Gardner dedicated her rendition of a Mariah Carey song to the Senior class. There has never been so many teary-eyed people on Souby Lawn as when Dionne completed her heart renching song.

With Honors

On the morning of May 30, the Eighth Graders anticipated one of the most important days of their lives: Middle School Honor Day. It began with an invocation by Kathryn Lee Manier followed by the Seventh Grade song "You've Got A Friend" by Carole King. Then, Tallu Schuyler, the Eighth Grade speaker, spoke to her peers before the awarding of the certificates by Mrs. Leah Rhys. After the Alma Mater was sung, the Sixth and Seventh Graders sang "May the Road Rise to Meet You" by Austin C. Lovelace. All students, parents, and teachers gathered to honor and congratulate the graduates and to welcome them to the Upper School.

The Graduate

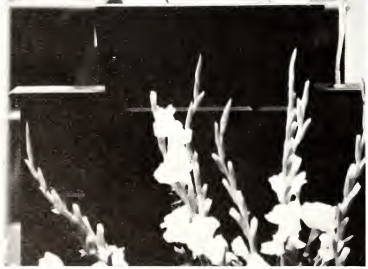

1st Honors: Lauren Marler, 2nd Honors:
Lindsay Mallard & Rachel Reeves

Blessed with sunny skies and a cool breeze, the 1994 graduation exercises took place under the blooming magnolias an Souby Lawn. The ceremony began with the procession of the teachers in ceremonial robes followed by the graduates who were clad in a potpourri of white dresses. Inspirational words were spoken by senior Miller Wild and Leah Rhys who reiterated the diverse talents of the graduates and the great contributions that the Senior Class has made to the school as a whole. As each student crossed the platform, taking special care not to trip, shook Leah Rhys' hand and received their diploma, she left the stage an alumna. Then the graduates sang their class song "One Friend." Finally, the commencement exercises ended with the singing of the Alma Mater led by Mab Byrd. Although the ceremony was relatively dry eyed, every graduate felt a tinge of sadness to be leaving.

Katie Wray Award

Lauren Marler

Harpeth Hall's highest academic award, The Katie Wray Award, goes to a young woman who has distinguished herself by finishing her career at Harpeth Hall with the highest grade point average of anyone in her class. Independent and self-reliant, she does not seek glamour or prestige, but rather she pursues what she enjoys. She sings in the chorus, plays the flute, and plays on the softball team. Georgetown University is indeed forunate to claim Lauren Marler as a member of the freshman class, and Harpeth Hall is delighted to give her this much deserved Katie Wray Award.

Wild Hearts Can't Be Broken

Seniors in Spotlight

Hallie Anderson

I always knew that when I looked back on the times I cried, I'd laugh. But, I never knew when I looked back on the times I laughed, I'd cry.

The pictures kept will remind me . . .
— Eddie Vedder

Ooh I love you! I'll always love you! Come what may!
— The Pirate Movie

Julie Asbury

There was never any more inception than there is now, nor any more youth or age than there is now, and will never be more perfection than there is now, nor any more heaven or hell than there is now.
— Walt Whitman

Tiffany Beauchamp

You can always tell a real friend,
when you've made
a fool of yourself
he doesn't feel you've done a permanent job.
— Lawrence J. Peter

Aimee Blount

Absence diminishes mediocre passions and increases great ones, as the wind blows out candles and fans fires.
— Francois Du de La Rochefoucaulch

"Tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all.
— Lord Alfred Tennyson

Anna Ruth Brown

Good friends we have
Good friends we've lost
Along the way, in the great future,
You can't forget your past.
So dry your tears I say.

— Bob Marley

The path leads onward into the future; New and old friends must be left behind, But the memories will always remain . . . I must leave and take this path onward, Thanks for everything and goodbye for now,

— A.A. Milne

Sara Brown

My mind lets go a thouand things, Like dates of wars and deaths of kings.

— Thomas Bailey Aldrich

Thank God for unanswered prayers.

— Garth Brooks

Mab Byrd

I am a part of all that I have met;
Yet all experience is an arch where through
Gleams that untravelled world whose margin fades
For ever and for ever when I move,
How dull it is to pause, to make an end . . .
my purpose holds.
To sail beyond the sunset, and the baths
Of all the western stars until I die.
— Lord Alfred Tennyson, Ulysses

forsan et haec olim meminisse iuvabit.
— Virgil, Aeneid

Kitty Coleman

This song put me in the middle of the road.
Traveling there soon became a bore so I headed for the ditch. A rougher ride but I saw more intelligent people there.
— Neil Young, "Hearts of Gold"

Lydia Cook

Character consists of what you do on the third and fourth tries.

— James Michener

Therefore do not be anxious for tomorrow, for tomorrow will care for itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own.

Matthew 6:34

Susan Corbett

Old friends cannot be created out of hand. Nothing can match the treasure of common memories, of trials endured together, of quarrels and reconciliations and generous emotions . . . We forget that there is no hope of joy except in human relations.

— Antoine de Saint-Exupery

Dawn Craddock

Beth Davis

We laughed until we had to cry
And we loved right down to our last goodbye
We were the best I think we'll ever be
Just you and me
For just a moment.

— Cynthia Weil

Crispin Davis

Every moment is important. Don't waste them by reliving the past or planning the future. Bathe yourself in life's moments. Each and every one is a miracle, because nobody can explain why they exist. So savor these droplets of time, and leave none in the bottom of the glass to finish its existence as a dried ring of residue.

— Crispin Davis

Tiffany DeFrance

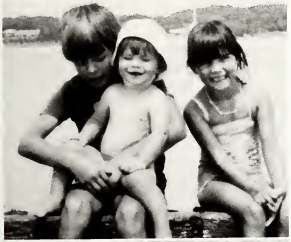

Lissa Ezell

Genevieve FitzGerald

The people in one's life are like the pillars on one's porch you see life through. And sometimes they hold you up, and sometimes they lean on you, and sometimes, it is just enough to know they are standing by.

— Anonymous

There is no such place as far away.

— Richard Bach

Appy Frenchman

Andrea Gaffney

We wear the mask that grins and lies,
It hides our cheeks and shades our eyes —
This debt we pay to human guile;
With torn and bleeding hearts we smile,
And mouth the myriad subtleties.
Why should the world be overwise,
In counting all our tears and sighs!
Nay, let them only see us while
  We wear the mask,
We smile, but, O Great Christ,
Our cries to tee from tortured souls arise.
Beneath our feet and long the mile;
  We wear the mask!

— Paul Lawrence Dunbar

Dionne Gardner

Victoria Green

We visit this world for only a moment and that moment is known as life. During this time we learn about laughter, but also of tears. We find more questions than we do answers. We experience the joy of new arrivals and feel the sadness of loved ones departures. So we must try to live every second, for oh, so quickly our moment is gone.

— Javan

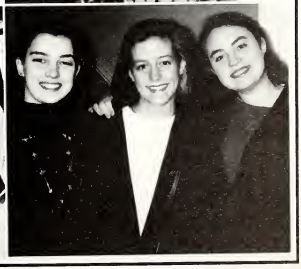

Friends are not only together when they are side-by-side, even one who is far away is still in our thoughts.

— Beethoven

Kassy Harris

The hardest years, the darkest years,
The roaring years, the fallen years,
These should not be forgotten years.
The hardest years, the wildest years,
The desperate years, and divided years,
We will remember

— Midnight Oil

When I grow too old to dream, I'll have you all to remember.

— unknown

Emily Hatch

If you want, then start to laugh
If you must, then start to cry
Be yourself don't hide
Just believe in destiny.

Don't care what people say
Just follow your own way
Don't give up and use the chance
To return to innocence.

— Enigma

Halle Hayes

We do not believe in ourselves until someone reveals that deep inside us something is valuable, worth listening to, worthy of our trust, sacred to our touch. Once we believe in ourselves we can risk curiosity, wonder, spontaneous delight or any experience that reveals the human spirit.

— e.e. cummings

Jaime Heller

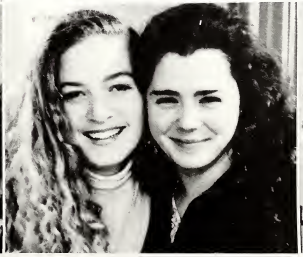

The passage of time has led us to finish our journey through the lion gate. We will work hard. We are prepared for the next step, and as the phone rings, next year, at 2 a.m. long distance, from a remote town northeast, we will remember the memories we will have in common and the journey we took through the lion gate.

— Anonymous

Leslie Huddleston

The journey of a thousand miles begins with one step.

— Lao-Tzu

Mary Pillow Kirk

Over mountains, over trees, over oceans, over seas, across the desert I'll be there in a whisper on the wind, on the smile of a new friend . . . Just think of me and I'll be there.

Carrie Kline

You mean so much to me —
you've helped me to find a special outlook on life
that was hiding
waiting for someone like you, to open the door
and set it free
You mean so much to me —
for you've been there,
through good times and bad, drying the tears and holding back the loneliness giving me a friendly shoulder to lean on and enough smiles to last a lifetime
Wherever time may take us,
wherever we may be,
I want you to remember
how much you mean to me.
— Susan Poplis Schultz

Amy Knowles

Hearts and thoughts they fade, fade away.
Hearts and thoughts they fade, fade away.
Hearts and thoughts they fade, fade away.

Spiked punch is life — enjoy the show.
— Andy Edwards

Hearts and thoughts they fade, fade away.
Hearts and thoughts they fade, fade away.
Hearts and thoughts they fade, fade away.
— Eddie Vedder

Carrie LaBrec

In this strange season, when we are suspended between realization and expectation, may we be found honest about the darkness, more perceptive of the light.

— Dr. Jack Boozer

So we must love while these moments are still called today/Take part in the pain of this passion play/Stretching our youth as we must, until we are ashes to dust/Until time makes history of us.

— Emily Saliers (Indigo Girls)

Be who you are and learn to cherish that boisterious black angel that drives you up one day and down another. — Unknown

Merril Lackey

What I do, is all that concerns me, not what people think . . . It is harder, because you will always find those who think they know what is your duty better than you know it. It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinion . . . but the great man is he who in the midst of the crowd keeps an independence of solitude.

— Emerson

To each his own.

Lisa Lancaster

Trust in the Lord with all your heart,
and do not rely on your own insight.
In all your ways acknowledge Him,
and he will make straight your paths.
Be not wise in your own eyes;
fear the Lord, and turn away from evil.
It will be healing to your flesh and refreshment to your bones.

Don't be dismayed by goodbyes,
for goodbyes are necessary
before you can meet again . . .
and meeting again, after moments or lifetimes,
is certain for those who are friends.

R. Bach

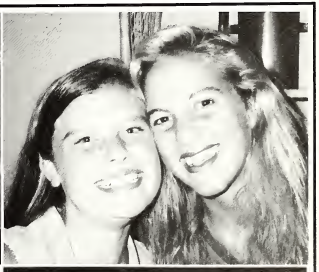

Julie McDonald

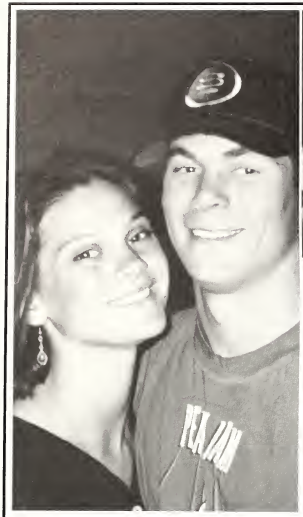

It's not the critic who counts. Not the person who points out where the strong stumbled or where the doers of great deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to those who are actually in the arena. Whose faces are marred by dust and sweat and blood. Who strive valiently, who err and come up short again and again. And who, while daring greatly, spend themselves in a worthy cause so that their place may not be among those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.

— Theodore Roosevelt

Madie McKnight

Listen to the mustn'ts, child,
Listen to the don'ts,
Listen to the shouldn'ts
The impossibles, the won'ts
Listen to the never haves
Then listen close to me —
Anything can happen, child
ANYTHING can be,

Aimee Richmond

There are things of which I may or may not speak;
There are dreams that cannot die;
There are thoughts that make the strong heart weak,
And bring a pallor into the cheek
And a mist before the eye,
And the words of that fatal song
Come over me like a chill.
"A boys will is the winds will
And the thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts."

Rebecca Russell

Mary Southwood

IF you can keep your head when all about you,
  Are losing their and blaming it on you,
IF you trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowances for their doubting too . . .

IF you can dream — and not make dreams your master,
  If you can think — and not make thoughts your aim;
IF you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
  And treat those two imposters just the same . . .

IF you can fill the unforgiving minute
  With sixty seconds worth of distance run,
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it . . .

Have you been half asleep and have you heard voices?
I've heard them calling my name.

Is this the sweet sound that calls the young sailors?
The voice might be one and the same.

I've heard it too many times to ignore it.
It's something that I'm s'posed to be.
Someday we'll find it,
the rainbow connection;
The lovers, the dreams, and me . . .

Class of 1994

I'd like to thank the academy for . . . OK! Enough movies! There are some people, however, who have been invaluable to Milestones this year and I owe them a great thanks:

To five dedicated future Milestones staffers:

Kimberly Allen	Kristin Condon	Abbie Griffith
Devon Williamson	Megan Youngblood

My faithful staff:

Val Byrd	Dana Deaton	Courtney Pace
Anne Elizabeth McIntosh	Lacey Galbraith	Catherine Ryon
Amy Meadows	Lizabeth Jones	Katie Sloan
Jill Shoenblum	Jean King	Elizabeth Adams
Elizabeth Crocker	Rachel Kraft	Jennifer Crants
Jessica Dean	Caroline Mullins	Jenny Mudter
Elizabeth Palmer	Rachel Reeves	Genevieve Fitzgerald

The best editors I could ever hope for:

Margaret Wray	Emily Hatch	Josephine Proctor
Anna Ruth Brown	Sarah Phillips	Katie Moran
Julie Asbury	Elizabeth Wray	Maya Narula
Merrill Lackey	Jennie Stevens

Those of you who probably changed your phone #'s after our annoying calls:

Ms. Baughman	Mr. Hayward	Ms. Martin
Ms. Sayers	Ms. King	Ms. Proctor
Ms. Alexander-Snow	Ms. Montague

And to all of you who contributed pictures, ideas, and your time, THANK YOU and GOOD LUCK NEXT YEAR!

Thank You for allowing us to capture life's most precious moments

Hey! Everybody look at me!
For I'm all grown up you see.
And after this I'll go explore
My college, the world and so much more.
I won't be twelve or five or one
For that was when I'd first begun.
Now I am eighteen for a while
Ready to face my future with a smile!
May the Lord bless and keep you, Hallie.
You are loved forever,
Mommy, Daddy, Penny, and Maggie

Congratulations, Julie
We Love You!
Mom, Dad, and Amy

Congratulations Tiff!

It's more than what you've done that makes us proud...
It's who you are.

LOVE,
Mom, Dad
Leslie, Gus,
Camille, Elizabeth, Carl,
Lisa, John,
Caroline, and John Michael

Aimee,

We are very proud

Thoughtful people, creative people, people who try, who care, people who are concerned, pay a price- but the rewards are indescribable. It is these rewards which are returned from respect for one's own values, one's own way of living- in trying to be incorruptible, at least trying not to be corrupted. The state of internal contentment we call happiness means using the resources of the mind and the heart- as deeply and fully as you can.

- Leo Rosten

What lies behind us or before us are tiny matters compared with what lies in us.

God created all things, but He took special care in crafting the rose and you.
