

Martha Grizzard
Sandra Ragland

Class Poem

If we have gained a love for lasting truth,
If from our knowledge we have trained our mind
To look beyond the doubts of human kind,
If we can judge with open eyes of youth
And still esteem the laws of old respect,
If perserverance lies in every task,
If others realize that when they ask
Of us a service, we will then direct
Our work in honest paths, without discord,
If in our lives we lift a torch alit
With courage, duty, truth, and then submit
Our souls to faith and reverence for our Lord,

Then with His help we know we have begun
A life with mind and spirit raised as one.