MILESTONES

R.O.T.C.

A not so long time ago, in a galaxy not so far away, there was a group of 13 editors. They toiled long and hard to put together the best and funniest yearbook for the girls at Harpeth Hall. They battled computer ignorance, ADD, incompetent photo developers, slow professional companies, and Martha Grace. After all of their labor, here is the final product. Turn the pages, and let the laughter begin.

FBI WAR

"I have come to ask for a brain."

Crazy!

Here's a story...

The reproduction of, or unauthorized use of this yearbook in any part will be considered the most serious of offenses and will result in our prosecuting the guilty party to the highest extent that the law allows. That being said, the 1999-2000 Milestones staff, in the ongoing effort to avoid all matters serious, has chosen for its theme, "Spoofs." This broad and vague choice has enabled us to provide our readers with humorous copy and a plethora of random pictures which might not otherwise be included in an ordinary yearbook. As a staff, we hereby, claim

The posse in action.

Ms. Melinda Higgins

William Wordsworth once said, "The best portions of a good man's life [are] his little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and love." It is not ventured to undermine the wisdom of William Wordsworth, but one could argue that these seemingly small acts of kindness in the end are the most indelible upon our memories. It is a rare and precious occurrence indeed that in the course of our lives we meet an individual who both strengthens our mind and touches our heart. Yet daily, students here at Harpeth Hall see one who embodies both these characteristics. This unique and generous individual inspires us in many ways to put others first and to give of ourselves wherever we can. Any Chem. nerd will tell you that Fridays are not complete without her final urgings of "Bright smiling faces on Monday!" In addition to the busy schedules of her four children, she always manages to squeeze a Harpeth Hall athletic event or play in on the weekend. She acts at one time or another as a mother to all of us. Whether it is a reassuring pat on the shoulder, treats at Halloween, fresh-baked bread before class, or simply a friendly smile and words of assurance, she is always giving of her time and energy. As a result, she is loved and admired by sophomore and senior alike, all of who are proud to be called one of "her girls." In her own special way, she changes her students for the better and that is what education is truly about. The upper school lovingly dedicates the 1999-2000 Milestones to the incomparable Ms. Melinda Higgins.

Mrs. Sally Lee

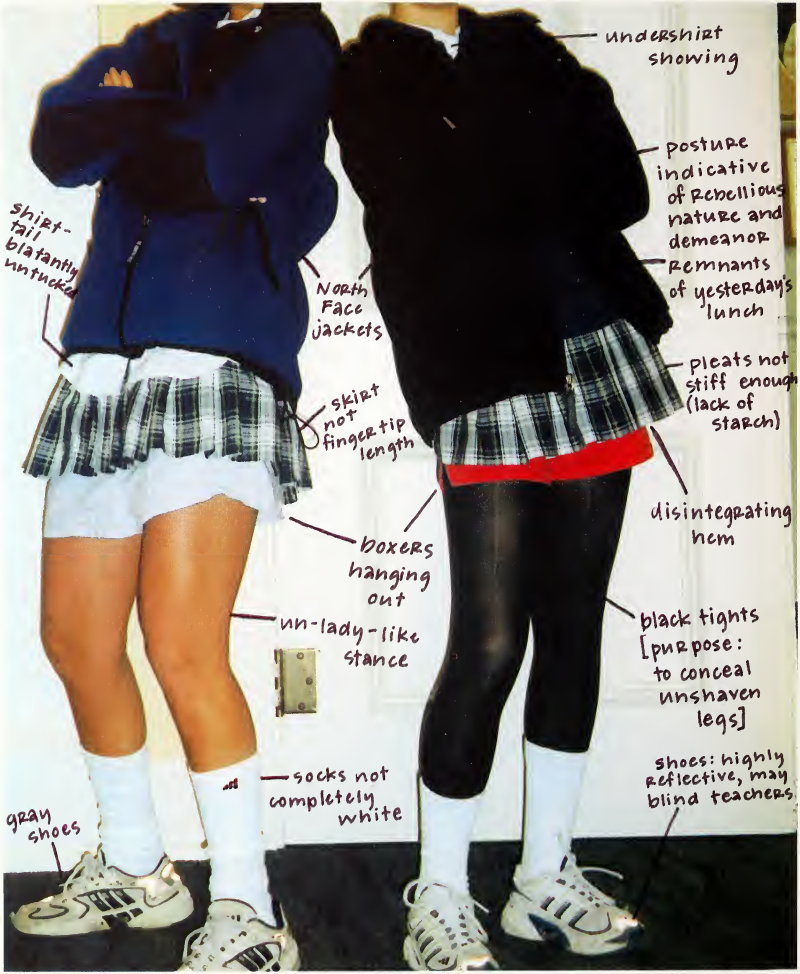

She is the reason Harpeth Hall students are able to battle through AP Statistics and AP Calculus in the Upper School. Patient, intelligent, and caring, she has taught both full and part time math to 5th and 6th graders for a number of years, and she even taught science for a brief time. Sally Uptegrove Lee is married to Bob Lee and has a daughter, Rachel, who is a junior in college in Texas. Her dynamic style of teaching and her innovation with "Snafooz," make students from all around love her. She is especially known for her ability to sew sock monkeys and has taught many students how to make them. You'll never see her without a smile on her face. Sally Lee is known for her dedicated perseverance and contagious love for math. When asked about her, freshman Emelie Matthews said, "Mrs. Lee is the reason math is important to me now."

LONG LIVE THE KI

"In the end, we will conserve only what we love, we will love...

...only what we know, and we will know only what we are taught."

"We love you, Miss Hannigan"

Ms. Ann Teaff

In her second year as headmistress of the Harpeth Hall School, Ms. Ann Teaff has impressed faculty, parents and alumni alike with her vivacious personality, and her palpable creative energy. Her genuine effort to incorporate into her job description daily interaction with, and concern for every Harpeth Hall girl has made her a favorite among the student population. Ms.Teaff's enthusiasm is consistently a contagious force within the school community.Whether it be cheerleading at sporting events or applauding performances, she is a visible and integral part of the HH experience. Her preference of one- on-one conversations in her office- which is always open- over the growning trend of "e-communications" exemplifies her desire to make a difference in the daily lives of others. Her smiling face and kind heart endear her to all as she inspires us all to be admirable, honest, loving, and caring women. Ms. Teaff is an incredible leader, a friend and a supreme role model. We are so very pleased to have her as our head of school.

Ms. Teaff tries the ole' plaid on for size.

M&Ms

Mrs. LaVoe Mulgrew and Mrs. Marie Maxwell

Apparent to every Harpeth Hall student in the 1999-2000 school year was a monumental change in the atmosphere about the upper school. This shift, to a more personable, less strenuous working enviornment, spread from the heart of the school and provided for a generally happier, more well-adjusted student body. This change in mentality was accomplished largely through the work of two very industrious, forthright, and intelligent women. Mrs. La-Voe Mulgrew, Head of the Upper School, is a favorite among students. A former teacher of Sophomore and Junior English, her quick wit, her "Oh-please! Stop-whining-and-get-it-done" attitude, and willingness to listen make her both an accessible and receptive mentor to all. Mrs. Maxwell, as Dean of Students, has shouldered the emmense task of regulating and supervising student activity on all levels. She provides to those in need, a friendly ear and helping hand. With these two remarkable women at the helm, it should be smooth sailing for Harpeth Hall in the years to come.

Mrs. Mulgrew poses with her favorite column.

Mrs. Maxwell reclines against a beautiful column.

M & S

Mrs. Malone and Mrs. Simmons

Mrs. Malone casually poses at her desk.

A windblown Mrs. Simmons flashes her pearly whites in front of the track.

She began her career as a science teacher and has now settled in as Head of the Middle School. Mrs. Malone has been given the sought-after job of leading the hoards of noisy children that make up the Middle School. Thanks to her efforts, students entered the Middle School buildings in August to find more than just a monochromatic color scheme...there were green walls accented with purple lockers. From Monday morning assemblies to the new Saturday detentions, Mrs. Malone leads, guides, and endures. She is more than just an administrator, she is a friend to the young ones. Luckily, this amazing woman is not alone in her arduous task of leadership. Mrs. Simmons, the Middle School's Student Activities Director, joined Mrs. Malone in this task. While continuing to teach math, Mrs. Simmons is in charge of the student-favored demerit system, the exciting field trips, and the beloved student council. Without these two dedicated women, the Middle School would probably fall apart.

Two beautiful smiling faces.

Mrs. Maxwell hard at work.

Mrs. Mulgrew, do you need a name tag to remember your own name?

This spring the pride in the air was palpable as Harpeth Hall inducted seventeen new girls into the Cum Laude Society. These girls became a part of the prestigous national honor society which allows schools to induct a certain minute percentage of their junior and senior classes annually. This honor depends upon the student's academic achievement, intellectual curiosity, high moral character (sometimes), and how much she bribed the sponsor to get in. Decked out in the "appropriate" white dresses, the girls lined up on stage to receive recognition for their amazing academic work. Students sat in awe as Sarah Allen, the group's president, gave a speech on the wonder that is the Cum Laude society. Then the featured speaker Mrs. Merrie Clark, last year's Owen Chair recipient, gave a rousing speech on the history of women and how it relates to Harpeth Hall. The night of their induction, the old and new members gathered together to get their intellectual juices flowing. To stimulate their minds, the girls watched "Beverly Hills, 90210" and read several books from the literary award-winning Baby-Sitters Club series. Without these girls, the world of intellectuals would not be the same.

The US Student Council

The Student Council has again this year taken a visible and active role in the organizing and funding of student events. Kicking off the year with a great Concert on the Lawn, the '99-'00 student council set a high precedent for themselves. They have managed however, to follow up with several fun and exciting school functions, thus heightening our anticipation for what is to come in the '00-'01 school year. Among these events are the ever-popular Winter Formal, Valentine's Dance, Halloween Dance, a much-needed teacher appreciation day, and the new and revolutionary "Suggestion Box." The Suggestion Box has developed into a precious commodity for the entire school. It has changed student life in every way possible. It is beautiful. But in all seriousness, the high activity level of the Student Council is indicative of an over-all awareness of, and desire for, student involvement in the school community. Led by President Amy Campbell and Vice-President Leah High, the council is a fore-runner in the improvement of our day-to-day lives.

"You're putting THAT in the suggestion box?"

The Honor Council

They sneak out when no one is looking and hold secret meetings . . . it's not a cult . . . it's the Harpeth Hall Honor Council. The thirteen members of this year's Honor Council were elected by their peers to uphold the tenets of the Honor Code. They are responsible for setting an example for their peers and for demystifying the Council and its purpose. The Honor Council also hears cases of suspected Honor Code violations and then makes a decision based on evidence, testimony, and witnesses. Lead by Katie "the Klepto" Hill and seniors Sarah "It Wasn't Me" Allen, Molly "What Brownie?" Arvin, Amy "Liar, Liar" Campbell, and Molly "I'll Look the Other Way" Kaplan, the rest of the council consists of juniors Dacia Beard, Rachel Chisolm, Margaret Martin, and Susan Oliver, sophomores Lauren Campbell and Abigail Ray, and freshmen Kendra Abkowitz and Betsy Beveridge.

Service is Key

Key Club

The Key Club started this year with a bang, building a Habitat House in a speedy four weekends, after months of planning and hard work. Led by seniors President Susan McGugin, Senior Representative Shannon Shillinglaw, and Treasurer Lucy Kay Wall labored hard throughout spring, summer and fall 1999 heading up the second Harpeth Hall/MBA Habitat house. Each officer also used their helping hands and community service brains to both volunteer and encourage their classmates to support activities such as ZooLights, Salvation Army and the Diabetes Walk, to name a few. Vice-President Melissa Mosley and Secretary Megan Casey worked hard to secure new members into PULSE, a Nashville community service program. Overall, the Key Club had a successful year with the help of sponsor Ann Bailey and all the members.

Gods and Monsters

Student Faculty

This year the Student Faculty has joined forces with the Student Council to solve some of the smaller, more student-related problems of day to day life in the Harpeth Hall community. The group discusses everything from water bottles to parking to tennis shoes, and any other issue that arises during the school year's progression. Unlike the exclusive Student Council, Student Faculty has attemped to increase attendance beyond the immediate group of girls and faculty members by opening the meetings to all students who are interested in the topic of the day. The eleven permanent members yearn to hear opinions other than their own because, as everyone knows, more than just eleven girls complain about what is wrong with the school. Want to change the world, start small…want to change the school, go to Mr. Springman's room and make your voice heard.

Ambassadresses

The Ambassador Society

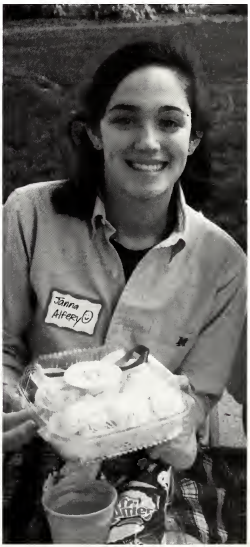

"We are here to promote our school." This is the motto of the Ambassador Society, a group of girls dedicated to making Harpeth Hall appealing to the outside world. The ambassadors apply and are then interviewed for the honored positions; they are then chosen from the masses to be the ones to represent the green and gray. Under the guidance of MaryLou Primm and their class representatives, the Ambassadors meet twice a month to discuss the upcoming events at Harpeth Hall. At the 7:30 A.M. meetings, sign-ups are passed around as the upcoming jobs are discussed. The girls are responsible for giving tours to prospective students, aiding the Admissions Office during Open House, and helping guide the parents during Parents' Night. The ambassadors also help with receptions and the ever-illustrious Alumnae Weekend. These girls are the goodwill "ambassadors" for Harpeth Hall, and we are proud to have them represent our school.

High Art

The Art Club

Beauty is supposedly in the eye of the beholder. This year the Art Club made the move to share that beauty with the community. A public mural and a Time to Rise project are two such examples. Community art was also brought to Harpeth Hall, with the club helping to set up and take down art exhibits. Led by President Catherine Carroll and Vice-President Fabienne Diskin, these girls attempt to add to the splendor of the hallowed halls by making the student body more aware of art in such a scholastically driven environment. In addition, these talented, aspiring artists, create a piece to be auctioned off at the Main Event. They also practiced art by working diligently on the color by number coloring books. This group, run by the officers and sponsored by Ann Blackburn, sought out, participated in, and enjoyed art for art's sake.

"BEARS! BEARS! Are you ready?" Th enthusiastic cheer can be heard roarin above the crowds at any Harpeth Ha function. Inspired by the "Saturday Nigl Live" Spartan Cheerleaders and lead b President, Ruth Huggins and her sidekic Jacqueline Thompson, the Pep Club ha raised spirit throughout the Harpeth Ha community. School spirit has been take to a whole new level with the incorporatic of this year's motto of "Pride." On big gam days, helpful seniors can be spotted on th patio of the senior house spraying the ha of faculty, administrators and studen green, which has become a highly popul event (especially with the seniors). Th 1999-2000 school year has been wonderful year to be a student at HH, ar the Pep Club has assured that everyone w there to see it.

Weird Science

The Science Club

The Science Club, led by senior Nika Ferdowsi, was more active this year than ever. In the search for more knowledge, the club took a trip to Chattanooga to visit the aquarium, and to learn more about our aquatic friends - the fish. The science club, in an earnest attempt to keep our school clean, also set up recycling bins. They were removed soon after by the administration, due to their unsightly appearance. The club continues to look for ways to help preserve our earth, and improve its condition for the generations to come. Their ongoing mission is to raise awareness about the world around us, even if it means starting with our own school first. In order to gain inspiration for their global crusade, the clubbers watch old episodes of "Captain Planet."

Mrs. Girgus and almost twenty girls have joined forces for one purpose...to knit. President Lena Kravtsov and this group of girls have formed the Knitting Club. They usually meet once a week if their schedules allow it and knit for an hour or so. They don't just knit to knit either - last year they knitted over fifty scarves and hats that Barbara Jordan (of Barb and Jude) was able to distribute to homeless people around Nashville. When asked what why these girls have chosen to spend their free time knitting, Mrs. Girgus said, "Knitting is a truly meaningful pastime for the girls. Not only is it a work in progress which can be extended over a long period of time, but we have made a contribution to the community as well."

Law and Order

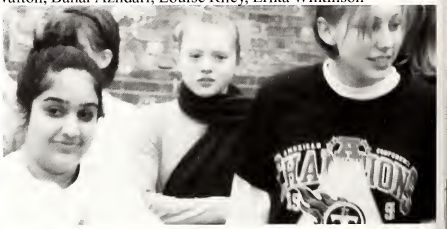

Mock Trial/Law Club

What is the coolest yet one of the most secretive groups on campus? No, not the Honor Council (we said coolest). It's Mock Trial! This year's Mock team proved to be one of the best, if not the best, that Harpeth Hall has ever seen. With four seniors leading the pack, the Mockies went on to beat the curse - and MBA - at city for the second year in a row. Every year, these Mockies work hard for three months preparing a case that has been written specifically for Mock. The case is filled with affidavits ad rule of evidence which the girls must learn in order to be the best. Mockies eat, sleep, breathe Mock Trial. They are extremely dedicated and work harder than anybody would expect, but they still manage to make time for their annual sleepover. Said Erika of her last year of Mock, "I am going to miss these people so much, especially Bahar. This has been the best year for mock. I feel that I have gotten so close to everyone on this team. I know that I will always remember this experience." All the Mockies agree with her sentiments because they will leave with good friends, good experiences, and the law under their belts.

"Deliverance"

The Outdoor Club

The Outdoor Program this year has been a great success. Led by students Kerry Bartoe and Kate Lainhart, sponsored by Dr. Hopple, and directed by wilderness man David Crais, this program has taken Harpeth Hall students on many an exciting and adventurous trip into the wild outdoors. They have taken trips like backpacking through the Appalachian Trail, caving in the Cumberland Plateau, canoeing, hiking through the dangerous Green Hills Mall, and more. The program also offeres a great Spring Break trip to Colorado and New Mexico for cross-country skiing. Participants in these trips have loved the experiences they have had. They have learned many vital skills for surviving in the wilderness, explored many new aspects of the outdoors, and bonded with teachers and students of all ages. The wilderness has taught them how to survive, how to cook in the wild, how to set up camp and enjoy the beauty of sleeping under the stars, and most of all - how to have an incredible time in the Great Outdoors!

Lost in the woods, but still having fun.

Book Worms

The Book Club

Each Wednesday almost a dozen dedicated readers from the sophomore class gather to discuss the books they have been reading. The books they have read this year include Several Noels, by the Russian novelist Dostoyevsky, Snow Falling on Cedars; God of Small Things; and all of Jane Austen's works. The group also followed up their reading with a trip to see the cinematic version of Snow Falling on Cedars. Led by Mrs. Girgus and Ms. Cameron, the girls are encouraged to be enthusiastic about literature and most importantly to "READ, READ, READ!".

"Your crushing my brain!I need it to read."

Victoria is held back to sophomore English again.

Veni, Vidi, Vici

The Latin Club

The Latin club had a very productive year, which was very evident to the student body as a whole during awards assembly, where the Latin students CLEANED UP! President Katie Hill said of the event, "You know, for a year of lying around in togas and eating grapes all through our meetings, the Latin club members sure did well on the national exam!" Sponsored by Mrs. Ward, and forerunners of the annual food fest, the Latin club enjoyed group dinners, and eagerly anticipated the release of "Gladiator" starring the dashing Russell Crow, who is rumored to have been quite the Latin student himself. Spiritumque, Tollamus, Mentem!!!!

What an eclectic crew!

No Pare, Sigue, Sigue!!!

The Spanish Club

The Spanish club is a group of Spanish speaking students that love salsa music—and salsa. Led by Sarah Hargrove and Keely Robeson, and in cooperation with the other language clubs, they started off their year with the Food Fest- an international event if you will. Club activities include eating dinner at El Palenque, Satco and many others wonderful Mexican establishments, as well as gathering at each other's "casas" for movie nights. The club also conducted an assembly regarding travels to Spanish-speaking countries. Membership in the Spanish Club proved to be a fun and exciting way for Harpeth Hall students to get involved in Spanish culture while having un buen tiempo.

Sarah prepares to beat a piñata senseless.

Vive La France!

The French Club

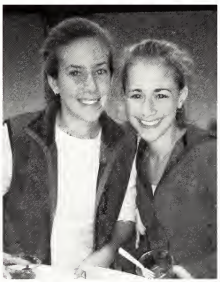

Above: Cathy's favorite French Club event is definitely "food fest"!

The French Club, led by Megan Campbell and Rachel Chisolm, had a wonderful year with eating, watching movies, and perfecting their mastery of the French language. The Food Fest was delicious and the various foreign film viewing throughout the year allowed the members to enjoy the talent and captivating plots for which the French cinema is renown. The productive meetings were always packed, thanks in part to ever-present tasty chocolate croissants. Among exciting speakers this year was the owner of Nashville's own Provence bakery. The 1999-2000 French club has had, "une bonne année."

Below: Freshmen are thankful for this cultural awakening.

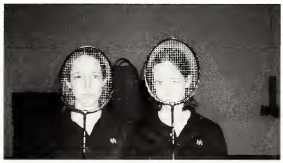

Bat the Birdie

Badminton Club

The brainchild of Mrs. Croker, the badminton club is in its freshman year. Meeting after school every Tuesday, the members discuss current trends in the badminton leagues abroad. Then the members divide into teams and practice, practice, practice. They have perfected such techniques as the "Overhead Volley," the "Underhand Volley," the "Behind the Back and Nothing but Net," and the infamous "Bat the Birdie."

Badminton Members (LtoR): Melinda Housholder, Laurel Staples, Cynthia Gray.

Can't We All Just Get Along

Beyond Hate Club

Want to change the way people think without using dangerous chemicals? Then the Beyond Hate Club is the best place to start. Led by some great seniors and the ever-exciting Mr. Tuz, these girls are out to change the way people think. Senior Rachel Cherney, the club's Vice President says the following about her views: "Hating is very bad. I don't hate haters, I just dislike them (greatly)."

Beyond Hate Officers (LtoR): Amanda Norman, Kate Berry, Rachel Cherney, Nika Ferdowsi.

Senior Kate Berry cheers for all the progress the club has made.

Smile Rachel, you're making the difference.

We Don't Need Calculators

Math Club

The Math Club, which is in its third year, has proven itself to be grand power. These girls work diligently to bring the language of mathematics to the forefront of every Harpeth Hall girl's thoughts. Under the guidance of Dora Biegl, the club's sponsor, the girls work hard preparing to take math competitions by storm. To practice, the Math Clubbers use addition and multiplication flashcards. They also go to Mrs. Mulgrew - closet calculus genius - if they questions that none of them can solve. All in all, the Math Club is making the world safe for math.

Eight Queens and a Knight

Chess Club

Fearlessly led by Joseph "Hulga" Croker, the Chess Club meets every Friday in his room to work on their already well-polished skills. The Chess ravens do not just practice one day a week, they play almost every day. For them, it is not about how they do in tournaments; it's about having fun. This year was also highlighted by a trip to Bongo Java and the playground. According to Mr. Croker, "These girls live and breathe chess, and that's what makes them great."

Dead Poet's Society

Hallmarks

Hallmarks Editors (LtoR): Kate Berry, Sarah Allen, and Alyssa Abkowitz

Though Hallmarks only comes out twice a year, the four editors put much time and energy into the literary magazine. The editors —Alyssa Abkowitz (Layout Editor), Sarah Allen (General Editor), Kate Berry (Layout Editor), and Molly Kaplan (Submissions Editor) – begin their job by asking students to submit both poetry and prose works for consideration. Then they harrass their friends to submit works, too. Sometimes teachers even submit their entire class's extremely personal essays without the knowledge of their students. But by the end of the semester, the editors along with the Hallmarks staff members, gather at someone's house to eat pizza and try to pick between twenty and twenty-five works from the one hundred or so pieces that are submitted to them. After the poetry and short fiction pieces are chosen, then the editors hunker down to work in Mr. Croker's room. The process is relatively short, compared to the layout and editing process of Logos and Milestones, but it is hard nonetheless. The end result, though, is always highly successful and popular with students.

Logos II

They stay late into the night, but they're not the maintenance men. They've sacrificed their social lives for the good of the school, but they're not the chess club. They work their tails off, but only the other dedicated publications editors (hey, we had to plug for Milestones) know who they are. We're talking about Logos II Editor-in-Chief Katie Hill and Logos Sponsor Denise Croker, of course. Hill and a group of eight other editors under the tutelage of Mrs. Croker and Mrs. O'Keefe wrote, edited, shot pictures for, and layed out five issues this year, including the ever-popular April Fools issue. Other editors included: Cornelia Rowe, Cynthia Gray, Fabienne Diskin, Alyssa Abkowitz, Molly Kaplan, Sarah Allen, Jessica Lundin, and Lesley Foglia. Despite sometimes-high tension, stress, and deadlines, Logos still ran smoothly throughout the year. "When Mrs. Croker and I were laying the issue out at eight o'clock the night before my physics exam and I made Bahar stay with me, the show still went on. When other editors were harrassing various members of the student body for articles, the show still went on. Even when we were raiding the Milestones office for bad pictures because we needed to fill space, the show still went on. If we had to choose a theme for Logos this year – keeping with Mr. Croker's Tropes and Schemes worksheet – it would definitely be, 'The Show Must Go On,'" Hill remarked.

"Hey good-lookin'! Wanna go for a ride?"

Milestones is the tortuous, painful, and underappreciated extracurricular activity that manifests itself in the form of the yearbook. This year 13 editors led the charge against Martha Grace, invisible staffers, incompetent photo developers, Micheal's Photography, and deadlines. Bruised and battered, these 13 brave souls, knowing that their crowning achievement would arrive after their departure for college, selflessly donated blood, sweat, tears, sanity, sleep, comfort, security, free time, weekends, weekdays, nights, mornings, breaks…gave up their social lives, families, friends, food, beds, homes, favorite television shows, dates, boyfriends, showers, all in the name of serving others. In all seriousness, the editors worked hard to produce the funniest copy, the best pictures, and the most creative layouts that this school has ever seen. The editors have lived in Mr. Croker's room (considering the fact that he has all the decent computers, printers, scanners, etc.), beat the iMac, yelled expletives at anything technological, cut and pasted heads, searched for businesses to buy ads, and threatened to quit. But all in all, the Stoners have become a close groups of friends. So come on out and join Milestones next year! We promise you won't regret it.

The Harpeth Hall cheerleading team gained a great deal of unexpected attention this past basketball season in light of their unique blend of school spirit and "rough" cheerleading . Admittedly incapable of performing most stunts, and viewing the role of the cheerleader as somewhat humorous, their irreverent style and improvisational dress made them favorites not only within the HH community but with the Tennessee sports world at large. They won the Spirit award at the state basketball tournament for their leading of a large portion of the student body in chants, cheers, and jeers as HH took on Chattanooga's GPS. All in all, it was a big year for HH cheerleading. Hopefully the junior cheerleaders will be back next year with all new material.

YIG: Not Just Another Weird Acronym

Youth in Government

What other group of people would miss school and give up a precious weekend to argue about foreign policy and to pass mock Senate bills? Youth in Government, led by fearless senior Jessica Crowell (who we hear is planning a presidential bid in the 2024 election), attends two conferences every year: Model United Nations in the fall and Youth Legislature in the spring. In the fall, students choose any world country and research it, then write a bill that pertains to their country's culture or government. For example, if a group picks Djibouti, then they might pass a bill that would legally allow them to change the official pronunciation of their country's name, or if a group picked to represent the country of Milestones, then they might pen a bill to overthrow Martha Grace as their ruthless dictator. You get the idea. In the spring, the students converge on the State Capitol Building to debate bills. Some students get the opportunity to serve on mock Congressional Committees or even to be members of the press. YIG gives students the opportunity to see what both domestic and foreign politics is like from an insider's view. Don't be surprised to see the likes of Jessica Crowell on C-Span in twenty years when the rest of us are teaching Latin and sponsoring Milestones at Harpeth Hall.

The Playmakers

Below: Apparently, only Liz sees the camera.

For each of the wonderful plays performed at Harpeth Hall, a lot work goes on behind the scenes. The group responsible for these feats is the Playmakers. The Playmakers construct sets, sell tickets, put up posters, and make everything run smoothly for the plays. Each Playmaker is responsible for getting a certain number of hours for each performance. At the end of the year, the Playmakers celebrate their hard work and numerous achievements with a banquet, which is complete with a theme costumes, and everyone's favorite: sock puppets, the true thespian acting aid. Playmakers who go above and beyond the call of duty are given the opportunity of joining the International Thespian Society. Without their hard work, students would not been able to enjoy such works as Grease, Much Ado about Nothing, and The Last Night of Ballyhoo.

Varsity Volleyball

The 1999 Harpeth Hall volleyball team had a very successful year. Led by Coach Karen Schwartz, a Middle School English teacher, the junior varsity won first place in the Page Invitational, which resulted in their receiving a beautiful trophy. The varsity team, led by these six seniors: Sloan Curtis, Meg Fox, Sarah Allen, Amy Campbell, Emily Priest, and Brooke Earthman helped lead the team to overcome a variety of obstacles throughout the season. Not only did they attain team goals, but experienced personal successes as well. On the road to state for the first time in several years, the team defeated rival school, Brentwood Academy in the regional tournament. The game displayed the Bears' strong presence on the court. Although they did not win the state title, they set new standards for HH volleyball, while enjoying an exceptional season of play. Way to go Bears!

A Cinderella Story

Kiss me you fool.

The Harpeth Hall soccer team enjoyed yet another fabulous season filled with fun and excitement. Long hailed as the Cinderella team from middle Tennessee, critics argued for several years that this "Cinderella" did not truly fit in at the "Ball". Led by seniors, Rachel Cherney, Shannon Shillinglaw, Susan McGugin, Reed Harrison, Lucy Kay Wall, Kathleen Hale, and Megan Campbell, the team finished their season out with an amazing record of 19-2-2. This year, Tim Wallace stepped from assistant to head coach and lead the bears to the best soccer season in Harpeth Hall history. For the first time ever, Harpeth Hall made it to the state championship finals, placing a close second (2-1) to nationally ranked (8th) Baylor School of Chattanooga. The season started as teammates left the poolside and gave up sleep-late mornings to train, mid July, in the Georgia heat. They went strong for three months, ending their season on a chilly October night in Chattanooga. Harpeth Hall soccer has become a formidable force in TSSAA athletics - few will argue that Cinderella isn't queen!

The Green Mile

US Cross Country

The Upper School Cross Country Team had an awesome season this year! Coached by Mrs. Susan Russ, these girls developed strength and iron wills, while learning to keep on running - no matter what. Mrs. Russ could often be heard saying, "Pain is not an option". This became the creed by which the runners lived by for the first 3 months of the school year. Both the varsity and junior varsity teams had some incredible runners, including several who are new to cross country at Harpeth Hall. The girls demonstrated amazing endurance, as they were able to pull through every race no matter how tired or sick they were. They experienced some incredible accomplishments such as winning the Tennessee State Classic. Led by seniors, Alyssa Abkowitz, Sloan Ashley, Lindsey Wallace, and Jacqueline Thompson, this group of dedicated girls showed great team spirit and effort as well as endurance and hard work. Upper School Basketball

It was a great year...Bear basketball was on the rise. The 1999-2000 Varsity basketball team finished the season with a record of 16-14 and a first ever trip to the TSSAA State Final Four Tournament in Murfreesoboro. Highlights of the season included big home wins over BGA, Brentwood Academy, and mid-state power Waverly. This year's squad played one of the school's most difficult schedules and at tournament time it definitely paid off.. Going into the region tourney as the #3 seed, the bears blew past MTCS and won in a thrilling overtime game over BGA 46-41 before falling to Ryan in the finals 36-33 before a packed house at MBA...after a substate victory in memphis over ECS, the Bears lost in the State semifinals 38-28 to the eventual champions GPA. Although we will miss the seniors Megan Campbell, Meg Fox, Tricia McWilliams, and Emily Priest, an experienced squad returns next year along with a talented youth movement that will make things just as exciting as ever. The 1999-2000 Freshmen team combined from six different teams from the previous year to finish third in the regular season. Though their record may have fallen short of their skill, guts and determination guided this team. Way to go Freshmen!

Their skills also earned the nickname of "the Bowling Babes."

"Bearacudas all the way!" The team spirit on the Harpeth Hall swim team is palpable. With every swimmer crowding the poolside and cheering continuously for one another, it is not surprising that the Bearacudas were Division III Dual Meet Champions. Led by seniors Janna Alfery, Sandy McCain, Lindsay Beckner, Amy Campbell, and Emme Simpkins, these swimming fiends went to the Regional Meet full of confidence and ready to win. The combination of five months of intense practices and the incredible coaching skills of Polly Linden and Jack Hazen led the team to become Region Champs for the third consecutive year. Coach Polly Linden says of her team, "This is one of the most united teams that I have had the privilege of coaching. The senior leadership this year was exemplary. I am proud that more girls made it to State this year than any other." Twenty-four out of the twenty-nine swimmers made their state cut this year. The strength of the swimmers and the addition of three new divers on the team inspired Coaches Linden and Hazen to reach for even bigger goals at state. Despite the freezing cold water and the suffocatingly tight swimsuits, the Bearacudas managed to grab fourth place at the State Meet. The leadership and dedication shown by the swimmers this year can only hope to be matched by that shown by next year's Bearacudas.

The Harpeth Hall lacrosse team made quite a name for itself in its second season as a club team. Under the direction of 7-9 months pregnant coach, Legare Vest, the girls trained for several months prior to the end of the school year. Their accomplishments include the defeat of archnemesis Father Ryan twice, Brentwood High once, and everyone else. The girls travelled to Atlanta for a playday to test out their skills against those of other teams in bigger cities, and found that they measured up quite nicley, coming out 1 and 1. The first game, they insist, was lost to the Krystal they ate on the way down and not to the other team. The team, which was snubbed from the athletic banquet due to its club status, wrapped up the year with a pool party--proving that the lax team always goes out in style.

Fatal A-TRACK-tion

US Track

The track team's prowess was both intimidating and reknown this season, as the runners crushed competitor after competitor on their road to the state title. Practices were endured, strength was built, races were completed, and records were broken. The 2K track team, through hard work and determination, won the TSSAA State Championship, and brought the state title back to Harpeth Hall in the final sport competed in by the school this year. The entire school shared in the joy of the athletes at this great acomplishment. It should also be noted that this is the first year in HH history in which every sport's team has competed in state competition.

The middle school volleyball team had - once again - a successful season. Led by nine 8th graders, this year's team was closeknit and had a good time while working hard. As one team member said, "A fun point was throwing balls at Hadley!". Although the team had memorable victories, they will never forget their best game—though it was a loss. Reminiscing about this game, one volleyball player said, "One highlight of our season was when we played Freedom Middle and played awesomely but lost. It was our best game ever (played on Tuesday) and after that we would say before each game, 'Let's have a Tuesday'". The seventh graders were the base of the team, inspiring the eighth graders to play their hardest. In short, school spirit radiated from the entire middle school volleyball team, no matter what role each individual played in its success.

The Harpeth Hall Middle School cross-country team completed a perfect season, winning every meet and rolling over six opponents in the Harpeth Valley Athletic Conference championships at Percy Warner Park. In achieving this, they received the lowest score ever recorded in this meet, compiling a 20 (15 is the lowest possible score). Ensworth came in second with a 66. Ellen Davis, Morgan Stengel, Jennifer Burn, Mary Katherine Bartholomew, Laura Nichols, and Margaret Tipton filled in the top places, while nearly every girl on the Harpeth Hall team ran their best race of the year. When asked to comment on the girls' winning streak, their coach Dr. Jack Henderson said, "Their season was perfect, and although there were so many strong winners in the spotlight, the team as a whole did amazingly."

Middle School Soccer

The Middle School Soccer Team had a very successful season this year. For the first time ever, there were enough sixth, seventh, and eighth graders interested in playing that two teams were formed. The A Team was led by coaches Coach Jeffords and Coach Primm. They finished the season with a record of 6-1-2 and a third place finish in the HVAC tournament. The coaches remarked, "The girls played hard all season with a lot of heart, determination, and intensity." Coach Baker and Coach Pledger led the B Team. They finished the season with a 2-2 record. The team had a combination of new and old players and did a wonderful job of teamwork to continually improve their skills.

Middle School Golf

Golf, the newest athletic team in the Middle School, had a surprisingly successful first season. The team consisted of these three dedicated members: Emmie Powell, Dru Nelson, and Candace Clippard. The team's small size did not, however, hinder their achievement on the green. Coached by Spanish teacher Marees Choppin, the golf team practiced once a week and participated in six turbulent matches throughout September. They emerged victorious in an astounding 5 out of those 6 matches. This year is likely the first of many triumphant seasons to come for the Middle School HVAC Golf Team.

Middle School Cheerleaders

Coached by 8th grade math teacher Molly Simmons, the middle school cheerleaders are a group of seven spirited girls that ceaselessly encourage their classmates on the court. The 7th and 8th grade basketball team can always count on the cheerleaders to give their enthusiastic support during the middle of a tough game. Since they are the pep club of the Middle School, these girls also raise school spirit throughout the entire school by getting other classmates to come and cheer for their sports teams.

MS Softball

With a huge win over rival Ensworth that came down to the last inning, the Middle School softball team completed their goal of winning at least one game. This year's team was coached by two brand-spankin' new coaches. First, head coach Jennifer Pledger brought innovative ideas to the softball field. Harpeth Hall's very own Lynn Crabtree returned to show young players what she had learned playing under the stellar Polly Linden, Upper School softball coach. Even though their record was less than perfect, the girls learned a valuable lesson: it's not how many games you win (in this case one) but how you played the games.

From August 15-16, thirty-six of Harpeth Hall's finest went to Camp Hillmont in White Bluff, TN for the annual Leadership Retreat. The girls who went included club and class presidents, vice presidents, and members of the student council. Led by Ms. Teaff and the new upper school director, Mrs. Mulgrew, the girls made posters for the teacher's doors, set goals for the upcoming year, and planned fun, new activities for the student body. The two days were spent discussing aspirations for the new year, one of which was choosing a theme for the school year. Suggested by Ms. Teaff, the theme of "School Pride" was accepted for the '99-'00 school year! Hannah Reed said, "The retreat was so much fun and gave me lots of confidence about how incredible the upcoming school year would be."

This year, over forty students from Harpeth Hall and MBA invested countless hours in helping the Jackson family build their new home on Delk Ave. for this year's Habitat for Humanity. With smiling faces and an incredible eagerness to participate, faculty and students gathered together to create this house over a span of six weekends. The project started from a mere cement foundation. Equipped with nail guns, paint brushes, and hammers the house was soon completed. The future owner, Krystal Jackson was on site each day, helping in the completion of her new home. Key Club president, Susan McGugin, and the planning committee succeeded in raising over 40,000 dollars for the project. The building of the habitat house gave students an opportunity to come together and accomplish the task at hand. Those who did not actively participate in the building of the house, helped get donations from the surrounding community, or they donated money for the penny wars which the Senior class won! All that were involved were left with an irreplaceable experience and remarkable friendships.

Freshman Retreat

The freshman retreat this year was a huge success in which the new freshmen bonded together and became closer. This year the retreat was held at a new location called Camp Discovery. Besides the bus ride filled with gossip and games, the highlight of the trip was the hilarious skits performed that night. Activities included trust walks, swimming, bonding games, and lots of time in advisor groups. It was a good experience that allowed the new freshmen to meet their classmates before school started. No matter what part of the trip the class of 2003 remembers, the Froshies will always remember their great bonding time during their luxurious getaway. "Do my lips look big?"

The Senior class this year was all but ecstatic over the annual pilgrimage to White Bluff, Tennessee for the Senior Retreat. The retreat has become a favorite end-of-the-summer/back-to-school tradition signifying the first major rite of passage for the upcoming 12th graders. This year the girls dined like kings, and enjoyed a great night's sleep on the luxurious fluffy beds provided by the hospitable staff at Hillmont. The highlight of the trip came close to midnight when a giant game of "Capture the Flag" broke out. All and all, it was a productive weekend where friends had a chance to catch up on summer memories, and summer reading. Ms.Garrison, Mrs.Maxwell, and Mrs. Mul-GREW had plenty to say. Hot topics included the following: college, the conversion from Dud's Days to "Casual" Days, college, the new schedule, college, the degree of provocativity allowable on "Casual" Days, and um…college! Way to go, Bob!

'99 Fall Musical: Grease

"Go Grease Lightin', you're burnin' up the quarter mile. Go Grease Lightning! Go Grease Lightning!" Grease was an amazing sold out production performed jointly by Harpeth Hall and Montgomery Bell Academy. Over 100 cast, crew, and musicians took part in the second annual joint production. Directed by Janette Klocko, produced by Dr. Cal Fuller, choreographed by Stephanie Hamilton, and musically directed by Lynn Rothrock, Grease was a show to remember. The "Pink Ladies" and "The Burger Palace Boys" stole the show along with our own Dr. Jack, Ms. Teaff, and Mr. Hayward. The audience was impressed and captivated throughout the performance and left doing the hand-jive all the way home!

Senior Recognition Day

Senior Recognition Day began with an early breakfast of bagels, water, oj and M&Ms. The thought of wearing Mrs. Barringer's sweater was enough of a threat that "98%" of the seniors were dressed appropriately- no skin- in their white dresses. At the assembly the students recognized the senior class as they took the leadership pledge. Lucy Kay Wall, Rachel Cherney, and Amy Campbell all gave inspiring speeches. The day did not end there; the seniors were presented with their Hawaiian class hats and wore Hawaiian clothes to show their senior pride. The leis weren't exactly what we would call impressive, but they sufficed to provide a taste of paradise to the ceremony. This last class of the millennium is a unique group of girls that will not soon be forgotten.

There's No Business Like Show Business

Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing"

This year's winter play was William Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing. Cornelia Rowe gave an outstanding performance as the tragic and misunderstood Hero. The witty and defiant Beatrice was played by senior, Allyson Foreman. Aaron Manier played Benedick, Beatrice's love interest. The noble Claudio was portrayed by Richard Howell in his first staring role. Emily Wall gave a hilarious performance as the confused Dogberry. The villainous Don Juan was portrayed by Claire Harbison. Her brother, Jay Harbison, played Don Pedro and Melissa Pinsley gave a wonderful performance as the compassionate friar. Other cast members included; Katie Smith, Meg McNeil, Allison Chandler, Lauren Salerno, Alica and Ellen Fort, Kym Goldstein, Wilson Garret, Mickey McKee, Adam Brooks, Christine Ekrem, and Joseph Marianelli. The performance was spectacular.

US Spring Play

The Spring Play, "The Last Night of Ballyhoo", was a great success. With an all star cast including Kim McKinney, Kristina Hoge, Elizabeth Edwards, Audrey Ball, John Humbrach, John Voight, and the red- headed guy whom the Milestones staffers cannot identify it was sure to be a hit from the beginning. Director Jannette Fox Klocko, better known as "JFK," said of the play that she felt it was one of her greatest achievements as a director-- a show performed exactly as was it was intended to be performed. Congrats go out to all the cast and crew on a job well done.

Fifteen Minutes of Fame

Student Directed One Acts

The 2000 year was highlighted by not one but two student art shows. The first was the Student Art Show, which showed work from student in photography as well as art. Students from all grades had the opportunity to display the pieces that they had worked on during the year. There were paintings, sculptures, and photographs, all demonstrating the amazing amount of talent of the Upper School students. The second art show displayed work from the AP Art class. Each girl had her own wall where she showed off what she had done thoughout the year. The AP exhibit was one of the best ever, and the girl's work will be sorely missed next year.

Dancing Queens

Dance Concert 2000

The last dance concert of the century proved to be one of the most captivating ever. Although it was the last concert of the century, it was full of firsts. It was the first time the Middle School performed, the first time live music accompanied the dances, the first time guest choreographers performed, and the first time a real live guy actually performed in the dance instead of making fun of the concert from the audience. The dance numbers were breathtaking, including a awe-inspiring number entitled "I Bought Me a Cat." The show's finale was the incredibly upbeat "Hand Jive," in which all the clubs performed. Seniors Kelley Anne Andrews, Rachel Bressman, Christie Caldwell, Sasha Chudacoff, Cathy Crafton, Nika Ferdowsi, Amanda Norman, Spring Pami, and Elizabeth Townsend, all led their respective dance clubs to a grand finale. They will definitely be sorely missed next year.

RENAISSANCE BANQUET

"Check out the buns on that dancer!"

The annual Renaissance Banuet is an eagerly anticipated event year to year within the Senior class. Organized by Dr. Myers and realized with the help of all the senior girls, the combination of enchanting candlelight and fascinating dancers in period costume creates an atmosphere true to that of 15th century Italy. It is undoubtably an unforgettable evening.

Winter Formal, held the day after the final winter exam, was a both highly-anticipated and memorable event. Despite the incessant discussions of dresses and dates for weeks beforehand, Winter Formal proved to live up to its high expectations this year. About 450 people showed up to the dance, which had been organized and lovingly decorated by the Student Council along with the help of the Parents' Association. The girls were dressed in their black dresses (although a few ventured into the realm of color), and the guys looked almost presentable in their khakis and ties. The band, Traffic Jam, provided great music for those who stayed to "get down." Others enjoyed talking to their friends during the hour long wait to get their pictures taken. All in all, Winter Formal 1999 was the perfect beginning to the much-needed winter break.

"Who Wants to Know the Prom Theme?"

The Prom Skit

In an effort to follow the precedent set by the Class of 2000, the juniors did a game show parody to announce the 2000 prom theme. Playing off of "Who Wants to be a Millionaire," the girls had Dr. Echerd be the contestant to guess what it was. The four choices were "It's a Barbie World," "Battle of the Boy bands," "Motown," and "Millennium." Luckily for the seniors, the theme was neither of those. Although, the seniors wouldn't have minded "Battle of the Boy Bands." The surprise theme was "There's No Place like Prom," a.k.a. the Wizard of Oz. Excited, the seniors followed the yello brick road back to the senior house to find tables full of food. The theme and skit were a hit.

They Work Hard for the Seniors

Prom Set-Up

As part of Harpeth Hall's numerous traditions, the juniors spent the three weeks before prom setting up for the magical night. The girls worked hard to transform the Gallery and Gym into parts from the movie. Putting in hours of hard work is what makes the experience even better. Since everyone in the junior class had to work together to get the job done, the prom set-up was one amazing bonding adventure. Despite some mishaps - Leah - the Gallery became Kansas and the Gym became Oz. It was magnificent.

Harpeth Hall is full of it (meaning tradition), and one tradition that many alumnae remember fondly is Winterim. For the past 27 years, students have spent the first three weeks of the second semester learning outside the traditional classroom and gaining valuable "insight" on careers. Freshmen and sophomores remain on campus and take courses such as Stained Glass, Song Writing with Dr. Henderson and Joe "Hamlet" Croker, the History of Math, and Shelby Woo and You, just to name a few. Those lucky enough to be juniors and seniors have the "privilege" of leaving campus for those three glorious weeks. These girls are pretty much allowed to choose any area they want to intern in, with, of course, the permission of their faculty sponsors. Some girls intern in Washington, D.C., some intern at hospitals, while others do independent studies. There are also academic travel trips to Greece, Egypt, and France. Sincerely remembering her final off campus Winterim, one senior remarked "Working with Mr. Croker was an absolutely invaluable experience. Only Winterim could have given me the chance to spend three weeks working with a teacher I greatly admire."

Plentiful Feast

Almost Alumnae/Mother-Daughter Luncheon

This year, to conserve money and time, the Almost Alumnae Luncheon merged with the Mother-Daughter Luncheon to form one grand get-together. At this year's festivites, Olympic Gold Medalist, Tracey Caulkins, was the distiguished alumna who had the privilege of speaking to the superb Class of 2000. While everyone dined on the plentiful feast that was provided, mothers and daughters engaged in deep discussions about the school, college, and graduation. The seniors enjoyed sharing the afternoon with their mothers, and it was a time that will not soon be forgotten. When the Luncheon rolled to a close, seniors received their Winterim portfolios, which spanned the past four years. Although the school has already given the seniors so much, it gave them even more; each senior received a copy of the history of Harpeth Hall, autographed by Mrs. Teaff, a silver picture frame with the date of graduation engraved on it, and the most valuable of all, a picture holder held together with a paper clip. The seniors will use these priceless gifts in their search for truth next year in college.

Awards Assembly

"Thanks, Mrs. Mulgrew. But what is that face you're making?"

In order to save time on Awards Day, the 1,007 Latin awards were given out at the Awards Assembly. In addition to just the Latin awards, kudos were given to those who excelled in Spanish, French, and Theater. Girls were also inducted into Mu Alpha Theta and Quill and Scroll, the latter being the best of the two. Students applauded as the beloved Katie Hill handed out the wrong certificates to the Latin award recipients. Highlighting the event was the performance by Mrs. LaVoe Mulgrew, who has found a new calling - handing out daisies. Only a small percentage of the awards were given out at this assembly, the rest will be given at Awards Day.

In a gesture of unprecedented generosity, the Carell family donated a whopping five million dollars towards the construction of a new and state-of-the-art library to be the central learning element on the Harpeth Hall campus. A ground breaking ceremony, taking place in early May, was hosted by the school both to commemorate this monumental occasion and to thank and honor the Carell family for their commitment to the amelioration of the school.Plastic construction hats were distributed at the ceremony and the entire school had a great time sporting them, snacking on munchies, and getting to know the Carells even better.

Athletic Banquet

The Athletic Banquet this year was reborn in format with the hopes of making it "flow" more smoothly than it had in past years. Traditionally, coaches infamous for long-windedness, and senior speeches punctuated by sobs created a somewhat tedious ceramony. This year however, the audience was treated to a lovely dinner and kept practically on the edges of their seats as slide shows, awards and short speeches helped create the best awards banquet ever. Each athlete was presented with a special gift determined by the number of years of their participation in their respective sport. This night will remain in the memory of every athlete for years to come.

The Green and Gray Oscars

US Awards Day

On a brisk Friday morning the annual Awards Day or as we like to call it: Harpeth Hall's version of the Oscars was held. The nominees strolled in at 10:15 to gather with blankets, water bottles, and cameras in hand on the front lawn of Souby. Everyone was dressed in the most current plaid fashions provided generously by Parker Uniforms. Mrs. Mulgrew and Ms. Teaff were the emcees for the day and gave colorful commentary as each award was presented. As the event's entertainment, each intramural club performed a song or medley with, of course, dance moves; this year's winner was Ariston who performed a song about Saffron to get on the good side of judge Joe Croker. During the intermission - yes, we need one since there are sooo many awards - the student council members gave out popsicles on the senior patio. The day ended with a rousing rendition of the Alma Mater, as seniors grew sad that it was the last day they would ever wear the green and gray.

Eighth Grade Trip

For the annual eighth grade trip, the Class of 2005 went on a fun-filled trip to Chicago. Since the "vacation" lasted only three days, the eighth graders had to cram all the sights that Chicago has to offer in a limited amount of time. The girls all got to fly (not drive on a tight, cramped bus) to the Windy City. While they were there, they went to the Shedd Aquarium's Dolphin Show, the Chicago Zoo, and stayed at the Knickerbocker. They also saw Ancient Egyptian and Greek Artifacts, dined at Ed Debevichs and Chicago Pizza Kitchen, and shopped on Madison Avenue. Sixty-four girls, eight teachers, and two buses took over the city of Chicago. The girls will remember such a wonderful trip for a long time. As chaperone Martha Grace said "I can't believe they made me go to Chicago with a bunch of annoying eighth graders. Hey, it was free."

*The male chaperone on the end shows his true feelings about the trip: fear.

Colonial Day

Annie M. doesn't seem to be as fascianted by the sun dial as Annie B.

Colonial Day is an annual favorite among the Middle School. The Seventh Graders get to dress up in colonial clothes and learn about colonial things. The girls make booths and sell colonial goods, such as peppermint sticks in oranges, homemade candles, and homemade bread. The students also get to show aspect of daily life during Colonial times. They show family life, work, games, entertainment, crime, and punishment. Said one girl of the event, "It's really neat to be able to learn about colonial life. Life during the colonial times was neat. I would not like to live during the colonial times because they didn't have cd players, and I can't live without my Mandy Moore cd." All the girls echoed her sentiments.

"Hula hoop, now that's a funny name."

"What's this do?"

Native American Day is anxiously awaited by all the Middle School girls. The girls get to dress up as Native Americans and reinact Native American things in order to get a better understanding of the importance of Native American culture in our heritage.

To Grandmother's Tea We Go

Grandmother's Tea

In November, the Middle School hosted one of its long-standing traditions, Grandmother's Tea. For such a special occasion, students had to dig up spotless white shirts, perfectly pleated plaid skirts, and clean saddle oxfords. The girls waited in the Gallery as their beloved Grandmothers or Special Friends arrived. The ladies were escorted down the stairs and into the auditorium for an afternoon of performances. Once everyone was seated, they were entertained by the fifth and sixth grade chorus and the seventh and eighth grade chorus. They all then returned to the Gallery for the one thing that everybody wanted: refreshments. The room was filled with punch, cookies, finger foods, and conversation. All were reluctant to leave the Gallery (well, until the food ran out) so they could keep the loving atmosphere a part of them for a long time. Said one Middle Schooler of the event, "It was so great to be able to spend time with my grandmother while being able to eat lots of good food. I'm really glad she came."

George Washington Day

"Left, left. Left, right, left." Every February, these words can be heard resounding through the walls of Morrison Gym. No, it has not been temporarily transformed into the HH Boot Camp, but rather, it has been taken back in time to the days of General George Washington. A Ward-Belmont tradition, George Washington Day has become an integral part of the 7th grade experience. Each year, under the guidance of Merrie Clark, Leslie Matthews, Susan Russ, and the rest of the 7th grade teachers, these girls perfect the graceful moves of minuets, the precision of soldiers, and the timed stepping of sailors. The seventh grade class selected Nancy Sisk and Abigail Lipshie as George and Martha Washington. Ms. Marie Burr received the honored dedication.

MS Athletic Banquet

Coaches Grace, Dr. Jack, Jones, Jeffords, Wallace, Davis, Linden, Pledger, Graham, among others gathered together with Middle School students to celebrate another wonderful year of HH Middle School athletics. Awards were presented, girls were honored, speeches were made, cookies and punch were eaten. Elizabeth Conrad, and Melissa McCord were elected by the coaches to speak on behalf of the students, and they did a wonderful job. It was a great year for sports and all the girls enjoyed spending an evening together reliving memories and creating new ones.

MS Awards Day

Middle School Awards Day is a time when the Middle School students at Harpeth Hall receive various honors for their dedication and hard work over the years preceeding high school. Taking place in the auditorium, academic awards for placement in national language exams, as well as a host of other prestigious honors are awarded to the girls at this time. It is an eagerly anticipated day as there is a symbolic merging with the upper school awards day ceremony for the presentation of the Milestones dedication (the yearbook once again uniting people everywhere). Awards day in the Middle School provides a special time for students to be recognized and to prepare for their transition into the Upper School.

At 9:00 Am on Memorial Day, 2000, Ms. Ross began playing a processional on the piano and the packed auditorium stood in respect as the graduating class walked slowly (quickly) to the stage. Proud parents, grandparents, families, friends, and faculty beamed as the girls took their places on stage. After songs by the 5th and 6th grade chorus, an invocation by president elect Emily Fisher, Anna Smith, elected 8th grade speaker, silenced the audience with her words. As the ceremony ended, and the girls exited the auditorium, "We are the freshmen, mighty mighty freshmen..." echoed through the Gallery.

Step Singing

Above: Be careful Rachel, Sarah might try to kiss your neck or something...

Below: The juniors pose happily before their first-ever Step Singing; the smiles soon faded after they started singing.

Step Singing is a long held Harpeth Hall tradtion in which juniors and seniors gather on Souby lawn in the day preceeding graduation to sing songs. The tradition was started at Ward-Belmont and is a favorite even today. All the upperclassmen wear beautiful white dresses, and the seniors invite a special speaker. This year, Cezanne Gray, a HH alum and very successful business woman, delivered the speech. It was a lovely and memorable last evening together for all the seniors.

Katie Wray Award

Molly Katharine Arvin

The Katie Wray Award, Harpeth Hall's highest academic honor, is presented each year to the graduating senior who has achieved th highest cumulative grade point average. This year's recipient, Molly Katharine Arvin, has not only established herself as a scholar but a a beautiful dancer, a prolific writer, and a quiet yet palpable force within the class. Her dedication and hardwork have served to establis her as a qualified recipient for the Katie Wray Award.

Attack of the White Dresses

Graduation

Girls in white dresses with red long-stemmed roses...May 29 turned out to be a memorable way for the Class of 2000 to say adios to their beloved school. Before the event, the seniors gathered in the Leigh Horton Garden for a class picture. They then lined up and anxiously waited for "Pomp and Circumstance" to begin playing so they could process in. It dared not to rain that evening - like it had the previous year - for fear that the members of the Class of 2000 would have words with the rain clouds. The front lawn was filled with family, friends, and faculty members, all hoping for the chance to see those 78 brave souls who had survived their years at the Hall get their diplomas. Going against tradition, the senior gift, a time capsule, was given to Ms. Teaff at graduation instead of step singing by class president Rachel Cherney. Katie Hill, Lady of the Hall and senior speaker, gave such a beautiful speech to sum up the past four years. Overall, it was a wonderful ending to high school.

The Final Verdict on a Year of Turmoil

You Should Be Thanking Us!!

Editor's Thank Yous

Laura Snyder~ Editor-in-Chief

I would like to say thank you to all my dedicated editors, especially the one who stayed late, woke up early, and was just there for me all year without complaints. You know who you are Bahar and I thank you. I want to just say you guys amaze me, each of you. This yearbook will be the funniest and best that this school has ever seen. It is all because of the hard work that each of you put into this thing. Through quitting, yelling, fighting, smiling, laughing, and bad moods, we spent each day together sometimes happily, sometimes hatefully, but all for fun. I could go through and thank each of you, but I don't feel like I could be creative with each one. All of you, though are special to me. Thank you all. To Martha, good luck that is all I have to say. We were your first group, and though we fought back, you kept us on track. I want to thank you for your patience, and I hope that you learned a lot. Good luck next year. To all of you, I love you and will miss you all. Thanks for a great ride!!!

Lisa Shipp~Assistant Editor

Thank you to all the editors who let me innocently pester them about what exactly I was supposed to do . Thank you Laura for guiding me with tips and pointers. Thanks to Martha Grace for preparing me and setting up for a new and exciting book next year.

Bahar Azhdari~Copy Editor

I'm not really sure why I wanted to be a Milestones editor. Laura kept hassling me, so I gave in. Boy, was that a mistake. This stupid yearbook took over my life. I barely had time to maintain my awe-inspiring GPA, much less my demanding social life. Reed, my co-conspirator in crime, it was palpable. I was impressed by your total concentration on the task at hand. You never got distracted by making buttons of the faculty members, adding pictures to our Croker wall of shame, or making mysterious phone calls. We did have fun yelling at the computers, fighting Martha, and harassing Croker. Just remember number one on my list (Get rid of Reed). Laura, you ordered me around like you were my boss or something. I'm not actually sure what you did, but I'm sure that we could have managed without you. Your "leadership" was impeccable. Sandy, you were truly an inspiration. You never once made me feel sad or depressed; you always had a kind word for everyone. Liz, I never could have done my job without your breathtaking layouts. Erin, you were never sarcastic, especially towards me. I was so grateful for that because you kept our spirits up during those long days. Stinky Kay, even though you rarely showered, you managed to crop some great pictures. Also, the copy you wrote was amazing; I never had to edit any of it. Rachel, you're amazing. Need I say more? Janna, you were fun but you really need to stop stalking me. You are not Persian; there's no shame in being white. Martha, dear Martha, your Hitler-like approach to the yearbook really made us work harder. Your constant dedication and forcefulness never caused us any annoyance. Katie Hill, you were my rock. Your copy was so creative that Reed and I could not have come up with better. You are the only other one who knows the evil that is the iMac and the student publication. I knew I could count on you to be at school as late as I was. And finally, Mr. Croker, without your iMac - which might I add, never broke or froze on me - and color printer the theme page would never have been created. Thank you for allowing me to live in that fortress of solitude you call a room to work; it truly is the Crokerful yearbook. Also, thank you for graciously allowing us to take pictures of you for the Croker wall of shame. They bring us all so much joy. Seriously though, without your help I would never have learned the fine art of cutting and pasting heads. Thank you all for a great year. I can't wait to read this yearbook!

Reed Harrison~Copy Editor

I can't believe D-day is here already! As looooong as Milestones meetings seem to last, all in all, this year has flown by. I must thank first and foremost, my partner in crime, Bahar, without whom any humorous copy would be completely devoid of any taste or sophistication whatsoever. So- "Bawhore", truly I tell you that next year I will miss our afternoons spent together harassing Croker, shaking our "bon-bons," and fighting Martha on the "middle school issue." Laura- thank you for the steadfast commitment you made to this project, for taking grease pencils and cropping tools home with you on weekends, and for remaining patient with your somewhat eccentric and occasionally pre-occupied staff. Liz- What can I say? We kicked another big one together, did it really take as much of our sleep and time as prom though? I think not, pee-pull. Anyway, I digress...thank you Liz for bringing me Happy Meals, and apple pies, and for encouraging me to go home on those days when you found me hypnotized, and mumbling angrily in front of a blank computer screen. I would also like to thank Sandy for creating such wonderful little desktop designs for the whole staff to enjoy and for the tech team to simultaneously detest (they are still looking for you by the way). My favorites, naturally, were "Stupid Bahar", "Beautiful Sandy" and "Dowñ With Reed." Of course a great big thank you to Martha Grace who kept all (well most, anyway) of the stragglers in line, kept us fed, kept our mailboxes full of neat little reminders, kept the pages rolling in to the plant, and kept missing lunch meetings. Martha- it would not have been nearly as much fun without you. Thank you so much for all your time and energy, and please keep me posted next year on the progress of your newly-re-vamped-dictatorially-managed system. Last but certainly not least, a big, fat thank you to Mr.Croker for leaving his room open to us, even though it makes him very neeeeeervous (with all that equipment), and for sticking around in the afternoon to teach us the art of edit and pasting heads. I have said too much, and I have more, so I'll quit while I'm ahead. It's been a long, strange trip. I will miss the open lab, the food, the music and the great company. Good luck next year, girls!

Rachel Bressman~Senior/Business Editor

This has been quite a year! It went by so quickly and there was never one slow moment. I want to thank all my fellow editors for their help this past year. Laura, you did an incredible job, and I appreciate all your understanding. I wish to thank every student who put time into this yearbook, but particularly Sara Trace. Sara—you have been my partner throughout all of it, the good and the bad (and you know what I'm talking about). I don't know where I would have been without your layouts. It took a while, but we finally did it! I could never have done this without you as my partner. Thank you so much for everything. I love you all and wish everyone the best of luck.

Sara Trace~Senior/Business Editor

Well, Rach... we finally made it! Somehow! Oh, those long tedious afternoons and panic attacks during study hall. Thanks for being so great through it all and tolerating my problems with the cropper. I can't believe we made it! Not that there weren't a few problems along the way...To say the least!!! To Mrs. Girgus, Mrs. Mulgrew, and Mrs. Kaplan- thanks for your support and for being there when things got challenging. To my fellow editors: thanks for making me laugh and for helping me get the birds out of my car! You guys are great! To MG- Thanks for finding the long lost baby pictures and for all the deadline reminders!!!! Of course I can't leave out my "little helper". Katie, as much time as you spent in the milestones room, you might as well have been an editor.You helped me to laugh through it all. Thanks for being there and for tolerating my temper tantrums. Well, I can't believe this whole thing is finally over (phew)... Senior year has rocked! Milestones has been crazy but it was all worth it to produce the BEST YEARBOOK EVER!!!!

Erin Lehner~Layout Editor

Well girls, we made a yearbook...a real purty one...like Bahar, she's really purty...her hair always looks so nice and she so smart and funny and fun to be around....did I scare you yet, ugly? On a slightly more serious note, I'd like to thank all the editors, you guys are great. Laura, you are amazing. You always seem to have the answers...which is good since the rest of us can't always find them. Ms. Grace/Martha/"Hey YOU"....depending on my mood after X number of layouts....I might actually miss the mass amounts of milestones emails we receive from you every week.....maybe. In summary (Klocko style)...that's a purty yearbook, a purty Bahar, and a thanks to all.

Elizabeth Townsend~Layout Editor

I would like to thank all my fellow editors for all the good times. I want to thank Martha for forcing all those good times upon us. I especially loved that yearbook camp over the summer where we did all those exciting bonding activities with people we didn't know and would never see again. Oh, and the 9 a.m. meetings over Christmas break were tons of fun too...it's not like I had anything else to do over Christmas break...you know, sleeping wasn't a priority or anything. Hmmm...what else? Reed, thanks for making that "Music to Stone by Mix." That always provided great ambience. No, but seriously, Laura, thanks for doing your very best to keep us on track. Martha, thanks for being the best Nazi yearbook sponsor ever! And thanks to my fellow layout editors, Erin and Janna. And to all the editors...IT'S BEEN REAL! Thanks for a great Stoners year!

Janna Alfery~Layout Editor

As I have labored this year on the Harpeth Hall Milestones, I look around at all of my fellow Milestones editors, and tears come to my eyes. I cannot begin to express the emotions I am feeling, but I will try to sum it up in this short space on this page. . . . First, I would like to thank Martha Grace, the yearbook Nazi, who has kept us all on our toes and all on the deadline. Without your daily emails, you stalking us in the halls, and your 4 hour long copy writing, this year would not have been the same. To Laura Snyder, thank you for knowing everything about Milestones and Herff Jones and whatever I had questions about because you were the glue that held everything all together. Thank you for putting up with my annoying questions and thanks for dealing with all the stress. You kept us all under control and managed to deal with Martha all year. That is a big accomplishment. I think the school should have a "Laura Snyder Day" to honor you because no one knows about all of the hard work that you did except you. You've done a great job. Thanks to my fellow layout editors: Elizabeth Townsend and Erin Lehner. You guys deserve all the credit. Thank you for doing most of the work and for being so dedicated. Thanks for putting up with my many absences (I really didn't intend to be so popular that I would have to be gone so much! haha). Seriously, you guys are the bomb, and without you, there would be no layouts. To Sandy McCain, the only one dedicated to everything you do, thanks again for keeping me dedicated. Even though I often resented your harassing phone calls on Friday afternoon, you help me stay in line and reminded me of meetings when I would often forget. Thanks also for the food. To my sister, Kim, thanks for waiting for me, often for hours while I had a Milestones meeting. You are the best sister ever. Thank you Sara Trace and Rachel Bressman for not putting those ugly pictures of me in my baby ad. You have saved me years of embarrassment. Thanks you to Jessica Lundin for being great. Thank you Bahar for telling me my copy is terrible. You are the reason I have such self-esteem issues. Really though, you made the meetings fun with your endless sarcasm (even when it was directed at me) often when we were all about to kill each other. Thank you to the staff for doing the work that you could. I know there often wasn't a lot of responsibility for you, but thanks for being there and doing what you could. To everyone else, I am sure I have a thank you somewhere in my brain for you but right now I just can't think of it. It's been a great year. Thank you all.

Senior year has flown by and working on Milestones has made it go even faster. Despite continuous deadlines, nervous breakdowns, and being harassed by Martha Grace everyday all day, being a Milestones Photo Editor is actually pretty fun. Lucy Kay Wall and Jessica Lundin, my fellow photo editors, you've been incredible. You pretty much took most of the pictures in this yearbook. Lucy Kay, despite the stench, you managed to amaze us with your photogenic self. You were always at the editors meetings to calm me down. I could always rely on your passiveness. Jessica, you practically lived in the Milestones room. You should have just set up a cot. Bahar, Reed, Laura, and Elizabeth, you've been amazing too. It was great coming in almost every Friday after school to find that all the editors there ready to work hard and get the pages done. I mean, it seems like we were always ahead of schedule! Bahar, you always had something nice and encouraging to say. You knew how to keep my spirits up. I admire you, Reed— your sincere comments, your overflowing kindness, and your expert use of FEBREZE. Laura, your wisdom has led us all to depend on you as our all- powerful leader. Elizabeth, you're quite simply, LAYOUT WOMAN. Janna, all I have to say is, "Prom Schmoms your Mom". I know I speak for everyone when I say that we look up to Sara. We all drool over your car, ie. the love den. But, the birds always got there first. Rachel, you worked behind the scenes to out do us (sometimes), wheyou weren't dancing". Erin, you always stopped us from teasing each other, especially when we ganged up on Bahar. Martha, I will never forget your constant harassing emails, although I would like to. Thank you for whipping us into shape (literally) when we were lazy, which I know hardly ever happened. I know we gave you a hard time, but you were a true inspiration to the rest of us. Your god-like stature scared the sh_t out of all of us. And finally, I would like to praise Mr. Joseph Croker. Mr. Croker, you have been an inspiration for this Crokerful yearbook. Your Russian peasant attire and floral ties constantly amused us. But, I would advise you to be a little more conservative in both your dress and your speech. Despite these flaws, I would like to thank you and everyone else for making this year the best year of my life. Graduation will be a sad day for all of you as you say goodbye to me. But fear not! You can add this yearbook to your ever growing shrine of the goddess that is Sandy. Well, that is enough sarcasm for now. Goodbye all! And remember: "There are four kegs on the lawn!"

Milestones has been really neat. I did many neat things and I liked it a lot. I had fun with many neat, neat people. I would like to thank some super neat people for all their help. Bahar you are a really neat girl and even though you smell really bad, it was neat working with you. Reed, Milestones has been a blast and we had some really neat times. You had some really neat ideas. Copy was really neat this year, even though you didn't let me help write any. I'll forgive you guys some day, in the distant future. Susan you are not so neat because you always got me in trouble but I love you anyways. Sandy, Gayle, and Jessica, we took some really neat pictures and we cropped a lot of really neat pictures. It has been really neat working with you guys. E.T, Janna, and Erin, you guys drew some really neat layouts and I really enjoyed working with you super neat gals. Laura, thank you so much for putting up with all our antics. You have done a really neat job with this yearbook. And last, but not least, Martha Grace. what can I say to you- you are the neatest of all neater than neat ladies in this neat, neat world. You are so neat because you never yelled or got mad because we hadn't finished pages. You're just the neatest. I would like to thank all the editors and say that I love you guys. It has been so much fun and a really NEAT experience.

Jessica Lundin~Photo Editor

I believe that this year the collaborative effort of the editors and staff of Milestones have put together the best yearbook that Harpeth Hall has ever seen. While this may be true, it was not accomplished without a great deal of blood shed, tears, sweat, fights, and help. Nazi Grace was always there to encourage and keep us on track, writing daily e mails and hunting us down in the halls. She knew that bribery worked, and therefore always provided food and candy when needed. Mr. Croker always came to the rescue when there were computer graphics questions and problems. Mrs. Simmons helped the photography editors arrange a day to take all the middle school club photos, and the administration in the Sunnybrook house was always there to provide us with much needed photos. Laura Snyder has spent more time dedicated to this yearbook than I have spent time breathing this year. She has always been there for the other editors whenever they needed her and she is constantly thinking up new things to add or do differently to the yearbook. It was awesome to work for an editor who was always optimistic and encouraging.

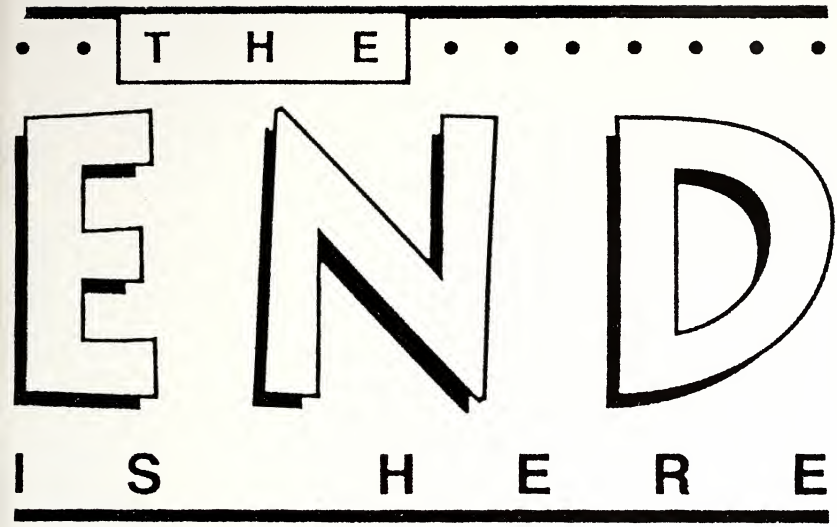

Susan McGugin~Photo Editor

I don't really know how to put this so I'll just come out and say it. I probably worked the hardest of every editor on the yearbook this year. Many hours spent with the camera and in the darkroom produced the pictures featured throughout the yearbook. Thanks to all of my loyal supporters along the way. It was great to see the rest of you editors working on the yearbook every now and then, but we all know who the most dedicated really was (me). Martha Grace: no one will ever forget your nagging e-mails, notes and voice throughout the year about the number of pages due. I deserve the Milestoner of the year award, definitely!

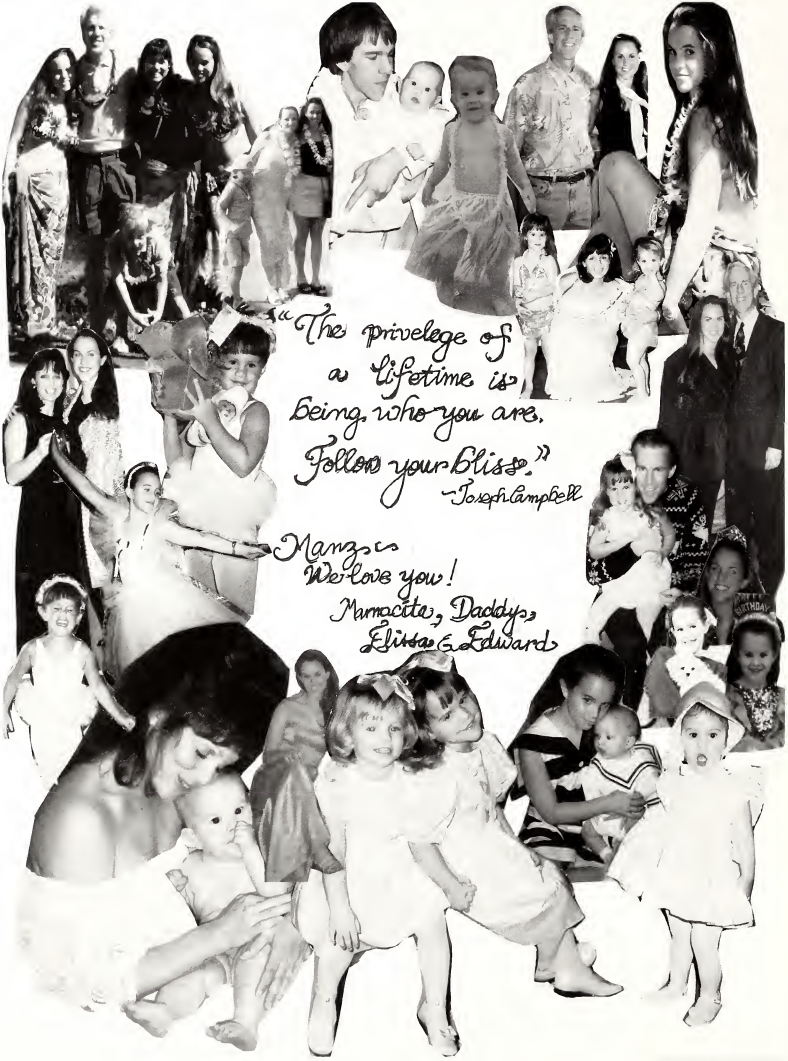

Martha Grace~Advisor

A debt of gratitude goes to the entire 1999-2000 Milestones editors and staff. To Laura - THANK YOU THANK YOU THANK YOU. You have taught me so much. You have made me look good on many occaisons. Thank you for your commitment, your patience, and your unending hard work and dedication. To my copy editors - Bahar and Reed - your wit and humor are continuous. We created this theme to fit your personalities. Bahar, you have kept Reed in line. Reed, in your next life I hope you spend countless years in the middle school. To my layout editors - Elizabeth, Erin and Janna - who created all the layouts with as many pictures as possible. You definitely kept photo editors busy! To photo editors - LucyKay, Sandy, and Jessica - thank you so much for your diligence in taking so many wonderful and vivid photographs. Business Editors - Sara and Rachel - you had a monumental task and you survived. Susan You did a perfect job. No comments are needed. Lisa and staff - I look forward to working with you all next year. As this year's group of editors would say "You better watch out because I know what I am doing now!" I am proud to be a part of the publication!

Sixteen springs and sixteen summers gone now
Cartwheels turn to car wheels through the town
We tell her take your time because it won't be long now
'till you drag your feet just to slow the circles down
And the seasons go round and round
And the painted ponies go up and down
We're captive on the carousel of time
We can't return we can only look
Behind from where we came
And go 'round and 'round in the circle again

Dearest Laura,

Always remember:

To laugh often and to love much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the approbation of honest critics and to endure the betrayal of false friends; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch, or a redeemed social condition; to have played and laughed with enthusiasm and sung with exultation; to know that even one life has breathed easier because you have lived—this is to have succeeded. Ralph Waldo Emerson (1803-1882)

For the joy, hope, compassion and commitment you share with us daily--thank you. A message for you at this crossroad, with apologies to Yevtushenko:

" Don't worry if you have no answer ready to the lasting question.
Hold out, meditate, listen...
Count happiness more necessary to the mind than truth is,
Yet know that happiness does not exist without truth.
Walk with a cold pride--utterly ahead
Wild attentive eyes, head flicked by the rain...
Eyelashes that shine, with tears and with thunders.

And a woman who held a babe against her bosom said, speak to us of children.
And he said:
You may strive to be like them.
but seek not to make them like you.
For life goes not backwards nor tarries
with yesterday.
You are the bows from which
Your children as living arrows are sent forth

I wanted a perfect ending- Now I've learned the hard way, that some poems don't rhyme, and some stories don't have a clear beginning, middle, and end. Life is about not knowing, having to change, taking the moment and making the best of it without knowing what's going to happen next. " Delicious Ambiguity"

All About Me

I have curly brown hair and brown eyes. I like my mom's pot roast. I hate spagetti. I like pets. I hate moving. I like to read books. I like to play the piano. I like to play soccer, baseball, and kickball.

This bridge will only take you halfway there
To those mysterious lands you long to see:
Through gypsy camps and swirling Arab fairs
And moonlight woods where the unicorns run free.
So come and walk awhile with me and share
The twisting trails and wondrous worlds I've known.
But this bridge will only take you halfway there -
The last few steps you'll have to take alone.

We love you, and we're so proud!

Molly,

Balancing artistry and achievement on the tiny pointe of a shoe, yours has been an eloquent example of discipline and determination. May your quiet commitment continue the counterpoise:as science is the beneficiary of your creativity, may art be the fulfillment of your eclectic energy. Our willing helper; funny, freckled elf: may you find always the support of a sister, the peace of a purr, the serenity of a lakehouse swing. We will watch from the wings as, befitting your namesake,each new life step becomes a pas de Moo.

May the good Lord be with you
Down every road you roam
And may sunshine and happiness surround you when you're far from home
And may you grow to be proud
Dignified and true
And do unto others
As you'd have done to you
Be courageous and be brave
And in our hearts you'll always stay
Forever Young.

May good fortune be with you
May your guiding light be strong
Build a stairway to heaven with a prince or a vagabond
And may you never love in vain and in our hearts you will remain
Forever Young.

And when you finally fly away
We'll be hoping that we served you well
For all the wisdom of a lifetime
No one can ever tell
But whatever road you choose
We're right behind you, win or lose
Forever Young.

A not so long time ago, in a galaxy not so far away, there was a group of 13 editors. They toiled long and hard to put together the best and funniest yearbook for the girls at Harpeth Hall. They battled computer ignorance, ADD, incompetent photo developers, slow professional companies, and Martha Grace. After all of their labor, here is the final product. Turn the pages, and let the laughter begin.
