Clergymen Praise Temple Institute

"It was a warm experience of learning and fellowship. . . ."

"It is hoped that such fruitful conversations between faiths may continue. . . ."

These statements are typical of comments from clergymen who participated in Temple Israel's annual Institute on Judaism for Christian Clergymen February 16.

Many wrote letters to Rabbi Sidney H. Brooks, who directed the Institute, expressing appreciation for the invitation to participate. The clergymen were high in their praise of the lectures given by Dr. David Polish, rabbi of Beth Emet, the Free Synagogue, Evanston, Ill.

The Institute drew the largest attendance in its history, with 300 registered.

Excerpts from some of the letters:

Donald A. Bump, pastor, United Presbyterian Church, Pawnee City, Neb.—It was a warm experience of learning and fellowship. I am most appreciative of your hospitality, personally, to the group.

Dean H. Williams, pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Atlantic, Iowa—Your hospitality was expressed in many ways, and the intellectual stimulation was most helpful. It is to be hoped that such fruitful conversations between faiths may continue.

The Rev. Bernard G. Miars, rector, St. Pauls Episcopal Church, Council Bluffs—Rabbi Polish was exceptionally fine and his lectures most illuminating. The fellowship with our brother clergy in this area was most pleasant and enjoyable too.

Gail B. Dunning, minister, First Christian Church, Blair, Neb.—It was quite inspirational and certainly most worthwhile.

Kirk E. Naylor, dean of administration, Universty of Omaha—I had occasion when teaching a Sunday School class at the First Methodist Church to mention how impressed I was with the spirit of cordiality which you exhibited during the Institute. Many members of my class had previously experienced this spirit from the Temple Israel and remarked favorably concerning it.

William T. Utley, program chairman, Methodist Men of First Church, Omaha—I have had the privilege of attending but two (Institutes), last year and this, but both were absolutely superior.

Philip P. Brunn, pastor, The United Presbyterian Church, Lyons, Neb.—I appreciate this ecumenical spirit which fosters a better spirit in our inter-faith relationships.

John H. Peck, pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Falls City, Neb.—The lectures were both profound and stimulating. Rabbi Polish is a gifted man and what he said was worth listening to . . . I would very much like to attend next year.

Tod Hubbell, Jr., representative, National Benevolent Association of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), Omaha—This was a real spiritual treat . . . Your graciousness and warmheartedness is indeed a symbol of the fine spirit of our Jewish brethren in Omaha.

Ray Johnson, pastor, Lighthouse Baptist Church, Omaha—The lectures were very helpful and informative, and Rabbi Polish very obviously is the scholar he was presented as.

BOBBY AND FRIEND

Bobby Kirshenbaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kirshenbaum, has frequently entertained students of Temple Israel Religious School with his ventriloquist act, in which his dummy 'Knucklehead' participates. He recently discussed Brotherhood Week with 'Knucklehead' for the Sunday Division.

Bobby developed his hobby from another student in the Religious School, Fred Weiner, who also entertains at special assemblies.
