WHAT IS GOD We know that there is a constant process of creation in the universe. Behind that creative process there must be a force or power. That force we call God. Some people may object and say that it is the laws of nature that control the universal processes of creation. If by the laws of nature is meant the supreme force that causes all things to exist, then I am willing to concede that God and the laws of nature are one and the same. I have never been enamoured of the term "God" anyway. It is a poor translation for the Hebrew name of Deity to begin with and probably accounts for much of the confusion concerning the nature of our belief in a Supreme Being. RARE ITEMS IN TEMPLE ISRAEL'S MUSEUM — XV.

"Now it came to pass in the days of Ahasverus . . ." With these words starts the "Megillat Esther" the Book of Esther which is found in the third part of the Holy Scriptures. Beginning with the Middle Ages the Megillah was often ornamented with beautiful illustrations. We exhibit four Megillot in our Museum each one different in workmanship and design. The picture above shows a scroll written in the fashion of the Torah scrolls.

Tradition requires the Cantor to read the ten names of Haman (above left) in one breath. The Megillah is handwritten on parchment and is on loan from the Misses Evelyn and Mildred Levy, Omaha.

and of hatred and malice on the other? Can anyone explain why birds are able to take flight for warmer climates when winter comes and arrive in exactly the place they spent the previous winter, or why the salmon is able to find its way back from the sea to the stream where it spawns its young? You will say that it is animal instinct — but just what is animal instinct and how is it that every creature has it? We know much more about medical science than we knew fifty years ago, and physicians are able to heal better than ever before. But just what is this process of healing that goes on in a sick or broken body? Is it just a mechanical AFFAIR? And even if it is, what is the nature of the force behind this so-called mechanical operation in our bodies? No, we don't know all the answers, although it is quite probable that we will learn some of them as time goes on. But even if we do learn the answers, will this invalidate the fact that there is a force in nature which gives us life, which brings healing, which implants in us a capacity for knowledge? To the contrary, the more we know, the more we learn, the more we become aware of the world within and without, the more are we aware of the existence of God. For God is Life — not only the life within us, but the vitality that permeates every atom of the universe. Rabbi Joseph Klein

JEWISH MUSIC MONTH SERVICE — APRIL 10

In keeping with the pattern set on previous years to bring before our Congregation the finest representation of Jewish Music, Cantor Kuttner announces a unique program for this year's Jewish Music Month Service, Friday, April 10, at 8:15 p.m.

The service will consist exclusively of the music written by Samuel Naumbourg (1817-1880), who became the first truly artistic composer of synagogue music. Naumbourg's work, though based on traditional material conveys the flavor of the time, the rich operatic style of contemporary French music.

As a sermon in Song, Cantor and the augmented choir will sing two short cantatas and will present them in the fashion of "M'SHOR'RIN Singers" (a style of grouping the choir around the cantor — a custom popular in synagogues of the past and practiced occasionally in our own time).

Also featured will be harp and organ accompaniment.

Those who have been present for past Annual Music Festivals have voiced their praises for these services as an unforgettable experience.
