HIGH HOLIDAY MESSAGE

Maurice N. Eisendrath, President, Union of American Hebrew Congregations

Jews gather in houses of worship to greet the New Year 5721 they turn their faces toward heaven and pray:

Grant us peace, Thy most precious gift, O Thou Eternal source of Bless our country that it may ever be a stronghold of peace and its place in the councils of the nations. May contentment reign within our homes, health and happiness within its homes. Strengthen the bonds of friendship and fellowship among the inhabitants of all lands."

A prayer which is recited at every Sabbath service and at the holiest time of the year is in danger of becoming a mere recital of ritual phrases. Men of conscience everywhere are prepared to translate these hopes into meaningful action in the coming year.

The New Year is a time for the thoughtful assessment of past deeds and firm resolution as we face the future. The time has come to rid ourselves of passive attitudes towards the great problems that confront us. The time has come to turn towards ourselves and not toward the world. The time has come to turn towards ourselves and not toward the world. The time has come to turn towards ourselves and not toward the world.

History has many lessons for us as we look back during this High Holy season. We must learn to recognize those lessons as we review the civilizations that were smothered by fatness, smugness and complacency. The great danger to the free peoples of the world is in the lazy acceptance of the great concepts that inspired the struggle for freedom with mere lip service to the high ideals which alone sustain the man.

Progress has accelerated both our hopes and the dangers that confront us. We stand on the threshold of the exploration of space, as competition among men becomes ever more rapid in the technological sense, weapons for destruction become ever mightier, our homes and our lives become the theater of action. There is no longer any place to hide. With that God will grant us strength we must find in ourselves the power to act.

We want world peace we must back our prayers with deeds. If we end to the degradation of race hatred we must work to bring about peace. If we hope that all men will someday share the joys of liberty we must be ready to pay the cost of vigilance which freedom continues to demand.

Every day in the year ahead will bring the opportunity for action. In their houses of worship, men of faith, must confront the problems of the world. They must join with their fellows throughout the community in programs of cooperative enterprise. They must give their support to the work of national organizations which are continuously engaged in the struggle toward the realization of our highest aims.

May the New Year summon us from our comforts and petty personal preoccupations and find us ready and strong to face the future not only with courage and high hopes, but with equally high resolve.
