Jewish Music Festival

SPECIAL PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR JEWISH MUSIC MONTH

Jewish Music Month will be observed at Temple Israel February 23, 24 and 25 by programs of special music for the Congregation and the Religious School.

Cantor Manfred F. Kuttner announced that music for the Friday evening Sabbath services February 23 will be devoted entirely to the great composer of Jewish music, Louis Lewandowski (1821-94). Programs for the Religious School will be given at assemblies Saturday and Sunday, February 24 and 25.

Lewandowski's "Grosse Kedu-shah" (The Great Sanctification) which Cantor Kuttner recently translated into English from the German will highlight the Sabbath Services. Performance of Lewandowski's composition will be a first for Omaha.

Congregants are invited to bring their friends to join in observing the annual Jewish Music Month festival at Temple Israel.

Members of the Temple Israel choir who will participate in the music festival are:

Ida Gitlin, contralto and director of the choir. Miss Gitlin is a graduate of Omaha University (B.A.). She is principal of Indian Hills elementary and junior high schools. This is her 22nd year with Temple Israel.

Ruth Metcalf, soprano, also soloist and choir director at the First Unitarian Church. Mrs. Metcalf is well known for her appearances with the Omaha Symphony Orchestra, and will sing the leading role in "The Medium" by Menotti with the Repertoire Players. She is a former soloist at the First Methodist Church.

Fred Hole, tenor, received his B.M. degree at Drake University and is the director of the Mutual of Omaha Men's Chorus. Mr. Hole is soloist at the Universalist Christian Church and at the Calvary Baptist Church in Des Moines, Iowa.

Robert Dean, baritone, appeared in many oratorio performances in Omaha and surrounding area colleges. Frequently he appeared with the Omaha Symphony Orchestra and has been guest soloist for many local organizations. He studied voice with the late Dr. Noel J. Logan of the Logan School of Music in Omaha.

Esther Weil, soprano, was a member of the Glee Club of the University of Michigan from which she graduated with a B.A. degree.

Esther DuBoff, organist, studied in Omaha with Prof. Sigmund Landsberg and played the organ at the Strand and Rialto theaters. She was associate organist with Albert Hay Malotte and Alexander Schreiner at the Paramount Theater in Los Angeles. She broadcast regularly over the Columbia Radio network from New York. For 13 years, Mrs. DuBoff was staff organist at the now dismantled Joslyn Memorial concert organ. She has been with Temple Israel since 1945.

Jewish Moods in Music

In the Religious School, Jewish Music Month will be observed during assembly of the Saturday division with a special program of Jewish music. It will be presented under the direction of Cantor Kuttner by the Junior Choir conducted by Miss Gitlin. Violin selections will be presented by Cantor Kuttner with Mrs. Norman Whitman piano accompanist.

For the Sunday division, a program entitled "Jewish Moods in Music" will be presented during assembly by Cantor Kuttner, violin, and Mrs. DuBoff, piano.

SPEAKER FOR DEDICATION IS NAMED

RABBI NODEL, ST. LOUIS, TO BE SPEAKER, MARCH 9

Rabbi Julius J. Nodel of St. Louis, one of the most eminent orators in the American pulpit today, has been chosen to give the dedicatory address at the dedication of Temple Israel's new building addition.

The senior rabbi of Shaare Emeth in St. Louis will speak at Sabbath services Friday night, March 9, when the dedicatory program will be held. His subject will be "One Touch of Eternity."

Rabbi Nodel, a Navy chaplain during World War II, was associated with congregations in Cleveland and Portland, Ore., before being called to Shaare Emeth, one of the largest and most distinguished Reform Jewish congregations in the United States.

He has lectured extensively at colleges and universities across the nation and is the author of a recently published book, "The Ties Between". His sermons and lectures have been reprinted in the Congressional Record and in many other publications.

Among his avocations, Rabbi Nodel is an artist, a musician, poet and commentator on modern literature.

Harold P. Farber, chairman of the committee arranging the dedicatory program, said plans for dedication program are nearing completion.

Rabbi Sidney H. Brooks will officiate at the services.

The new addition will be open for inspection following the services.

Sisterhood Donors . . .

The name of Mrs. Lester Marcus was inadvertently omitted from the list of Sisterhood Donors published in a recent issue of The Tidings, and the name of Miss Esther Kirschbraun was misspelled. We're sorry.

Rabbi Julius J. Nodel

SISTERHOOD

"THE ART FAIR" COMING TO THE TEMPLE MARCH 6

Temple Israel Sisterhood has ventured into the realm of art and announces plans for "The Art Fair" at which will be displayed unusual and diversified art collections.

"The Art Fair" will open in the Temple Social Hall the evening of March 6 with a display from the Beizer Fine Art Gallery, New York City, of 40 prints—original lithographs, etchings, wood cuts and engravings signed and numbered.

In addition there will be on exhibit original oils and water colors by members of Temple Israel and the Sisterhood and by interested local artists, along with works of sculpture, oil, water color and prints on loan from Temple members' homes.

Most of the prints and original works will be of Jewish content by contemporary Americans, including Gerson Leiber, William Gropper and Peterdi Gabor of New York; Jules Marvin of Smith College, Eugene Larkin of Minneapolis, Adolph Dehn, Alexander Dobkin, Harry Schouderberg, Ilya Schor, Irving Amen, and Chaim Gross, all of New York.

Milton Wolsky, prominent Nebraska artist and critic, will act as host for the evening affair, where he will informally discuss the works of the artists on display over coffee and sherry.

The admission charge will be $1 per couple to help defray the expense of bringing the New York works to Omaha to be shown exclusively at the Temple for a two-week period.

Mrs. Willard Friedman and Mrs. Harold Slosburg are general chairmen of the committee in charge of arrangements. Other committee members are Mrs. Robert Silverman and Mrs. Sam Weinstein, member exhibits; Mrs. Lloyd Bank and Mrs. Harold Brodkey, publicity; and Mrs. Irv Sherman and Mrs. Maurice Pepper assisting.
