

September 11, Attacks

It was a Thursday morning I was at school changing periods going to E.L.A. Class. When I was walking through the hall way when I heard some girls talking about a attack in New York. When I entered my class everyone was so quite listening to the radio, watching the news talking about the attack. Every where that you talk the only thing that you will hear is about how bad the attack was. My reaction was really shocked because I never thought that something like that was going to happened. And the most thing that got me more scared was that in the news they were saying that we also could be attack but uniformly thing of that happened and we are OK. But anyways listening to all that I could believe it until I finally noticed everything was true.