

On September 11th I was in my second period class when they attacked the World Trade Center. I remember saying to myself "what's the World Trade Center?" Myself and other people around me were shocked.

In my next class we listened to the radio to see what was going on. The reporter said "thousands are feared dead". I remember my friend George saying, "what are we going to do now?"

In my sixth period class my teacher was already talking about war. He said "this a national tragedy."

At home my dad said it's probably terrorist related.
