A Dream

Was it - last night or the night before. So far as I know the family with me on the Seminary grounds. It seemed evening sunset with broken clouds, when suddenly there flashed upon the sky rays of golden light. Brighter and brighter became the light when the towers and walls of a city rose into view. The architecture was that of ancient cities, but the golden light wrapped it all in a splendor such as I had never witnessed before. My gaze started to go toward the city - amazed and I went "The Kingdom is coming." Upon the I awoke but with a new consciousness of the fact of the unseen realm whither we are bound.
