Dear circulating letter has gone on a and come just trembling and yet with anxious hearts we open your anxious to see each one speak with news from the farthest to beyond the sea, expecting beautiful words of greeting and yet some fears of disease and death. What a faithful messenger you have been. you have gone on prairie circuit and yet you've crossed the deep blues bringing precious news to me. What a comfort separated as we are that we can thus commune together I hardly know how we would do without you What a treat to sit down and read of each in your various terms. What anxiety we feel for the welfare of each as we grow older in years, I am in my 75th year I think much about life it is largely what we make <sup>it</sup> I want the best life I can have. I have been thinking much about the long line of anxiety upon our good and noble people then I think of our many descendants what anxiety I have for welfare in life, and so much to encourage me as I look at children and grandchildren Alice requested me to give a record of ancestors, I have given from Great Grandfather Lambert, and Great grand Grandfather Sterton and also on mother's mother's side I will send in the letter and each can copy it if you desire to do so. We have both fair health. We appreciate your letter so much and it such company to read your letter. The broken links in the letter remind that we are treading to another land with the hope of a reunion on the other shore. our prayer daily is that <sup>God</sup> may direct the footsteps The record I have given of our ancestors (of both)

I believe every family with which people may all the descendants follow in the same channel until we shall be one great family in heaven
