SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

Well, here we are at another presidential inauguration ball. Robert Ashe has become the president of the United States and has invited all his old class mates to the ball. He has asked me to interview the guests as they enter. Here comes our first guest Ronald Dilly. As I walk up to him, I see he's dressed in a flashy sports coat and drape pants. I ask him what he is doing and he says he is head of one of the biggest harems in the United States. The Guests are just coming in by the hundreds. Wait a minute! Here come Betty and Bertha; they have the smartest dress shops in New York. Of course they are dress shops for midgets. As I look around the room, I see Jerry and Glenn; they have graduated from Teck University and are teaching home economics at Vernon High. As I talk to them, they tell me Emma Jean and Ken's children are now going to Vernon. Pardon me while I swoon. Here comes Laddie Zimmet, the now famous movie star, and his personal manager Dan Varanelli. There are Ivan and Jalberta; they have a big goat farm and are doing very well (three cadillacs you know). Here comes Wayne Kwallek. He certainly fooled every one in his class by becoming one of Americas most famous scientist by finally proving the world is square. I just received a telegram from Warren. It said, "Sorry I can't make it, because my wife just had a twelve and one half pound baby girl." Did you know that he married a woman wrestler? David and Ted Hunter have gone up into the mountains to become hermits. They won't be here for the ball because they're stirring up a new batch of Kick-a-boo joy juice. As I talk to the Vice-President, Nick Popovich he tells me Barbara Karr has become the first lady of the White House and is learning to sing like Margaret Truman. The entertainment is about to begin. Let's see what kind of fun we are going to have. Oh! There's Ray Zedaker, Ted Wade, and Robert Sweitzer. They have formed a trio and are taking the place of the Andrew Sisters. Look there's Ed Giroski crying like Johnny Ray. Here comes Mary Jane, late as usual. Of course, you know that she is one of the best models in New York. Tom Zedaker wrote us a letter saying he could not attend because he's still twirling batons for assemblies at Vernon School. As for Beverly, she has become an old maid school teacher and is giving private English lessons in her home.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Let us turn the hands of time back to a bright autumn morn of September in 1941, when sixteen rosy-faced children started on a journey. Of the original 25 members of the first grade, only 10, Barbara Karr, Emma Jean Brown, Betty Wells, Ronald Dilley, Laddie Zimmet, David Hunter, Ted Hunter, Jerry Morrison, Glenn Robinson, and Warren Steadman remain. The learning of the alphabet started us on this adventure with Miss McMinn (Mrs. Karr) as our teacher. We finished this grade with very high honors, and in record time, we were promoted to the second grade and Mrs. Banning. In this eventful year Ivan Rose and Bob Sweitzer joined the class. By the time we entered the third grade our number had increased. Tom Zedaker and Daniel Varanelli joined us here. In the fourth grade we became honor students with Mrs. Scott as our teacher. We picked up Beverly Gruver just in time to move on to the fifth. Mrs. Lillie was our supervisor and we enjoyed her supervision very much. We added three more permanent members here, Mary Jane Bloom, Ray Zedaker, and Ted Wade. Then we became sixth graders, the grownups of the first floor. Miss Bell was assigned to instruct us on our half way mark of our journey. This year time seemed to rush past.

And now came the big event of being in the seventh grade with Mr. Schettino, who helped us through the difficulty of changing classes. As we advanced into the eighth grade with high honors, we had Mr. Mallett as our sponsor. Here we picked up another member, Ken Stafford.

Finally we were freshmen. How did we make it! With the total of 24 we were initiated by the sophomores who enjoyed making us obey their every command. Mr. Wasik helped us with our studies which were becoming harder now. Robert Ashe and Bertha King joined the class.

How did we pass Mr. Mallett's algebra? The answer we will never know. As sophomores the excitement began. Mr. Wasik remained as our sponsor and Nick Popovich was the new member.

In our junior year 24 of us welcomed Miss Zahariou as our new English teacher. With the selling of Christmas cards and candy at the basketball games we were able to finance the prom which was held at the Pick-Ohio Hotel in Youngstown. We also enjoyed the trip to Washington. During this year we picked up two more members, Ed Giroski, and Wayne Kwallek. Our play "A Talent For Trouble" was a big hit.

Seniors at last! We all made it. We gave our senior play and went on an enjoyable trip. We also had two merry days of getting advertisements for the yearbook. In this last year, Jalberta Mattocks joined the class.

Really, we made it! We sometimes wonder how but, here we are - all 25 of us - graduating. This is our history and we hope to make as big a success in the future. Look and listen for our names. You will be hearing from us.

Betty Wells

CLASS POEM TO VERNON

We shall never forget the sad day,
When from Vernon we must part,
Going onward, a new goal to reach,
With Memories of Vernon and aching hearts.

Our minds are full of happy thoughts,
And of school days we'd like to relive,
All our short comings and also blunders,
Dear Vernon, I'm sure you'll forgive.

Our lessons and tasks are ended,
And High School for us is done,
You'll be proud of the Class of 53,
When our "Life's Ambitions", we've won.

We'll bid adieu to our school pals,
And teachers, whose patience has no end,
Our memory will always fondly stray,
To Vernon, where we spent many happy days.

Tom Zedaker

CLASS SONG SCHOOLBELLS

Tune - Winter Wonderland

Schoolbells ring in September.
These are days to remember.
Of days gone by in fine array
Walking in the halls of Vernon High.

Schoolbells ring; do you hear them?
As they call us to heed them
But as we all go, we'll miss them so
Walking in the halls of Vernon High.

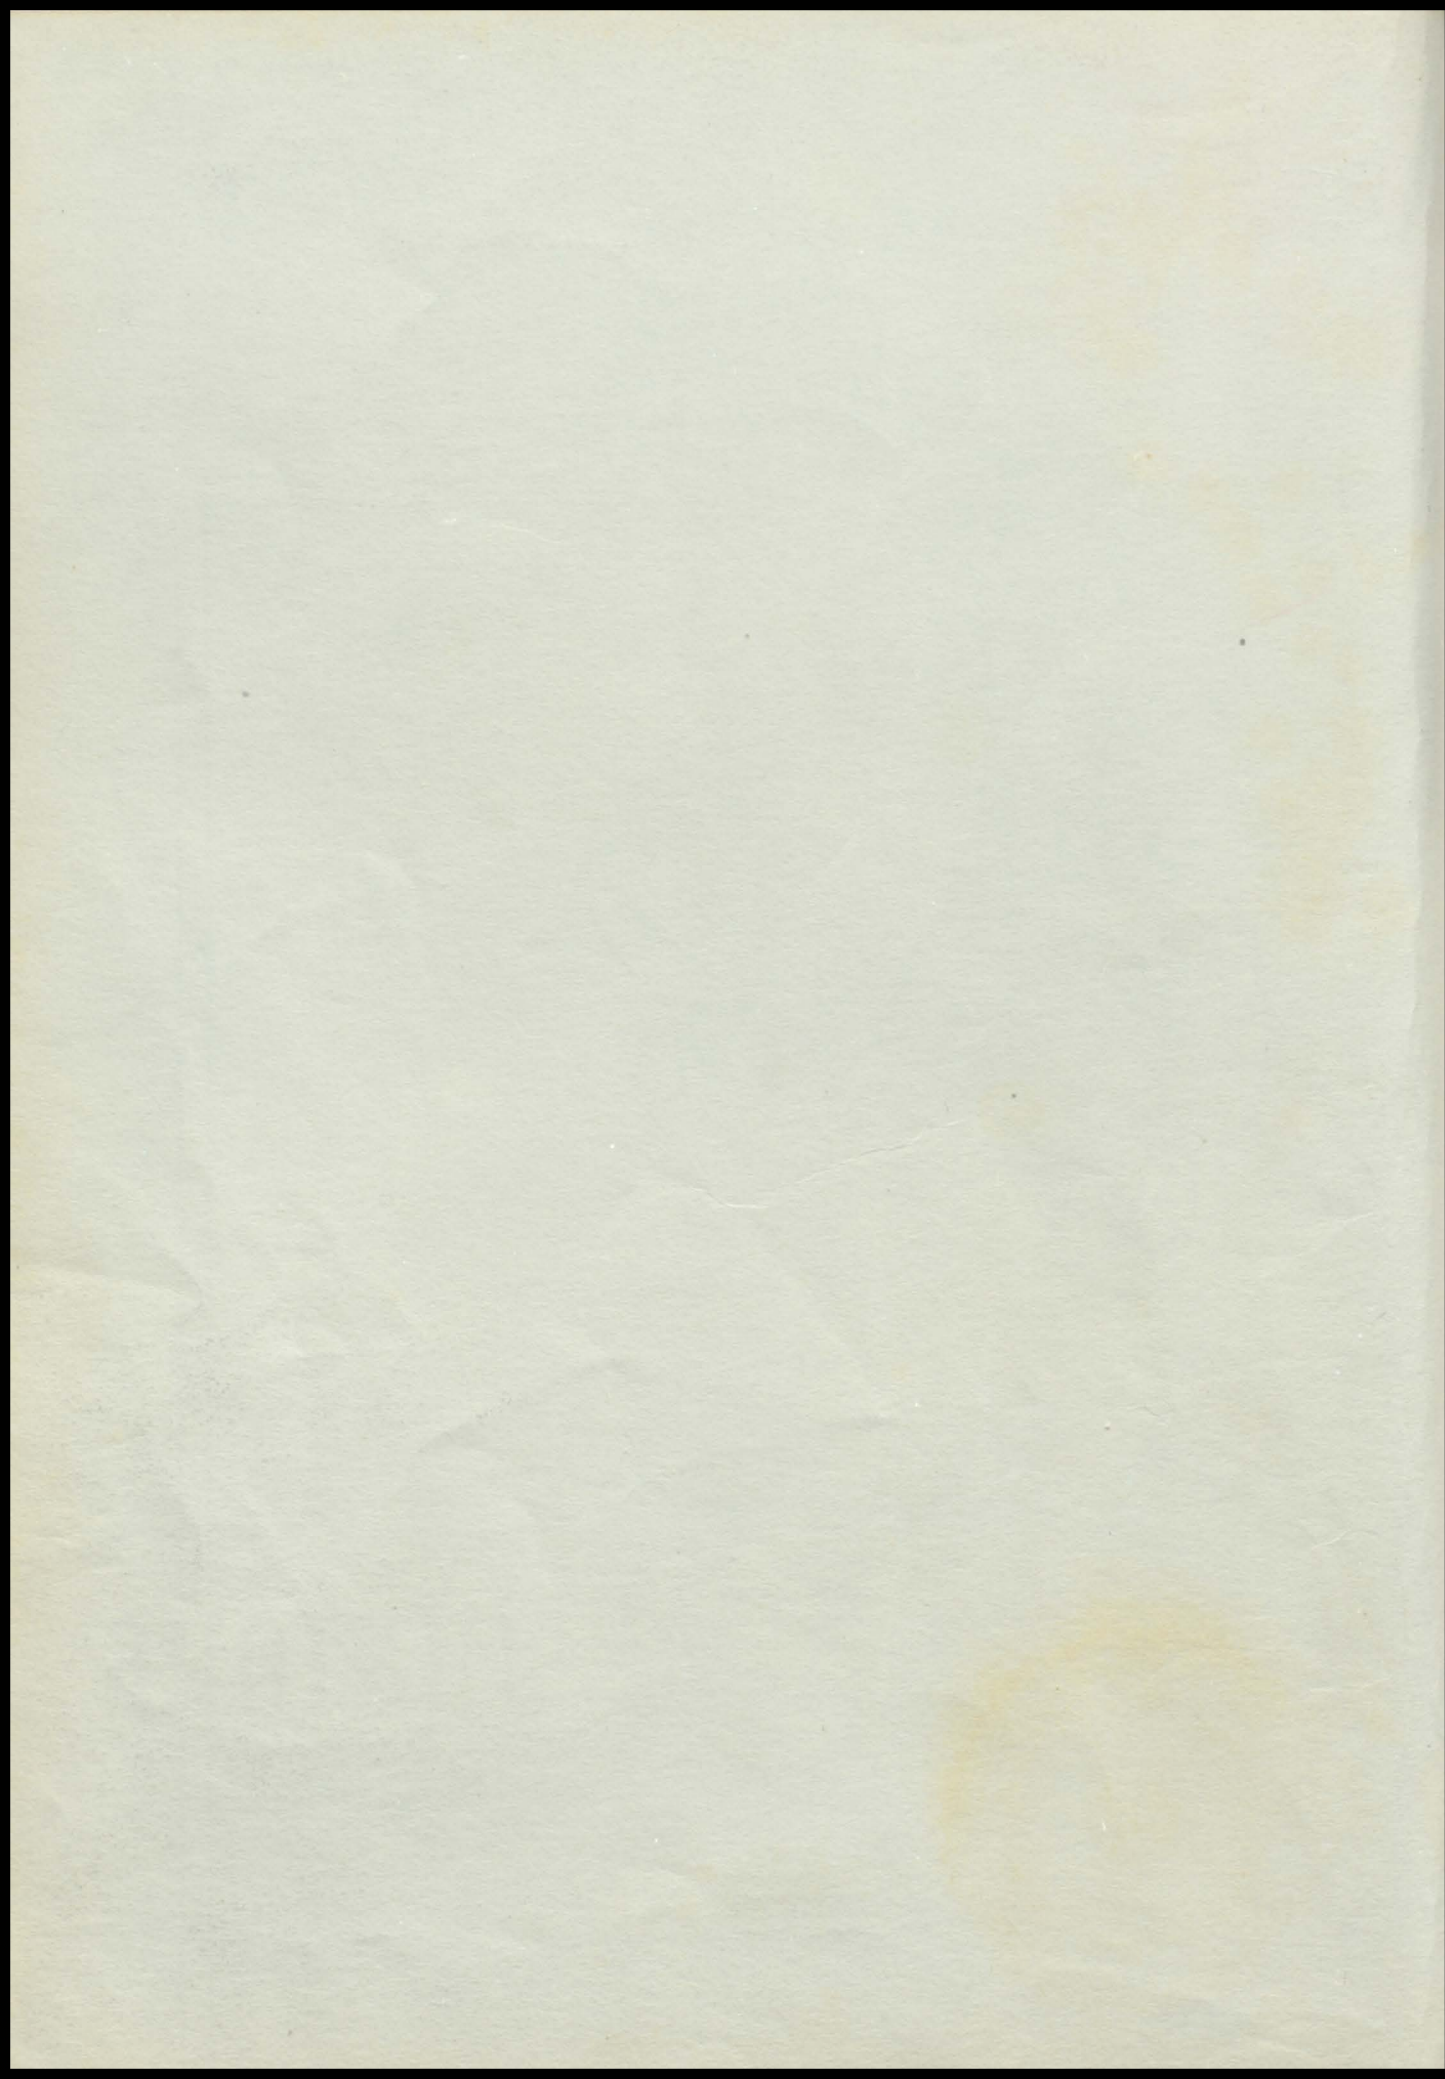

Schoolbells ring; are you listening?
As we sit reminiscing,
We all give a sigh as we say goodbye
Walking out the doors of Vernon High.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society was organized by school administrators of the National Association of Secondary School Principals to stimulate good scholarship and to recognize character, service, and leadership in high school students.

No honor conferred by the school excels that represented by this society. Membership is drawn from the upper third of the senior and junior classes. The group is carefully chosen by the teachers on the basis of the further qualifications of character, service, and leadership. Qualities sought are honor, dependability, faithfulness, independence of thought, initiative, and fine personality.
