St. Joseph Museums Board of Trustees Honors Longtime Volunteer Nancy Hampton

The Board of Directors and the staff of the St. Joseph Museums held an evening reception in honor of Nancy Hillyard Hampton on November 8. Serving as Adjunct Assistant Curator of Collections, Mrs. Hampton has been a volunteer since 1972 and has given over 30,000 hours of her time in the areas of cataloguing, preserving, and caring for the collections. At the reception, the St. Joseph Museum board resolution recognizing all of her accomplishments was read for the 125 guests who attended the reception. They learned of her most recent accomplishments, which include developing the catalog system for the Eckel/Brunner Architectural Collection and overseeing the accession of that collection. For her dedication to excellence in collections care, the St. Joseph Museum board has named the research section of the museum the Nancy Hillyard Hampton Library and Archival Center. Guests were invited to tour the newly named archival area, where volunteers who work with Mrs. Hampton in accessing and caring for the Eckel/Brunner collection acted as tour guides.

Nancy opened the door to the Library & Archival Center that now bears her name as the evening began. She greeted family members J.R. Roth, Jim Carolus, Bob Roth, & other guests as they arrived at the reception in her honor.

Solving the Mystery at the Museum II Provided Plenty of Laughs and Surprises

Sally Carpenter, Jim and Suzanne Lehr, Bill Carpenter, Michelle Nelson, Wally McDonald, and Clark Hampton were among the "suspects" guests met as events unfolded.

Mystery at the Museum II drew over sixty guests to the St. Joseph Museum on October 20. The theme was "Howard Go Tell's 1st Sports Awards Dinner" and guests were invited to come dressed in their favorite sports attire. The evening began with a showing of the great sports moments of the past during a "tailgate" dinner. "Howard Go Tell" did not show up. Did the golfer, pilot, fisher, hunter, power walker, skier, or baseball player cause his delay? After dinner, guests were divided into teams, and they enjoyed searching the museum for clues to the disappearance of "Howard." After finding the clues, the teams gathered together, and a hilarious evening of good natured debate about the guilt or innocence of each suspect ensued until it was time to reveal the truth. Several of the teams did indeed guess the name of the person responsible for "Howard's" absence! Peggy McDonald generously gave of her time to write the story, create and hide the clues, select the cast, and act as referee. Dinner was prepared by Karen Foley, Carol Myers, Michelle Nelson, Mary Helen Stuber, and Shirley Twombly. The J. C. Wyatt House, Hyvee, and the St. Jo Frontier Casino also donated food to the dinner portion of the evening. The event was a fundraiser with proceeds going to the St. Joseph Museums educational exhibits and programming.

Volunteer gives Civil War Program

In November, Debbie Carver, R.N., was kind enough to donate her time to give a program on the fascinating life of Clara Barton for nearly fifty guests. Nicknamed the "Angel of the Battlefield" by the Civil War soldiers she cared for, Barton went on to be the Founder of the American Red Cross. Many thanks Debbie!
