Today was clear and real pleasant. The temperatures were low about 53° high about 75°. I slept until 8 AM, ate breakfast and then Pearl, Lois and I made the rounds of four Cemeteries. We put flowers on 10 graves. This evening Pearl & I drove to Honey Creek where we just sat until the Whip-poor-wills started calling.

Today was clear & real nice this AM then clouded up with rain this afternoon. Temperature low about 55° high about 77° I left home at 9 AM. by myself & headed for Beaver Creek and got back home at 1:30 PM. About 17 miles north west of town I had car trouble. The oil danger light came on & I put two quarts in the car & headed home. Most of the way home the red light was on I checked the oil level when I got home and it was O.K. so apparently my trouble must be the oil pump. I stayed home the rest of the day. I have enjoyed resting this weekend.

Today was clear and pleasant. Temperatures were low about 47° high about 78°. This ~~morning~~ ^{afternoon} Pearl and I made a trail run over our breeding bird survey route which we run each year for the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife of the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service. I'm glad we did. A bridge had been washed out and we had to find a detour to complete the run in shortest way possible.

Today was clear and very pleasant. Temperatures were low about 57° high about 83°. For all of my activities I could not ~~possibly~~ possibly have found a nicer day. My day really began at 3:55 AM when Pearl and I got up with the clock alarm. We ate breakfast and then drove to near Tropic, Mo. where at 5:23 AM we began our "Breeding Bird Survey" for Dept of the Interior Fish & Wildlife Service. We got home at about 11:00 AM then at 1 P.M. I went to Henry Creek and on to Squaw Creek with Si & Monya Roitzky. We finally arrived home at 9:30 P.M.

Today was a mixture of weather. Kill to bad. I didn't do any real birding at all. at 12:30 Noon Pearl and I headed for the Trimble Wildlife Area. The nearer we got to the area the worse the weather looked. We crossed a bridge across the Little Platte River going into the area. The water was only about two feet below the bridge floor. After getting into the area things continually looked worse so we headed back for home. After only about 30 minutes the river had come up about another six inches and was beginning to go out of its banks into a hay field. Luckily we didn't actually hit any of the bad weather but it was all around us. Temperatures were low about 60° high about 74°. We got back home at 3:30 P.M.

Today was clear, breezy, cool and generally very pleasant. The temperatures were low about 67° high about 82°. After lunch Reed and I headed for Swan Creek. We just loafed along on the way and stopped several times. We were a bit worried on the way up when we stopped at our Owl burrow and saw no owls but we were doubly repaid on our way home when at just 7:30 P.M. as we were watching one, presumably the ♀ at the burrow the other owl flew in with food of some sort. I don't know if one of them called for if it was the impact of him lighting on the ground near the burrow but it was like an eruption of a volcano. Immediately young owls about half grown poured out of the burrow. We were sure of five young. They were just about half the size of the adults. They looked like round balls of fuzz. They had no feathers at all as near as we could see. I was watching through my telescope and they were near enough that I could even see the pupils in their eyes. We finally got home about 9 P.M. Then besides writing my bird list for the day I wrote David A. Eastola and Mark Robbins. I also called Joel Lawhon Jr. who wants to go up tomorrow to try & get some pictures of them. I also called Don Reynolds. As far as Dave Eastola or myself know this is the first known record of successful nesting of burrowing Owls in Missouri. We plan on co-authoring a paper this fall on the owls and the mountain bluebird and publishing it in either the "Auk" or the "Wilson's Bulletin". Mark just returned from leading a group tour for birding in Mexico.
