Today was cloudy, damp & chilly all day. The temperatures were low 46° high 64°. It rained most of the day. Pearl & I took a short drive this morning down around Lake Contrary & back home. It rained on us all of the time. The month of October was really a change from all of the summer months. In round figures the average rainfall for October is about 2.3 inches. We wound up with almost 5 inches which was about double of normal.

We drove through the Amazonia flats on up & through Honey Creek Wild life area and from there on to Squaw Creek where we birded all afternoon. We got back home about 5 P.M.

On our way back we drove over to the St. Joseph Airport. Pearl & I were one of the very first to cross the ^{new} ~~old~~ Missouri River bridge into Kansas. They had the opening ceremonies at 11 AM and were just clearing the way across when Pearl & I came along. I believe we were the first vehicle to cross after it was officially opened up.

Today was cloudy, damp, windy and chilly all day. We had a light bit of rain this morning. Leo Holloway and I went to Thomas Hill Reservoir which is near Melton, Ms. this morning to look for an Arctic Loon and Western Grebe that Tim Barksdale claimed to have seen yesterday. He called Leo Holloway about it last evening. We saw one Western Grebe and one Loon. I first saw the Loon across the lake. It was too distant to be sure of but to me it looked like a Common Loon. Later we saw a Loon on our side of the lake. It was feeding so much we could not get a good enough look at it as it would be up only an instant & then back down. It was 137 miles to the lake. It took us 2 1/2 hours driving time each way. We were back home at 4:40 P.M.

Today was clear all day + very pleasant. Pearl + I left home at 8:05 a.m. + drove to Lake Viking which is on the edge of Altamont, Mo. and one mile down a side gravel road. Pearl's sister Zaiden Hauman and her husband Kenneth and four grown children bought a lot there and put a trailer on it. The entire setting of the lake, its surroundings and the nice homes is beautiful. I would love to have a home there on the lake shore. Except for shore birds and marsh birds I feel that I could get a good list every year.

 We drove 114 miles round trip which makes it a 57 mile one way trip. It took us about one hour & twenty minutes driving each way. We were back home at 3:55 P.M. Temperatures today low 32° high 57°
 The 9 day Missouri fire arms deer hunting season ended yesterday. There was a record harvest (kill). It was a total of 57,691 deer.

Today was cloudy & cold with a misty rain almost all day. Pearl & I left home at 7:40 a.m. and drove directly to Squaw Creek. Today and tomorrow is Eagle days at the Refuge. It is pretty highly ~~publicized~~ publicized so there are always a few hundred + maybe a thousand or more who attend for that reason. The refuge personell, Missouri Conservation Agents and Audubon Members help at showing the public the Eagles and explain much of the wildlife management practice to them. The weather kept getting worse so Pearl & I left there shortly before noon & headed home. At one stretch on Interstate Hw 29 cars were almost bumper to bumper and driving at 10 to 40 m.p.h. When I got home the entire front of my car was covered with ice. I saw Kenneth Jackson at the refuge also. I then stayed home the rest of the day. Temperatures low high.

Today was cloudy + cold with about a four inch snow. Lois, Larry, + I went to the hospital this morning so we would be there to see Pearl when she was brought back.

to her room after her biopsy operation. From what we know by this evening is that the tissue of her breast is malignant. They are not sure to what extent yet but they are going to run more tests on her tomorrow before they go to the operation of removing her breast. I certainly hope that everything works out for the best. It seems that in our later years, especially since I have retired that Pearl & I are closer together than we ever have been. I pray to God that she will come through all of this in top shape. Temperatures today were low 13° high 24°.

Today was mostly cloudy, windy and cold. Temperatures were low 10° high 22°. We didn't go to the hospital. They ran more tests on Pearl today. Some of them tell the doctors to operate tomorrow but looking on the good side they tell them more. That apparently it hasn't spread to far. They have one more test to run tomorrow morning. It is to be a scan on bone marrow.

I got up at 7 A.M. Lois went to work at her regular time. Larry came up and spent the morning with me. We drank coffee & talked while I put feed outside for the wild birds and tried to catch up some of my odd jobs inside. Pearl's operation was to have been at 11 A.M. but Dr. Craig was held up by an earlier operation and Pearl's was not started until around noon. Larry & I left here about 12:30 P.M. Lois met us in the waiting room about 1 P.M. It was 3:40 P.M. when we got to see Pearl in her room. She was in pain and feeling very bad. We didn't stay very long. Larry talked to a nurse & got her to give Pearl a shot. Larry & I headed back for home about 4:30 P.M. Lois stayed about half an hour longer. She told us later that Pearl was feeling much better when Lois left, probably due to the shot. Pearl told us to all get in for the night as it was very cold. The temperatures today were low 0° high 17°

Today was cloudy and cold all day. The temperatures were low 6° high 15°. This was our day to do the National Audubon Society Christmas Bird Count. We had set today for our St Joseph Count about a month ago. With Pearl in the hospital my part of the count was cut very short. Most of these Ashland Cemetery birds I do not count because Kenneth Jackson already had them at the Cemetery. Pearl was feeling much better today which made me very happy. Even the doctors and nurses couldn't hardly believe it how good Pearl felt and how good her spirits were. Lois and I were there most all afternoon.

We, Lois & I worked around the house all morning and then at noon we went to the hospital to see Pearl. She still seems to be feeling real good. I certainly hope she continues to improve. Also hope she is home for Xmas.
