Simon Huntington, born August 7, 1583, was probably married once before his marriage with Margaret Barrett on May 11, 1623. She was born September 29, 1595; daughter of Christopher and Elizabeth (Clark) Barrett. Christopher Barrett was Mayor of Norwich England in 1634 and 1648. He died in August 1649. Simon Huntington died of small pox on the ship before reaching America.

The church records of Roxbury, Mass. contain the earliest record of the Huntington name in New England. It is in the hand writing of Rev. John Elliot, the pastor of that ancient church. It is a "record of such as adjoined themselves unto the fellowship of this church of Christ of Roxborough, as also of such children as was born unto them under the holy covenant of this church, who are most properly the seed of the church." This is the record of Margaret Huntington.

MARGARET HUNTINGTON, WIDOW, CAME IN 1633. HER HUSBAND DIED BY THE WAY OF THE SMALL POX. SHE BROUGHT _____ CHILDREN WITH HER.

This is practically all that is certainly known of the progenitor of the Huntington Family in America. The rest is tradition, inference and conjecture.

Margaret Huntington, the widow, married Thomas Stoughton in 1635 or 1636, and moved with him to Windsor, Conn. He was prominent in the early history of that settlement, and died there March 25, 1661.

William Huntington, with respect to the parentage of William the evidence is meager. However the letter of Peter Barrett to Christopher Huntington, dated April 20, 1650, is of some importance. This letter was published in the "Genealogical Memoir of the Huntington Family" of 1853. In it the writer, a brother of Margaret (Barrett) (Huntington) Stoughton, directs the division of the sum of about 140 between her children, Christopher, Simon, Thomas, Ann, and the investment of the Thomas' share until he should "come capable to employ it." William is utterly ignored, which plainly suggest that he was not nearly related in blood to the Barretts. William might well have been a son of Simon by a first wife, who died before his marriage to Margaret Barrett.

If at the time of the immigration, he was aboy from ten to eighteen years of age, he would naturally come with the rest of the family. But before long his rising feeling of independence might impel him to strike out for himself. So, apparently, he did not go to Connecticut with Margaret and the rest of the children, but is found in Salisbury, Mass. as early as 1640.

His descendents have been here to for classed as descendents of Simon although we may greatly doubt if Margret Barrett was their ancestress.

At a general meeting of the freemen of Salisbury, on the 26th of the 10th month in 1642, it was ordered that thirty families should remove to the the west side of the Powow River, the dividing line between Salisbury and Amesbury. Williams was probable one of the families who then crossed the river and became one of the pioneers in the new settlement of Amesbury, then called "Salisbury New Towne". He, however, retained possession of his share in the old Salisbury, as he was recorded as "townesman and commoner" there on the third of twelfth month, 1650. He also paid the tax for the support of the Rev. Wm. Worcester, who was pastor over the first church in Salisbury down to his death in 1662.

William married Joanna Bayley, a daughter of John Bayley. Tradition makes William a religious man, and that he was a man of enterprise, and of a thoroughly english spirit is evidenced by his occupancy of the exposed outpost of the English settlements of that day-opposition to French encroachments being the mainspring to the settlement of that frontier town. The residence of Wm. Huntington in 1685-6 is given in the "Hoyt Family" as next to Thomas Hoyt. This was in Pleasant Valley on the banks of the Merrimac, where the river is a half mile wide and altoger a beutifull place.

The following minutes were copied from the Salisbury New Towne records and help to iridicate the charecter and position of William Huntington.

1653-4 1st month. One acre and ninety two rods, his share of the beach common. Being one of the sixty two persons of the division of the meadow toward the Merrimac river, and the great creek toward Merrimacs river's mouth and the barberry meadow, he drew lot No. 55 1654, 1st month. He enrolled as one of the present inhabitants and commoners of the New Towne.

1658, October 29. He is recorded as drawing land by lot, and he was one of thirteen to whose children 500 acres was given. His son John is mentioned as the child to inherit his share.

1660, 10th month. "a towns shieep is grantied to Willi Howntinton for his son".

1661, he was one of twenty five to whom lots were laid out at the Lions Mouth.

1662, April 1. He drew 120 acres of land: and March 1662-3 thirty acres "west of pond near childrens land".

New Towne, 11th month 18th day 1663. He drew lots between Hamp-tonshire and Powow river" and in 1667 12th month 18th day he drew lots in four places.

In 1664 Wm. Huntington bought of John Hoyt, sen., a lot of land adjoining his own on the Merrimac River.

William died about the year 1689.

CHILDREN

1. John, born on Sabbeth the last week in August 1643.
2. James, died on the fifth day of the twelfth month 1646.
He was probably the second son and died in infancy.
3. Mary, born May 3, 1648, in Amesbury and married on the 14th day of the 6th month 1667, Joshua Goldsmith.

Christopher Huntington, born July 25, 1624. He probably accompanied his mother to Windsor Conn., where he must have spent his youth. He here married, October 7, 1652, Ruth, daughter of Wm. Rockwell "a prominent and highly respected member of the community". He removed, probably, in the spring of 1654, to Saybrook, as the birth of one child appeared in 1653 on the Windsor records and the death of another in May 1654 on those in Saybrook. Here he remained until the spring of 1660, when with the company of the Saybrook colony who had organized themselves into a church under the care of Rev. James Fitch. He removed to the valley of the Yantic, and with his brother Simon, aided in laying the foundations of the new town of Norwich. He had now reached the prime of his manhood; and proved himself one of the most efficient and usefull of the hardy pioneers. His name occurs often in the early records of this enterprising town and always in honorable relations.. His house lot was one of the prominent localities of the settlement. In 1668 the general court granted him 100 acres of land not more than twenty acres of it to be meadows. In 1678 appointed town clerk. In 1685 his name occurs as one of the committee "to make provision for maintaining the reverend minister".

His death had occured in 1691 as appears from the probate of his will. No stone marks the resting place of this pioneer of the Norwich settlement. He sleeps, doubtless, not far from the banks of the pleasant Yantic, in the meadow where rest, unmarked, the mortal remains of so many of the pioneers of the early settlement of Norwich.

CHILDREN

The death of the first Christopher, and the births of all but the first two of this family, are on the Norwich records.

1. Christopher, born in 1653; lived one year four months and died in Saybrook. The first fact appears on the Windsor records and the second taken from the Saybrook records.
2. Ruth, born April 13 1653 and probably a twin with the above Christopher. She probably died in infancy.
3. Ruth, born in Saybrook, in April 1658: married March 26 1681 Samuel Pratt of Saybrook, who came to Saybrook with the early settlers. they had one child recorded in Saybrook, Samuel Pratt, born February 11, 1683:: She died February 14, 1683.
4. Christopher, born November 1, 1660
5. Thomas, born March 18, 1664.
6. John, born March 15, 1666
7. Susannah, born August, 1668
8. Lydia, or as the records have chosen to enter the name Lydyah, born August 1672.
9. Ann, born in Norwich, October 25, 1675; married October 28, 1697, Johnathan, son of Thomas and Mary (rudd)

5.

Bingham. Her husband was born April 15, 1674 and was the third of eleven children. His father was afterwards deacon of the Windham Church. He had a family and descendants respectable both in their numbers and for their character.

1. 2. 4.

Christopher Huntington, born in Norwich November 1, 1660, being "the first born of males in the town". Born, thus, during the first year of the history of the native town, and destined to grow up in its infancy and spend his manly vigor and mature age in its forming period, he was also designed and used by Providence, as a prominent contributor to the prosperity of its most vital secular interest, and a marked pillar of support to those of religion. His character, molded, mainly by the best of all influences, those of a quiet home, in which every day piety hallows everyday toil, and over which a sense of duty rules as the deepest incentive to its labor and pastime alike, unfolded early with every element of consistency and strength. In a period of exposure and calling often for extreme adventure, he became resolute and fearless. In an age devoted to the revival of a simple and primitive piety, he became a humble and inflexible Christian: and with the best and amplest means at his disposal, trained himself to the most intelligent and effective discharge of every duty, either to God or the world.

He married for his first wife, May 26, 1681, Sarah, born January 1663, daughter of Deacon Thomas Adgate, by his second wife Mrs. Mary Bushnell widow of Richard Bushnell of Saybrook. She was the mother of his first eight children, and died in Norwich February 1705-6 aged 42. He married for his second wife, in October 1706 Mrs. Judith (stevens) Brewster, widow of Johnathan Brewster, "a great grand son of the venerable Elder Brewster, the spiritual guide and teacher of the Mayflower pilgrims. She became the mother of four children.

In 1684 the town grant him a parcel of land on a small plain near the mouth of Crane brook.

In each of the years 1691, 1705, 1709 he is on record as the first townsman. He succeeded Richard Bushnell, as town clerk, which office he transmitted in due time to his son Isaac.

In 1695 or 96 he was appointed deacon and in this office served with marked ability to the close of his life. He appears to be a practical surveyor: and his decision on a dispute regarding land titles ,was. in those early days an end of all strife. He was, accordingly on the commission with his uncle Simon to redeed the lands whose titles were in dispute.

He had become an extensive land holder, as the early records abundantly show. IN 1705 July 21 he and his brother Thomas deed to John Elderkin "all that our one hundred acres of upland and meadows, which we hold in partnership, as it was given to us by our honored father, Christopher Huntington, as by his last will and testament". Connecticut colonial records show that Christopher was deputy to the general court, May and August 1710 and that he was appointed Justice of the Peace, in May 1714 and October 1715.

He died in norwich, April 24, 1735 and his remains were interred, as his headstone shows, on the brow of the hill in the southeast corner of the uptown burying lot in Norwich.

Daniel Folsom Huntington, born March 29, 1825. He married July 25, 1846, Clarissa daughter of Isaac and Hannah Hurlburt. She was born June 1, 1823. Her brothers, Reuben and James Hurlburt built the two keystone bridges in Dresden, one in Pike Brook and the other in Clemons. These bridges are made of loose laid stone. The stones were laid over a framework of green saplings. When the stones were all laid, Reuben would then ask for volunteers to go under the bridge and with an axe cut away the sapling framework, since there were no volunteers he did the task himself. When the framework was cut away the stones would settle and said to have sounded like a loud roar of thunder. these are called keystone bridges because there is one stone that if removed the bridge would collapse. They got $25 dollars for each bridge and this was divided between five people. The bridge in Clemons was built around 1861 and used as a road until 1928. Both of these bridges still stand today.
