and (3) that it gives the least source of error in the absolute identification of the individual specimen in each of the necessary laboratory proceedures.