

Lisa: Below are the 3 record series that are available at Public Records for the Vermont Historical Records Survey. The originals are in Record Series PRA-4 while the film is available under PRA-362. PRA-105 is an inventory of Federal records. For film, an "F" before a number indicates that it is reference film (accessible to the public) while an "S" indicates that it is security film (preservation copy that is not accessible). In most cases, every security film has a reference copy. For reference purposes: PRA-##### indicates the User ID number used by Public Records to identify the box (under PRA-362, the box numbers refer to the box where the security film is stored). The User ID is followed by another number, which is the computer ID for the box.

Creator:	Vermont Historical Records Survey
Title:	Vermont Historical Records Survey, 1936-1942.
Extent:	55 cubic feet and 5 microfilm reels
Description:	The Historical Records Survey was begun in 1936 under the direction of the Works Project Administration. The objective of the Survey was to discover and preserve materials important to the research of American history.  The Survey in Vermont produced 48 volumes (13 boxes) of published records inventories including: inventories of town, village and city archives (34 volumes), inventories of church archives (3 volumes), calendar of ha Allen papers held by the University of Vermont (1 volume), index to the Burlington Free Press held by the University of Vermont (8 volumes), public laws of Vermont relating to the duties of town clerks (1 volume) and the "Final Report and Inventory of the Vermont Historical Records Survey" (1 volume). There are reportedly two sets of inventories.  Also included are published inventories of state, county, municipal, probate, church and federal archives throughout the country. Inventories of federal archives throughout the USA include the following agencies: federal courts (Series II, 1939), treasury (Series III, 1939), war (Series IV, 1938), justice (Series V, 1938), navy (Series VII, 1939), agriculture (Series IX, 1939), commerce (Series X, 1940), labor (Series XI, 1940), veterans administration (Series XII, 1939), and miscellaneous (Series XVII, 1941). There are multiple copies of most booklets. Included are five microfilm reels containing abstracts of laws, 1788-1910, governing and/or affecting state, county and town offices. The series also contains 38 boxes of unpublished inventories of town and church records and one box of town histories compiled by the WPA. The unpublished materials may be found in various stages of completion. Three additional boxes of miscellaneous records have neither been appraised nor inventoried.  Approximately 50 cubic feet of material was transferred from the Vermont Historical Society (where they had been temporarily stored) to Public Records ca. 1960. 63 cartons of material were transferred from the University of Vermont on 1951-06-18. After initial appraisal only 15 linear feet were retained. Publications deemed of marginal value to the State of Vermont were transferred
