

NEWS ▾

BUSINESS ▾

SPORTS ▾

OPINION

A&E ▾

SUBSCRIBE

LOGIN

contingent of volunteers for his third attempt.

Narciso López, revolutionary in Cuba in the 1850s. Creative Commons Attribution Share Alike 4.0 International

It abruptly ended when no popular uprising against Spain occurred. López, along with 50 American southerners, were captured and then executed. The flag López had adopted for his filibustering expeditions later became Cuba's national flag.

Georgiana was captured and confiscated by Spanish authorities. While its crew was spared execution, they were sent to Spain for imprisonment.

Lincolnvillle families of crew members contacted President Millard Fillmore for assistance. His administration, politically embarrassed by López's attempt, was at close x