[Letter from Flora Pillsbury (1887-1921) to George Nichols (1889-1961)]

Camden, Maine

Feb. 10, 1915

Dear George -

Here's what I just wrote off for the Herald. Do you think they will be all right? I shan't mind how much you change them (there's plenty of chance for improvement) but don't you dare put in the programme when we may not be able to live up to it.

Harriett telephoned me this noon that she is not going to the hospital until a little later so she thinks she can recite for us Friday night. Maybe we will have a good programme after all. I expect those tableaux will be worth the price of admission don't you? Minnie said this morning Dick wanted to know if we didn't have any tableaux over to Mrs Clarks last night that would be all right to repeat up there. I told her they would certainly be all right to repeat but people might think they were being cheated out of their money. They might like to see you sticking the end of the mandolin string into your finger though.

Please excuse this scribble I didn't mean to write so much, but thought I would submit these ads for your approval or dis-approval.

F.E.P.
