

Citizens of Newport, an effort will be made this day to place Rhode Island strongly and decidedly on the side of an administration, which has ever been mindful of the interests of the State. This effort will be successful—we shall triumph.

But two or three years ago there were scarcely fifty friends of the administration in this town—now their number exceeds Two Hundred. Many of our fellow citizens have discovered where their true welfare lies. They are tired of rendering evil for good—of warring with that administration, which has liberally appropriated for our use and benefit whatever our wants required. Two Hundred Thousand Dollars have been already reported for Fort Adams, and other works have been recommended to be commenced here immediately at an estimated cost of more than TWELVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS!! While those in power are continually legislating for our benefit—a few restless men, whose whole aim and dependence is office are stirring up an opposition in the State, to subserve their own, at the expense of the general interest. In order to raise this opposition they are obliged to fabricate all sorts of falsehoods, to circulate lying pamphlets and to deceive all those who are so occupied with their own affairs, as not to know intimately the true state of things. What single reason can be given for this opposition? Is not the country prosperous? Were the times ever better? Did the farmers ever receive more for their produce? Is there not abundant employment for the mechanic? Are not all classes busy, thriving and happy? Why then should any be stimulated to opposition? Why be worked upon by panic and false alarms?

When REAL danger threatens us, there will be found men enough of all parties, willing to strike for the Constitution and the Laws and the Liberties of the Country.
