

Point Clear, Alabama — a private pleasure-land for the discriminating

An ancient and aristocratic tradition distinguishes Point Clear: Here have stood two other famous and fashionable Grand Hotels, to bequeath a legend of gracious hospitality to the new Grand Hotel. ounds — twenty-five landscaped acres — comprise the entire eninsula. Two sides are edged by the white beach and the gentle surf of Mobile Bay. The arrow indicates the entrance to the beautiful private golf course. At the left is the yacht basin where may anchor their boats, and where are harbored the hotel's fishing and sailing craft.
