(United Press Staff Correspondent)
OLYMPIA, March 27, (UP)—The proposed legislative reapportionment bill was expected to be submitted to the state supreme court this week. Complete realignment of legislative representation of the counties of Washington is effected in the bill. The signatures of 50,000 voters must be obtained by June 1.

The bill defines boundaries of 48 senatorial districts and 99 representative districts, each district being allowed one senator and two representatives with king county having the odd representative. King county is accorded 25 house members instead of the present 17, and 12 senators as compared with 8 as at present.

The 45th district, under the proposed initiative bill, will comprise Island county and parts of Snohomish and Skagit counties and will have one senator and two representatives, based on an estimated 1930 population of 32,000.

The bottom dropped out of the war market in Olympia this week when W. J. Milroy, Thurston county prosecutor, announced that no criminal information would be filed against any of the three state officials accused of taking undue liberties with the public payroll.

The officials who are cleared of criminal intent by Milroy's decision are: C. W. Clausen, state auditor, Samuel J. Humes, state highway director, L. V. Murrow, Spokane district highway engineer, and also Clarence L. Clausen, assistant accountant in the auditor's office, nephew of the auditor.

"No court or jury would find any of the parties complained against guilty when all the facts and circumstances therewith are made known," Milroy said. "I have dismissed further consideration of the charges."

Unless something unforeseen occurs, subsequent phases of the war between elective and appointive officials of the state government will thunder to the left, so to speak.

An armed neutrality exists. The elective officials claim they have fortified themselves with other scandal against the Hartley forces and threaten to shoot it at the governor the next time he brings charges against any one of them. It will be blow for blow. But although the auditor's charges against Humes and Murrow did spike the governor's guns for a few days, Hartley fears nothing in heaven or on earth and will, without a doubt, continue to attack and accuse whom he pleases.

Enoch W. Bagshaw, football coach of the University of Washington for nine years, has been appointed state supervisor of transportation in the department of public works.

He fills the position vacated last December when Fred K. Baker, now director of the department, was summarily fired by John C. Denney, then director, who was subsequently dismissed by Governor Hartley. Bagshaw left the university earlier this year after controversy between students and alumni.

It wasn't five minutes after his appointment was announced that jokesters were busy concocting puns to the effect that the department of public works has been a "political football" for so long and a good coach was needed there.

Friends here were genuinely grieved over the death of John C. Denney, familiarly known to all as "Judge Denney," who died at his home in Everett last week following a stroke. He was an old pioneer of the state. He came to Washington in 1888 and had served in public office as judge, registrar of the United States Land Office in Seattle and state director of public works.

Governor Hartley will soon start his radio broadcasts.

"I am going on the air to tell the people of this state about the political hierarchy of perennial officeholders who have held forth for a quarter of century or more and who have grown fat and arrogant to the point of defying interference from any source," he said in a typical Hartleyesque manner.

How High Will A Fly Fly? "Fly-line" Puzzling

Old Timers All Bothered Over Height Insects Will Rise For Fish

ISLAND county old timers are much disturbed over the problem of how high a fly flies. In fact, some are so concerned over the matter that it is rumored tests will be made as soon as the fishing season opens and suitable incentives can be hung high enough for the tests.

It all came about this way: A certain well-known radio company sent out dealer bulletins recently. An island dealer wanted to use the theme of the pamphlet for advertising purposes so he decided to check up on the truth of it's content. It worried him. Parts of the bulletin follow:

"The Indians of the Northwest, when drying their winter's supply of food, invariably hang their fish from trees at a height of thirty-three feet from the earth. An old buck was asked the reason. His reply was, 'Flies no get 'um.'"

"Upon investigation it was learned that flies do not rise more than thirty-two feet above the ground; and the Indians, knowing this, hang their fish just one foot above the 'fly line'."

Robert Pratt Best Orator

Robert Pratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Pratt, a freshman, won the Coupeville high school oratorical contest held last Friday at the school. He won over Jack Engstrom, a senior and last year's winner. Only two entered the contest.

Pratt's oration had for its title "Abraham Lincoln and the Constitution." The award was a pin. Engstrom had for his oration "Modern Politics and American Government." Both Pratt and Engstrom will be entered in the county contest to be held at Langley April 4.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Barney (Gerardine Dremolski) of Seattle came down Saturday for the Junior Prom.

Hurray! Pavilion At Last To Be All Cleaned Up

Camp Fire Girls Secure Building From Town Council For Skating Parties

HURRAY! Coupeville's pavilion is at last going to be cleaned up and repaired. And it took a young lady to turn the trick. It is actually going to be of some use now.

Miss Luella Zylstra appeared before the town council, meeting in its regular session Tuesday night, and petitioned that body for the use of the pavilion for Camp Fire Girls skating parties.

The petition was granted with the understanding that the town is to repair all rundown and broken parts, stolen hinges replaced, all windows locked and the door secured with a padlock.

The Camp Fire Girls are to clean the pavilion and keep it so. The council reserved the right to have access to the building when needed for any public use or when desired by other organizations. In the meantime the building is to be kept locked. This will save the pavilion from the destruction that comes from the thoughtless antics of boys at play—natural and human.

East-side Roadwork Progresses

RAIN HAMPERS WORKERS, BUT CUTTING AND GRADING WILL BE RUSHED TO COMPLETION

Street Light Changes

WIDE, GRADUAL CURVE AT APPROACH TO GRADE ASSURES ELIMINATION OF SHARP TURN

Coupeville's road repairing and building program has been hampered temporarily by heavy rains. However, enough work has been done for a good get-away.

The west side approach is now leveled off, and with the application of gravel to have been done the end of this week, that section of roadway should be in first class condition. The county shovel was used to cut down a low bank in order to have the road correspond in width to that of the county road, which it connects with. Gravel for surfacing the road was to have been taken from the county gravel pit.

SIX CUTS

Work on cutting down the East-end hill road was begun and three days time put in on it with the shovel when rain hampered the work. One cut has already been made with probably five more still to be made. The end of the week should see work resumed.

The new road, as surveyed by County Engineer Wanamaker will eliminate the two narrow right-angle turns that now exist and make automobile travel difficult. The new turn will take the form of a gradual reverse curve with plenty of space for three cars to drive abreast.

MUST BLAST

The road crew has encountered clay too hard for the shovel to dig out and it will be necessary to shoot out a quantity of earth. With clearing weather work will be rushed as the county shovel and other equipment is needed at the south end of the island.

The new curve at the bottom of the hill will necessitate the replacing of two telephone poles and one light pole. It was requested at the council meeting Tuesday night that the light be moved two poles south to serve a group of families there. The council approved the request and when the three poles are moved will have the street light placed farther south.

School Board Kind-Hearted

The school directors of the Coupeville district aren't half bad. Ask any school boy or girl. Like a shot out of the clear sky came the report Wednesday that the board had declared a two-day spring vacation. So, yesterday (Thursday) the school doors were closed. And to add to the pleasant surprise old man Sol joined the vacationists.

Round Table Will Meet

The Ladies of the Round Table will meet next Tuesday April 1 at the home of Mrs. Maxson. Mrs. Coupe will conduct a program on literature.

PERSONAL

Miss Josephine Craddock and Miss Mona Harrington spent the two or three days of the university vacation here at home. And of course they had the pleasure of attending the Junior Prom last Saturday night, as did also Messrs. Rob Engle, Ted Muncester, Roy Armstrong, Max Newbury and Fred Lovejoy, all alumni of the Coupeville hi. who were all here for the festive occasion. And a gala occasion it surely was. The hall it is said, under the management of the Junior class of the high school, was never so artistically decorated before as at this Rainbow Ball. Also the beauty of the scene was enhanced by the colorful dresses of the girls, which rivalled the decorations in through the "mazy dance."

Miss Aileen Gallagher and our whilom M. D. S. A. McPettridge were on the island over Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Lovejoy and son, Fred, all of Seattle, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Capt. and Mrs. J. W. Clapp.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR

DOWN Tacoma way comes news that Republicans dissatisfied with the present state heads think they have a future winner in the recently elected mayor of that city, Tennent.

Tennent, who resigned from the mayorship because of lack of cooperation among city commissioners, came back into office with an overwhelming vote. Now certain Republican leaders see in him their best bet for state governor at the next election.

Tennent is an able executive and Tacoma prospered under him. His personality coupled with his colorful career make him a favorite with the crowds. But just where the under-currents of the political stream will carry him is only a matter of speculation at this stage.

The most lasting fame that towns achieve generally comes through the fame of what its citizens do.

Indirectly Eldon Jenne brought fame to Coupeville. Last year Clarence Edmundson's best effort in throwing the discus in the Island county track meet at Oak Harbor was a few inches better than 101 feet. However, that effort established a county record. Clank went to the district track meet at Mount Vernon and there exceeded his previous mark with a heave of over 113 feet. A week or so ago he tossed the platter for a distance of 117 feet in practice. A youth that shows this marked improvement should be watched. With proper coaching he should develop much greater distance. Muscles trained in the right way now will mean muscles that will be able to compete with college champions later on. Clank will bear watching.

SEWER SYSTEM A NECESSITY

FRENCH CHASE, president of the King county regional planning commission says: "It may seem strange to most of us but we can get along as far as our health is concerned without many modern conveniences that are considered essential, such as pavements, street lights, telephones, modern transportation, etc., but it is considered next to impossible for any community to exist without an ample supply of pure water and an adequate sewer system."

The historical Black Plague that swept away human life virtually over night was traced to lack of sanitation. Thousands of less historical calamities have been caused by inadequate means of disposing of sewage.

And Coupeville, a town existing in a modern time, remains without a sewer system. The fact that Coupeville and many of the inhabitants have and are living so long is to be wondered at, despite the lack of a community sewer system. The reason is found in the climate, but climate won't mean much once some dreaded plague gets under way.

WEEK BY WEEK IN COUPEVILLE BY A. A. PERSON

Answering a question our mayor asked the other day as to when our wimmen would stop follerin' French fashions, a city paper said in its information column that it would be when American ladies had sense enuf to make their own fashions without goin' across the big pond to consult the parley-vous Frenchmen about 'em.

An' somebody else thot it wouldn't be a bad idea for the progressive Round Tablers to appoint a committee to look into the matter of persuadin' some Coupeville dame to open the first All American Style Shoppe right here in our little town.

.....

A real refined lady was seen the other evenin' (in the P. O.) to pick up—well, not exactly some cigar stubs, but a package containin' three cigarets. An' everybody who was waitin' for their mail was fill'd with surprise.

Suggestin' five improvements that the City Improvement Club might consider makin':

1. Fill up all the cisterns in town so's there'd be more subscribers for City Water.
2. Petition the Council to feed all the dogs in the city limits so 't the owners could save money to pay the dog tax with.
3. Take the oil out of the city water an' distribute it 'round even in all the wells in town.
4. Git a piano-tuner to tune up to one pitch the vocal chords of all the cats in the neighborhood, so their midnite serenads won't grate so much an' will be more harmonious-like, on the ears of the peaceable sleepers that they wake up.
5. Put a STOP sign at the foot of Main street so the cars won't go speedin' 'round the corner an' throw stones at the Lib'ry winders an' 'em the way they do now. Besides, they's goin' to be a collishun there one of these days an' somebuddy's goin' to git killed.

HEARD ABOUT ONE OF OUR CHICKEN-MEN'S WIVES (?) ASKIN' HER HUBBY WHAT HIS FAV'RITE CAKE WAS AN' HE SAID RIGHT OFF THE BAT "WHY, LAYER CAKE, OF COURSE."

.....

Now just a-wond'r'in' if 'twouldn't be a good idea to write to Sears-Roebuck an' find out if the first sentence in the foregoin' paragraf is alrite. Course, chicken-men have wives, jest the same as other men, but "one of our chicken-men" don't have only one. They ain't Mormons. How 'bout it?

.....

The poet sings of the "Beautiful Snow"—
Why not "Beautiful Rain" we'd like to know?
Layin' the dust in the city street, Givin' the thirsty bulbs a treat.

Each grass-blade adornin' with diamonds bright,
Fillin' the farmer's hearts with delight,
Increasin' supplies in cisterns an' wells,
(Praps also the bulk o' city water it swells.)

Wat'r'in' the lawns, the cats an' the dogs,
Rejoicin' the souls of the big bullfrogs—
O, Clerk o' the weather, we do implore,
Let 'er rain, let 'er rain, fer a week or two more!

Appealin' to one of our fashion magazines for advice, a "Poor Man's Wife" asked what was the easiest an' cheapest way to secure a washin'-masheen an' they told her as follere: "By all means the best way to accomplish your object (an' any woman with one-half a mechanical eye can do it,) is to nail the washin'-masheen fast to the floor, so it can't get away, an' then set down on it good an' hard."

BEAUTIFUL FLOORS

The floor plays an important part in the beauty, or lack of beauty, of every room in your home.

The material of your floors matters not so much as the care given them. The most costly floor if neglected will become discolored and unattractive. Whether your floors are hard wood, soft wood, tile, composition or linoleum, all may be attractive if properly cared for.

Care Necessary

Daily attention to floors is necessary if they are to be kept most beautiful. Never wait until the finish has become worn and discolored but rather spend a little time each day to maintain them in their best manner. In the long run many hours as well as dollars may be saved.

The finish of your floors, whatever the material may be, should be wax or varnish. Even painted floors will wear longer and look better if protected by one of these finishes. The use of a thin coating of wax on linoleum, composition or even genuine tile flooring will lessen the frequency of washings as the hard polished surface of the wax repels dirt and prevents it from being ground into the floor.

There is no floor material as nice as hardwood from the point of view of upkeep as well as beauty. With daily care hard wood floors become more beautiful with age. They are well worth the added expense for they will give permanent satisfaction and the cost of upkeep will be very small.

Washing Floors

Scrubbing or mopping with water should be very seldom necessary in the care of floors except perhaps in the kitchen. When water must be used care should be taken in the choice of soaps. Choose a mild soap, free from caustic alkali. A good lingerie soap or that prepared for washing automobiles is recommended. The least possible amount of water should be used and as each area is washed it should be wiped dry. This applies particularly to wood floors because if water is used too liberally the boards may swell, warp and separate, leaving unsightly cracks and ridges. Immediately after the floor is dry it should be waxed, or if the floor is a varnished one it should be oiled.

Daily Care

Whatever the finish of your floors daily care is essential. First remove all loose dirt and lint with a broom. Unless there are children or the house faces a dusty road this may not be necessary oftener than once a week. Follow the sweeping with a dust mop or chemical mop. Chemical preparations, much better for your floors than soap and water, are on the market and are not expensive as such a small quantity is required.

The Varnished Floor

After being cleaned varnished floors should be oiled with an oil mop. Let a greasy film be left on the floor the oil should be used very sparingly. If any dust is left on the floor it will mingle with the oil and form ugly black spots.

Varnish should not be allowed to wear through because it cannot be patched. If it does wear through it is necessary to remove the varnish from the entire length of the boards affected, with a commercial varnish remover, and refinish the entire area. To avoid this a light coat of varnish should be applied yearly, at least along the paths of heaviest traffic.

Waxing

All floors except varnished ones should be kept waxed. This should be done every week or ten days and the floor dusted each day.

The original wax coat is of paste wax employed as directed on the can. This finish can be successfully patched whenever it shows signs of wear. Except for patching the paste wax need be used only every year or so, if the floors are given the best of care.

For the weekly waxing use a dry mop wrapped in cheesecloth. From time to time moisten the cheesecloth by dipping it in a saucer of liquid wax. After about a half an hour polish well with a weighted brush or felt polisher. If you have no weighted brush substitute a brick wrapped with a clean piece of old carpet. The wax should not be applied too generously or it will not harden properly and will hold rather than repel dirt.

Simple daily care of floors will keep all of your floors at their best and make drastic cleaning measures unnecessary.

On the Farm

Decision to launch a state-wide advertising campaign to increase the consumption of milk products of all kinds produced in Washington was reached at a meeting of leaders of Washington's dairy industry at the Seattle Chamber of Commerce Wednesday, March 19. The campaign will be linked up with a nation-wide program in which 39 states are now actively identified. Mr. L. W. Hanson, State Dairy Inspector of Seattle, was appointed chairman to initiate the work in this state, and he has selected committeemen in each county to assist him.

The work will be carried on through the Washington Dairy Products Bureau, organized to conduct the advertising and publicity work. A temporary board of twenty-one trustees, composed of manufacturers, producers, distributors, brokers, and one representative from the State Department of Agriculture, was elected at the meeting to direct the work during the preliminary stages. A minimum fund of $45,000 is to be raised by assessment of a tenth of a cent on every pound of butter fat produced in the state.

The meeting was called by L. F. Powers of Spokane, President of the Washington Creamery Operators' Association; and Professor E. V. Ellington, Extension Service, Washington State College, acted as chairman of the conference. The Seattle Chamber of Commerce's State Development Committee, the State Department of Agriculture, and the State Chamber of Commerce, cooperated with the dairymen in effecting the organization.

The advertising is to be carried on through the state newspapers and radio, and will be confined to Washington.

NITROGEN PROVES BEST FERTILIZER FOR WHEAT

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE, Pullman, March 27.—Nitrogen seems to be the first limiting plant food, followed closely by phosphorus, according to experiments performed at the State College of Washington during the past year to determine the fertilizer needs of the predominating soil types in the State. In the wheat growing area receiving more than 15 inches of annual rainfall, nitrogen gave uniformly good response, indicating that the application of nitrogen fertilizers for wheat may give profitable results.

The number of fertilizer trials being studied has been increased from 35 on 18 soil types to 70 on 39 soil types.

STATE CANNING INDUSTRY SHOWS $23,000,000 OUTPUT

(Washington First Service)—Putting tin cans around Washington products—fish, clams, fruits, vegetables—will add $23,000,000 to the value of the total output of manufactured goods in the state in 1929.

There are altogether 152 factories in Washington state engaged in the canning and preserving industry. This is a total of more than 6,100 factories of all kinds in the state, with a 1929 output valued at approximately $700,000,000.

SEA FOODS SHOW GAIN

The canned food output of the state for 1929 will be divided practically fifty-fifty between the fish and clam canneries and the fruit and vegetable canneries. Fruits and vegetables canned in 1929 will show a slight decline on account of the off season. Canned sea foods on the other hand will show a small increase.

Canning was one of the four original manufacturing industries listed in the first government census of Washington factories in 1860. The output in that year was $63,497, accounted for entirely by six so-called fisheries. Three of these were salmon fisheries, two located at Cathlamet and one at Grand Mound. One was an oyster fishery located in Pacific county. The other two were designated only as fisheries—one at Skamania, the other in Pacific county.

OUTPUT INCREASED RAPIDLY

In the next decade canning literally "went on the rocks." No output was reported by the government in 1870. In 1880 the value of output was given as $500. In the next 10 years this value jumped to more than half a million dollars. And from 1890 to 1900 it increased to better than five millions.

Although the highest value in output of canned goods in the state was reached in 1925, that year is not considered a "peak" year. It is almost certain that the slowing down of progress in the industry has been only temporary—due to crop failures, partial crops and other conditions.

Canning is destined to continue as one of Washington's "10 leading industries." It now ranks eighth in value of annual output.

Track Season Under Way

The track squad, although it is rather small, is rounding into shape very rapidly. Last Friday the distance men were sent over a 660 yard course with good results. The track was very slow and a downpour of rain handicapped the runners.

Tommy Whalen is much faster this year than he was last, and pre-season dope looks as though he will take both the shorter sprints in the county meet, May 3. "Stork" Edmondson is giving the platter the longest rtpis it has ever had, barring its trip to Mount Vernon in a car. He has already sailed it 117 feet and is throwing it consistently around 112 and 114. The distance men, Fisher, Engle, Stoddard, Schulke and McKay are stepping their respective distances in fine style. Davies, sprint star, is rather slow in getting into shape this season but should be in top form when the meets start.

Meets with Stanwood, Ferndale, Townsend and Mount Vernon are in the offing and at least two will be scheduled.

Junior Prom Big Success

And now it's all over! But we know that the 1930 Rainbow Ball will stay long in the memories of those who attended.

We had only to enter the door and lo! We were in Fairy-land. All the colors of the rainbow were floating about us, and we were almost tempted to pick the gorgeous flowers that were so temptingly growing in the corners and—just around.

The girls in formal and semi-formal dresses of lovely spring colors, seemed to carry out the rainbow idea. Fine music was furnished by the Success Business College orchestra of Seattle.

About sixty couples attended. The patrons and patronesses were Messrs. and Meses. Norman Benson, Robert Davies, Ronald Race, James Zylstra, Fred Arnold and Ray Willard.

VISITOR

Myrtle Mathews, who has attended the Coupeville high school for three and one-half years, visited here Friday, March 21. Everyone was glad to see her, and we all hope she will visit us again.

CARD OF THANKS

The Senior class wishes to thank the Juniors for putting this prom on in honor of them. It certainly was a wonderful tribute to the upper-classmen.
