Butte, Montana, Rioters For Time Control City

Butte, Mont.—An attempt to lynch two special deputy sheriffs, efforts to throttle the newspapers, intimidation of the fire department of the city and general rioting featured the Monday disturbance brought about the schism in the Miners' Union, which became wide Sunday during the celebration of the organization's 34th anniversary and was capped by the dynamiting of the homes of two officers of the union by insurgents.

Early in the afternoon a crowd took two prisoners from the jail; later took possession of an aerial fire truck, which was moved through the street by the city authorities in an effort to disperse the crowds, and threats to lynch Special Deputies Owen Cribben and Martin Harkins, failed to materialize only when police, with drawn guns, rescued the two men and backed down an alley with them.

Two miners who had threatened the lynching were arrested and taken from the mob by the same stroke that saved the deputies and were placed in the jail, but later the mob became so menacing that Chief of Police Jere Murphy ordered the two prisoners released. The crowd carried the two away on their shoulders.

When the city attempted to move the fire truck through the streets on a false alarm the rioters climbed into the machine and began to run it, but gave it back to the firemen after cautioning them not to attempt again to run through the crowd in the street.

Delegations went to two fire stations and told the firemen not to take machines from the building until they were certain there was a fire. The crowd followed the machine back to the station, broke several windows and did minor damage.

The remainder of the day was spent in parading the streets until the members of the newly-appointed executive committee of the insurgent miners, constituting themselves a law and order committee, informed the agitators that no more disorder would be tolerated, and succeeded in dispersing the gathering, the miners going to their homes.

A delegation visited the three newspaper offices and demanded that no further mention be made derogatory to the I. W. W. and that the words "mob" and "rioters" not appear in any newspaper story.

Ex-Vice Pres't Stevenson Dies While Unconscious

Chicago—Adlai E. Stevenson, vice president of the United States through the second Cleveland administration, died here late Monday at a hospital after an illness of several months.

His three children were at his bedside when death came.

Mr. Stevenson was 78 years old. His last illness followed a five months' vigil at the bedside of his wife who died six months ago. Mr. Stevenson suffered a nervous breakdown, and a month ago he came to Chicago from his home at Bloomington, Ill., for treatment. His condition gradually became worse and he entered a hospital. The burden of his years and the oppressive heat of the last week contributed to the fatal termination of his illness.

He became unconscious Sunday morning and was revived long enough to recognize relatives, then relapsed. He was unconscious at the end.

The three children who survive him were at his bedside.

Sale of Two Battleships May Involve United States

Washington, D. C.—The United States is in danger of becoming involved in a serious controversy with Turkey as a result of the proposal of Secretary Daniels to sell the two battleships Idaho and Mississippi to Greece.

The Turkish ambassador, in accordance with instructions of his government, has addressed inquiries on the subject to Secretary Bryan, and has made it clear that these vessels will be used against his country if transferred to the Grecian flag. Naturally this would be resented by the Turkish people. Inquiries also have been made by certain European nations which believe that if the Greek navy should not be increased peace would be preserved.

It is known here that Greece will not initiate war against Turkey until she obtains possession of two American battleships. The moment the Grecian flag is hoisted over these craft that moment she will take hostile measures against her historic antagonist.

Fight Is Man's Nemesis.

San Francisco—Joseph Jones, a carpenter, entered a grocery store Monday, quarreled with a clerk, swung his fist at him, missed the blow and, losing his balance, struck his head on a stone coping and was killed, according to the findings of the police. The police had first arrested the clerk on a charge of manslaughter, but later released him.

Will Launch Campaign To Settle New Lands

Spokane—For the purpose of launching a campaign to settle lands of all classes in the Inland Empire, a conference of land owners, business men, bankers and railway officials will be held in Spokane June 29 and 30 at the call of the immigration committee of the Spokane chamber of commerce.

This committee has outlined a definite program which will be presented to the conference. The main features of this plan are:

First—Quantities of land of all classes must be definitely listed at reasonable prices, with those prices good for 18 months, with the agreement that the land can be sold on the 10-year payment plan, with interest on the deferred payments at six per cent.

Second—Classified lists of thousands of these farms must be printed and circulated through the railroad and other agencies, giving details about each farm and the name and address of the agent or owner. This must be backed up by personal work in the Middle West and to some extent in Northern Europe.

"The Spokane chamber of commerce is willing to assume the responsibility in such a campaign, provided we have the co-operation of all parts of Eastern Washington, Northern Idaho and Western Montana," state Secretary Gordon C. Corbaley. "The success of this campaign depends on the extent to which the men who own the farm lands realize that the future of their investment depends in large measure on just such a movement. They must realize the value to themselves of selling part of their holdings at reasonable prices on very easy terms in order to get the farmers in the country working on the methods that will lead the way to better prices.

"For several months a committee of the chamber of commerce has been investigating the causes leading up to the lack of immigration into the Inland Empire. This investigation shows this condition to be the result of two things, as follows:

"First—Lack of definite information as to quantities of land that can be sold on easy terms at prices that can be backed up with facts and figures that will show them to be cheap.

"Second—Lack of a definite immigration campaign by the various commercial organizations that will furnish literature and personal assistance in the colonization work of the railroads.

"We believe that this situation can be remedied by a co-operative campaign in which all parts of the Inland Empire shall share, and in which available lands shall be listed for sale on reasonable terms and prices. The kind of farmers we need can not be attracted by bonanza stories of land that can be bought for a song and sold almost over night at wonderful profits. The days of wild speculation in farm lands have passed. We have reached the time of a solid business basis where we must go after immigration in a co-operative manner and by presenting the real facts.

"Conditions are ripe for such a campaign, for with the completion of the Panama canal and the great travel across the continent [to San Francisco next year, there is laid the foundation for a new movement toward this section of the country."

"Mule Day" Prizes Given At Reardan Stock Show

Reardan—With only one accident of a minor nature and in the presence of 4000 visitors, the annual "Mule Day" was held here. The stock show brought out the best exhibit in that line ever seen in this section. The first prize of $15 for the best six-year-old team was won by Mann brothers, the second prize of $10 by F. B. Barnard. R. McKay had the best team of driving mules, winning $7.50, Ray Kirby of Deer Park, taking second money of $5. L. M. Lang received first money of $5 and Raymond Miller second of $2.50 for the best two-year-old mule. Wagner Bros. were the owners of the best yearling mule.

The special prize of a set of mule bridles, given by H. A. Bostwick harness shop, Spokane, for the best span of mules of 1200 pounds and over, went to G. M. Hein.

J. J. Bartholomew showed the best six-horse team, winning $15, and C. P. Evans of Deer Park the best driving team, receiving $7.50.

In the Holstein cattle exhibit R. S. Nelson of Espanola captured the major portion of the prizes. George Gunning and J. A. W. Buchanan received first money of $7.50 for the best Jersey black cow, and $7 for the best Jersey bull.

John Smith, Reardan's oldest pioneer received the prize of $7.50 for the most unique feature in the parade, appearing as the old-time prospector with complete outfit of pack horses, etc.

John Meyer, with an immense artificial mule mounted on wheels and towed by an automobile, received the prize of $15 for the best float. Aviator Smith of the McClelland Aviation company made two beautiful flights.

There was a splendid exhibition of bucking horses and fancy riding, while trotting races, running races, foot races and other contests were on the program.

Pasco's Socialist Mayor Hands in Resignation

Pasco—Pasco's Socialist mayor has resigned, and there is considerable speculation as to who his successor will be. The socialists have been unable to agree upon a man. The council is composed of four Socialists and three anti-Socialists. Councilman A. Greame, Socialist, would like to be mayor. Should he muster strength sufficient to elect him the council will be evenly divided. Attorney C. W. Johnson, though never having claimed to be a Socialist, has his hat in the ring, with considerable Socialist backing.

Greame was accused of being traitor to the Socialist cause when he voted for bonds for a $50,000 water right from the Pasco Reclamation company.

Fight Fire Blight Right.

North Yakima—Fruitgrowers of Yakima county will be asked to pay $1 per acre to a fund which the Yakima County Fruit Protective association is raising to fight fire blight. In this way it is hoped to raise $5000 to $7000 in addition to the $4500 recently appropriated by the county commissioners. The contributions will be in the form of long-time notes, which will secure the protective association in its notes to the banks. The banks in turn will cash the labor certificates issued by the state inspectors for the actual work done in cutting out the blight. At meetings in several parts of the county several hundred dollars have already been raised for this purpose, and officers of the county protective association will push the campaign in their respective districts.

Irrigation Deficit Predicted.

North Yakima—Receiver E. F. Benson of the Hanford Irrigation company faces a deficit of $2000 the month during the present irrigation season and has applied to Judge Frank H. Rudkin for issuance of receiver's certificates to pay operation expenses. The estimated deficit by the end of June will be $1300. About $6000 has been collected from water users for this season.

First Peach Shipments Leave Kennewick Early

Kennewick—The Fruit Growers' association shipped the first peaches of the season Friday and officials report that this is the earliest shipment of peaches ever made in the northwest. The dozen boxes shipped were of the Mayflower variety and were grown by D. E. Gould on the highlands. They were billed to Spokane.

Last year's first shipment was made June 25. The association reports that several hundred crates will have been shipped inside of 48 hours.

The fourth straight car of cherries of the season was shipped last week. The car contained 1400 crates, mostly Bings, and was shipped east by the Kennewick Fruit exchange.

Classy Horses for North Yakima.

North Yakima—In spite of conflict with Victoria, B. C., in dates, and in spite of purses there of $2500 and $1000 where the Washington State fair association is offering $1000 and $800, there are 73 trotting and pacing entries in the early closing stakes for the fair this fall, and Dr. Robert Prior, who has charge of live stock and racing, says that they include horses from some of the best racing stables from Manitoba to California. The entries are the most numerous and of the highest class in the history of the association.

Buys 80 Acres Near Garfield.

Garfield—A. L. Ebersole, has traded his Garfield property to G. M. Goss for 80 acres of land three miles south of town. Mr. Ebersole and family will make their home in Walla Walla.

C. D. Westcott has traded his city property and a ranch for a feed mill at Bellingham and is preparing to move his family to that city.

Balance of $200 in Fund.

Pullman—After paying all expenses of the recent encampment of the old soldiers at this place $200 remains in the hands of the committee, which will be returned to the business men who subscribed to the encampment fund.

Spend the Fourth of July at Home

Langley is going to have a celebration that will prove more of a pleasure than anything to be had in a large city. The committee on arrangements believe that ample funds can be secured, as everyone spoken to so far has responded gladly.

Mrs. Manley has taken charge of the singing, which is a guarantee of the best.

We are almost assured that a speaker of state-wide reputation will be here. There will be a fine list of field sports and a game of baseball between two crack teams.

Many of the older people remember with pride the good old picnic celebration, much more pleasing than crowded streets, etc., and we hope that everyone will do all possible to make the day a success.

The committee members are W. A. Hodgins, Dr. Clarke, Oscar Hunziker and A. J. Benton. If you can assist in a financial way, and have not been called on, kindly call at the Islander office or hand your subscription to any one of the committee.

Republican Convention

The republican county convention was held here last Saturday, being called to order by C. H. Lyon, chairman of the county committee.

K. P. Frostadt was elected chairman and J. T. Rogers secretary.

Resolutions were read and adopted reaffirming allegiance to the republican party and the principles and doctrines it stands for.

The following delegates were elected to attend the republican state convention at Tacoma: Luther Weedon, Roy H. Gillespie, Lena Kohne, Coupeville; John Armstrong, San de Fuca; J. T. Rogers, Jerome Ely, Oak Harbor; O. N. Dock, Camano; Ed Howard, Mrs. Funk, Langley; A. P. McCreight, Clinton.

The meeting was a large and enthusiastic one, about forty-two delegates being present, and was harmonious throughout.

Speeches were made by Capt. G. W. Moore of Oak Harbor, Judge Lester Still of Coupeville and K. P. Frostadt of Camano.

Utsaladdy

The L. A. S. will meet at Mrs. Hans Foroe's next Friday.

John Ireland was transacting business in Stanwood Friday.

Mrs. H. P. Olson was visiting Mrs. Sam Mateasen last Sunday.

Will Ireland was transacting business at Camano last Thursday.

Miss Anna Ireland, who has been staying at A. Anderson's for the last week, has now returned home.

The band concert which was given at the Camano Island hall last Saturday evening turned out fine. A large crowd was present.

Miss Vivian Thorsen, who has been visiting relatives in Seattle a couple of weeks, has now returned to her home in Utsaladdy.

Will Ireland, O. N. Dock, Jno. Syngstad, E. Rolfsen, K. P. Frostadt and A. Nelson attended the county convention June 13, to which they were elected delegates.

Take Plenty of Time to Eat

There is a saying that "rapid eating is slow suicide." If you have formed the habit of eating too rapidly you are most likely suffering from indigestion or constipation, which will result eventually in serious illness unless corrected. Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should be thoroughly masticated and insalivated. Then when you have a fullness of the stomach or feel dull and stupid after eating, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets. Many severe cases of stomach trouble and constipation have been cured by the use of these tablets. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect. Sold by all dealers.

Workmen in China's egg receive 10 cents a day.

FORCED SALE

By order of the committee appointed by Mr. Meier, proprietor of this store, after a meeting we came to the final decision that all accumulations for the last eight years in this establishment must be sold out at any cost. If you are not a particular dresser according to style and want good tailored clothes for very little money, in fact for less than the cost of the labor, not figuring the cloth, lining and trimmings, here is an opportunity of a lifetime for the most humble people to be well dressed at these prices.

This Sale Will Include Our Up-to-Date Goods as Well as Those That We Won't Carry Over Any Longer

A Reminder

The Blue Sky law of the State of Washington is very strict in regard to advertising any stock of goods at prices that can't be produced, is a felony and the penalty is a cash fine and a jail sentence, one or both. We can assure you that the proprietor of this store has so far come up to his word and is more than willing to abide by it now. BY COMMITTEE.

Politicians Are Busy

The political fever has hit Langley hard. Meetings of the different parties have been held, each endeavoring to put forth candidates that will prove winners. Just now the republicans are alone in the field, at least as far as a full ticket is concerned. It is expected, however, that the democrats will line up and blossom forth with a full quota of aspirants in the very near future. The socialists held a meeting Wednesday evening, and it is probable they will continue their activity.

Cannery Doing Well

The cannery continues to use all the berries brought in and last Saturday they worked until late in the evening. They have been turning out from ten to fifteen barrels daily. This new enterprise is certainly proving a winner, and inquiries are being received from outside parties, so there is no longer any doubt that all berries grown will find a market. Strawberry canning will continue for several weeks yet.

ON THE ROSSIAN FRONTIER

A LONG the path by the river we heard the slow tramp of heavy military boots. In the breathless silence of the summer evening they rang clear and hollow on the sun-baked soil—Russian soil—and the Russian soldier guarding it constantly stopped and listened intently, as he peered through the dusk over toward the opposite bank, which was Finland. The country on both sides of the river was typically Finnish, for the frontier is only an artificial one—wide stretches of pine forest, broken here and there by sandhills and wooden houses, writes Norman Ebbutt in London Graphic.

As we stood there, Styopan Arsenyevich and I, the soldier came up to us. He wore the field uniform of the Frontier corps, khaki with green facings. Across his back was slung a rifle—loaded—with fixed bayonet.

"Good-day," he said gruffly.

"Good-day," we replied.

He made a step forward, but halted again and turned to us. It was silent and lonely, and the thirst for companionship was upon him.

"Any luck?" he asked, referring to the fishing-rods we carried.

The river was not an ideal one for fishing, and Styopan Arsenyevich held up three small, thin fish on a string—the total result of an afternoon and evening by the river.

Watch for Revolvers.

The soldier laughed.

"Fish tomorrow by the washing-hut yonder; the water's deep there; it's a good place. Yesterday I saw a man catch one there nearly as long as his hand." And he laughed again.

"How long are you on duty?" asked Styopan Arsenyevich.

"Six hours' patrol, six hours for eating and sleeping, then another six hours' duty, and again six for rest. It's a hard life," added the soldier tonelessly.

"What are you watching for?" I asked.

"Smugglers," was the curt reply.

"Yes, I know. But what do they smuggle?"

"Matches," said the soldier. He was being diplomatic in his simple way.

Now the show of force all along the Finnish frontier is not simply intended to prevent the free entrance of a few matches. The reason of this ment, at the beginning of the summer, that nobody would be allowed to cross from one side to the other in boats, as several cases of smuggling had recently occurred. After long negotiations, my host, an officer of high rank, obtained special permission to cross the river "for the purpose of attending church only." His wife took advantage of this the very next day, and Ivan, the dvornik, rowed her over. He was just in mid-stream on his way back when the guard perceived him. "Halt!" he cried, as he unslinging his rifle. Ivan, overcome with fear, lost his head, turned back again, and pulled like a madman for the opposite bank. The soldier promptly fired three times into the air, and after a short interval again three.

By this time, Ivan, having regained his senses, obediently crossed and gave himself up. But the soldier's shot had given the alarm, and roused the frontier, and in a few moments an officer and two troopers galloped up, fully armed. Ivan was taken away to the barracks, shouting, imploring, and protesting with great indignation. In due course he was set free.

Peaceful Afternoon Disturbed.

The explanation of this dramatic scene, which so rudely disturbed a peaceful summer afternoon, was that, it being only the day after the permission was granted, all the soldiers had not yet been informed of the new order.

Our soldier chuckled as he thought of it.

"He was a fool, that man," he remarked. "A big fool. He should have stopped. He might have got a piece of lead in that stupid head of his."

Again I lit my pipe. It was getting late, the sky was peppered with stars, and the silence had grown more breathless than ever, broken only by the jumping of some belated fish not yet asleep. We talked a few minutes longer; the sentry told us how he sat in holes in the bank which he dug out in the soft earth with his bayonet, and watched for hours unseen; and we related how a friend had smuggled over a lot of matches. In spite of his insistence that matches, and matches alone, were the cause of his being there, this information did not seem to interest him. We said "good-night,"

UNIQUE TRAP FOR BURGLARS

Intruder Is Dropped Into Pit, Alighting on Pneumatic Shock Absorbers to Avoid Injury.

A burglar trap, consisting of a false floor constructed in front of the office safe, a counter in a jewelry store or similar places, has been invented by an Englishman, says Popular Mechanics. The floor covers a pit and is supported by projecting pins, so adjusted each night that the weight of a person upon the floor will cause it to fall, dropping the intruder into the pit, where he alights upon springs or pneumatic shock absorbers, provided so that he may not be injured. dropping of the floor operates a lever which causes a sliding floor to close over the mouth of the pit.

FIND MAGNETIC SUN FIELDS

Interpretation Suggested by Prof. George E. Hale of Meaning of Double Lines Confirmed.

Professor Zeeman confirms the interpretation suggested by Prof. George E. Hale of the meaning of the double lines seen in the photographs made at the Mount Wilson observatory of the spectra of sun spots, namely, that sun spots are strong magnetic fields, the direction of which is mainly perpendicular to the sun's surface, says Youth's Companion. The behavior of a spectral line emitted by iron vapor between the poles of an electromagnet, says Professor Zeeman, cannot be distinguished from the radiation of iron vapor immersed in the interior of the solar vortices photographed by Professor Hale, although the latter are situated nearly ninety-three million miles away. If this interpretation is confirmed, Professor Zeeman adds, it will afford a vera causa for the perturbations of the electric and magnetic equilibrium of our earth and its atmosphere.

NOTE DISTANT EARTHQUAKES

Observations Made at Isle of Wight and in Austria Confirmed Next Day by Telegraph.

An interesting example of the way in which modern seismographs record earthquakes occurring at a distance of many thousands of miles is afforded by a recent occurrence. Professor Milne at the Isle of Wight, Eng., noticed shocks whose point of origin was about eighty degrees distant, corresponding to the distance of Japan, San Francisco and Mexico. He thought it probable that the true point was in the east. At the same time Professor Belar, at Laibach, Austria, noticed the shocks, and declared that the center of the disturbance must be about three thousand seven hundred and fifty miles to the east. The next day the telegraph brought the news of a great earthquake, which had occurred at the time of the observations in Baluchistan, Asia, the town of Belpur having suffered severely.

OMELETS IN SEASON

ESPECIALLY APPROPRIATE JUST NOW WITH VEGETABLES.

Finely Chopped Spinach Is One of the Especial Favorites—For Those Fond of Chives—Made With Smoked Fish.

A vegetable omelet especially suited to the season is spread with finely chopped spinach, highly seasoned with paprika, salt and pepper, moistened with butter. To many tastes this is to be preferred to the spinach puree, which results from pressing the boiled spinach through a sieve. This particular omelet was garnished with two mounds of the finely chopped spinach, each one set on a round of fresh tomato which had been sauteed in a little butter. The combination of colors as well as the flavors seemed a little out of the ordinary.

For the lover of chives comes an omelet in which finely chopped chives are sprinkled generously through the egg mixture before cooking. There is no filling in this form of omelet, but with it is served a spoonful of rich cream sauce, yellow with the yolk of an egg and with chopped chives sprinkled in two crossing lines over its surface, forming a pretty garnish to the dish.

Sorrel, that special delight of the French, is also an excellent addition to the omelet. It is generally used in the form of a puree for the filling of the omelet and also as a garnish around it. This is a piquant bit of flavoring not sufficiently used in this country but easily found at any green grocer's, especially in a foreign quarter of the city.

A plain omelet mixture into which is beaten finely chopped parsley, chives and sorrel results in a savory dish, which because of its green tone, is appropriately garnished with overlapping rings of green peppers which have been either parboiled or sauteed. This makes an attractive dish for luncheon or supper, and if something more elaborate is desired a spoonful of thick cream sauce may be placed within each alternating ring of green pepper.

The combination of smoked or salted fish is another surprise in the way of a new omelet. Smoked salmon is particularly appetizing to use in this way and is being served in flakes beaten through the entire omelet or mixed with cream sauce into a smooth paste and used as a filling and garnish. Flakes of salt codfish, browned in a little butter and scattered over the surface of the omelet just before folding, also give an unusual flavor, relished by the somewhat critical spring appetite.

The Moth Evil.

Moths deposit their eggs in spring. This, therefore, is the time to put away furs and woollens for the summer. It is not the moth, but the maggot of the moth that does the mischief. To effectually preserve them from the ravages of these insects thoroughly beat the furs with a thin rattan, and air them for several hours; then carefully comb them with a clean comb, wrap them up in newspapers (moths dislike the printing ink of newspapers) perfectly tight, and put them away in a thoroughly tight chest, lined with tin or cedar wood.

They should be taken out and examined in the sun at least once a month.

Camphor is said to be one of the best preventives as well as the oldest known.

Rag-o-Muffins.

Three cups flour, four level teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons sugar, about three-fourths cup milk, one-half teaspoonful cinnamon, one-half cupful currants or chopped raisins, two tablespoons butter. Mix as for biscuits. Roll out to one-fourth inch thickness in a long sheet, brush with butter and sprinkle with fruit, sugar and cinnamon. Roll like a jelly roll. Cut off pieces three-fourths inch in thickness. Bake in buttered tin in hot oven and about fifteen or eighteen minutes.

Poor Man's Stew.

Line bottom of baking dish with very thin slices of salt pork, then a layer of sliced potatoes (thin layer), a layer of split crackers. Put in another layer of potatoes, onions and crackers. Cover with milk and bake like escalloped potatoes. You probably will have to add more milk, as crackers take up a lot.

Potato Puff.

Melt a dessertspoonful of butter in a cup of hot milk, add two cupfuls of cold mashed potatoes and beat until light, then add one egg and two tablespoons of grated cheese, with a pinch of salt and dash of pepper to season, and then beat again thoroughly. Pour into a baking dish and bake a nice brown.

Potato Straws.

Pare and cut raw potatoes into slices one-quarter of an inch thick; cut these into narrow strips or straws and soak in cold water an hour. Dry on a cloth and fry in deep hot fat until crisp and well colored. Drain on paper and sprinkle with salt. Serve with chops.

To Freshen Black Kid Gloves.

Mix a teaspoonful of salad oil with a few drops of black ink. Apply with a feather and then dry the gloves in the sun.

BITS OF CARPETS FOR RUGS

Odds and Ends That Are of No Use Make Artistic Coverings for the Floor.

"What on earth are you going to do with those bits of carpet?" asked the family friend who had just dropped in to find the housemistress making up a bulky package of odds and ends of floor-covering, chiefly the results of redittings occasioned by the migration.

"Going to have them made into rugs," replied her friend, poking a recalcitrant bit of Brussels back into the bundle. "I've discovered a man who makes the most bewitching ones you ever saw out of just such bits as these—or out of old carpets, either, provided they are not rotten or moth-eaten. He first unravels the web of the carpet, and then weaves it up again in hit or miss fashion, and the results—as the phrase goes—simply 'beggar description.' Why, Mrs. B. has a nursery rug that he made for her out of odds and ends such as these, and it's really beautiful, besides being delightfully thick and warm. In fact, it's just like a new carpet.

"You've no idea how artistically the blues and reds and yellows and moss greens blend when they are woven together without any regard for pattern. And, of course, as the pieces are of absolutely no use for anything else, it's practically clear gain, especially as the cost of making is hardly more than that of weaving a rag carpet."

MEANT FOR THE VEGETARIAN

Substantial and Savory Meatless Recipe Served With Brown Gravy or Tomato Sauce.

Housekeepers may be glad to know of this meatless recipe, which will be found very substantial:

Make one pint of bean or lentil pulp by soaking and boiling half a pint of dried beans or lentils, then putting them through a potato ricer or colander to remove the skins. Take half a pint of strained, rather thick canned tomato and get all the pulp, but no seeds, through the colander; one pint of nut meal; two raw eggs; one pint of browned flour; one small minced onion; one tablespoonful of minced parsley.

Season highly with sage, sweet marjoram, celery salt, pepper and paprika and add one gill of sweet milk. Mix all thoroughly. Put the mixture into a well greased baking dish or turk's head; brown in a quick oven, allowing it to be in about twenty minutes.

Turn the roast out on a flat meat platter, serve hot, with brown gravy or tomato sauce.

Superior Bread Pudding.

One and one-half cupful of white sugar, two cupfuls of fine dry bread crumbs, five eggs, one teaspoonful of butter, vanilla, rose water or lemon flavoring, one quart of fresh rich milk and half a cupful of jelly or jam. Rub the butter into a cupful of sugar, beat the yolks very light and stir these together to a cream. The bread crumbs soaked in milk are added and then the flavoring. Bake in a buttered pudding dish (a large one) until the crust is "set." Draw to the mouth of the oven, spread over with jam or jelly. Cover with a meringue made of the stiff whites and half a cupful of sugar. Shut the oven and bake until the meringue begins to color. Eat with cold cream. In strawberry season, substitute a pint of fresh fruit for the preserves.

Potatoes in Southern Style.

Six large sweet potatoes, three tablespoons of butter, four tablespoons of sugar. Cook the potatoes in their skins until tender, remembering that sweet potatoes must be cooked slowly. Cut them in rather thick slices and lay them in a greased baking dish, sprinkling with the sugar and adding the butter between the layers. Bake half an hour in a moderate oven and serve in the same dish in which they were baked.

Asparagus on Toast.

Tie a bunch of asparagus up with soft string when you have cut away the woody ends, and cook about twenty-five minutes in salted boiling water. Have ready some slices of crustless toast; dip each in the asparagus liquor. Butter well while hot and lay upon heated dish. Drain the asparagus and arrange upon the toast. Pepper, salt and butter generously.

Chicken Livers With Bacon.

Clean the livers and cut each liver in six pieces. Wrap a thin slice of bacon around each piece and fasten with a small skewer. Put in a broiler, place over a dripping pan and bake in a hot oven until the bacon is crisp, turning once during the cooking.

Cleaning Hint.

I have found, writes a contributor to Modern Priscilla, that gasoline will not make a circle on material if it is mixed with cornmeal. Rub the spot with the saturated cornmeal until the spot disappears, then brush thoroughly.

For Stains on Mahogany.

Use oxalic acid and water, rubbing it in with a clean cork until the stain disappears. Mahogany may be polished with a flannel cloth dipped in sweet or cold drawn linseed oil.

For Your Chandeliers.

Try cleaning chandeliers with vinegar and salt, rubbing vigorously. Wash off this cleanser, for if left on the metal will tarnish. Brighten with tripoli and sweet oil.

SHOW COUNTRY IN INFANCY

Films of Patriotic Order Depict Scenes of Interest to the Youngsters.

A photo play depicting the strife between the early colonists and the Indians, and conflicts of the Revolution, the story of which centers about the famous Revolutionary leader, Francis Marion, will be presented in motion picture theaters. This drama, entitled, "Francis Marion; the Swamp Fox," is in three parts, and presents exciting battle scenes between the colonials and the British soldiers, as well as hand-to-hand conflicts engaged in by the settlers and the Indians. In these scenes hundreds of men participate.

A secret love affair between the hero and the daughter of a settler, which has its inception, when the former rescues the girl from the Indians, is interwoven in this story, culminating happily after the surrender of Cornwallis.

The opening scene of the play shows Cherokee Indians attack the cabin of Jacques Videau, setting the cabin on fire and killing all the occupants, as they flee from the flames, save the daughter, Mary, whom they make a prisoner. Francis Marion, at the head of a band of settlers, defeats and routs the savages, rescuing Mary and placing the orphaned girl in the care of his sister. Marion falls in love with Mary, but because indications point to a romance between her and Gabriel, his nephew, Marion conceals his affection.

When war is declared between the colonies and Great Britain Francis Marion organizes a body of troops and offers the services of his regiment to Gen. Gates, but that officer declines to enlist them. They adopt the first American flag, the rattlesnake design, with the inscription underneath, "Don't Tread on Me." Marion and his men create terror in the British lines by appearing and attacking when and where they are least expected and doing much damage.

Lord Cornwallis who has become worried because of the American commander's activity sends Col. Tarleton, known as "The Butcher," to capture "The Swamp Fox," but the latter is warned of the red coats' approach and escapes with his men. Tarleton finding his quarry gone raids the home of Marion's sister, driving the inmates from the house, with the exception of Mary. The British officers then occupy the house.

Marion's men attack the British camp and set fire to Marion's house with burning arrows, driving out the redcoat officers and defeating the English force. Mary is rescued from the blaze and learns that Gabriel was killed in the fray.

Two months later, after the surrender of Cornwallis, Marion returns to his home. Believing that Mary was in love with his nephew, he offers her his sympathy for her bereavement, but to his surprise Mary embraces him and, knowing that he is too diffident to propose, she "pops the question" herself. For a moment Marion is bewildered, but he soon recovers from the happy shock and takes her in his arms.

Classic in "Movies."

Within the last year there has been much activity in the producing of famous books and modern stage successes as motion pictures, but so far few attempts have been made to put the classic English dramas on the screen. There is therefore considerable interest in the production of "She Stoops to Conquer" as a motion picture. To put a play in which there is such a constant succession of brilliant dialogue into the silent drama seems rather startling at first, but, judging by reports, the scheme has proved a success.

The film was first shown in London a few nights ago, and dispatches state that several of the most conservative London papers reviewed the work favorably. It will probably be imported and shown in this country at an early date, although definite information on this point is not available at present.

WHERE RUSSIA AND FINLAND MEET

amazing "inland" frontier is explained by one word—revolvers. Revolvers are bad enough in Finland anyway, without the Russian revolutionaries being supplied with them by their Finnish brothers. That is why, when the train from Finland enters the frontier station of Bielyostrov, gendarmes, armed with swords and revolvers, line up along the whole length of the platform. That is why a soldier of the Frontier corps, with loaded rifle and bayonet fixed, walks up and down the line so that there shall be no escape on the off-side. Here, right in Russia itself, is a line guarded by the same corps, which forms, as it were, a ring of steel round the whole country.

If one comes by road it is the same. At the Russian end of the bridge across the river stands a sentry-box and a guardhouse. Crossing the bridge from Finland one is obliged to pass directly in front of the sentry, who, at a word from his sergeant, orders you to halt. He then runs his hands carefully all over you, feeling the shape of each object in your pockets. Looking for matches? No, for revolvers. I have seen, on the table of the officer commanding at Bielyostrov, a pile of twenty or thirty revolvers, confiscated from travelers.

But of all this, nothing from our friend who patrolled the river. "Matches," he said, and one had to be content with that.

I took out a box of matches and lighted my pipe.

We spoke of an occasion when our dvornik (gardener and general servant) was arrested. There had been much dissatisfaction at the announcement, at the beginning of the summer, that nobody would be allowed to cross from one side to the other in boats, as several cases of smuggling had recently occurred. After long negotiations, my host, an officer of high rank, obtained special permission to cross the river "for the purpose of attending church only." His wife took advantage of this the very next day, and Ivan, the dvornik, rowed her over. He was just in mid-stream on his way back when the guard perceived him. "Halt!" he cried, as he unslinging his rifle. Ivan, overcome with fear, lost his head, turned back again, and pulled like a madman for the opposite bank. The soldier promptly fired three times into the air, and after a short interval again three.

By this time, Ivan, having regained his senses, obediently crossed and gave himself up. But the soldier's shot had given the alarm, and roused the frontier, and in a few moments an officer and two troopers galloped up, fully armed. Ivan was taken away to the barracks, shouting, imploring, and protesting with great indignation. In due course he was set free.

Peaceful Afternoon Disturbed.

The explanation of this dramatic scene, which so rudely disturbed a peaceful summer afternoon, was that, it being only the day after the permission was granted, all the soldiers had not yet been informed of the new order.

Our soldier chuckled as he thought of it.

"He was a fool, that man," he remarked. "A big fool. He should have stopped. He might have got a piece of lead in that stupid head of his."

Again I lit my pipe. It was getting late, the sky was peppered with stars, and the silence had grown more breathless than ever, broken only by the jumping of some belated fish not yet asleep. We talked a few minutes longer; the sentry told us how he sat in holes in the bank which he dug out in the soft earth with his bayonet, and watched for hours unseen; and we related how a friend had smuggled over a lot of matches. In spite of his insistence that matches, and matches alone, were the cause of his being there, this information did not seem to interest him. We said "good-night,"

Democrats Meet

The Wilson-Marshall club of Langley held a meeting at Langley June 13, 1914, for the purpose of urging the democrats of the county to place a full ticket in the field for the 1914 election. It was resolved as the expression of the club that candidates for the offices of county commissioner and state representative be filled by Langley and near-by people, and that candidates for the other county and state offices be filled by the democrats of Oak Harbor, Coupeville, San de Fuca, Clinton, Camano and other precincts of the county.

The Value of Birds

New light is shed on the activities of birds as conservers of the public health in a communication to the National Geographical society, at Washington, D. C., from Henry W. Henshaw, chief of the biological survey. The survey for a considerable period has been studying the foods of birds by examining the stomachs of specimens killed for scientific purpose.

"The value of birds to the farmer is plain enough, but we do not usually think of birds as having any direct relation to the public health," writes Mr. Henshaw. "To prove that they do, however, it is only necessary to state that 500 mosquitoes have been found in the stomach of a single night-hawk; that in a killdeer's stomach hundreds of the larvae of the saltmarsh mosquito have been found, and that many shore birds greedily devour mosquito larvae. As mosquitoes are known to carry the germs of such serious diseases as typhoid, malaria and dengue fever, it is evident that by destroying such germs the birds are conferring a distinct benefit on man. It may be added that not infrequently ticks are eaten by birds and that the tick which is responsible for the spread of Texas fever among cattle has been frequently found in the stomach of a bobwhite."

True Story at Last

Socrates had been condemned to death, and his disciples were gathered around him. The fatal cup of hemlock was at his elbow.

He smiled, raised the goblet and spoke gently and wisely of immortality. In the deep silence that greeted his words nothing could be heard but the busy scratching of Plato's pen, as he saved this dainty copy for posterity.

Then, as Socrates raised the cup to his lips a sob broke the silence.

"Why, how is it with thee, Crito?" asked the master. "Why weepst thou?"

"Ah, master!" replied Crito brokenly. "Ah, that thou shouldst have such a bitter draught to drink!"

"Be of good cheer, my Crito," smiled Socrates. "Where is thy philosophy? Think you—it might have been one of these coffee substitutes which are being advertised about Athens!"

And the cup might have contained nectar so eagerly did he toss it off!

There is a point at which forbearance ceases to be a virtue, and the indications are that the people of England have about reached it. If they haven't, the militants will soon drive them to it.

Among those who deeply deplore the unseemly attempts of newspapers to hurry the A. B. C. mediators in the discharge of their important duties may be mentioned the Niagara Falls hotelkeepers.

Original Enough

Abe Williams, a native of Rhode Island, always craved originality, and when his wife died he adhered to his principles and had an original epitaph inscribed on her headstone, "Lord She Was Thine," was the idea he hit upon. He had his own ideas of space between words and the size of the letters, and gave instructions to the stone mason. The latter carried them out all right, except that he could not get the "e" in Thine.

Great Variety in Taffeta Gowns

ON the street a greater number of light wool dresses are worn than any other. But for indoor wear gowns of taffeta outnumber all others in about the proportion of two to one. One has only to take note at the matinee, the afternoon tea, or any other demidress occasion to find how strong is the liking for this material. As the weather grows warmer it would not be surprising to find the taffeta gown, with short jacket, outnumbering cloth suits for street wear.

It is a sensible plan, when making up a taffeta dress, to make two waists. One, having the body and sleeves of lace, with some sort of drape of the taffeta, and one of taffeta finished with sleeve ruffles of net or lace and wired flaring collar. This widens its opportunities for usefulness so much that one gown comes very near to fitting all occasions.

Skirts of taffeta are provided with tunics long and short, with slight bustle drapery and with apron overskirts draped in the back. For decoration, one may look for inspiration to the gowns of the sixties, made of the same charming fabric. There are box and knife platings, ruchings and bound edges. Occasionally ruchings with pinked edges. In keeping with the material the garnitures are quaint and "old-timey."

Besides plain taffetas, and in the better grades of the fabric, there are designs showing widely scattered figures (usually little flower forms) on a plain ground. And in the lighter colors particularly, there are many beautiful, changeable effects.

A French and an American model are shown here, both in plain taffeta, as it happens, but even more effective in the changeable silk. The American gown has a let-in sleeve, although it has a kimono sleeve effect. The long "V" shaped opening at the neck is finished with a ruffled puff of the taffeta. Under this there is a frill of black lace-edged net. The sleeves—elbow length—are finished with a double ruffle taffeta with a frill of the black net falling from them.

The short tunic is side plaited and trimmed with narrow ruffles gathered on to form deep scallops. There are two rows of this narrow ruffling. The underskirt is plain.

In the French gown the tunic is longer and fuller and caught up at the right side. It is finished with a ruffle and drawn in about the knees. The very ample neck opening is supplied with two folds of white net.

With this gown the narrow neckband and bracelets of velvet ribbon give a pretty finishing touch.

Hats For the Business Girl

ALTHOUGH hats this year are more trimmed, and may be described as "fancier," than for many seasons past, there are numbers of smart, simply trimmed, plain shapes, suitable for street wear.

And if it may be observed (to the credit of our good taste) that no matter how strong the tendency to "fussiness" in styles American women so insistently demand simplicity in street apparel, that they get it. They have managed, or their tailors have managed, the present over-elaborated styles so that they look trim and graceful in tailored costumes that indicate rather than follow the modes.

Tailored hats of today indulge in the pretty gaiety of color that marks the season in other directions. They are made in all colors. Half of the whole number may be black, but these are enlivened with colored trimmings. Even in all-black hats (there are few of these) the high-luster surfaces of straw and lacquered ribbon, the metallic surfaces of the trimmings designed for them, lift them out of the common-places and make them brilliant.

A group of beautiful street hats shown in the picture, gives an inkling of the style and variety one may find in these tailored hats. They are made of milan hemp, and blocked into shape, but are soft and flexible. There is nothing rigid looking about even the plainest one.

In this particular group, fancy feathers and wings, with a little ribbon, furnish the trimming. There are numbers of novelties manufactured for trimming tailored hats. Pompons of ostrich feathers, or silk fibre, and many fancy ornaments which combine feathers and silk fibre are conspicuous among them.

If you are a business girl choose a tailored hat for daily wear. It may be daring in shape, gay in color, and in one or the other of these particulars it should be unusual. It may be all black, but so full of snap that it will strike everyone like a cool breeze on a hot day. Just see to it that it has style, and suits your own style, and the trick of wearing the most becoming of all hats will be turned. The last day of that hat will be better than the first, for it will have become endeared to you.

INDUSTRY AND MECHANICS

OUTPUT OF ARTIFICIAL SILK

Last Year 590,800 Pounds Were Used in One German Town for Manufacture of Men's Ties.

The organization here, now in progress, of a $500,000 company to manufacture artificial silk from cotton gives an added interest to recent figures in consular reports covering the artificial silk industry.

There is little doubt that Germany now heads the list both in production and consumption of artificial silk. Last year 590,800 pounds were used in Krefeld alone, chiefly in the manufacture of men's ties, whereas only 7,700 pounds were consumed by Swiss manufacturers. The total valuation of goods made from artificial silk in Lyons last year is estimated at not more than $386,000.

The German silk trade showed increased interest in the product in 1906, when prices were reduced from $2.15-$2.37 a pound to $1.72-$1.83. The piece goods trade uses chiefly the finer qualities, nitrocellulose silk being almost exclusively employed, while the velvet manufacturers take the coarser qualities, principally viscose silks.

During the last three years the price of nitrocellulose silk has ranged between $1.27 and $1.56 a pound, and that of viscose silk between $1.29 and $1.40.

SAFETY FOR GASOLINE CAN

Danger of Fire Avoided by Placing Receptacle on Device Arranged Outside of Window.

The peril of fire, always present when gasoline is kept in quantities within factories or shops, may be in large measure avoided by the use of an outdoor attachment recently patented. The can, which is of the ordinary pump type, swings on a hinged support fastened outside the window. A lever arrangement worked from the inside brings the can around in easy reach when wanted, or swings it back again out of the way. The can is fitted with a hinged cover, excluding rain, snow or dust.

OLD SHOES ARE USED AGAIN

Leather Pulp Utilized by Decorators and Carriage Builders—Pressed Into Thin Sheets.

Old boots and shoes which, when quite past wearing by anyone, find their way into our dustbins are extremely valuable, and find their way again into our houses in most artistic forms, London Globe states. They are soaked in water to remove the dirt, all the nails and threads are picked out and the leather reduced to a thick pulp, from which wall papers, screens, etc., are made. The finer the original quality of the leather the better it takes the bronze and old gold of the designs which make these hangings things of beauty. Bookbinders and framemakers also know the value of this pulp, and carriage builders press it into sheets, which are invaluable for the roofs of the most luxurious vehicles.

Economy of Material.

Economy of material was the explanation of the erection of a house in Los Angeles in which every part was made of concrete in the same forms they would have been if made of wood, then nailed or wired together.

Improving Etchings.

Apparatus has been invented for forcing a jet of compressed air into the acid bath in the manufacture of newspaper etchings, which is said to improve them by keeping the acid in motion and removing metal particles.

Sulphur in Louisiana.

Since a process for recovering sulphur from beneath quicksand was put into operation in Louisiana in 1904 more than 2,330,000 tons of refined product have been recovered.

Re-inking Ribbons.

For office use there has been invented a machine for re-inking ribbons for typewriters, adding machines and other such devices.

For Melting Concrete.

By using the oxyacetylene torch in building wrecking concrete is melted and made to run like butter under the heat of the sun.

Sheathing Vise Jaws.

Sheet aluminum is better than either brass or copper for sheathing vise jaws when soft metals are handled.

AVERAGE COST OF RAISING DAIRY HEIFERS

Reliable Sources of National Prosperity.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

According to investigators in the department of agriculture the average net cost of raising a dairy heifer one year old on a Wisconsin farm is $39.52 and of a two-year heifer $61.41. These figures are applicable to other dairy districts in the North and East where land and feed values are similar to those in Wisconsin. They are based on data obtained from raising 117 calves from birth to the time they enter the dairy herd. The details, with a complete summary of the investigation, have recently been published by the department of agriculture in Bulletin No. 49, under the title of "The Cost of Raising a Dairy Cow."

There are in the United States over 21,000,000 dairy cows. These figures give some idea of the importance of this economic problem to the country as a whole, for these cows must be replaced every few years. The cost of the production of these heifers is a large item in keeping down the profits of the dairymen.

The new bulletin contains numerous tables and several illustrations of the Jersey calves from which the items of cost were obtained.

The most important item was the cost of the food, which was estimated at market value and amounted to nearly two-thirds of the total net cost of the heifer, while labor formed 12 1/2 per cent of the cost.

Figures for the average net cost of the one-year-old heifer are as follows:

Feed	$24.67
Labor	4.45
Other costs	6.36
Total	$35.48

To this should be added the initial value of the calf, which was estimated to be $7.04, making a total cost at the end of one year of $42.52. This charge is justified in view of the fact that dairy cows are credited with this item in determining the cost of milk production. By allowing $3 credit for manure, it leaves a net cost of $39.52 at the end of the first year.

Figures for the average net cost of the two-year-old heifer are as follows:

Initial value	$7.04
Feed	40.83
Labor	7.81
Other costs	15.73
Total	$69.41

Credit for manure

$8.00

$61.41

One-half of the feed cost the first year and one-third for the full two years is for whole and skim milk. By far the most expensive period in the life of the calf is the first four weeks, the cost being nearly double that for any other four-week period. This high cost is occasioned by its being dependent almost entirely upon whole milk.

The man labor required in raising a heifer is about 40 hours during the first year and 23 hours the second year. The total cost of man and horse labor for the two years is close to $8. The manure produced during the two years has been valued at $8; consequently, the cost of labor is practically offset by the value of the manure.

The item "Other costs" consists of expenses usually overlooked in estimating costs. These are interest, charge for the use of buildings and equipment, expense for bedding, miscellaneous expenses, a share of the general expenses for the entire farm business, and a charge to cover losses by death and discarding. The total for these forms nearly one-fifth of the total cost of the two-year-old heifer.

The foregoing figures show that it costs more to raise calves to maturity than is commonly supposed, and they support the advice which the department is continually trying to impress upon dairy farmers, that it does not pay to raise any but the best heifers. Raising scrub heifers and selling them at $25 to $40 apiece, as many do, is unprofitable except on cheap land or under other very favorable conditions. But it does pay to raise the best heifers, for in good dairy sections well-bred heifers are worth considerably more than $60 when two years of age. Furthermore, dairy farmers as a rule are obliged to raise their own stock as it is difficult to buy productive cows at a reasonable price. In some sections of the West where alfalfa is worth only $4 or $5 a ton, or in the Southwest where pastures furnish feed the greater part of the year, this cost may be greatly reduced. Even where

It costs $60 to raise a heifer, two-thirds of this amount is charged for feeds at market prices, a large part of which can be grown on the farm at a profit. Thus by raising the heifers the dairy farmer finds a home market for feeds grown on the farm at remunerative prices, and at the same time aids in maintaining the fertility of the farm.

GOOD PROFITS FROM STEERS

Most Remarkable Results Secured at Iowa Station With Five Different Lots of Animals.

At the Iowa station, during the last season, most remarkable results were secured with five different lots of experimental steers. The best paying lot made a profit of $23.46 per head. This lot received 14.6 pounds per head daily of shelled corn, three pounds cottonseed meal and 28.6 pounds silage. Other lots were fed in comparison, receiving varying amounts of the same feeds, and some were fed clover hay in addition, but the lot which received a ration in which the bulky part was silage and the concentrates consisted of shelled corn and cottonseed meal, was the lot that turned off the most clean money.

No station has done as much experimental feeding with silage ration as the Indiana station at Purdue. Many years of continuous records are available at this station, and in no instance, from the standpoints of gains and profits, does any ration compare with those in which silage constitutes an important feature. Last year 70 head were fed in lots of ten each. The lot receiving silage, oats straw and cottonseed meal during the first 60 days, and corn, cottonseed meal, silage and clover hay during the remainder of the period, made the cheapest gains, but not the greatest. Disregarding the pork produced incidentally, the lot fed on corn, cottonseed meal and silage made a profit of $20.96 per head.

The Illinois station has several years of experimental data which correspond closely to that already given, and it is generally entirely favorable to the use of silage in the beef ration. Illinois also found that for a maintenance ration for breeding beef cows, silage is a most desirable and economical feed. It cost 4.9 cents per day per head to maintain 140 days a lot of cows fed on silage, clover hay and oats straw; 4.6 cents per day to maintain a lot fed on shock corn, clover hay and oats straw and 3.1 cents a day to maintain a lot fed on corn stover, clover hay and oats straw.

JAPANESE PLUM IS POPULAR

Many of These Varieties Are Earliest on Market and Sell Readily at Good Prices.

(By C. M. SHULTZ.)

Plums of the Japanese variety are popular with most growers, particularly in the East, because they are hardy and come on early. Many of these varieties are the earliest in the market, and as they are always of good color, either cherry-reds or light yellows, they sell readily and bring good prices.

They will grow well on almost any kind of decent soil, and do not need to be particularly coddled, although they should have all the care that any good fruit tree deserves.

The Japanese plum differs from the domestic varieties in that its leaves are longer, thinner and smoother, and it has a greater tendency to produce lateral fruit buds on the annual growth. Its fruit is mostly short, round and plump.

The Japanese plum is liable to injury from curculio and black-knot than the domestic varieties.

Early Spring Pigs.

After being weaned, early spring pigs may be run on alfalfa, rape, clover or grain pastures with a supplemental feed of grain until some crop is ready to hog off. During the summer, mature crops of barley, wheat and peas, with alfalfa or rape pasture, will carry them until the main crops are harvested.

They then glean the stubble fields and feed on standing corn in the field, roots, pumpkins, etc., until late in the fall. They may be sold directly from the cornfield, or may be fed for a few weeks before being marketed.

Isolate Setting Hens.

It is never advisable to set hens in the hen house where other hens are around to disturb them.

MEMORIES OF STAR

Comedian Tells of a Lifetime's Recollections.

Time When Jack O'Brien, of Pugilistic Fame, Came to the Aid of Perilously Near Stranded Band of Theatricals.

Leo H. White is to play comedy and dramatic parts. Mr. White will be remembered as the leading comedian with the original "Merry Widow" company. He was later a member of the "Gay Musician," a musical comedy, which played in New York for two seasons. Leo's experiences have been many and varied; among the most comical is the following: "I joined a small repertoire company in the state of Pennsylvania after the musical comedy in which I was playing 'blew up.' The company was a regular fly-by-night troupe of the barnstorm variety. We were to play a town of a thousand inhabitants the night after I joined them, and I was instructed to learn the part of 'Ham' in Hamlet. I did learn a few lines, and when the curtain rung up for the performance I managed to jabber my way through to the end. The people who saw the show thought it was great. A few nights later we reached a civilized town with the big population of 5,000. The manager of the opera house had some idea of the artistic quality of our company, and refused to let us play. Jack O'Brien, the well-known prize fighter, happened to be in town, which, by the way, was the town of his birth. He came to our assistance by agreeing to give a boxing exhibition after the last act, providing the manager of the theater would allow us to play there. If we hadn't played, I had resolved to eat my part in 'Hamlet.' Well, the show managed to pull through for the night, amidst catcalls and hen fruit. Well, now for the sad part of the story. A sparring partner had to be chosen to carry out the promised boxing exhibition, and they picked on me. At that time I weighed a hundred and two pounds, just a little more than Jack O'Brien's boxing gloves. He played with me for a little while and then I became peevish, smacking him roughly on the chin. Well—when I woke up the doctor at my bedside asked me if I cared to send any news to my relatives."

Films Becoming Cheaper.

Prices of motion-picture films are steadily falling. In March, 1912, the average export price, based upon ruling wholesale prices at the domestic points of shipment, was a little less than ten cents per linear foot, and in March, of the present year, a little more than three and one-half cents. The unexposed films dropped in export price from 12 cents per foot in March, 1912, to three cents per foot in March of the current year, while the exposed films in the same period slightly declined.

Mostly Unexposed Films Sold.

Formerly most of the films were exposed before exportation; now about four-fifths of the entire quantity exported consists of unexposed films available for camera use in foreign countries. Of the month's exportations of motion-picture films, 20,000,000 feet were unexposed and 3,000,000 feet exposed, thus reversing the proportions which obtained in March of last year, when unexposed films represented only 83,000 feet out of a total of 3,000,000 feet of all kinds of films exported.

Foreign Sales of Films.

Our foreign sales of motion-picture films are chiefly to England. That country takes about nine-tenths of the total exports. The next largest customers are Canada, Australia, Cuba, France, Japan, Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Venezuela, China, Hongkong, and the Philippine Islands. In many other countries, however, motion pictures are being made with cameras equipped with films manufactured in the United States, the world's largest purveyor of that article of increasing popularity.

hot under the rays of the summer sun
as to make the return of the waters

large number of people enjoy this rap-

anyone to make the trip there, for go-

BLACK BANNER RAISED IN ITALY

New Republic Is Proclaimed by Peasants' League.

Ignorant Classes Are Told Rome Has Fallen—10,000 Troops to Quell Rioting.

Rome—An outstanding feature in the general strike situation Sunday was the news received at the capital of the proclamation of an Italian republic by the people of several towns bordering on the Adriatic, in North-eastern Italy.

In some towns like Fabriano and Rimini scenes similar to those of the French revolution were enacted. The inhabitants, misled by reports issued from the headquarters of the anarchistic committee at Ancona, an important seaport on the Adriatic, to the effect that a revolutionary movement had been successful in overthrowing the monarchy, proclaimed a republic and substituted for the national flag the black banner of the Peasants' league.

All the newspapers were burned the moment they reached those towns in order to prevent the people from knowing the real condition of the country, as the revolutionary leaders had declared that King Victor Emmanuel had escaped to Montenegro; that the revolution had mastered the entire peninsula, and that the troops had joined with the people.

In some instances the soldiers were compelled to fire on the people before order was restored, with the result that several persons were killed or injured.

At Ancona, where the first demonstration took place, which resulted in the general strike, bluejackets from the naval division, commanded by Admiral Umberto Cagni, reinforced the garrison. Ancona has been a hotbed of the revolutionary movement, as the leaders have been spreading the report that King Victor Emmanuel had been forced to flee the country and that Premier Salandra was a prisoner.

The most serious situation exists in the province of Ravenna, where villages and small towns are being ruled by the local republican committee, which has armed the inhabitants, thus giving the ignorant masses the impression that any kind of violence will be permitted. Churches and clubs have been sacked or burned, but the case of private residences the revolutionists have asked the owners' permission to take possession of their belongings.

These have been sold for next to nothing in order to give the poorer people the impression that the "republic" will maintain its promise to bring back the golden age and end forever the high cost of living.

Ten thousands soldiers are gradually being spread through the province and it is expected that a few days will see the awakening from the brief dream.

Personal Factor Enters Into Mediation Problem

Niagara Falls, Ont.—The crux of the Mexican problem—the selection of a man for provisional president acceptable to all factions in Mexico and foreign governments generally—was reached Monday in a conference between the mediators and the American and Mexican delegates.

For more than an hour names of various individuals were discussed, but on none was there a semblance of agreement.

General Carranza's note, transmitted by Rafael Zubaran, his representative at Washington, arrived, advising the mediators that constitutional delegates were on their way to the mediation conferences with full instructions. Discussion has continued about the type of man for the provisional president. It practically has been resolved to abandon generalities about types and search for a man whom all would accept.

It can be said on the highest authority that the American delegates at no time have suggested the name of General Villa or General Carranza, and that they do not purpose doing so.

Long Hypnosis Is Broken.

Gary, Ind.—Arthur Tracey, the 18-year-old boy put into a trance Thursday night and left so for more than 36 hours because the hypnotist had been arrested on complaint of clubwomen, was awakened Saturday after the clubwomen had withdrawn the charge against the hypnotist and promised not to prosecute. The women had the hypnotist held alleging his exhibition was inhumane, and the hypnotist retaliated by refusing to undo his work, and the boy pedaled for 36 hours, under the illusion he was riding a bicycle.

800 Acres Are Flooded.

Calexico, Cal.—Eight hundred acres of cotton on the Abbott ranch in Lower California are covered with water from the overflow of the levee at Volcano lake, it is reported here. Ranchers are fighting hard to save the rest of this 5000-acre ranch. Volcano lake is said to be raising as the result of the flooded condition of the Colorado river.

Bolt Kills 6 in London.

London—Lightning killed six persons, four of them children, and injured several others on Wandsworth Common Sunday during a severe storm. Many buildings in South London were struck by lightning.

Peace Conference Counts On Aid From Carranza

Washington, D. C.—Every indication in Washington Wednesday night pointed to participation by the constitutionalists of Mexico in the mediation conference at Niagara Falls.

While final word was awaited by his agents here from General Carranza as to the answer to be forwarded to the South American mediators to their proposals, delay was accounted for by telegraphic disturbances between the United States border and Saltillo. It was expected the definite position of the constitutionalists would be communicated to Niagara Falls before many hours.

Some of those in touch with the chief of the constitutionalists insisted that the revolutionary leaders would not consent to an armistice in the campaign against the Huerta government, but that he would express willingness to acquiesce in peace proposals as they relate to establishment of a provisional government pending a general election, provided ample representation is given in the provisional government to the belligerents against Huerta.

Should Carranza refuse a cessation of hostilities, it seemed improbable here that his representatives would be received in the mediation conference, but this contingency failed to affect the optimism of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan as to the outcome of the Mexican difficulties.

This was accounted for in great measure by the suggestion from Niagara Falls that, whatever Carranza's answer might be, the peace proposals being discussed between the Huerta commissioners and those from the United States would be incorporated into a protocol; that the mediation conference then would take a recess and that the United States government would undertake negotiations with the constitutionalists with a view to procuring their consent to the provisional government proposal.

While the mediators and Mexican delegates were deliberating on the peace plan formulated by the Washington government, President Wilson and Secretary Bryan and John Lind, who represents the State department in negotiations with Carranza's representatives here, were in conference. Later, Secretary Bryan said that both the President and himself were hopeful of participation by the constitutionalists in ultimate plans for peace in Mexico.

U. S. Cutter Ordered to Go After Karluk's Crew

Washington, D. C.—The American revenue cutter Bear has been ordered to proceed from St. Michaels, Alaska, to Wrangell Island for the purpose of rescuing the members of the crew of the Canadian steamer Karluk, of the Stefansson Arctic expedition, who are marooned on that island. Captain Bartlett, of the Karluk, is at St. Michaels and will accompany the Bear on its rescue expedition.

Seattle—The revenue cutter Bear, ordered to Wrangell Island to take off the shipwrecked people from Stefansson's flagship Karluk, cannot enter the Arctic ocean for at least four weeks, until the ice shall have broken up.

The voyage to Wrangell Island is not more difficult than the one which the Bear has made to Point Barrow for many years, carrying mails and supplies. The Bear left Nome last summer for Point Barrow on July 7.

There are 18 white men and four Eskimos in the refugee camp on Wrangell Island. With the return of the wild fowl to the island, food probably will become abundant.

Broken Rail to Blame.

Washington, D. C.—In a report to the Interstate Commerce commission on the cause of the wreck on the New York, New Haven & Hartford passenger train near Westerly, R. I., October 25, 1913, H. W. Belnap, chief inspector of safety appliances, finds that derailment of the train was due to a broken rail. The wreck resulted in the injury of 74 passengers and three employees. Mr. Belnap declared investigation had shown that the rail fractured under the New Haven train by reason of the presence of transverse fissures in its head, caused by "high wheel loads with their attending strains."

Four Are Killed in Auto.

Goldfield, Nev.—Four prominent Knights of Pythias, all of this city, were killed early Wednesday in an automobile accident, while returning from a meeting of the Goldfield lodge at Tonopah. Dr. E. A. Wheeler, one of the best-known physicians of Nevada, who was driving the car, turned out to avoid another machine mired in the middle of the road, skirted the edge of an embankment too closely and plunged over. Dr. Wheeler and Daniel Falvey were pinned under the car and killed outright.

Pollen Shower Beautiful.

Klamath Falls, Or.—The yellow shower which visited several sections of Eastern Oregon, came to all parts of Klamath valley, but not at the same time. At Bonanza, it came in the shape of a cloud, drifting from the south on the wind and covering everything with what was at the time reported as sulphur, supposedly from Mount Lassen. It is considered generally to be pollen, but it is more plentiful than usual.

DELEGATES SIGN FIRST PROTOCOL

Mediators Make Decided Step Toward Peace in Mexico.

Nothing in Agreement Atagonistic to Rebels, and They May Attach Signatures.

Niagara Falls—Delegates from the United States and the Huerta government Saturday formally affixed their signatures in the presence of the mediators to the first protocol of the series through which it is hoped to restore peace in Mexico.

The agreement reached in relation to the manner of transferring the executive power from Huerta to the new provisional government stood the acid test of reduction to writing. It provides that:

A government is to be constituted in Mexico of a character to be later provided, which shall be recognized by the United States on (date to be fixed) and which from that day forward shall exercise public functions until there shall be inaugurated a constitutional president.

This plank in the peace plan was reduced to the form of a protocol after more than three weeks of discussion, in the last three days of which so serious a disagreement had arisen that the success of mediation was threatened. The brief protocol was significant of two things:

It makes no mention of General Huerta as the provisional president, and it omits the method of transfer which the Mexican delegates and mediators suggested and to which the United States objected on the ground that its retention would be tantamount to recognition of the existing regime. The Mexican plan provided that Huerta should name as minister of foreign affairs the man agreed on here for provisional president.

The omission of reference to the method of succession and the flat statement that on a certain date a provisional government shall arise in Mexico to which the United States will accord recognition satisfied the insistence of the American delegates that no steps should be taken that could be construed as recognition of Huerta.

Lorimer's Chicago Banks Are Closed by Examiner

Chicago—Four state banks in Chicago, with aggregate deposits of $6,411,977, and reported cash means of $1,434,692, were taken in charge of Saturday by the state banking department, which closed the bank doors and began examination of the banks' affairs.

The four were the La Salle Street Trust & Savings Bank, the Broadway State bank, the Illinois State bank and the Ashland-Twelfth State bank, known in financial circles as the Lorimer-Munday chain of banks.

The La Salle Street Trust & Savings bank, the president of which is William Lorimer, unseated from the United States senate, was the main institution, the three others being outlying banks whose balances and reserves were carried to a great extent by the La Salle Street bank.

Defaulter Griffiths Admits Big Shortage in Funds

San Francisco—Captain Joseph H. Griffiths, of the Army Quartermaster corps, who is before a court martial at the Presidio on a charge of embezzling more than $8000 of government funds while stationed in Seattle, testified Saturday, and before Captain Dennis P. Quinlan, judge advocate of the court, had cross-examined him long he acknowledged he had taken government money. He testified, however, that he had had no intention of keeping the money long. He said he abstracted it merely as a "temporary obligation."

This acknowledgment was made after Captain Quinlan had obtained from the accused officer a virtual surrender of his defense that he was mentally affected as a result of mental strain at the time of the defalcation and not responsible for his actions.

He also abandoned his defense that his first confession in Seattle was not voluntary and that it was made principally because he did not have the services of an attorney at the time.

Sire Vindicated in Duel.

Paris—Leon Daudet, a notorious duelist, was wounded in the forearm in a sword duel Saturday at Neuilly by Jacques Roujon, son of Henry Roujon, the late secretary of the Academy of Fine Arts. Roujon was the challenger, and fought in defense of the name of his father, whose memory he considered to have been wronged by articles which appeared in Daudet's paper, the Action Francaise, a Royalist organ. The encounter took place in private. Only the principals and seconds were present.

Hypnotic Spell Goes On.

Gary, Ind.—Arthur Tracey, 18 years old, at midnight Saturday had spent 24 hours flat on his back, his weary feet moving in imitation of a bicycle rider. The Woman's club of Gary, the police and a thousand or more indignant citizens gathered at the police station to try to stop Tracey's feet, while W. B. Griffiths, an itinerant hypnotist, is in jail refusing to undo his work until all charges against him are withdrawn.

HOW WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.
