"Their Memory Grows Brighter With the Years"

MEMORIAL day to day, with its wealth of heroic and sacred memories, bears deeper significance to every true American than at any time since it was first promulgated in May, 1868, by Gen. John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. Today the button inspires more love, veneration, and national pride for the Union defender, both living and dead, than it ever did before.

Think of what is inscribed within the compass of that little unassuming bronze button so proudly worn by the Union soldier, sailor and marine. What a flood of heroic and self-sacrificing memories burst upon us as we behold it upon one of the great and mighty survivors of the greatest war that the world has ever fought.

That button—and who wouldn't give all that he has, is and hopes to be for the proud honor of being eligible to wear one of them—has inscribed upon it in living characters the matchless and valorous deeds of Grant and Sherman and Lincoln; of Sheridan, Thomas and Logan; of Custer and Meade and Farragut and Porter; the history of the campaigns of the armies of the Potomac, of the Cumberland and of the West; of the march to the sea, of Vicksburg, of Forts Henry and Donelson; of Atlanta, of the Wilderness, of Winchester, of Chickamauga, Corinth and Antietam; of sieges and battles and skirmish lines; of days of daring and nights of waking; of weary marches by day and by night, in cold, and storm, and heat; of parting of lovers and maidens; of farewells of husbands and wives; of prayers and blessings from fireside and camp, ascending on high as divine incense; of agony and death, in prison and hospital, of great captains and heroic soldiers; of valor on sea and land; of the proclamation of Abraham Lincoln giving freedom to 4,000,000 slaves and wiping forever from the national escutcheon human slavery; of Gettysburg and Appomattox; of the downfall of the world's most desperate uprising, of a reunited country and the perpetuity of our glorious Union with its unspeakable blessings that are the nation's forever.

This record shall never fade away. It shall grow brighter and brighter as the years go by, scattering sparks of inspiration among the generations as they come and go.

Lincoln, Grant and the Union forces fought for national supremacy, for a greater and enduring nationality and maintained that our Union of States was indissoluble. Davis, Lee and their followers fought for state sovereignty and held that the Union of the states was merely a compact that could be dissolved at will.

Lincoln and Grant believed that this country could not long live and flourish by being half free and half slave. Davis, Lee and all others who fought to destroy our flag believed slavery was kin to a divine right, and that any state should be permitted to maintain and extend barter in slaves if it so wished to do.

These were vital issues in the conflict. These were the issues that divided our nation so bitterly and woe-folly, and drew forth more bravery, fortitude, hardships, privations, blood carnage and suffering on either side of the conflict than the world had ever seen before, and may we hope, ever will see again.

Behold our country today! Behold the realization of the prophecies of Lincoln and his valiant host of seers and undaunted patriots. How greatly did they prophesy and labor for the land they held so dear. Truly they wrought greater than they then knew or hoped for. Truly they must have been inspired, guided and protected from on high.

Colored Immigrants. One of the unique facts relative to immigration is that more than 50,000 Africans—black—have come into this country since 1904.

His Most Harrowing Experience

NO doubt, colonel," said the beautiful girl, "you have undergone some terrible hardships and frightful ordeals?"

The gray-haired veteran, who had found an easy seat after the rather trying Memorial day parade, permitted a twinkle to creep into his good eye. He still had admiration for beauty.

"Yes," he said, "I have had some pretty rough experiences."

"I have always thought," she assured him with sweet enthusiasm, "that if I were a man I should rather be a soldier than anything else. It seems to me it must be so splendid to think that one may be called on at any moment to risk one's life."

"You Must Tell Me About Them."

"Oh, it hardly comes to that."

"But you just said you had undergone terrible ordeals. Haven't you ever been in a battle?"

"Yes, I have been in a number of battles."

"How lovely!" she exclaimed, taking a seat beside him. "You must tell me about them."

"Where shall I begin? Do you want to hear the whole history of my life? I'm afraid most of it would be uninteresting."

"Tell me about your most terrible experience."

"Let me see? I hardly think you would care to hear about that."

"Oh, indeed I would. You needn't be afraid that I shall faint at the mention of blood. I imagine I can see you sitting upon your champion charger, waving your gleaming sword, and calling upon your men to follow you to death, if necessary."

"My most terrible experience had no such romantic setting."

"Didn't it? At least you picked up the flag after the brave man who had carried it fell, and waved it in defiance at the enemy."

"I did that once, but it wasn't my most terrible experience."

"Well, please go on and tell me about it."

"It was night before last. I visited the son of one of my old comrades, and for an hour he and his wife kept me sitting in a corner pretending to be interested while they made their children recite 'pieces' to me."

RECALLING DAYS OF OLD

At the Gettysburg reunion last summer the veterans delighted in such entertainments as this.

Want Accurate Method of Computing Apple Cost

Spokane — Orchard accounting systems and by-product manufacturing receive special emphasis in the preliminary program of the Seventh National Apple show and Fruit Products congress to be held in Spokane November 16 to 21, according to Chairman James S. Ramage of the board of trustees.

Three distinct plans have been formulated for the purpose of establishing a practical, clear and accurate method of computing cost of producing apples and the net profit from a given orchard or number of trees. A 100-tree contest, in which each contestant will enter a quantity of the product and give a complete financial account of the cost of production, is one of the plans approved by the board at a meeting this week. Another means of arriving at production cost and net profits will be taken through a single tree contest on similar lines. In addition, a competition will be held for the best set of orchard accounts giving the actual record of an orchard during the growing and marketing season of 1914.

At the conclusion of the board meeting Manager Gordon C. Corbaley announced that upwards of $10,000 will be distributed by this year's apple show in gold and merchandise. The board decided to extend greatly the division of home-made by-products by having 60 separate contests for the best home-made pies, dumplings, jellies, cider, vinegar, preserves, etc.

"The board of the 1914 show is determined to make the show of the greatest possible service to the grower," states Manager Corbaley.

"Paul Weyrauch, of Walla Walla, has been placed in charge of the daily growers' conferences, and has already begun shaping a program along practical lines designed to help the grower solve his problems. Orchard accounting and by-products will receive emphasis among other things at these conferences."

Twenty Forest Fires Are Destroying Fine Timber

Olympia — Warm weather, absence of rain and brisk winds, in combination, have led to a serious forest fire situation in this state. Twenty fires are burning and practically none is listed as under control. The dreaded crown fire, which kills timber as it progresses, is running through the forests of Lewis county, having started from the Wilson Bros. logging works, at Independence.

The state forester has ordered out all Western Washington county fire wardens ten days ahead of the usual time for starting state work. Hundreds of firefighters are in the field for the Washington Forest Fire association, the state and Federal authorities.

A bad fire on the North Palix, Pacific county, was reported Saturday.

Four fires in the Humpulps district and one near the Thurston county line were reported from Chehalis county. Clallam county reported fires near Solduc and Gettysburg. In Eastern Snohomish and King counties numerous fires are burning, the worst being near Gold Bar and Skykomish.

No estimates of damage have been received yet from wardens.

The first fire of the season is raging near Houlton. More than 100 men are fighting it. Smoke which covered the sky reached as far as Vancouver, 30 miles away. Water wagons were sent from Yacolt. An engine was held on the Northern Pacific branch so men would get out of the fire district if hemmed in.

Can't Make Educational Exhibit at Panama Fair

Olympia — Dissatisfied because only $4000 was apportioned by the Washington state exposition commission for this state's educational exhibit at the Panama exposition at San Francisco, Mrs. Josephine Preston, state superintendent of public instruction, declares no exhibit will be made unless sufficient funds from outside sources are forthcoming, which is doubtful.

The educational authorities asked for $25,000 of the $200,000 appropriated by the last legislature for exhibits at San Francisco and San Diego. When only $4000 was allotted for educational displays a careful investigation was made by her department and by the Washington Teachers' association, Mrs. Preston said, and the decision reached that a creditable display could not be made for that amount.

Long Land Litigation Ends.

Ellensburg — The case of John Powles and Dodge Alley, who have been fighting over a piece of land for five years, has been settled, the secretary of the interior holding for Powles, reversing the general land office commissioner, who had reversed the local courts.

The land comprises seven acres, with a house and barn on it. Powles, a miner, claimed it on the ground that he first filed on it as a mineral claim, and Alley because he homesteaded it.

Weed Nets Farmer $745.

Odessa — The value of the Russian thistle has been demonstrated by Herman Mennrich, a farmer, the weeds bringing him $854. This money was received through the sale of 6100 pounds of wool at 14 cents per pound. Mr. Mennrich fed the sheep on the thistle. There were 1003 sheep. The services of four clippers to do the shearing cost $100, leaving a net profit from the thistle of $754.

To Have Big Feed Mill.

Winona — The Winona Milling company plans to establish a $10,000 feed and chop mill at Colfax. The stock will be increased and the name changed to the Superior Milling company. The members of the old company, represented here by J. T. Billups and H. A. Lehrbass, will hold stock in the new company. Six Colfax men will also hold stock. The company will be capitalized for $35,000.

Rebate True Bills Found.

North Yakima — Five indictments returned by the United States grand jury charge violations of the interstate commerce law against the Potlatch Lumber company, of Toulouse, Wash., and the Washington, Idaho & Montana railway company and also against individuals whose names are not given out. The charges relate to alleged rebates.

Must Pay Horticultural Tax.

Olympia — Asotin county has lost its fight against payment for horticultural inspection work done in that district in 1909, 1910 and 1911, and must pay the state $1766.82 under terms of a decision rendered by the Supreme court, reversing the Asotin county Superior court. The horticultural levy feature was repealed in 1913.

Many Industries Affected by Minimum Wage Law

Olympia — Adoption of $8.90 as the minimum wage for women factory workers, as recommended by the recent factory conference, will necessitate ultimate increase to the weekly pay envelopes of between 50 and 60 per cent of the girl and women workers in establishments operating the year around, it is indicated by data collected by the Industrial welfare commission.

The factory minimum, as recommended, is $1.10 lower than the minimum of $10 established in this state for mercantile employees. It appears, however, that there is a difference now of more than $1 per week in the average wages of factory and mercantile employees, and the $8.90 wage, comparatively speaking, will mean as much to the factory girls as the $10 to the department store girls.

Reports on the wages of 981 girls over 18 and women employed in factories that operate the year around, compiled by the commission, show that 559, or 57 per cent, now receive $8.95 or less per week. Practically all of these, excepting such as are beginners and would come under the apprentice wage, would be entitled to the minimum wage.

Naches Canal Breaks; Water Sweeps Farms

North Yakima — Twenty-eight feet of the new concrete canal of the Pacific Power & Light company in the Naches valley gave way about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, sending a tremendous volume of water across adjoining farms, doing damage to the amount of several thousand dollars, compelling the company to temporarily shut down its Naches water power plant and making it necessary to draw on the Selah irrigation canal for the city's water supply until the broken canal was repaired.

The damage and inconvenience are increased by the fact that it is the height of the irrigation season, and the canal furnished irrigation water for thousands of acres in that part of the valley.

Fire Blight in Lower Yakima.

Olympia — Appeals for help in combating fire blight in the lower Yakima valley, where the disease has suddenly assumed alarming proportions, have called T. O. Morrison, head of the horticultural division of the State department of agriculture, to North Yakima. The lower valley previously had been comparatively free from the blight.

NATIONAL CAPITAL

Events of Interest From Seat of Government

By J. E. JONES

Lind and O'Shaughnessy

John Lind and Nelson O'Shaughnessy are among the curiosities of the capital—that is, if there are such things as a physical curiosity in Washington—where the frailties of the great have caused them to be catalogued among other classes of ordinary clay. The correspondent of the Islander sat opposite the "watchful waiter" of Vera Cruz, in the dining room of a prominent hotel a few days ago, and had a splendid opportunity to study the strength of character and the deep battle scars that furrow the brow and face of Minnesota's former governor. John Lind looks the part he played in the important affairs of Mexico, and Washington regards him as a man who has made a success of a very difficult job. In a short talk with our late representative at Huerta's court, the impression came home strongly to the writer of this article that, in the affairs at Mexico City, the American government was particularly fortunate in having a live wire like O'Shaughnessy. His policy of using "molasses instead of vinegar" with Huerta evidently was the only way to secure fair play for American citizens. O'Shaughnessy was a real "hit" with Huerta and he used the advantage by backing his demands upon the basis of his own personal relations with the crafty old Indian, with whom he usually ended up: "You surely do not want to put me in a bad light with my government?" By these persuasive methods O'Shaughnessy secured personally what he could not have obtained in the name of his government. The supposed friendship with Huerta has brought no end of criticism upon O'Shaughnessy, but Washington has joined officially in the popular praise accorded O'Shaughnessy.

Gold Bricks and Railroad Financing

The interference of Attorney General McReynolds with the New Haven railroad investigations has brought on a serious clash, and Commissioner McChord, backed by Senator Norris, whose resolution was responsible for the New Haven investigation, were practically ordered out of the office of the attorney general because of their insistence that former President McEllen and other high officials of the New Haven should not be excused from testifying before the commission, as requested by McReynolds, who gave as his reasons that the disclosures of McEllen and others would interfere with the prosecutions now being carried on by the department of justice. For a number of months there has been an impression that McReynolds has been settling too many big cases out of court, and his interference with the interstate commerce commission, which is considered as a sort of judicial tribunal, is not at all relished, and has stirred up something of a fuss. McReynolds may have a fight on his hands to retain his portfolio in the cabinet. As the New Haven and other railroad investigations proceed it is found that when the get-rich-quick schemes are all written up, it would be an inexcusable oversight to exempt some of the operations of railroad promoters from the stories telling of the artificers of gold brick dealers.

general by passing a resolution opposing an increase in parcel post weight limit, on the ground that such action would drive the express companies out of business. The postmaster general declares that the parcel post is a universal service, increasing trade between cities and farms, and that its rates are based on the cost of operating in both profitable territory, which is defined to be the extent of the systems of private express companies, and unprofitable territory, into which the express companies never go. The postmaster general says that the express companies will not be driven out of "profitable territory" as their limited field of operations gives them the advantage over the parcel post, which is loaded down with "unprofitable territory." Now that matters have settled down somewhat it is apparent that there is plenty of room for the parcel post and express companies, and the American people are carefully distinguishing between the two.

The Realignment

Most of the leading Washington politicians in the republican and progressive parties are very anxious for a realignment that will bring them together in a united attack to recover control of congress. Two years ago it was asserted that the republican party was left with only the standpatters to run it. Today it is claimed that "standpats" are in absolute control of the progressive party in Delaware, while the republicans are the progressives. The Delaware situation is pointed out as illustrating a condition existing in many sections of the country. Most of the republican senators and representatives who supported Colonel Roosevelt two years ago have declared themselves to be members of the republican organization, although they insist the position of Colonel Roosevelt was right—and they declare they will continue to support him. The get-together sentiment is strong, but in contrast there are a few political officials who, like the secretary of the republican congressional committee, helped to send Taft to oblivion, and now consider it their mission to excommunicate all "bull moose" from affiliation with the republican party, even though they had worked with the latter organization for a lifetime. If the capital offers the key to the situation, there are plenty of signs that a solid front may yet be presented, resulting in a working arrangement between republicans and progressives this fall. On the other hand, the democrats declare that never before in the history of the country has so great an amount of constructive legislation been enacted as since President Wilson went into office, and that therefore there is no reason for a change of control. If the democrats should lose control of congress it will be because they are too cocksure of their position.

Forcing a Record on Booze

The committee of congress having in charge the resolution providing for national prohibition, has passed the matter directly up to the house. Representative Underwood says that the members must meet the issue, and that the democratic party will refuse to assume the responsibility of further delay. Of course what Underwood says goes everyone knows that in Washington—and that is the reason why many members from close districts are in a panic. There are a large number of representatives who have been dodging for years, but unless something intervenes, they will be obliged to come out in the open upon this question. An effort will be made to bring the proposed constitutional amendment before the house at this session, but it may be "staved off" till after election. It takes a two-thirds vote to carry a constitutional amendment through congress, and even the prohibitionists admit they cannot expect a victory.

Trouble in Congress Over Free Seeds

Free seed distribution has been having its ups and downs in congress for a number of years, and finally the appropriation for sending out these seeds was stricken from the agricultural appropriation bill by the senate a few days ago, after a vigorous debate. Senator Kenyon, who comes from the rich agricultural state of Iowa, declared that he believed the farmers object to the sending of seeds to them as a "cheap attempt to curry favor." The action was denounced as false economy by Senator Warren. Members of the lower house expect to be able to save this custom before the law is finally enacted.

Langley Beats Tulalip at Marysville 9-8

The Langley baseball boys journeyed to Marysville on the launch Madella last Sunday, May 24, and got revenge on Tulalip for the beating they received here three weeks ago. Only a small number went from here, about eleven in all, including the ball boys. After plowing up the mud flats on their way there owing to the tide being out so far, and lying around Hat Island for an hour or two, they finally arrived at Marysville about 12 o'clock. The game was called at 3 o'clock, and the Langley boys went right after the game from the start. Stoddard first up doubled to center, McGinnis singled and F. Howard singled, bringing in one run, which was all they got in that inning. They annexed five more runs in the second by fine batting and base running. The Indians put them out in order in the third, but they got two more in the fourth and also batted Wright out of the box. Jones was called in from left field to stop our bold warriors, and he did. Only one more run was scored by Langley in the first half of the ninth inning by F. Howard, who did some sprinting to get this. Skinny started the pitching for Langley and pitched fine ball for four innings, holding Tulalip runless, but in the fifth they got him for three runs. He blanked them again in the sixth and seventh, but the Indians got their warrant on in the eighth and Skinny lost control with the bases full and walked two men, forcing two runs across, which added to the one they had batted in already made three for the inning. F. Howard was then put into pitch with only one down and the bases full. The first batter was thrown out at first by Fred himself, which let in a score, and the next one lifted a fly to Art Howard in left, which he politely grabbed, saving the day. Fred put on steam in the ninth and struck the first two out, then lost control and walked the next one. The next batter up laced a swift grounder to Skinny on short, which bounded bad and he muffed it, putting a runner on third and first. Right here the boys got rather scared, but the last man fanned out also, and ended one of the most exciting games of the season. The features of the game were Red Stoddard's fine catching, not a man stole a base and only one passed ball was marked up against him. George on third made one fine stop and throw and Leon on first played a fine game. Art made several good catches in left field and one good peg home. The boys had a merry time coming home, singing and telling how they Tualuped Tulalip. Bobby is rather proud today, as he played an errorless game in the first. Of course none came out there, but should worry. Batteries—Langley: Rotenge and Howard, Stoddard; Tulalip: Wright and Jones, Alex.

7TH ANNUAL CONVENTION

Of the Island County Sunday School Association Held at Langley May 15 and 16.

The seventh annual convention of the Island County Sunday School association was held in the Friends church at Langley on May 15 and 16.

A very interesting session was held and was well attended, all the schools sending delegates with the exception of four. There were three of the state workers present and gave us some interesting talks on Sunday school work. There were also some very good talks given by members of the county association. The delegates and visitors were given picnic dinners and suppers in Tourist park and were royally entertained. The musical part of the programme was very good and was led by D. T. Mackie. There were also several special songs given by the Langley chorus, Bay View chorus and the Male quartet of the Congregational Sunday school of Coupeville.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: President, John Price, Langley; vice president, Mrs. John Frostad, Crescent Harbor; secretary, Guy R. Smith, Clinton; treasurer, Arthur L. Kineth, Coupeville; executive committee, E. A. Harth, Bay View; Mrs. Manley, Langley, and P. H. Mackie, Maxwellton.

It was voted to hold the next convention at Coupeville, the date to be set later by the executive committee.

The following resolutions were adopted: 1st. Be it resolved that we express our high appreciation of the very liberal and cordial manner in which we were entertained by the people of Langley, also to Mr. and Mrs. Harding for their generous assistance in the entertainment. 2nd. Be it resolved that we appreciate the good work and fellowship of the state workers. 3rd. We also express our appreciation of the able and Christian manner in which our officers have conducted this convention, also to D. T. Mackie for so ably conducting the song service. 4th. Whereas, we are on the eve of a great struggle for state-wide prohibition, be it resolved that we recommend that each Sunday school do special work on Temperance Sundays for state-wide prohibition. A resolution was also adopted endorsing nation-wide prohibition. Guy R. Smith, Secretary.

Important Legal Matter Settled By Attorneys

An important legal matter was closed here Saturday when Attorney A. J. Benton, of Langley, and Attorney R. B. Lecocq, of Oak Harbor, representing the different parties, settled the Van Dyk Loers Jensen-Howard boundary controversy. This boundary line has been in dispute for the last ten years, and it is with great satisfaction to all parties that it was peaceably settled without the necessity of an action at law and costs at litigation.—Oak Harbor News.

Graduate's Gown of Embroidered Voile

WHEREWITHAL she shall be clothed, is the question uppermost in the mind of the mother of the sweet girl graduate, and occupying much of the girl's attention, too. She must have a gown, girlish in design, fine as to workmanship, and elaborate enough to do honor to the occasion.

Here is a French conception for a young girl from the establishment of Raulin. It is a masterpiece, but simple enough to be easily followed by the copyist. And the copyist will do well to be as faithful to the original as possible.

The underskirt is of white voile, showing a few scattered sprays of fine embroidery. Instead of a hem at the bottom there is a wide band of the voile ornamented with close-set sprays of embroidery. It is set on to the bottom of the skirt with an insertion of very narrow fine val lace and is split at the front. This narrow insertion extends all around the border of embroidery and serves to join it to the lace edging, which finishes the gown at the bottom.

In choosing laces for gowns of this character, those that will stand tubing and look well afterward are the only ones to be considered.

The embroidery for this gown in the body and border are machine made, but very fine.

There is an overdress of scant fullness bordered with a band of embroidery narrower than that in the skirt. It is set on with the same narrow insertion sewed in in long, shallow scallops.

The overdress is edged with a flounce made of point d'esprit net trimmed with insertion and an edging of fine val.

The bodice is of the point d'esprit, draped with voile and trimmed with an embroidered border like that at the bottom of the skirt. This extends from the shoulders down each side of the bodice at the front. The sleeves are finished with a ruffle like that which borders the overskirt.

The girdle is made of a wide bias strip of blue satin finished with a narrow ruffle under which it fastens with tiny hooks and eyes.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Bewitching, Inexpensive Morning Garb

THE morning glories will have to be glorious indeed if they charm our eyes more than the maids who make such morning apparel for themselves as is pictured here.

This morning cap and negligee from Raulin of Paris is beautiful enough to inspire every one with a desire to own one like it.

For the jacket there is a foundation sacque of net, or maybe voile, with short, loose sleeves. The sleeves are finished with rows of val lace, the lower row bordered with a narrow silk-finishing braid of a fancy design.

The seams of the jacket are set together with a narrow insertion of lace.

Two long scarves of figured net edged with flat lace are pulled in at the shoulder seams under loops of ribbon. They are tacked to the jacket along one edge, with the lower points under the arms, sewed together. There is a girdle of twisted ribbon about the waist, ending in a bow at the front, where the jacket fastens with a hook and eye.

The lovely little cap appears to be only a square of fine linen lawn or mousseline edged with a very wide val lace. The lace is draped back over the face and tacked to place. Plafts are laid in the muslin at the sides and back to shape it to the head, and narrow satin ribbon with little ribbon flowers drawn over the cap about the head.

The small group of flowers at the left side is mounted over long, hanging loops and ends of ribbon, finishing the decoration of this bewitching morning dress.

IS STRONGER THAN DYNAMITE

New High Explosive, Trotol, Is Safe to Handle—Resembles Brown Sugar in Appearance.

Trotol is the name of a new high explosive which is twice as powerful as dynamite and very much safer to handle. Six ounces of trotol will do the work of 12 ounces of dynamite, but nothing will explode it except fulminate of mercury, and that can be stored within six inches of it without danger. When packed in a 12-inch shell and fired at armor plate 1,000 yards away, during a recent test by the United States artillery, trotol remained unexploded in spite of the terrific concussion. In appearance it resembles wet brown sugar and is made up in sticks. Unlike dynamite, trotol can be kept in water for years without deteriorating. The new explosive was discovered by an officer of the New York national guard through the study of an old German book containing 2,000 formulas for high explosives. From one of these, taken at random, trotol was developed.

Wool not the product of sheep is being utilized abroad for men's clothes. This is known as "limestone wool" and is made in an electric furnace. A pair of trousers or a coat woven of this material can not, it is asserted, be burned or damaged by grease.

New Indian Animal Stories

Why the Mole Burrows

By JOHN M. OSKISON

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Long time ago the mole was a big animal who lived on top of the ground and walked and talked with all the other animals; and the story of how he came to change his shape and go to live underground is what the old men used to tell to the little children as they walked across the young cornfields late on the sunny afternoons and saw where the mole had been at work throwing the earth up in ridges which the little boys liked to trample upon.

"Well," the old men would say, "it was a long time ago, and the story is about your great-great-great-great-grandfather and your great-great-great-great-grandmother when they were fine young people. When he was a fine young fighting man, strong enough to run from this settlement to the one across the mountains in one day and sit up all night in the council when he got there.

"And she was such a young woman as the old men used to like to see down at the spring, laughing and working at the deerskin. She was laughing all the time, under her black hair and out of her big brown eyes.

"And even when your great-great-great-great-grandfather came to see her and sang his song she only laughed and ran away to her mother. No, she would not be married to any young man—so she said.

"Long time, this strong and brave young man tried to win the hand of your great-great-great-great-grandmother, but she would not listen to him, and he made himself sick thinking about her. And it was then that the mole passed by his camp and felt sorry for him. So the mole said:

"I know why you are sick and why you are weeping, and I will help you. I can make it so that the young woman will like you and come to you of her own free will. Just wait here for me." And then the mole went away.

"Late that night, when your great-great-great-great-grandmother was sound asleep, the mole burrowed his way under the ground and came up inside the house where she was asleep. And when he saw that she was sleeping very soundly, he took out her heart and went out the same way he came in.

"And then the mole went straight to the house of the young man and put the heart of your great-great-great-great-grandmother into his hands. It was so light that the young man could not even feel it in his hands! Then the mole said:

"You must swallow the heart, and then the young woman will be drawn to you."

"So the young man swallowed the heart of the young woman, and when she woke she had a very strange feeling.

"I must go to that young man," she said, and she no longer wanted to laugh when she thought about him. And then the feeling got so strong that she had to go, and when the young man saw her coming, he knew that she was to be his wife, and the mole's way was good.

"Now, all the medicine people of the tribe wanted to know what it was that made the young woman change her mind. When they found out it was the mole, they were angry with him, and wanted to kill him. You see, the mole had never been a fellow for talking, and everybody thought that he was just a stupid, soft-hearted fellow of no account.

"Of course, the mole did not want to be killed by the jealous medicine people, and so he hid himself under the ground—and ever since he has stayed there. And ever since he has been getting smaller, his nose has been getting sharper and he no longer has much use for eyes. Maybe because his eyes are no good, he eats the hearts of the grains of corn we plant in spring.

"But the mole earned his few grains of corn, don't you think so?" And the little boys would step off the ridge above the mole's burrow and nod their heads.

SOMETHING NOVEL FOR BOYS

Youth's Invention Reduces Hoop-Rolling Stunt to Minimum Amount of Labor—Stick Does It.

The present-day tendency toward the simplification of processes makes itself felt in the playground as well as elsewhere. The small boy and girl are encouraged to discard old-time methods to devise something new. Not so long ago the children were satisfied to propel a hoop along the sidewalk by beating it with a stick at regular intervals. This performance required more or less constant attention and the needless expenditure of a great deal of energy. This waste of physical strength is now conserved by the invention of a small boy, which enables him to keep the hoop in motion with a small amount of labor and attention.

This invention consists of a stick, somewhat longer than that usually made use of for beating the hoop and is not necessarily as thick, but near the end there is a smaller stick at right angles with the first. The latter is held in contact with the hoop at a point below the hoop and not far from the ground, and as the child walks along after the hoop the latter is propelled at a regular speed without much further thought by the child operator.

A Parrot Bank.

Three or four years ago a parrot belonging to an old woman in Chester, England, made such a nuisance of herself that some one poisoned her. The old woman had the dead bird stuffed and placed on a perch in the house. A few weeks ago she died of old age, and everything in her house was sold at auction. The stuffed parrot was bought by a boy for a sixpence, and when he got it home he found about four thousand dollars in it. The old woman had used the dead bird for a bank. There is a suit against the boy's father to recover the money, but it is believed he will be allowed to keep it.

It has been estimated that about one boy out of fifteen is left-handed when he reaches the age of ten. This is his mother's fault in not making him use his right hand more during his babyhood. In Germany there are schools where the boy is taught to be right-handed. Nearly all tools are made for right-handed men, and the boy who grows up left-handed will be awkward.

If one can use both hands alike he has an advantage in some things; but it seems as if nature intended the right arm to do most of the work.

SUCCESS OF A WOMAN

MADE COMFORTABLE LIVING ON A SMALL PLACE.

Great Secret Is to Start With Poultry, Garden and Berry Fruits, Gradually Increasing Stock and Crop Operations.

(By KATE ST. MAUR. Copyright, 1914.) Can a family make a comfortable living on a small farm?

Yes, most emphatically yes, if they possess ordinary common sense and industry. My own personal experience is an undeniable demonstration of that fact. I started on a rented place with really no capital, as a business disaster had swallowed up all our savings, so that I know what it is to commence at the very bottom of the ladder.

The place we found was an old-fashioned homestead. There were two large barns, corncrib, toolhouse and several odd sheds. It was really a farm of 180 acres, but the owner let us have the house and twelve acres, including the orchard, for $15 a month, on a three years' lease, with the privilege of taking over the additional 168 acres at any time during our tenancy for an additional $8 a month, with the option of purchase.

Stock had to be bought in small lots, as I saved money from our living expenses at first. So I bought a few old hens—broody ladies that wanted to set—and raised 148 chickens the first summer. The old hens had cost $10; extra eggs for setting, $5; feed, $4. And on the credit side there were 90 chickens sold as broilers, which brought $22, 58 young pullets kept for stock and all the eggs we wanted for our own table. From a trio of ducks bought early in the spring I sold 16 young ones when nine weeks old for $7.92. In November of the same year 30 more were sold and 12 retained for stock. I can't give the exact cost of feeding because no separate account was kept, but certainly $20 would cover it. The old birds cost $4.50, so the profit on the investment amounted to nearly $30.

The apple orchard was in a very badly neglected condition, but still we realized $150 from sales in the fall, and our vegetable garden had supplied our own needs and furnished a bountiful supply for pickling, preserving and canning for winter. Having a balance on the right side of the ledger, we built a new chicken house and bought a cow. The place was entirely self-supporting by the eighteenth month, and from that time on stock grew so rapidly that it seemed advisable to take on the rest of the land and raise all our own feed for the stock.

The great secret in starting on a small place is, I think, to commence with poultry, garden and berry fruits and gradually increase stock and crop raising operations, as success and market, to say nothing of your own experience, makes growth feasible.

MAKE A SUCCESSFUL GARDEN

First Step Is to Have Plot Situated So It Can Be Given Same Treatment as Farm Crops.

The first step toward a successful garden is to have it so situated as to receive the same cultural treatment as that given the general farm crops. Progressive growers of today seek to eliminate, as far as possible, all hand-work in the making of their products. If this is a profitable procedure in the production of staples, it is of equal advantage in the growing of fruit and vegetables, writes S. B. Shaw in the Progressive Farmer. Too often the location is a small patch of fenced-in ground, near

Morning Mail

Morning mail service was authorized some time ago, and the Commercial Club has just received official notification of the fact from the post office department. The morning boat, however, died out very soon after being put on the run, and the post office department does not seem to be aware of the fact, since they have authorized a closed pouch, mail service from Seattle direct to Langley by the morning boat from Seattle.

A reply is being prepared, showing the absence of the boat, and urging that the mails be routed via Everett and brought in on the morning run. For a reason, however, it is improbable that Seattle mail will be routed via Everett under any circumstances, and we shall likely have to continue with present conditions for some little time yet. A letter mailed in Seattle later than 1 o'clock in the afternoon, as most letters are, does not leave that town for about 24 hours and is then delivered here late in the evening, or about 30 hours after it was posted. A letter mailed in Everett later than 2:30 in the afternoon, as most letters are, must lie in their post office for about twenty-four hours before ever leaving Everett, arriving here too late for any consistent business attention.

The Island Transportation company could greatly better this condition, as well as the unseemly hours of ingress into and egress from Coupeville and Oak Harbor, and is willing to do so, but those Harbor fellows are so afraid they will lose the residence of the crew for a few hours nightly that they oppose strenuously any movement tending to improve conditions generally. A proposition for a service of great benefit to all the Island was recently voted down at Oak Harbor because the Clatswa would call there instead of the Calista.

city last Saturday, was the first step of what is expected to be an interesting and strenuous campaign on the part of that political body. As a part of the national plan, overtures are being made to local Bullmoosers in the hope that the split which caused the downfall of the G. O. P. may be entirely eradicated this fall, and peace and harmony again reign supreme. While this movement is meeting with some success in different parts of the state, there are many followers of Teddy hereabouts who still cling to the hope that he can come back. Verily he that gazes steadfast into the crystal glass of truth sees many strange visions luring him on, as a mirage in the desert lures the helpless wayfarer.

When a newspaper gives you a lot of free advertising in order to boom some concert or church entertainment which you are interested in, keep track of lines that are printed week by week, and multiply that number by the regular advertising rates of the paper. Compare the results with the actual money value of any favor that you can get from any other business concern. Then take into consideration the fact that advertising and circulation are the only two things that a newspaper has to sell, and in these days of higher prices, how much do you think they ought to give away for nothing?

The Islander office has been a busy place this week. Our friends have been very liberal in responding to our request for material. In consequence we are running eight pages this week. We wish to thank all who have assisted us and to acknowledge our indebtedness to our correspondents. We hope the good work will continue.

Commercial Club Meets

The first meeting of the Commercial club was held in the club room Tuesday evening to discuss with Captain Lovejoy his proposed summer schedule and talk over other matters. Fred Funk was elected temporary chairman. Capt. Lovejoy proposed a summer schedule whereby boats would leave Langley for Everett at 7 and 8:30 a.m. and 1 and 5 p.m. daily, except Saturday and Sunday; all boats to carry freight except the 8:30, which would take on passengers only. After considerable discussion, a resolution was passed endorsing the proposed schedule. The complete schedule will probably be published in the next issue of the Islander and go into effect about June 8, 1914.

There was some talk about the annual clambake, and it was proposed that it be held two days this year.

The question as to whether or not a dancing pavilion on the beach would be desired was also gone into. It is probable that one will be built.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, June 9. An election of officers will be held, and it is hoped that everyone who can possibly do so will attend.

A Trip to Hat Island

On Saturday, at about 9:30 a. m., we, the Grammar school boys and girls, our teachers, some of our parents and one High school girl boarded the Medelia bound for Hat Island. On the way over we sang our vacation songs and made ourselves merry to the delight of the grown-ups, who were no doubt relieved when we at length dropped anchor. There was a goodly array of baskets, boxes and pails among the crowd, and one party brought along a hoe to help search for buried treasure. Weaving of that pastime, clams were reverted to, but the incoming tide forced that idea to be abandoned. The beach is low and sandy. On nearing the shore we were greeted by the dismal howling of three dogs, who were not impressed by our appearance or else thought we had come to take away the treasure. As the story goes, a wealthy Frenchman lived alone on this island and pirates murdered him. His money was not to be found however; he either had it in a safe place or else had none at all.

We chose our stamping ground near a spring of water. As there was only one man in the crowd, he made himself generally useful by getting the water, building the fire, and bringing boards for the table upon which our feast was spread. Some of the ladies and the one gentleman walked around the island on the beach, but when a rowboat with some small boys met them on their way back, a short distance from their starting place, they were glad enough to climb in and ride the rest of the way.

We climbed the "Hill of Difficulty" to visit the place where the old man lived, and were somewhat nettled on reaching the top. There is quite a good-sized orchard, about two acres altogether, cleared. The house was hunked long ago, but we think we found the spot where it stood. We also found what was left of the old well. We scrambled down the hill with all the grace possible and spent the remainder of the afternoon in boat riding till it was time to go home.

When the Medelia came twenty people were rowed out to her, the remaining ones to go on the second trip when the boat would stop at Camano island to carry some men to Langley. Thus ended the picnic, and although the sun did not shine and it was cloudy all day, I am sure everyone's recollection of the time spent at Hat Island is a pleasant one.

Mutiny Bay school closed May 19th, and instead of the usual program had a picnic. Everybody came with well filled baskets, and after a bountiful lunch, all adjourned to the ball grounds. The feature of the day was a ball game between the Mutiny Bay juniors and their fathers. As some of the fathers couldn't play, others of the married men were chosen, and the game was one long to be remembered both by the skill and the dexterity with which they handled the ball, and by the aches and pains experienced afterwards by those long out of practice. The married men taking part in the game were Messrs. Cookson, Olney, D. McMaster, Staiff, Wright, Lieseke, Shipley, Wm. Johnston and Cates. Mr. LeGrove acted as umpire and succeeded in not getting mobbed.

The boys and girls of Mutiny Bay school have been doing good work in manual training this spring. L. B. LeGrove, who has had charge of that department, has proved himself a very efficient teacher, and the exhibition on the closing day of the articles made caused much favorable comment. The girls' sewing class has not been idle, and had some beautiful needlework on exhibition. The primary grades were also well represented by work that showed patience and perseverance. The exhibition was arranged in the manual training room, and the boys and girls have good reason to be proud of their work. And last, but not least, the teachers, Miss Poessel and Mrs. Olney, have the credit of this good work, and we appreciate what they have done for this school.

DEATH OF MRS. BISHOP

Passes Away After Long Illness—Greatly Mourned by Relatives and a Large Circle of Friends.

Margaret Jane McIntyre was born September 2, 1872, at McKeesport, Pa. There she grew to womanhood, loved by all and the life of every religious and social gathering. She was a lifelong member of the M. E. church and was noted for her great charity. But this was not only in social circles, as she was her mother's untiring nurse through a long illness, and lovingly cared for an aged grandfather during his last days.

Her people are among the oldest and most honored in that part of the state. Her father is the best known steamboat captain on the Ohio river, and her brother follows the same calling. In 1903 she was married to Robert M. Bishop at Pittsburg. Her health being poor they moved west, coming to Langley in 1906 in hopes that the change of climate would benefit her. Though sick since last August her friends and neighbors never found her downhearted, but always having a bright word and an apt answer for them.

She died at her home on Edgely Drive May 22d. Her husband, father, three sisters and one brother are left to mourn her loss. One sister, Mrs. Kate Reese, of Pittsburg, arrived here two weeks ago, and was with her at her death.

The funeral, which was a very large one for this part of the country, was held from the home May 25th. Rev. Ireland of the Congregational church of Coupeville spoke a few comforting words, to the effect that the thought of mortality should not make life seem hopeless nor discourage the living, as death is but a form in the process to a better.

All Langley joins in sympathy and sorrow with the bereaved relatives, were among the first settlers on Whidby island, and lived on what is now the Terry place, near Lone lake. They are now living at Big Bend.

Capt. Lovejoy, of the Island Transportation Co., was up Tuesday studying the needs of their many patrons here. Capt. Lovejoy says that the amount of business transacted here shows a good increase and that he plans additional boat service in the near future.

Quite a number from here attended the Sells-Floto-Buffalo Bill circus in Everett last Wednesday. The Clatawa made an extra trip, leaving Everett at 11 p. m. Some of those who enjoyed the performance or parade were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Langley, Henry Simonson, Elmer Rothgeb, Deek Marshall and J. Jensen.

The Island Securities Co. is being formed by business men of Langley for the purpose of handling Island securities and furthering the industrial welfare of the community. A complete explanation of the plans of this organization will appear in next week's paper. Islanders alone will be identified with the management of the company, which will deal in bonds, stocks, mortgages and all kinds of industrial securities. James C. Langley will be supervising manager.

The ladies of Langley got up a genuine surprise party on Mrs. Martha Kraber last Friday. It was an ideal day, and a sociable afternoon was spent on her pretty lawn. She was given several small packages and bouquets to remind her that it was her birthday. Late in the afternoon tables were arranged under the big cherry trees and a delicious supper was served. All agreed that it was a very enjoyable party, and wished Mrs. Kraber many happy returns of the day.

The Mode in Gowns of Taffeta

NO MATTER what the variation of style, the smart gown of taffeta follows the lines as set forth by Kurzman in the full model shown here, with more or less fidelity—usually less. For great is the ingenuity which has been brought to bear in adapting the French modes to that trimness of expression which Americans admire in their clothes.

For a slender figure the taffeta gown pictured is altogether good style. It is not to be considered by any other, but embodies little touches and details useful to anyone who contemplates joining the throng that is taffeta clad.

The rather low cut of the bodice shows the influence of the comfortable and graceful Chinese collar, and its border of three thicknesses of folded net is beautifully soft and becoming. The kimono blouse shows the sleeves smaller and worn without an undersleeve.

The fullness of the skirt at the front has been dispensed with in many American models. It is suggested by a flat plait or replaced by three horizontal plaits in a plain front. But on a slim figure the bunchiness of this pictured design is wearable. The pannier drapery, edged with a ruffle of the material, is an extreme development of this idea. It has been retained in many gowns, but so modified as to do away with awkward bunchiness and width of the hips.

The blouse is loose, well adjusted over a wide girdle, and cool looking. The girdle is made of a bias width of silk extended into a rosette which supports a bunch of forget-me-nots at the center.

The narrow band of velvet about the neck, finished with a tiny bow at the left, and a bracelet like it on the wrist, are lovely little items that every possessor of a passably fair hand, arm or neck, should seize upon. They make the skin look very white, and are in keeping with the gown, to which jewels do not seem to belong.

The hat, too, is noteworthy. Of lace, velvet ribbon, and flowers, it tells the same story as the gown—a story of our little masquerade in the fashions of other days which bespeak the gentleness and may perhaps reflect something of her type.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Charming Hats for the Baby Girl

THREE charming hats for the little miss who is not far beyond the dignity of her first hat are shown in the illustration given here. They are of the simplest kind, and the home milliner can hardly fail if she chooses to copy the style and trimming.

When the child has been fitted with a shape, here are shown three attractive styles of trimming from which to choose in finishing it. At the bottom of the picture a shape is shown to which a velvet crown has been applied. The crown is made by cutting a circle from silk or velvet, from 14 to 16 inches in diameter (or a little longer for an older girl). This is gathered about the edge and sewed to the base of the crown of the shape with its fullness distributed evenly. Mesaline satin ribbon five to six inches wide is arranged in a wreath of shallow loops about the base of this crown. Between the loops, across the front, small chiffon roses are placed in little clusters. There is a bow with ends at the side, and the hat is lined with a thin wash silk and kept on the head by a flat elastic cord.

At the top, val lace in a dainty pattern is gathered in two rows about the crown at its base. Velvet ribbon, an inch and a half wide, is laid in flutings (that is shallow round loops) in a wreath between the two rows of lace.

Little bouquets of roses and "snow flowers" are placed at each side where the bridle of velvet, that goes under the chin, terminates. Colored velvet is usually chosen for children's hats.

Simplest, but most unusual of all, the little hat at the right is trimmed with silk-covered buttons, rings, and silk tassels applied to a plain collar of velvet an inch wide, which is laid about the crown of the baby's little shape.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

IN THE CASE OF MENTAL FOG

Depression That May Arise From Many Causes Is to Be Fought Off as Dire Enemy.

We all of us have days when nothing seems to go right. You have a feeling of utter depression come over you.

Not because there is anything particularly the matter, but you're dissatisfied.

So you sit in a desolate hump and wonder what's the good of anything—especially yourself, and the little petty details of your life.

"Of what use am I after all?" you say to yourself.

A kind of mental fog has taken hold of you and you are sitting in a mist, so to speak.

Well, do you know what is the very best thing in the world for you to do?

Get out of it quickly.

Remind yourself that every one has these horrid moods, but every one can master them if they will only set to work the right way.

One of the best ways to cure yourself when you feel cross, or miserable, or discouraged is to go and do something for somebody else.

Never yield to a mood of idleness or fear, of depression or worry; the more you think about these things the worse they become.

Start doing some work that will employ all your physical energies and concentrate your mind on the subject in hand.

If it's only making beds, make up your mind to do it with all your might.

Of course, if you can go out for a good walk you have a sovereign cure, and a good many girls who go to the city would be better in health and spirits if they walked at least a part of the way to and from their offices.

Depression is very often caused by ill health, and it's quite certain that if you continue in a mood of depression for any length of time you need a visit to the doctor.

In most cases depression is an ill just like neuralgia or headache.

And if you find yourself getting blue sometimes, don't make too much of it, don't agonize about your "nerves" and so on.

Give yourself, if you can, some little extra pleasure; take a girl friend out to tea; go and see a play.

Never mind whether you feel inclined or not, once you are there you will enjoy yourself thoroughly and go home feeling ever so much brighter and better for the little change of scene and thought.

Anyway, when there are so many nice things in the world, make up your mind that you won't lose any of the opportunities to help others and be happy by dwelling in mental gloom.—Chicago Tribune.

Lost—One Powder Magazine.

A day or two ago M. Hennion, the prefect of police, was passing along a corridor in the prefecture, when he noticed an "agent" dozing on a bench. "What are you doing there?" asked M. Hennion in a tone that effectually awakened this subordinate. "Guarding the powder magazine," was the answer. "And where is the powder magazine that you are guarding so zealously?" was the prefect's next question.

The policeman had to confess that he didn't know. M. Hennion organized a search, not with candles, one may be sure, for the elusive magazine. It was nowhere to be found. Finally, the oldest inhabitant of the prefecture supplied the key to the enigma. The powder magazine was, it appeared, the name given to a lumber room in which a few rifles and pistols had been stored since 1875. M. Hennion, who has been sweeping very clean since his arrival at the prefecture, and is not without a sense of humor, has presented the venerable relics to the museum of the army.—Paris Letter to the London Telegraph.

Essay on Hens.

A school boy says in an essay: "Hens are curious animals; they don't have no nose, nor no teeth, nor no ears. They swallow their wittles whole, and chew it up in their crops inside 'em. The outside of hens is generally put into pillars and into feather dusters. The inside of a hen is sometimes filled with marbles and shirt buttons, and such. A hen is very much smaller than a good many other animals, but they'll dig up more tomato plants than anything that ain't a hen. Hens is very useful to lay eggs for plum-puddings. Hens have got wings and can fly when they get frightened. I cut off a hen's head with a hatchet, and it frightened her to death."

Womanly Sympathy.

A sharp-tongued married woman, who had been openly commiserating an elderly spinster on her loveless state, went on to talk volubly about her husband's health.

"Poor man, he has been a great sufferer for fifteen years," she remarked.

"I can quite believe that, dear," said the spinster, still smarting under the married woman's sarcastic "sympathy." "Let me see, it is just fifteen years since you married him, is it not?"

Distinctive Marks.

The family laundry had just been returned, and the usual struggle to identify their respective belongings was on. "That's my shirt!" insisted the elder brother, who worked in a printing establishment. "I can tell by that ink spot."

"Pshaw!" exclaimed the younger brother, who worked in a lumber yard, "I suppose, in order to be mine, it would have to have silvers in it."—Judge.

IT WAS GREAT JOKE

Engaged to Daughter, Fortune-Seeker Changes Mind and Marries Girl's Mother.

By B. J. KROMER.

(Copyright, 1914, by Daily Story Pub. Co.) All the travel he had indulged in, all the hard work, all the business absorption and worry, all the great affairs of life which had occupied his time during the strenuous years following his graduation from college, had not erased from his mind and heart the memory of dainty care-free Laura Tolman, his old sweetheart of the college days.

He had suspected this before he returned to the old scenes; now that he was here the conviction came to him with crushing force. Every shaded walk, every leafy retreat, every part of the old college buildings and the campus seemed to be alive with her presence. As he walked the old familiar paths he seemed to hear the music of her girlish voice and to catch the very aroma of her sweet presence.

With a groan he admitted it—he had failed utterly in the task he had set himself out to perform. He had gone away that day when her engagement to Bently was announced determined to forget her. The struggle that afternoon had been a hard one, and many times he had thought of the river as the most peaceful haven he could find. Finally his pride had triumphed, and, setting his teeth with that peculiar gritty motion the fellows on the gridiron knew so well, he had said to himself:

"Claude Belknap, brace up. Where is the spirit of your forebears? Are you to let a chit of a girl ruin your life—especially a girl who throws you over for a fellow who is only after her money?"

And so he had gone bravely away with a song on his lips, but with gloom in his heart. He had worked hard, and not without success. The very wholeheartedness with which he threw himself into his work and which was born of his desire to so occupy himself that he would forget the laughing face and saucy eyes of his college sweetheart, drove him on to success. He had taken up a strenuous profession, and it had carried him to many climes and into much danger.

In the stress and heat of the battle with fortune he had flattered himself that the old wound had healed, and finding himself in the near vicinity of the college town, he had rashly decided to revisit the old scenes. Then like the rush of the tide came the realization that he ever would love the sweetheart of his youth, wherever she was and whatever her condition or relationship. The realization frightened him when the thought flashed across his mind that she was the wife of another.

Heart-sick with his own reflections, he sought to escape them by calling on Miss Carrie Sample, who still lived in the town, and who had been a great chum in the old days. He was given so warm a welcome as to make him forget for the moment the bitter pain in his heart. The conversation naturally reverted to the old college days and the old boys and girls. Belknap had been abroad so long and so occupied with business that he had lost track of them to a considerable extent, but Miss Sample, having lived all the years under the very eaves of the old college, and being a gossip lady, knew where nearly all the old classmates were, who they married, how they were prospering, and all the other details which so delight the feminine heart.

The conversation was animated and extended, and Belknap for the time being forgot his heartache under the magic of this clever and friendly little woman.

It was when she dragged forth from a sacred drawer a bundle of old class photographs that he was most painfully recalled to his great sorrow.

"Oh, but do you remember this picnic we had," she exclaimed, showing a photograph in front of his very nose.

Did he remember? The blood rushed back into his heart at the memory until he thought he would faint. It was a snapshot of a group at a picnic, the girls adorned with the boys' hats, and the boys wearing the feminine millinery. It was just outside an apple orchard surrounded by a high stone fence, over which but at a perilous height hung a bough of luscious fruit. In the very center of the picture was Belknap, and perched audaciously upon his shoulder was Laura Tolman, supported by his strong and steady arm, picking the apples and throwing them down to the laughing comrades below. Did he remember that picnic? It was the day when, maddened by the contact with her dainty self, he had poured forth his love and then, frightened at his own audacity, had stammered and failed to ask the vital question.

The photograph brought back all the memories of the afternoon, and aroused all his latent passion. As he gazed at it he felt the full tide of his passion sweep through him until it seemed that he must burst.

Miss Sample chattered on. "We all thought you were awfully sweet on Laura Tolman," she said. "Really, we did. In fact, the whole class thought it was a match, and was all fixed up it was perfectly paralyzing when, after commencement, you plunged into business, and she got engaged to that Bently fellow."

"You can't always judge about these college affairs," he replied, with a fine assumption of indifference. "By the way, whatever became of Miss Tolman—of Mrs. Bently?"

"Oh, dear, didn't you hear?" she replied, with a shriek of laughter.

"No," he replied, gravely, and a trifle shortly.

"Oh, my, it's the greatest joke," laughed the girl. "Let me tell you—no, positively, I must read it to you. El—never mind who, but one of the old class wrote it to me from Saratoga. Wait, and I'll get the letter." And away she danced, leaving her caller wondering whether to be angry or glad.

Presently she danced back in again.

"Listen to this," she said, and then she read:

"Oh, Carrie, just the funniest thing happened here yesterday. You remember Laura Tolman, of course. Well, she has been here all the season with her mother—who, by the way, does not look much older than Laura. Well, you remember she became engaged to Mr. Bently just after she graduated, and Mr. Bently has been here also all the season, and he has been a perfect shadow to Laura. She has seemed a trifle cool, and one day, presuming on our old class relations, I chided her about it.

"Ella," she said, very solemnly—and you know Laura never was very solemn, I'm awfully afraid I've made a mistake. There was another before Mr. Bently, and I liked him very, very much. But he seemed tongue-tied, and it made me angry that he would not speak, and—and I accepted Mr. Bently—and sometimes it seems to me that it would be a sacrifice to become his wife, when my heart is—somewhere else."

"While we were talking a messenger boy came with a note from her mother that she had left for New York with Mr. Bently, where they would be married the next day, and she hoped Laura would approve and always treat her second father with all due respect—and a lot of other stuff; and she wound up by saying that Aunt Julia would be a sufficient chaperone during the brief honeymoon trip they proposed to take.

"Oh, my, Carrie, what a shock it was to Laura. And really I don't know whether she was more angry or more glad. You see, Bently had found out that the widow had old Tolman's money, although everybody had been led to believe that the bulk of the estate had been left to Laura."

"Now, what do you think of that?" asked Miss Sample, laughing until the tears ran down her cheeks.

"What became of Laura?" asked Belknap, with an indifferent show of indifference.

"Oh, she's living an old maid's ideal life at the old home in Cleveland," replied Miss Sample, carelessly. "The Bentleys moved to New York and built a palace on the drive. Laura preferred to live in the old home. Oh, you must not go yet, Mr. Belknap. Where in the world would you go at this ridiculously early hour?"

"To Cleveland," he replied, regarding her steadily.

After he had left Miss Sample looked off into space for a moment, and then gave voice to a prolonged whistle.

The Beautiful Cypress.

Of all the trees in America the cypress is in summer the most beautiful. Ever fresh and green, its tiny leaflets resemble the choicest ferns. Young, it is a thing of charm; mature, it becomes majestic, towering, with a long, straight, thick trunk, which makes the best of durable lumber. It is a tree of rapid growth. It is hardy anywhere in the corn belt, and southward it has no insect enemies or diseases. A man could plant a cypress tree in his lawn, enjoy its wonderful presence during his life, and his son might cut it and with the proceeds send the grandson to college for a year. What other tree will afford shade, add beauty and make fine lumber at the same time? Cypress trees transplant easily, though they should be mulched the first year and looked after occasionally. Once established, they are able to forage for themselves. Cypress leaves have been found unchanged in blocks of coal deep down in the earth.—Breeder's Gazette.

Being True to Nature.

The lady had been out shopping. She returned home with a handsome sable scarf. As recorded in London Opinion, she remarked to her sister, who was admiring the purchase: "That stupid salesman tried to get me to buy a fur with two heads. I cannot tolerate the unnatural in anything. Who ever heard of an animal with two heads?"

Her sister looked critically at the scarf. Then a smile of amusement lit up her face. "Yes," she remarked, "you didn't buy a fur with two heads; but you have bought one with thirteen tails."

That's Different.

Mrs. Exe (complainingly)—Such servants as we get nowadays! Mrs. Wye—Well, one can't expect all the virtues for four dollars a week, you know.

Mrs. Exe—But I pay five dollars.

Romance and Reality.

She (sentimental)—Three years I was engaged to him—three beautiful, happy years—then it was all over! He (sympathetic)—Oh, I suppose you married him then?—Fliegende Blaetter.

ASIATIC ART IS DISPLAYED

City of Cologne, Germany. Erecta Splendid Structure for Proper Display of Treasures.

Appreciation of Asiatic art, literature and music is growing apace in this country, but not so rapidly as in Europe, and in a certain respect the city of Cologne, Germany, leads the Occidental world. This enviable pre-eminence is represented by a magnificent museum of Eastern art which was recently opened there.

The basis of the display is the wonderful collection of East Asiatic art which Prof. Adolf Fischer gave to the city of Cologne four years ago, on condition that a suitable building be erected and donated by the municipality. The new building is near the Arts and Crafts museum. It is a splendid structure, four stories high, containing 32 exhibition rooms. The architect was Herr Franz Brantsky.

A distinctive feature of the new museum was put in by a Japanese carpenter, in the form of three characteristic rooms of a Japanese monastery. In these rooms a magnificent collection of Japanese arts and curios is housed.

The historic development of Chinese and Japanese painting from the dawn of history to the present day is clearly depicted by the museum, due to the most excellent arrangement of the hundreds of subjects. Only one or two ancient collections in China and Japan surpass the display at Cologne. Worth of special mention is the collection of Chinese stone sculpture. German artists are now considering the advisability of building and equipping a similar museum in Berlin.

CLIPS FOR CLOSING WOUNDS

Busy Doctor Made Independent in Large Measure of Sutures and Needles—Works Rapidly.

A wound-clip forceps has been invented which makes the busy doctor in a large measure independent of sutures and needles and enables him to secure perfect apposition of wound edges without torturing his patient or subjecting him to the danger of stitch abscesses. With the forceps and its magazine of aluminum clips goes an apposition forceps with which the lips of the wound are brought together.

New Clip Forceps.

says Popular Mechanics. The jaws of the suturing instrument then ride the apposed edges and a single pressure of the surgeon's fingers fastens the metal clamp in place. Another movement of the thumb brings the next clip into position, and it is possible, under favorable conditions, to suture a four-inch wound in two or three minutes. The clips are flexible and any degree of tension can be secured by elevating or depressing the center of the band.

NOTES OF SCIENCE AND INVENTION

Chinese students have invented an alphabet for their language.

Gold filled teeth have been found in jaws of skeletons exhumed in Pompeii.

Of English invention is a vest with lapels which turn up and button to form a chest and throat muffler.

Harness to carry an umbrella for a man, leaving his hands at liberty, has been patented by a Kentuckian.

Lenses have been given some French lighthouses which enable them to send their light from fifty to sixty miles to sea.

A double eye cup has been invented which applies a lotion to both eyes at once as a rubber bulb at one side is pressed.

The French army has several automobiles equipped as field hospitals, wherein surgical operations and X-ray work are possible.

Using special breathing apparatus supplying oxygen, three Frenchmen recently ascended nearly thirty-three thousand feet in a balloon without suffering any ill effects.

PACIFIC NORTHWEST NEWS

According to a statement given out last week by the government census department, Washington is the healthiest state in the Union. This conclusion is based on the fact that Washington has the lowest death rate, the mortality being only 8.5 per thousand inhabitants. Seattle leads all cities of the country in its low death rate, that of 8.4 per thousand, while Spokane is second with 8.9 per thousand. The fact that such an active campaign for general health conditions is continuously carried on throughout the state, together with the further fact that this state is primarily one of young people, is credited with being partly responsible for so fine a showing.

The beginning of actual work for the establishment of the proposed Alaska railway, for the construction of which congress appropriated $40,000,000, was realized last week when Thomas Riggs, Jr., a member of the Alaska engineering board, arrived in Seattle to assemble the party and equipment which is to lay out the route for the railroad in the northern territory. Lieut. Frederick Mears, U. S. A., and W. C. Edes, the other members of the commission, will join Mr. Riggs this week, and the party will leave for the north on June 3 or a few days later. Seattle will be made the base of supplies for the surveyors. It is expected that the work will take until December 1. The data gathered, together with estimates of cost of construction, will then be submitted to President Wilson, who will decide the route of the railroad.

The Pioneer's Association of the State of Washington, which was organized in 1883, will hold its regular annual meeting on June 2 and 3 in Pioneer hall, Madison park, Seattle. The association now has a membership of more than 800 and a large attendance is expected from all over the state.

Bo Sweeney, a Seattle attorney, has been appointed assistant secretary of the interior, succeeding Louis C. Laylin of Ohio. The selection of Sweeney is in line with the expressed desire of Secretary Lane to have a western man for the place. Mr. Sweeney is a staunch democrat, was a charter member of the Woodrow Wilson club of Washington, and has always been a "big chief" in the democratic camp. He is a man of large means and has extensive property interests. It is expected that Mr. Sweeney's appointment will mean much for the development of the Northwest. His new position carries a salary of $4,500 and is as important a one as Mr. Lane and its holder wish to make it. It is not at all unlikely that Secretary Lane will give Mr. Sweeney general charge over the engineering board of the Alaska railway. The new assistant secretary will take up his new duties on June 15.

Judge Orange Jacobs of Seattle, a pioneer of Oregon and Washington, who crossed the plains behind a team in 1852 and served the territory as delegate to congress from 1876 to 1880, died last week. For nearly half a century he has been one of the most prominent figures in the public life of the state and of Seattle. He was 87 years of age. The public service of Judge Jacobs includes a term in the territorial council, and ten years as a member of the board of regents of the state university.

A Letter From Dr. Craig

LOS INDIOS, Isle of Pines, W. I., May 13, 1914.

To the Islander and all the people, greeting: I am away down here in the West Indies, 700 miles south of New Orleans. I came here for reasons of health and now I am feeling much better. This is altogether a different world and a different life from any part of the United States, and it is a wonderful country in some respects. The chief industries here are grapefruit and pineapple growing, and they do a small business in winter vegetables; but it requires a large amount of capital to develop a grapefruit grove. I shall not attempt a description of this place at this time, but later on I will write you a long letter about it. I am feeling well and am not homesick or blue, but I want to say to all my old friends on Whidby island, that the best part of the world that I have ever seen for all the year round living and conditions generally, you can't beat the Pacific northwest, especially the islands of Puget sound and the valleys of Washington and Oregon; and my best advice to all of you who have homes and places to live on is to stay right where you are and stick, and dig, and save, for you can't better yourselves by going anywhere else. After everything is considered from all sides of the question, you can't beat Whidby island; and you people who are established there, and are able to make a living, will make a sad mistake if you sell out and leave. I found a copy of the Islander awaiting me here and it looked like an old friend. Don't write to me at this address as I am not yet settled and my plans are not definite for reasons of health. I will write again.

Vacation

By the noise upon the street,
By the tramp of bare, brown feet,
By the laughter and the shout
You may know that school is out.
By the games of hoop and ball,
By the call which answers call;
By the sport both far and near,
You may see vacation's here.
By the happy girls and boys
Out to find vacation's joys,
On the hill or in the streets,
Through the bright and sunny weeks,
They'll be found beside the brook
With fishing line and baited hook,
Or upon the sandy beach,
Where the water-babies teach.
Or you'll find them by the pool,
Where the air is fresh and cool,
And the bright, bright sun of June
Fades into the west too soon.
Or they'll climb into a tree,
Sing with bird or hum with bee;
Or from out their leafy bowers
Gaze on fields bedecked with flowers.
Or they'll take long tramps at will
Over distant wooded hills,
And where'er they come or go
Gather bits of nature's glow.
Glowing face and ruddy cheek,
Such as seen upon the peach,
And the sunshine from the skies
All reflected in their eyes.
And the hands of richest brown
Forming sandhills smooth and round,
Tell of glad vacation days
Spent in, oh! such glorious plays.
—ANON.

WOULD FORTIFY LORD'S DAY

Saturday-Monday Concessions Advised by Presbyterians.

Report Submitted to General Assembly—Financial Effect On Postoffice Arouses.

Chicago—Granting of the Saturday half holiday as a means of a stricter observance of the Sabbath was urged in the report of the committee on Sabbath observance made to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States Sunday.

Other recommendations made by the committee were:
"That the general assembly reiterate its strong and emphatic disapproval of all secular uses of the Sabbath day, all games and sport, in civic life, and also in the army and navy, all unnecessary traveling and all excursions."

"That we most respectfully call attention of all public officials to the potent influence of their position on all moral questions, and the necessity of greater care on their part, proportioned to the exalted nature of the offices which they occupy, that they may strengthen rather than weaken by their influence public and private observance of the Lord's day."

"That all families be urged not to buy anything on the Sabbath, to plan for their servants on the Sabbath and to help them fulfill their religious duties and pay laborers so they may have Saturday afternoon to make provision for the Sabbath."

"That the general assembly reiterate its emphatic condemnation of the Sunday newspaper, and urges the members of the Presbyterian church to refuse to subscribe for it or read it or advertise in it."

"That faculties of colleges and seminaries, if the way be clear, be requested to omit recitations on Monday mornings, so as to leave the Sabbath free from the necessity of some of the students to prepare their lessons on that day."

Several commissioners objected to a paragraph in the report saying that the closing of the postoffice had resulted in a financial saving to the government, on the ground that the churches had urged the reform for moral and not financial reasons.

Final action on the report was deferred.

Two Convicts Shot in Bold Dash for Liberty

Huerta Declares He Is Called by Heaven

Mexico City, (Special Correspondence).—"In the eyes of all the world, except those of our sister republics of Latin-America, I am looked on and denounced as a dictator and usurper, when, in all political truth, I am de jure de facto president of the Mexican nation. I am asked to vacate the position for which I was intended by God and destiny, and turn over to men who have but the most selfish and mercenary interests at heart."

With these words, General Huerta, the head of the Mexican government, and the most talked of man on earth, began his appointed interview with correspondents Monday at the palace of Chapultepec.

Then he immediately added:
"Yes, and all Latin-America—for this attitude of the United States government, not the American people remember—is most vital to every republic of America."

"Have you considered the attitude of all Latin-America on this stand taken by President Wilson?" he asked the interviewers. "Well, it is time you ought to," he went on, following a negative answer. "It is time that the American government gave full and attentive heed to the wishes and opinions of the nations of Latin-America. These are real peoples in every political and economic sense; they are nationalized in as a full sense as are the Americans and they have a pride of flag and of country as pronounced, if not indeed, more so, than have our neighbors to the north."

"I fear that at times the Washington government assumes a patronizing attitude toward the Spanish American governments and people. At least many of its acts in the past could be construed as indicating an assumption of superiority quite apart from the exercising of authority. In this latter word, I, of course, refer to the Monroe Doctrine, that once very kindly instrument of double edge—the one covered with real velvet and held facing our nations of the American continents, the other of tempered steel that glints in the eyes of greedy European nations. Yes, for many years it was such an instrument—kindly and protective to those it would shield, strongly menacing to those it would thwart in evil design."

"In the present disastrous condition of affairs, I feel certain that Central and South American sentiment is largely with Mexico. Of course it would not be right and honorable for any person to construe this statement as reflecting in the smallest way the views of the mediators appointed by Argentina, Brazil and Chile to adjust the slight difficulties between the American and Mexican governments. I would not want so to offend good taste as to comment one way or the other on the questions to be discussed by these eminent gentlemen, or upon what I might believe to be their opinions relative to the controversy. They are high ambassadors and are men of such standing that whatever their recommendations may be they will be entitled to the most exalted consideration by all parties."

"Dry" Preacher Says He Knows Abductors

St. Louis—Rev. Louis R. Patmont, the Prohibitionist advocate who said he was kidnaped from Wetsville, Ill., on March 31, and found in an abandoned house near Columbia, Ill., Monday, asserted here that he knew the ones responsible for his detention. He left for Danville, Ill., where the grand jury now in session will take up the investigation of his story.

Patmont said an automobile owned in Danville was used to abduct him. He declared he was sluggish and carried, half conscious, from place to place for 50 days in this machine. He said he knew the owners of the car.

A two months' growth of beard showed on his face and he was half starved and almost black with dirt.

Danville, Ill.—A great throng greeted Rev. Louis R. Patmont, the "dry" worker kidnaped at Westville March 31, as he alighted from a train, accompanied by several friends, who went to Columbia, Ill., upon hearing he had been found.

Judges Serve Jail Term.

Helsingfors, Finland—After serving eight months' imprisonment for refusing to enforce a law conferring equal rights on Russians with Finlanders in Finland, which passed the Douma, but not the Finnish senate, the entire High Court of Viborg, consisting of 16 judges, returned here Monday.

An immense crowd assembled to welcome the judges and cheered loudly. Mounted gendarmes, riding on the sidewalks, used their whips on the people for "unlawful cheering." The judges were at St. Petersburg.

MEDIATORS AT NIAGARA FALLS

Mexican Peace Conference Sits in First Session.

Retirement Proposal of Huerta, Though Denied, Gives Encouragement to Delegates.

Niagara Falls, Ontario—Marking a new era in the relations of the nations of the Western hemisphere, delegates from the United States, Mexico and the three great South American republics of Argentina, Brazil and Chile, formally opened Wednesday the mediation conference which they hope will bring peace to Mexico.

Confidence in the amicable settlement not only of the differences which have arisen between the United States and the Huerta government, but in the ultimate pacification of all Mexico through the avenues of diplomacy was reflected here by the mediators.

A distorted dispatch from Mexico City to the effect that General Huerta was ready to retire, although contradicted by corrected dispatches, which said that he had given his delegates no instructions to offer his resignation, was received with interest. It was said that an error in transmission had given rise to the first statement.

Authentic advices through diplomatic sources several days ago said that the Mexican commissioners were clothed with full power to act and had been authorized to agree to the elimination of Huerta if necessary to bring about a settlement of their country's internal and international troubles. This last step, it was said, would be taken only after it was apparent to the commissioners that there was no hope of a settlement on any other basis.

It was indicated in statements made here that if an announcement of willingness to retire comes from Huerta in the near future it would be welcomed as making more remote any possibility of the resumption of hostilities between the United States and Mexico.

It was argued also that with Huerta out the mediators might entertain hope that Carranza and his constitutional followers would be brought into the conference, or become parties to any agreement reached. Speaking of the erroneous dispatch, one of the principals of the conference said he regretted that the news proved premature. He said he felt certain that the announcement soon could be made with confidence that it would stand.

"Had it been true," one of the mediators said, "it would have made our work so much easier, as it would have paved the way to an early understanding."

The Mexican delegates asserted that they represented no political or personal interests in Mexico and felt they were nonpartisan in their views.

Party Snubs Emperor.

Berlin—Confusion and uproar marked the closing session of the German Imperial parliament. The members of the Socialist party, instead of retiring before the usual cheers for the emperor were called for, remained and refused to rise. Speaker Johannes Kaempf immediately called attention to this breach of respect to the emperor, on which the Socialists shouted, "That is our affair," and tried to drown the cheers with hoots and hisses. These were arrested by tumultuous applause from the other parties.

High Cost Clew In Fish.

Atlantic City, N. J.—"We Americans do not know how to cook fish," Dr. Mary E. Pennington, chief of the Federal Research bureau of the Department of Agriculture, asserted before the convention of the Oyster Growers' and Dealers' Association.

"This," Dr. Pennington said, "is the principal reason why the public does not realize that in marine foods lies the solution for the high cost of living."

REMARKABLE CASE of Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity.

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had falling, inflammation and congestion, female weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in grave or in an asylum if your medicines had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep well at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fears and dreads are gone, my house, children and husband are no longer neglected, as I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies, and all is pleasure and happiness in my home."—Mrs. JOSIE HAM, R. F. D. 1, Box 22, Shamrock, Missouri.
