

ISLAND COUNTY Prosecutor Bill Lanning and Deputy Sheriff Phil Meyer examine some of the household articles recovered last weekend after inter-county burglary ring was broken by law officers. Thieves netted around $50,000 in some 200 burglaries, about 20 of them committed in Island county.

Thieves caught--

Island officers aid in breaking ring

An inter-county burglary ring that is suspected of committing some 20 thefts in Island county and ten times that many in the state was broken up last weekend.

20 homes in county hit by thieves

Last weekend's arrests brought to an end a series of burglaries whose largest single haul was from a Camano Island home, where the list of stolen articles amounted to $8,000.

That theft was at the residence of L. F. Lofquist, Route 1, Stanwood.

In many cases, the break-ins occurred at homes where owners were away for extended periods of time—one gang member told of watching newspaper announcements for news of residents leaving on vacation.

A LISTING of the Island's 20 burglaries of which the ring is suspected include seven Whidbey break-ins:

Russ Redmond, Bush Point; Dale M. Anderson, Lagoon Point; H. B. Johnston, Maxwellton; R. A. Marchael, Old Clinton; Herman Locken, Possession Point; Bell's Beach, Saratoga; J. P. Warren, Clinton.

AT CAMANO, the ring is suspected of burglaries at these residences in addition to the Lofquist home:

Marc Miller, Rt. 1, Stanwood; P. M. Jentoft, Rt. 1, Stanwood; C. S. Finlayson, Tillamook Beach; John Strandjord, Tillicum Beach; Chas. Thompson, Country Club; Fgelde summer home, Mabana; Cloyd Campbell, Country Club.

A. E. Alskog, Claude M. Flower and Willard Law, all of Wilkes-Gary Heights, Camano; Art Owen, Woodland Bush; Henry Link, South Camano.

Scholarship is voted by WEA

The Washington Education Unit local met last week at Clover Valley and voted to award a $100 scholarship to a student this year who plans to become a teacher.

A committee will be appointed to determine the exact qualifications for the award scholarship, but will likely include need, ability, and likelihood of completion of the education course.

Bogus septic tank pumpers clean up on homeowners, neglect tanks

Householders at Whidbey were warned this week to be on the lookout for unscrupulous septic tank cleaners who have been victimizing area residents.

Cases have been reported in which "fly-by-night" outfits have entered the community under the guise of representing the health department. They then tell prospective clients that the department is requiring all septic tanks and cess pools to be pumped out.

This is the purest hokum, but it has worked in a number of instances. Given the green light, the bogus operator pumps out the tank—often doing an incomplete job—and charges an exorbitant fee.

Homeowners are urged to check with other septic tank pumpers in their area before agreeing to have such work done. In addition, the householders should clearly understand how much the job is going to cost him.

And finally, he is reminded to check with North Whidbey Chamber of Commerce Secretary Chuck Roberts, telephone ORchard 5-3655, and learn whether the tank cleaning outfit has registered there.

Plans discussed for junior high building project

Oak Harbor school administrators, directors and upper grade instructors met Thursday night at the high school to discuss plans for the districts new junior high school building.

City caucus names four for council

Four candidates were nominated for two positions on the Oak Harbor town council Tuesday night. In the only other nomination made at the town caucus, Treasurer Ruby Weaver was named to stand for re-election.

During the brief town hall session at which City Attorney John Wold was chosen to preside, Ralph Poole, Dr. R. O. Ellis, Claude Boyer and Bernie Russell were nominated for the two council positions.

OF THE FOUR, Ellis, an Oak Harbor veterinarian, is the only incumbent.

Poole, a retired Navy officer and active in community work, is a salesman at Oak Harbor Garage.

Claude Boyer is the retired former manager of the Washington Co-Operative Farmers Association store here.

B. T. Russell operates Queen Ann Motel. He formerly was a shop foreman at Whidbey Press.

OF THOSE nominated the candidates in attendance at the caucus were Poole, Ellis and Miss Weaver.

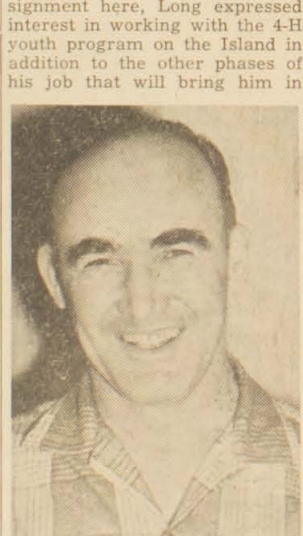

Only 14 persons attended the caucus. Notice of the meeting to nominate city officials had appeared in the last two issues of the Oak Harbor News.

Island county's new extension agent on duty

J. C. Long, formerly of Thurston county, has assumed his new position as Island county extension agent and is now in residence at Coupeville.

Long, who served as Thurston county agent for a number of years, earlier was a farmer in the same county. Throughout his residence there, he was active in 4-H club work.

Enthusiastic about his new assignment here, Long expressed interest in working with the 4-H youth program on the Island in addition to the other phases of his job that will bring him in contact with the county's farmers and rural residents. The new county agent begins a column in this week's paper.

The Longs are active in church work and now have two daughters attending Simpson Bible college in San Francisco.

While looking for a permanent residence at Whidbey, Mr. and Mrs. Long have rented a home at Coupeville.

Mumps, chicken pox on wane at Harbor schools

Oak Harbor schools reported this week that the mumps, chicken pox and sore throat occurring since Christmas vacation are on the decrease, with only normal absenteeism.

Four cases of mumps were reported in the high school this week, with 19 absent out of 380 students.

The elementary schools reported better attendance this week, and the Oak Harbor Christian school reported a low absentee rate for the past six weeks. At Olympic View one case of measles was listed on Tuesday morning.

Norm Oldenburg, chairman of the board, acted as moderator, and discussion centered on the type of school to be built as well as facilities to be installed. Keeping the cost down through the use of portable facilities, furniture and shelving was suggested, as was installing equipment that can be used by various age groups.

The group felt that if a junior-high building were built, it should include an expanded elementary school program rather than a scaled-down high school program.

SUPERINTENDENT Wilbur Gilbert said that in the last few years the tendency in junior-high programs was to get away from the "small high school."

It was brought to the attention of the group that surrounding areas have junior-high programs, and many students enter Oak Harbor from those schools. The junior-high construction and program cost is rated as slightly higher than a straight elementary program.

Erection now of a junior-high building would also postpone the need for added high school space, since the freshman class or ninth grade would be included in the junior high school building.

THE DISCUSSION revealed that the new building might be designated as a junior-high, but it would be adaptable to any type of program for use by the fourth grade on up. Creation of a junior high program would also allow more space in Oak Harbor for the primary grades.

Taking part in the discussion were Dillon Kimple, John Allgire, John Wardenaar, Duane Hamlin, Ernest Neuman, Enid Sells, Donna Williams, Bus Krieger, Ed Nelson, Wilbur Gilbert, Norm Oldenburg, Bill Garrison, Ed Adamson, Bill DeHoog, Dorothy Neil, Hal Ramaley, Leroy Rowand, Helen Glines, Edythe Townsend, and Blanche Bogue.

PTA meets on Monday

Information about the new school to be built at Oak Harbor a film on cancer and selection of a nominating committee are items on the PTA program set for 8 p.m. Monday at the high school.

Superintendent Wilbur Gilbert will speak on the new structure planned for the district and show some illustrations.

A color film on cancer, "The Other City," will be shown, and literature on the disease distributed.

The nominating committee to be named Monday will select candidates for office in the 1958-59 term.

Chambers agree to order reprint of Island brochure

The North Whidbey Chamber of Commerce last week agreed to join the South Whidbey Chamber in placing an order for 30,000 reprints of the Island tourist brochure, first published last year.

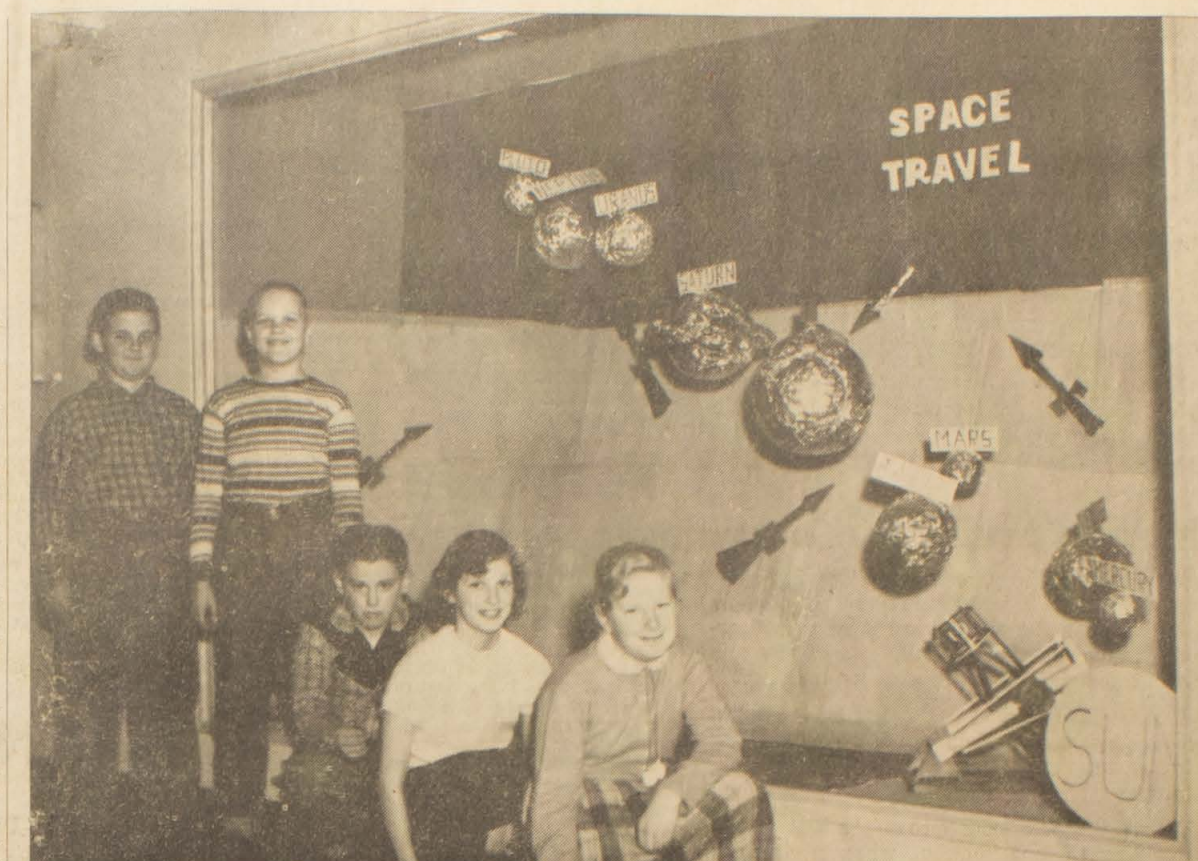

Bud Lucke, chairman of the advertising committee, reports there are but ten days in which area businesses can buy space in the brochure. Any firm wishing to be included in the folder which last year proved to be highly popular, should get in touch with Lucke or committee member Arend Balster immediately.

Piling-mounted walkway, float proposed for city tideland

Tentative plans for a walkway, mounted on pilings driven along city property from the waterfront to the harbor channel, were being drawn this week. When ready, the plans will be submitted to several pile driving firms for bid estimates.

The walkway project, still in its exploratory stage, got its start at last Wednesday's meeting of the North Whidbey Cham-

Phone firm asking rate increases

An application for increased telephone rates was to be filed this Thursday with the Washington Public Service commission by the West Coast Telephone company.

Continuing increases in wages taxes and other operating costs, as well as the effect of inflation were given as major reasons for the proposed adjustment by Lloyd E. Wallgren, district manager for the company.

At Oak Harbor and Coupeville, the proposed increases would appear like this:

In the business category, 1-party line service would rise from $7.55 to $9.85. Two-party service would go up to $7.35 from $6.70.

Residential charges would increase from $4.15 to $4.30 for a 2-party line, while the increase would be from $3.30 to $3.40 on a 4-party line.

"Since our last general rate increase in June, 1955, higher wages have added over $520,000 to our operating expenses," said Wallgren. "In addition, state and local taxes have increased $130,000 or 20 per cent since 1955. "According to present plans we shall spend over four million dollars in the state in 1958 for new construction. These construction dollars will come from investors and we must maintain adequate earnings if we are to attract investment capital."

Seaplane tender resumes cruise after collision

Minor damage and no injuries resulted in a collision Wednesday of last week between the seaplane tender USS Floyds Bay of Oak Harbor and an oiler, the Kawishiwi.

The mishap occurred while the vessels were participating in a rearming drill seven miles from Pearl Harbor. The Floyds Bay had left Oak Harbor Monday, Jan. 27, on a cruise to the Western Pacific.

The Whidbey ship continue on her voyage to the Far East with a dent in her starboard side, while the Kawishiwi sailed back to Pearl Harbor with superficial damage to her port side.

Larger county planning group asked of board

Island county commissioners have been asked to increase the county planning commission to seven members, two more than are authorized at present.

Resignations have reduced the number of active members to three, Chairman Ben Loers said Monday. Latest to resign is Frank Keck of Oak Harbor. Last month Arthur Ness of South Whidbey handed in his resignation.

In addition to Loers, other members still serving on the board are Jack Engstrom of Coupeville and Dan Garrison of Camano.

County commissioners said that under the proposed enlargement of the planning group, membership would include two from Camano, two from South Whidbey and three from North Whidbey. One of the latter would serve as member-at-large.

No action on the county's pending zoning measure was taken at Monday's meeting.

County health program asked

Snohomish county and state health department officials met with Island commissioners Monday to discuss the possibility of setting up a new health program for Island county.

Such a program, not now offered here, would include a full-time county sanitarian and county nurse in addition to a county health officer.

The latter position has been held by Dr. Henry Carskadden, who has indicated he plans to resign the post. Mrs. Pauline Hapole of Coupeville serves part time as county nurse, and Bud Strong works three days a week as county sanitarian.

Dr. Grant Skinner of the state health department offered his agency's cooperation in setting up the new program and indicated partial support for its financing would come from the state.

Dr. Roger Knight, Snohomish county health officer, related how his county's program operates. He noted that one phase of it includes health services for the area's schools, for which a fee of $1.50 per pupil per year is charged. A similar arrangement for this county is to be offered to Island schools.

Mothers March on Polio nets $804 in donations

The PTA-sponsored Mothers March on Polio held Monday of last week netted $804.26, a tally of receipts shows.

Chairmen of the Mothers March expressed their thanks to both the community's generous donors and also to the participating mothers who made the house-to-house canvass a success.

Five co-chairmen insured efficient coverage of the towns and nearby residential areas. Heading the east side of Oak Harbor was Mrs. Lucille Knutsen. Working with her were Mesdames Gay Cusworth, Diane Balcerak, Beverly Taylor, Bobbie Parker, Peggy Suess, Sylvia Gilbert, Eleanor Leveson, Maxine Doman, Helen Rodgers.

Rita Wentz, Shirley Dimmit, Eloise Paul, Joy Schulle, Glendola Loers, Ena Weidraayer, Mary Coffee.

Kathleen Smith, Doris Cook, Lillian Malsom, Betty Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Love.

Chairman for the west side was Mrs. Dora Stroops. Her aids were Mesdames Gay Passmore, Bertha Jenkins, Wandina Hulst, Peggy Huseby, Jo Ernst, Alice Baxter, Bernice Carleton.

Iris LaCroix, Jean Schooler, Eileen Roberts, Pat Wold, Anna Yates, Doty Zylstra, Imogene Harris, Anna Abrahamse, Joyce Honea.

Navy housing was covered by Mrs. June Beery, and helping her were Mrs. Marion Martin, Mrs. Betty Tuso, Mrs. Carolyn White, Mrs. Rose Brewer, Mrs. Kathryn Christianson and Mrs. Pat Speckmann.

For Penn Cove Park Mrs. Ena Blattman was chairman, assisted by Mrs. Bernice Gates, Mrs. Alberta Skea, Mrs. Barbara Blatnick, Mrs. Polly.

The chairman for Title VIII was Mrs. Arline Johnson. Those assisting were Mrs. Fran Morton, Mrs. Arline Liggett, Mrs. Laurie Stombough, Mrs. Pat Boyd, Mrs. Alice Allan, and Mrs. Grace Huntington.

Historical unit to meet Feb. 19

Island County Historical Society will meet on Wednesday night, Feb. 19 at the county courthouse in Coupeville, to elect officers for the newly re-organized group.

Special guest for the evening will be Chapin Foster, director of the Washington State Historical society. An interesting program is planned for the evening, and refreshments will be served.

Anyone interested in preserving Island county historical information and monuments is welcome to attend the meeting.

A curriculum study?

Elsewhere on this page is a guest editorial suggesting in specific terms what might be done to improve the education program offered in modern public schools.

Much of the Edmonds Tribune-Review editorial is based on the conclusions of a special curriculum committee composed of laymen and members of the district's teaching profession. Its findings are by no means applicable only to the situation at Edmonds, but would seem to be as valid here at Whidbey.

We believe a similar committee could well be named to conduct a study of the curriculum in the Oak Harbor district, and make recommendations for its improvement in the light of recent experience.

Such a study would undoubtedly be welcomed by the educators, who too often have had to develop their own programs in the vacuum created by a disinterested public.

We don't handle it here

A fellow by the name of Wallace S. Sayre, professor of public administration at Columbia University, says the small town society is "parochial, introverted, rigid, dull, complacent and somewhat monolithic in its decision-making."

That is a lot of talent to demand from a small town, and we are not at all sure our local pecking order measures up to Dr. Sayre's grandiose expectations.

We are willing of course to do the best we can in supplying the market, but when a stranger comes along and insists on a whole new line, including such small-turnover products as monolithic decision-making—there's only one thing to tell him: You'll have to get it in the big city, bub.

Beware this swindle

Better look out for the latest thing in the line of swindles: At least one off-the-island firm has been operating on Whidbey, specializing in bilking home-owners with a bogus septic tank-cleaning service.

The outfit not only has charged sky-high prices but has fudged on the other end as well by failing to perform a complete job.

To protect yourself, make any such service firm identify itself, and agree on the fee before the work is done. As an added check, contact Chamber of Commerce Secretary Chuck Robert's office, ORchard 5-3655, and learn whether the outfit has registered with that agency.

The latter can't vouch for any given firm, but at least it is a good sign if the company is forward enough to register information about itself.

Dedicated work

The reorganizational meeting of the long-dormant Island County Historical society will be held at 8 p.m. next Wednesday, Feb. 19 in the courthouse at Coupeville.

It's to be an important session—new officers will then be elected to lead the group during its first year of reactivation.

In a county such as this, which has witnessed numerous pioneer events and developments, there is much work to be done if the area's early-day relics and history are to be preserved.

Anyone who is interested in such dedicated work and the society's added aim of establishing an Island museum, is invited to attend the meeting next Tuesday night.

Kids in uniform

Modern parents have allowed themselves to be badgered, coaxed and cajoled into an unending series of expenditures which a generation ago would have been written off as wasteful spending of family funds.

It is now well established that to be on par with their fellows, children must have special uniforms for practically every activity group to which they belong—whether it's Cub Scouts, Explorers, Bluebirds, Campfire Girls, Little Leaguers, school band, or any of a whole gamut of youthful orders.

Maybe this predilection for uniforms is just some of the froth that comes with the pursuit of prosperity: The extraordinary concern for appearances, the compulsion to keep up with the Joneses—including even the little Joneses.

Actually, the youngster outfitted in ordinary dress could in virtually every instance function as well as his uniformed companions, and less affectedly. That however would run counter to the group philosophy which, whatever else it says, implies that everyone should look alike. It is not such a long step from the look-alike frame of mind to that of think-alike.

This state of affairs is a little hard to reconcile with the new tenor of the times, which would place much more emphasis on individual accomplishment and creative thinking and less, much less, on group stereotypes.

A GUEST EDITORIAL

(Editor's note—This editorial, about high school education and what might be done to improve it, appeared in last week's issue of the Edmonds Tribune-Review. Because it bears on a matter vital to our own schools and indeed those of any community, we have taken the liberty to reproduce the article here in its entirety.)

OVER THE PAST year, a committee composed of half of plain citizens of the district, and the other half school teachers and administrators, has been surveying the courses of study offered in the district, starting at the high school level. The committee finally submitted its recommendations to the school board Monday night, and without going into detail here, we can summarize by saying that this committee wants high school academic requirements expanded, and elective choices reduced—particularly "s n a p" courses.

Board President Levy S. Johnston commented that it was a pleasure to have a citizens committee asking the district to elevate its standards, rather than make them easier. But we were amazed to hear committee Chairman James Mueller report at the same meeting that in voting on the various sections of the recommendations one by one, it was the lay citizens who voted each time to strengthen the school curriculum, and the professional school people on the committee who voted against these recommendations!

PERHAPS WE are interpreting this wrongly, but we just find it hard to believe that teachers themselves are not in sympathy with the effort to strengthen our high school academic structure—and we're not just talking about Edmonds now, but all over the nation.

For example, the Kitsap County Herald of Jan. 16 reported that a committee of teachers recommended to the North Kitsap board of education an eight-point program, all designed to strengthen the high school curriculum.

These recommendations included giving a "K grade to students who do not have the background or mental ability to meet the minimum requirements for a particular course when repetition would not seem to be to the best interest of the child." Students receiving such a grade would receive a certificate of completion—but not a diploma.

THE KITSAP teachers committee also recommended, among other things, an accelerated testing program to guide students in choosing their curriculum program, and an "enrichment program" for advanced students.

Earlier in January, the Seattle Federation of Teachers proposed a 14-point program to the School Board of that city, including, among others: removal from regular classrooms of students who will not or cannot conform to discipline standards, segregation on ability basis and the addition of special and technical schools, better testing programs, a more advanced curriculum for college preparation, a more realistic policy toward academic failures, raising of curriculum standards and elimination of non-essential "s n a p" courses, and—a point that we think is worth a loud hurrah—"improvement in the quality of instruction, with the responsibility for 'social adjustments' left to other agencies."

BEAR IN MIND, these are teachers themselves who are asking for more muscle and less fat in our school system. That's why we say we're amazed at the report by Dr. Mueller on the voting in his committee. When you look ahead to the colleges and universities, you can see why many educators and thinking parents are becoming alarmed. It was just last December that the University of Washington's College of Arts and Sciences announced it was strengthening its admission requirements because as Dr. Lloyd S. Woodburne, dean of the college, explained: "vocational or other non-academic subjects are of doubtful value in college education."

"The demand on the part of government and industry for thoroughly trained and well-rounded scientists has been hard to integrate with the school of thought which has emphasized courses in effective living and social adjustment," the dean wrote in a later Seattle Times article.

AS IF TO ECHO his words, a Boeing official stated recently in Seattle that the state's high schools are not turning out students sufficiently educated to make good industrial potential. And a University of Colorado professor stirred up a storm in Denver recently with the statement that if the university "flunked all the kids who are no good, we should send about 80 per cent of them home."

These are serious indictments of an educational system which has bowed increasingly to a public demand that high schools open their doors to all students, regardless of their capabilities. There are signs now that the demand is going the other way, that the public is realizing that schools must prepare children "to take their place as mature adults in a democratic society" again quoting Dr. Woodburne.

WHEN THE Russians put their Sputniks into outer space they dramatized the fact that they've been teaching science while we've been watering down our school curriculum with courses designed to get a multitude of students through school without taxing their brains. Perhaps as a group of foreign teen-age students were quoted in an interview in Seattle last Sunday, we wouldn't be so worried about curfews in this country if our kids had as much studying to do as they have in nearly every other nation. We think the school board and administration will be making a vast mistake if they pigeonhole the report of their own curriculum committee. And certainly we think the board should strongly disavow any such misguided comment as Dr. Mueller quoted as coming from a P-TA official that this committee "will ruin our school district". It seems to us that the recommendations of the committee merely are keeping in step with the trend throughout the nation to a system of education aimed to suit today's modern needs, and we don't think that's going to "ruin" this or any other school district.

It says here

By Cliff Danielson

We received a letter literally edged in black the other day from Ace Comstock, former editor of the Oak Harbor News.

It was a copy of the message sent to all the subscribers of his paper, the Darrington Timber Bowl Tribune, and it announced the TBT had folded. Continuing mechanical difficulties accounted for the move, Ace said, adding that he hoped to acquire better equipment in a year or two and resume publication.

Meanwhile, Ace won't be sitting on his hands. A family man, he thoughtfully bought a hotel building at Darrington and will operate that in addition to editing and selling ads for a Darrington section in the Arlington Times, acting as a stringer for a daily newspaper and running a P-I delivery route.

MORE THAN is usually the case when a paper quits publication, we were sorry to hear of the at least temporary demise of the TBT. That is because we had a hand in starting the thing.

We ran it as a "part time" (partly after midnight) activity. The paper apparently must have gotten attached to the schedule it was wheeled on, because Ace found midnight oil was about the only lubricant that would work on the TBT's crotchety linotype and press.

Next time, we hope things change—and that there'll be no more letters edged in black.

DOWN AT Mukilteo an ordinance has been unearthed that prohibits anyone from owning more than two specimens of any particular kind of animal.

Thus a fellow can get by with having a couple cats, two dogs, a pair of sheep, a duo of skunks, etc., and none shall say him nay. The long-forgotten regulation was consulted to see if a legal antidote could be found for a hog farm on what of old was known as the Goat Trail. This is now a road sans goats and runs north and south on the hill overlooking the harbor. The hogs—presumably only two of them these days—run east and west, as well as north and south and in circles.

THE ORDINANCE's two-of-a-kind language smacks of the old biblical tale that won Noah his place in history. If he were around today, he would probably feel more at home at Mukilteo than he would in most American cities and towns, which usually have a ban of some sort on most animals.

As a matter of fact, if it weren't that Mukilteo lies a shade too much in the rain shadow of the Olympics, Noah could just as well have loaded the ark right there at the Mukilteo ferry landing. It would have been entirely legal.

And just think, he could have called it the "Vacation State"

By Dorothy Neil

What is there about a person falling down that puts us in stitches? Nearly everyone can remember falling down at some time or other, and how hilariously funny it was to everyone looking on.

Even those who picked up the pieces and helped set an arm or leg-bone had a suspicious glint in an eye, just as if they were about to go into hysterics as soon as the ambulance was out of sight.

We took such a fall recently at the high school, just walking down the corridor, and not in a hurry either. A slippery shoe went on ahead, and down we went, in as pretty a ballet finale as Pavlova ever executed. The heartbreak to this story didn't happen to us, the fallers, but to Bowman Ross, of the high school staff who stood there with a camera around his neck, and DIDN'T get a picture.

Our favorite beauty parlor operator (they do their best, y'know) says reading of her horoscope on Friday morning represses her homicidal tendencies when we come in ten minutes late. Says it nearly always cautions her against irritability, stresses that big smile; and advises her to put up with her first customer.

Rowand, Clover Valley principal, is planning a do-it-yourself Ceramic Kiln project. Thinking over the possibility of a News feature story on it we could tentatively label it, "He Made a Kill at Clover Valley."

Ed Nelson, junior high science teacher, dreaming of a "nature trail" and arboretum for the sake of science, was horrified when someone suggested that the unsightly pile of brush and rocks near the school be bulldozed for the project.

What, he asked, would the kids do if they couldn't hunt lizards in the rock pile, and wild flowers in the spring?

What, indeed? Just the place for Akela to be watching them.

Smokey, the Noble Dog is picketing the City Hall this week. Says the new dog ordinance is taxation without representation. Says there wasn't one member of Local No. 13, K-nine Union present to give his side of the story. Says they weren't invited.

In a quick poll of neighborhood dogs, Spindrift doggedly unearthed the following canine citizens: Puddles Cronin divulged that "a pooling of efforts might dampen the effectiveness of the ordinance"; Sparky Koetje (who is too young to vote but might be upset about the ordinance) yapped that he had been whipped by every cat in the neighborhood and that in itself should call for a license rebate; and Maggie Williams, tying a red ribbon in her Kerry blue hair, asked spiritedly, "I believe in women's rights."

Smokey, trying out a new bone to pick with the ordinance, said that his mother was part sled-dog, which qualified him as a teamster, and before admitting to anything that might incriminate him he would take a rabies shot.

Which is all pretty far-fetched even for dog lingo.

It's the law

U.S. MARSHAL

The title of United States marshal is familiar to most TV viewers these days. He is seen chasing across the screens enforcing the law in the old West. Occasionally, however, we are reminded by current news events that the U.S. Marshal is still with us.

When a federal district judge in Little Rock, Arkansas, ordered the governor of that state to appear before him, it was a US Marshal who served the summons on the governor.

THE MARSHAL is a kind of federal sheriff named by the president on recommendation of the attorney general. He takes orders from the administrative office of the US courts and the judge of the court he serves.

The marshal and his deputies make arrests on federal warrants, serve papers in lawsuits in the federal courts, subpoena witnesses, summon jury men, and seize property on federal court writs. Many years ago the marshal was also the federal census taker.

The marshal, like the sheriff is the man who puts the teeth in the orders if the court.

THE EVENTS in Little Rock are not the first occasion on which a US marshal has had to carry out his federal duties in the presence of troops under state command.

In 1899 a conflict had arisen between a judgment of the US Supreme Court and a Pennsyl-

I WAS shocked to hear a woman of my own age say that she hadn't heard any of the kid fads that go around since "knock knock." She had missed the one where you hold out the skin of your neck about seven inches and ask if anyone can remember where you misplaced your fountain pen. I was mortally afraid that this same lady (and she's intelligent too) might think that "out to lunch" means that someone actually is away eating his mid-day meal. Or she wouldn't know a bongro drum if she heard one. Hard to believe, isn't it?

Then I got to thinking there may be other men and women so engrossed in making a living and keeping everybody happy, that they didn't have time to read "DIG" magazine. They probably think that a cool moose is a new frozen dessert. They might even hear certain parts of conversation that would hurt their feelings unnecessarily or at the very least give them minutes of bewilderment.

TO AVOID this, I will here-with give a short teen-age vocabulary course. You see when I was born so many things were omitted like a sense of direction and an ear for music (I won't mention them all), that Providence took pity on me and gave me the ability to "write by ear."

All I have to do is read DIG for awhile and I'm with it. I mean I'm hep to the jive. I dig the stuff. To sum it up I'm caty.

Now, for instance if I ask if your daughter is going steady, what would be the correct answer? For some time the correct response was "Yes, she's taking Carter's Little Liver Pills," but that was just a smart alec reply. The correct and long-term retort is: "Yes she's going steady, a new friend nearly every night." That shows you know the ropes, or more correctly, "you are in the groove."

DO YOU know what a "downbeat character" is? Well it's somebody like you who reads this column.

Now this will save your feelings: If a group of teenagers come into the room where you are and say slyly, "There's a fungus among us," do not be hurt. I repeat, do not be hurt. You have all the right in the world to be a fungus, a drip or a square. After all you are a parent and you are expected to be these things. A fungus is one of their own kind, of the same age, who might at the moment not be willing to join a fan club. It does not mean you.

YOU PROBABLY have ascertained by now that if something is neat, it isn't necessarily tidy. In fact it usually isn't. Instead it's fabulous (see, how I pick the stuff up!)

Now that you are no longer a schnook, I will treat you to two typical jokes that will give you an entree to any teen-age party (so long as you make 3 dozen sandwiches, supply the pop, cupcakes, and keep out of the rum-pus room):

"A hep porcupine bumped into vania court over disposition of prize money from a captured British ship. Pennsylvania called out its militia, and the US marshal on the other side swore in a 2,000 man posse to seize the prize money. The dispute ended without fighting when President Madison backed the federal court decision."

Pollution standards plan scuttled under pressure

Olympia . . . One of the hottest potatoes being juggled in state circles last week was a proposed set of standards recommended to the State Pollution commission, to control pollution of the state's waters, by Milo Moore, state fisheries director. At the close of a public hearing called by the pollution commission at which spokesmen for the pulp and paper mills, the Association of Washington Industries, Association of Washington Cities, labor, and chambers of commerce blasted the standards as impractical and unrealistic, Moore asked that his proposal be "tabled."

Earl Coe, chairman of the pollution control commission, said after the hearing that he considered the issue of the proposed new standards "dead." He commented that when proposed by Moore, the motion for the new regulations had no second in the commission and that they might go "into the wastebasket" as far as he was concerned. Coe said the commission will proceed to regulate pollution under rules which have been in effect and deal with the problem on an area basis.

AT THE POLLUTION commission hearing, C. David Gordon, managing director of the Association of Washington Industries, declared that adoption of the stringent regulations proposed by Moore would drive away industry and "can assure the state of Washington a permanent depression."

"It would put many of our finest industries out of business," said Gordon.

Speakers for cities declared compliance would cost millions of dollars for rebuilding sewage treatment plants. Other speakers declared Moore is out of step with Governor Albert D. Rosellini's attempt to bring new industry to the state through creation of the new department of commerce and economic development.

GOVERNOR Rosellini has asked congressional action to aid Washington state's coal-mining regions. In a telegram to members of the state's congressional delegation, he asked that efforts be made to obtain International Cooperation administration action in awarding coal contracts to domestic producers. The Governor pointed out that the Roslyn-Cle Elum area had been officially declared a distressed employment area. He said the state is directing an intensive effort to keep the Roslyn-Cle Elum and other coal mines in operation until a program for steam generation plants can be completed.

REPORT ON the feasibility of bridging Puget Sound, and cost of the project, will be disclosed early in April. Rep. Julia Butler Hansen of Cathlamet, chairman of the legislature's interim joint fact-finding committee on highways, streets and bridges, said the report will be made by the engineering firm of Porter, Urquhart, McCreary and O'Brien in a public meeting to the legislative committee.

The national engineering firm was retained jointly by the state toll bridge authority and the fact finding committee of the legislature to make the study, and has been at work since last summer. The entire project as outlined has been referred to as a $186,000,000 package. What will be done about it will be up to the 1959 legislature.

STATE SENATOR Robert C. Bailey denounced a few days ago that formation of a new Democratic political organization has threatened to split the party in Southwest Washington. Senator Bailey, who is chairman of the party's Nine County League in the Third Congressional District, identified the new group as the Third Congressional District Council of Democratic Clubs. He said it duplicates the official party organization and was formed "to take over the party, not only on the district level, but eventually on the state level."

William Breuer, chairman of the new organization, said this is not true. Breuer, a special investigator for the Department of Labor and Industries, said his organization has no intention of taking over the party. Instead, he said the Democratic clubs and Rosellini clubs formed during the 1956 election campaign were being organized into a strong Third district task force to assist the official state and county Democratic committees.

According to the journalism class at OHHS there is going to be a journalism clinic for high school students at the University of Washington Feb. 21 and 22.

Members of the class will try to attend this conference whose theme will be "Improving Scholastic Journalism." Through the exchange of ideas and procedures the clinic will attempt to create further interest in the field of journalism.

MARILYN BALL, Girls' club president, has told us that the Girls' club is planning on offering a telegram sending service within the school for a "slight fee" Friday the fourteenth. The "telegraphic" messages may be sent to anyone in school, including especially sweethearts and boyfriends. The individual notes will be read at the beginning of the fourth period Friday afternoon. New wrinkle but seems as though it could get a little embarrassing, no?

The last game of the season will be held here this Saturday against Arlington. I'd like to take this opportunity on behalf of the student body to sincerely thank and congratulate our ball club and cheer leaders for the swell job they've done over the season.

A VALENTINES Day dance is going to be sponsored by the annual staff of OHHS after the game Saturday. According to Ralph Carskadden, chairman, there will be an election of a Valentine King and Queen for the dance, with a profusion of door prizes and gift records as added interest. The music will be by all your favorite bands on platters and everyone is invited to attend.

The dance is not a strict "date" dance. In fact, it's preferred that everyone come unattached to facilitate the old fashioned mixing and comradeship of the dances our folks used to brag about.

Linda Speer tells us that the Episcopalian Youth Group is attending a lecture next Sunday by Father Wakefield on "The meaning and Purpose of Lent". Following the lecture will be a question and answer period. On the first of March the group is planning on making a skiing trek to Mt. Baker.

Diane Blevins reports that the Baptist Youth group enjoyed a tour through the Bellingham museum last Saturday afternoon. The group studied Philippine island missions last Sunday night. There will be fellowship at Ruth Arnold's after church next Sunday.

THE LUTHER League tells us that several of their group attended a choral union rehearsal for a March convention in Anacortes. Two new OHHS students attended last Sunday's meeting and added greatly to the fellowship with their addition of some new wrinkles to existing game activities. The Luther league is happy to welcome Jerry Haralson and his sister Janet into their fold.

The Methodist Youth Fellowship held a successful ski trip to Mt. Baker last Saturday with a great number of MYFers from the Island and Skagit counties. The group is planning a Spaghetti Dinner next Wednesday, the 19th, in the basement of the church. Everyone is invited and tickets may be purchased from any MYF member.

Cub Scout news

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Russ Old were hosts for the Boy Scout Troop 60 Committee. Two new men were welcomed to troop activity Mr. John Allgire and Mr. Cunningham. Committee for the year are still being set up with just a couple of jobs left. However several Dads are on the transfer list. Mrs. Granel reported that the Mother's Club bake sale was very successful; the troop is assured additional tents. The Mothers Club is grateful indeed to the friendly staff at Thriftway.

Boy Scouts nationwide are working on a safety good turn as a theme for 1958. As part of this program boys of Troop 60 will be assisting with the local bicycle safety project. The troop committee will be looking for opportunities for more such community participation.

Scoutmaster Tennis took some time to explain the importance of growth in responsible citizenship by a boy in the advancement program after he has reached First Class. The Star, Life, and Eagle awards indicate that the boy has indeed become more actively a member and leader in his home, church, troop and community.

Top three places at the District meet in Mount Vernon. Troop 60 proudly owns a cup won by their Apache patrol. At the big Council wide meet at Bellingham, Troop 59 was second in scoring with Troop 59's two patrols doing very well.

Have you seen our windows downtown? During Boy Scout Week the boys like to show the community what they are doing.

World day of prayer set for this Friday

The World Day of Prayer, observed annually by churches around the globe, will occur this year on Friday, Feb. 21.

Public services have been announced for the Oak Harbor Lutheran church at 1:30 p.m.

"That the World May Know . . ." is the title of the prayer booklet to be used at the services. Prepared by the National Association of Evangelicals, the booklet centers around the theme of Christian unity, which it considers from four aspects: the desire for, the nature, effect and objective of unity.

The program is arranged to include responsive Bible reading, hymns and time for prayer.

For the adult leaders it is a time to give recognition of the part the community plays in making a good program possible. You still have a time to take a look at the CO-OP Store, Oak Harbor Garage, and Chuck Dann's Sporting Goods.

Committeemen present at the February meeting were Chairman Old, Scoutmaster Tennis, Assistant Gary Garner, Neighborhood Commissioner Ed Nelson, Merwin Dooley, Max Cozine, John Allgire, Guy Dutton, C. B. Brinkley, and Mr. Cunningham. Wives representing the Mothers' group were Mrs. Old, Tennis, and Granel.

The next regular meeting will be at the Mt. Tennis on March 10. Any parents of Troop 60 boys are invited to come. We always enjoy the visit and coffee after the Troop problems are settled.

Jerry Duchene to tour Europe

Jerry Duchene, who is now Aie in the Air Force, will leave March 17 for a two month tour of England, France, Germany, Italy and North Africa with the other three members of the instrumental and vocal group known as the "Four Saints" before their induction into the service.

Jerry, the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Duchene of Oak Harbor, and graduate of Oak Harbor high school, is stationed in Washington D. C. The quartet expects to return about the middle of May.

While in Washington, Jerry has had the pleasure of visiting with his sister and brother in law, Lt. and Mrs. Ben Daugherty and family, who have just brought a new home in Springfield, Virginia.

Anacortes church planning revival

The First Southern Baptist church, 1105 12th Street, Anacortes, will conduct revival services nightly except Saturday from Feb. 16 through Feb. 23, at 7:30 o'clock.

The Rev. Pete Engle of the First Baptist church of Whalley B. C., will be the guest speaker.

With your County Agent

by J. C. Long

(J. C. Long, formerly of Thurston county, assumed his new duties as Island county extension agent at the start of this month. With this week's issue, he begins a weekly news paper column designed for readers with farm and rural interests.)

Yes, I am on the job and have met quite a number of you folks. It will take some time to see everyone. So, be patient. That's one reason why I'm writing for the newspaper. It will reach a lot of you at one time.

YOUR FRUIT trees will look and do better if pruned, and you should not wait any later than absolutely necessary to do that job. Also, fruit trees, cane berries, and many ornamentals should be sprayed with a delayed dormant spray. We usually recommend liquid lime sulfur.

The proportions vary with plants so why not call or write our office—Island County Extension Service, Courthouse, Coupeville, for a circular. Also, we have an illustrated bulletin on pruning that is very good.

SOIL ANALYSIS work is done by our Washington State college at Pullman at a very nominal fee. Our extension office in Coupeville has the kits and instructions for your use.

Why should one have his soil tested? That is a good question. With a soil analysis every farmer has a much better basis for using the proper amount and kinds of fertilizer. So why not call us for the kit and get your soil tested?

THE AMERICAN Guernsey Cattle Club announces these winners: Straits View Goldies

Lily, owned by Henry Weiden, 10,040 pounds of milk and 520 pounds of fat on twice a day milking and in 305 days. Lily was a Junior four year old.

Rockyhill Violets Cherry, owned by C. P. Boon, Oak Harbor, produced 11,205 pounds of milk and 556 pounds of fat. Rockyhill was a Junior three year old.

Also Rockyhill Nanettes Holly, also owned by C. P. Boon, produced 10,092 pounds of milk and 490 pounds of fat as a Junior two year old. These records are supervised by the State College of Washington.

So long for this week!

Junior college planning for enrollment hike

Principals and guidance counselors of all Snohomish and Island county high schools have been invited to a dinner meeting in Everett Junior college this evening, Feb. 13, to hear details of the college's admission procedure which will affect high school seniors expecting to enter the school in the fall. Problems involved in the transfer of students from the high school to the college level will also be discussed.

The admission procedure which is now in effect at Everett Junior college, places admission on a "first come, first served," basis, officials of the college have announced. Appointments for fall registration will be given out in the order in which applications for admission are received, and these applications must be accompanied by the $5 non-refundable matriculation fee in order to be processed.

Seniors who expect to enter Everett Junior college in the fall are encouraged to get their applications and matriculation fees in immediately so they will be assured of a registration appointment. The student's grade records need not be sent with the application, but should be forwarded to the college by the high school office when the student has completed all his high school work.

The above admission procedure is necessitated by what college officials expect will be a sizable increase in the number of students desiring admittance next fall when the college moves to its brand new campus in north Everett. Full-time enrollment of the college for the present winter quarter is 1122.

As you may know, a distant relative of mine is a T-V star, and at times I'll admit I felt a twinge of envy. But after a session with the photographer last week, my yearn for fame in the T-V world has vanished like fleas after a bath in DDT. Those bright lights are not for me! I barked and beat it.

If you happened to read the BIG print in this ad, or looked at the pictures, you'll notice the Boss has a wonderful sole on Colonial Maple tables. These are some of my favorites — just the right height for back scratching, with gently rounded edges to take care of itchy spots, but not sharp enough to make a dog too ambitious. There's something homey about maple, sturdy enough to be in the family a long time, but nice enough to "put on the dog" — people expression meaning really elegant.

Windy's "Sleep Machine"

"Call me lazy," says Windy Taylor, "but it's folks like me who are responsible for progress. Come see my latest invention."

Windy's latest consists of an old alarm clock, some door springs, a car battery—all wired up to the hopper of his cattle-feeder.

When the alarm goes off it closes a circuit—opening the chute and sending feed into the manger automatically. The clock's set at 12, so the cattle get fed midnight and noon while Windy sleeps (he takes a midday nap). They look fat and contented...and so does he.

From where I sit, I wouldn't call Windy "lazy." Far from it. It's just that he looks at things from every possible angle—and it seems to do him good. Windy keeps an open mind on all subjects. If you prefer buttermilk to, say, a glass of beer, he's not the type to "invent" ways of forcing his choice on you.

Four Air Bases To Close Soon

Four Navy and Marine Corps air stations are scheduled to be closed during the next 18 months. Slated for disestablishment are the Naval Air Station, Atlantic City, N.J., the Marine Corps Air Station, Miami, Fla., and Naval Auxiliary Air Stations at Edenton, N.C. and Cabaniss Field, Corpus Christi, Tex.

The four stations are being closed because of the necessity for reductions in aircraft, personnel, and associated bases in the Naval aviation establishment. A planned reduction in the Navy's pilot training rate is a major factor in the decisions to close Cabaniss Field which is part of the Naval Air Training Command.

Delay granted in hearing on shooting case

A justice court hearing on charges of second degree murder and assault against Eugene (Bun) Harnden and Lawrence Stewart was continued for a second time Monday at the request of the defendant's attorney.

Harnden, 36, of Camano, and Stewart, 47, of Seattle, face the charge in connection with the fatal shooting Dec. 20 of Harnden's younger brother, Dale, 24. The defendants, represented by Max Koshier of Everett, claim the death was a case of suicide.

Thirteen witnesses were heard at the Jan. 27 hearing in Justice of the Peace J. E. Kramer's court.

Meeting dates for the two new Island county organizations will be announced later.

Leonora Brown passes away

Mrs. Leonora E. Brown, widow of the late C. Franklin Brown passed away at the Loma Linda hospital, Redland, Calif., Jan. thirty-first.

Mrs. Brown was born at Lancaster, Ohio, May 31, 1880. She was the eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Shaw, and is the first of six children to pass on.

She led a colorful early life, having been graduated from the Byron E. King School of Oratory in Pittsburgh, Pa., about the turn of the century. She was on the Lecture Course platform for some years, giving programs in various theaters in the Middle West before Chautauquas took the place of this form of entertainment. She then went West, where she taught elocution in the schools. She even "proved up" on a ranch in Utah.

She came to the Oak Harbor area when her husband was employed on the construction of the Coulee Dam.

First V-4 outboard motors being introduced to boatmen in 1958

Two-car garages and double carports are in demand everywhere, according to the building contractors. If you think this means that every family nowadays has two cars—well, look again, says Willard Crandall, editor of Sports Afield magazine. Often enough it's the car on one side and a shiny new outboard boat and trailer on the other. The outboard boom is on. Wider and cleaner wakes will be left by outboards this year. There's a definite accent on large boats and large motors. For 1958 the first V-4 outboard motors have been introduced, and the first large modern three cylinder outboard engine. Also, there's a 70 hp outboard. A new four-cycle four develops 60 hp. All-new and larger twins show even further improvements in what were already highly refined outboard motors.

THERE ARE new quieter exhausts and power-heads, new carburetors, temperature-controlled cooling systems and other mechanical improvements; new features such as automotive type dashboards and "automatic mixing" fuel tanks—the list is a long one.

Outboard boats too are showing surprising advances in design, in the all-important underwater lines. These appear in what are now called the medium sized craft. Making an impression also are the new-practical, ingenious interior arrangements. The 1958 boats are more comfortable for drivers and passengers, easier to move around in, more cleverly arranged aboard for everything from water skiing to cruising, angling or joy riding.

THERE ARE more than six million pleasure craft in use in the U.S. today. This is approximately one boat for every seven families. Outboards in use total over five million. Well over 600,000 outboard motors were sold in 1957, compared to the 12,100 in 1919. There are now an estimated 10,000 marinas and other waterfront launching, servicing and docking facilities for recreational boaters.

No wonder manufacturers have been able to respond for 1958 with greater boats and motors.

Week's road toll drops to only 3

With this last week recording only three traffic deaths, the total for February now stands at four, seven less than reported during the corresponding period in February, 1957. For the year, 55 deaths have been recorded, an increase of ten over the same period last year.

Two drivers and a pedestrian were killed during the last week. Excessive speed, disregarding direction of a traffic officer and running into the street were the contributing violations.

Here are last week's statistics:

Traffic deaths last week ending 2-10, 3; last year, 6.
Traffic deaths so far this month 4; last year, 11.
Traffic deaths so far this year 55; last year, 45.

SO FAR this year, urban traffic deaths are 16, an increase of seven, while in the rural areas 39 deaths have been reported, an increase of three.

If present trends continue, it is possible that February will record fewer deaths than last year's 45. County roads and a city street were the scenes of last week's fatalities.

The record so far this month is outstanding, and is a credit to the careful driving being exercised.

HOWEVER, as has been noted in the past, this reduction can be dissipated in a weekend. There can be no relaxing on the part of drivers, enforcement agencies and other interested groups, if we are to continue this trend. In fact, efforts must be redoubled.

Weather continues to bring sudden changes in driving conditions, and while our winter this year has been mild, it can change quickly. Ice and snow can make driving extremely hazardous, and it is essential that motorists and pedestrians change their driving and walking habits accordingly. It is foolhardy to take a chance when walking or driving. This frequently ends in tragedy.

Every owner shall be required to provide each dog with a collar to which the license tag must be affixed, and shall see that the collar and tag are constantly worn. In case a dog tag is lost or destroyed, a duplicate will be issued by the clerk upon presentation of a receipt showing the payment of the license fee for the current year, and the payment of fifty cents for such duplicate. Dog tags shall not be transferable from one dog to another and no refunds shall be made on any dog license fee because of death of the dog or the owner's leaving the city before expiration of the license period.

Section 4. Impounding. It shall be the duty of every police officer to apprehend any dog found running at large contrary to the provisions of this Ordinance and to impound such dog in the pound or other suitable place. If licensed he shall enter the name and address of the owner and the number of the license tag.

Section 5. Notice to Owner and Redemption. Not later than two (2) days after the impounding of any dog the owner shall be notified, or if the owner of the dog is unknown written notice shall be posted for four (4) days at three or more conspicuous places in the Town of Oak Harbor describing the dog and the place and time of taking. Whenever it becomes necessary to safeguard the public from the dangers of hydrophobia, the Mayor, if he deems it necessary shall issue a proclamation ordering every person owning or keeping a dog to confine it securely on his premises unless such dog shall have a muzzle of sufficient strength to prevent its biting any person. Any unmuzzled dog running at large during the time of the proclamation shall be seized and impounded, unless noticeably infected with rabies. All dogs so noticeably infected with rabies and displaying vicious propensities shall be impounded. Dogs impounded during the first two days of such proclamation shall, if claimed within five days be released to the owner, unless infected with rabies, upon payment of the impounding charges provided for in Section 5. If unclaimed after that period, such dog may be summarily destroyed.

Section 9. Rabies—Notice. ENROUTE TO WHIDBEY during cross-country trip from East Coast, Dutch Pirate was easily accommodated with this

This spring: "Dutch Pirate" to cruise Whidbey waters

by Alice Elles

Edward and Frances Wood, recent arrivals and residents of Title VIII, are happy that Douglas Aircraft had an opening for an additional representative on Whidbey Island. Three good reasons for their elation are that, first and foremost, they are boating enthusiasts. Secondly, it was like coming "home" to Ed as he was born and raised in Seattle and remembers many wonderful summer vacations on Vashon Island. And third, because he is working again with an old friend, Jim Woosley, who is the senior Douglas representative at the Air Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood attended UCLA at the same time and after graduation were both em-since they had been in Maryland 7½ years, they decided to purchase a boat to use on Chesapeake Bay.

In Washington, D.C., they saw a craft that captured their imagination with its very sharp lines. They saw it again at the New York boat show where it was officially introduced to the public. The dealer was located in Annapolis and this was the first and only boat that he had imported from its manufacturer in Holland.

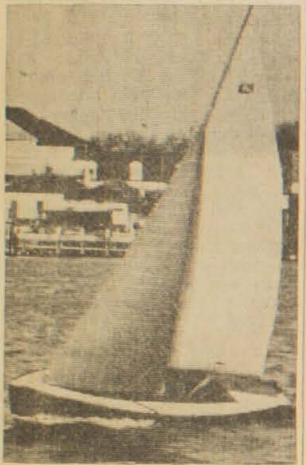

The Woods took it out, intending to sail down the bay from Annapolis to Patuxent. This is a distance of about 60 miles if on a straight course. All went well until after noon when they were suddenly becalmed in the summer heat. At sundown a typically sudden and violent East Coast storm came up, forcing them to race for cover. They found a duck blind and tied up to that until they were able to hail a fishing boat which was also seeking haven. At 2 a.m. they experienced the fastest tow they had ever had to the little town of Deale, Md. A call to the boat agent resulted in transportation by car back to Patuxent.

NOTHING daunted, they returned to the boat the next weekend to continue their trip. They were becalmed again and there was another storm as the sun set. This time there was no shelter of any kind so they threw over the anchor and held on while the boat pitched and rolled. At dawn they took off like a shot and reached their destination safely. That was when they decided that as much as it offends a true sailing man, an outboard motor was a necessary evil. They took possession of the boat and of course that was the logical time for a transfer to come through.

However, the "Dutch Pirate" proved no problem for transportation. By simply removing 3 bolts the keel comes off and can be shipped separately. With the mast laid diagonally across the hull, the craft can be hauled easily on a low trailer. This makes it the ideal boat for a man who moves almost as often as his Navy neighbors.

THE STATISTICS of the Pirate are interesting to those who know boats. She is 21½ ft. overall length, 6½ ft. beam, with open cockpit, 3 ft. draft and 350 lb. removable keel.

Color photography does this played at a Douglas plant in California. Mr. Wood volunteered the information that his wife is entirely too modest to divulge the fact that she was Phi Beta Kappa at the University and worked in the aerodynamics section of the engineering division of the plant. Later she became an aeronautical engineer on the staff of the University of Southern California, one of the few women to hold such a post. During their assignment at the Patuxent River base, she headed a data analysis group of the flight test division.

THE COUPLE had owned a 16-foot Snipe in California but felt that transporting a craft around the country would be most impractical. However, vessel justice as the hull is painted in "Hot Red" the stern dark blue and the deck cream. The choice of colors is understandable as they are the national colors of Holland. The jib sail is orange red and the mainsail is white with a skull and crossbones insignia. There is a blue canopy which can be laid over the cockpit to make a tent-like shelter for sleeping.

MR. AND MRS. Edward Wood are enjoying their tour on the Island, where they reside at Whidbey Apartments. He is a native of Washington, and she of California.

The hull is of 5-ply mahogany plywood and is painted with a product that has a very deep gloss and dries with a glass-like finish.

Of interest to Northwest folk is the fact that the 26' mast is of Oregon pine-hollow with a Swedish track. Which means that the sail goes up inside the mast and there is no outside hardware. It has a high freeboard and even throughout the experience with the 5 to 6-foot waves in the Chesapeake storms the owners were never concerned with water in the boat or with spray.

THE DUTCH sit on the floorboards and lean against the cushioned sides of the cockpit. The boom is short as they have a theory that the wind is up higher rather than at the level of the boat as seems to be the belief in this country. The Swedish also build their craft in the same manner, saying you must "reach for the wind".

The boat has an adjustable rake of the mast and rudder position which is not generally allowed in American racing. That allows maximum efficiency and takes an experienced hand to operate properly.

With warmer weather and the boating season on its way, these marine-minded people will be taking the wraps off the "Pirate" and hope to spend many hours on the waters around Whidbey and the Sound. They are keenly disappointed that Oak Harbor does not offer any type of mooring facilities as they would prefer to keep the boat within easy access. However, when you see the red, white and blue vessel with its colorful sails spread full before the wind you will know that there go Ed and Frances Wood, enjoying a real Dutch treat.

Folk-dancing national pastime; families join in fun together

By Mrs. Edna Blackwood

Folk dancing is fun. Folk dancing is easy, and everyone can do it! As a harmless as well as a leading recreational activity, it is bringing countless hours of relaxation and pleasure to American communities.

Community folk dancing is being done by young and old, rich and poor, people of every walk of life, every nationality; everywhere good folks get together for an evening of fun.

In 1940 at the New York World's Fair (and coincidentally by the Golden Gate Exposition in California) thousands of Fair visitors were invited to try simple dances of many lands.

Entranced by the fun and ease with which they were able to do them, these people demanded places in which they could folk-dance regularly.

TO FILL THIS NEED, the Community Folk Dance Center was set up in New York, and groups formed clubs all over the country. By 1945, New York City reported 10,000 registered folk dancers, northern California 5,000, and in between the two states, hundreds of folks were finding in folk-dancing a type of provincial fun with which to fill their leisure hours.

There is no required shape, weight, or size for a square or folk dancer. Nobody cares what country you were born in, what church you attend, nor how you comb your hair. As long as you can keep time with the music and follow the simple "quarter back" signals of the caller, you have filled the requirements necessary to take part in one of the greatest family activities.

Don't worry about your dignity, the fact that you have three left feet, or never "danced" a step in your life. Just go to have a good time and relax with your neighbors and their families, and at the same time learn a little more of the cultures of peoples throughout hundreds of years.

Cshebogar (Hungarian Gypsy)

THIS IS a very simple little dance which dramatizes the Junebug as it flies around the flame. The dancers join hands and "fly" to the center (the flame) slowly, and then away quickly with a triumphant laugh.

Kalvelis—Lithuanian "Little Smith"

THE ACTION of this lovely little Lithuanian folk game imitates the metal smith as he hammers at his work. The steps are very very light.

Hol-di-ri-di-a — Swiss Walking Song

THIS DANCE is also called Weggis, pronounced Vch-kiss. Different cantons of Switzerland have slightly different versions of this folk song and it makes an interesting dance to have several versions put together in a definite sequence, thus tying the cantons together.

The Swiss schottische is different in that the free foot is lifted under the body, not swung forward or crossed over.

Grapplers lose in two Skagit mat matches

The wrestling squad of Oak Harbor high school dropped its latest two matches to the strong teams of Mount Vernon and Anacortes high schools. The Mount Vernon grapplers downed the locals 42 to 8, while Anacortes posted a 44 to 5 win.

Les Reintjes, 103 pounder, and Earl Strong, 165 pounder, were the lone Oak Harbor winners in the Mount Vernon match. Reintjes defeated the Bulldogs' Smith and Strong pinned Fagan of Mount Vernon.

Don Pease, representing the Wildcats in the 191 pound class, dropped a close battle to Mount Vernon's Scollard. Oak Harbor coach Jack Sinclair was especially impressed with the performance of the improving Pease.

Reintjes was again a winner in the Anacortes contest. Les defeated the Seahawks' Bill Welk in the 103 pound division. Jack Goodwin, the only other Wildcat to garner points against Anacortes, battled to a tie with Les Crosby in the 127 pound class.

Sam Dalton and Dave Lang also showed well against the Seahawk athletes. Dalton was edged by Ron Cain in the 145 pound division and Lang, in the 191 class, lost a close one to Gary Way.

Paul Cope serves as director of the North Whidbey association, with George Dickson filling the post of assistant director.

'Cats lose game played at Monroe

Led by Captain Gene Jaeger, the Wildcat basketballers of Oak Harbor High nearly pulled the upset of the season Friday night as they dropped a hard-fought 54 to 50 decision to the league-leading Bearcats of Monroe in a game played at the Snohomish county school.

Jaeger led all scorers for the evening with a total of 24 points, and was a veritable demon on the backboards as he out-rebounded the rangier Monroe athletes.

THE WILDCATS didn't believe the experts, who had installed them as definite underdogs in the contest, as they controlled the game in the opening quarter and took a 14 to 13 lead. Guard Jerry Storey led the first period spurt as he tallied eight points.

The vaunted Bearcat offense caught fire in the second quarter and the teams left the floor at the intermission with Monroe enjoying a 30 to 20 advantage. Norm Janke, with 9 points, led the Bearcats' first half attack.

Monroe's momentum of the first half carried over into the third period as the home town youngsters outscored the purple and gold 17 to 14 for a 47-34 third quarter lead.

The 'Cats employed a tight full-court defensive press in the final period and held the bearcats scoreless from the floor as Oak Harbor counted for 16 points. Monroe garnered but 7 points in the closing quarter, all on free throws.

OAK HARBOR finished the thriller with three starters viewing the game from the sidelines. Jerry Storey, John Zeilstra, and Bob Raymond, all starters, fouled-out of the contest. Storey and Zeilstra retired just minutes into the second half.

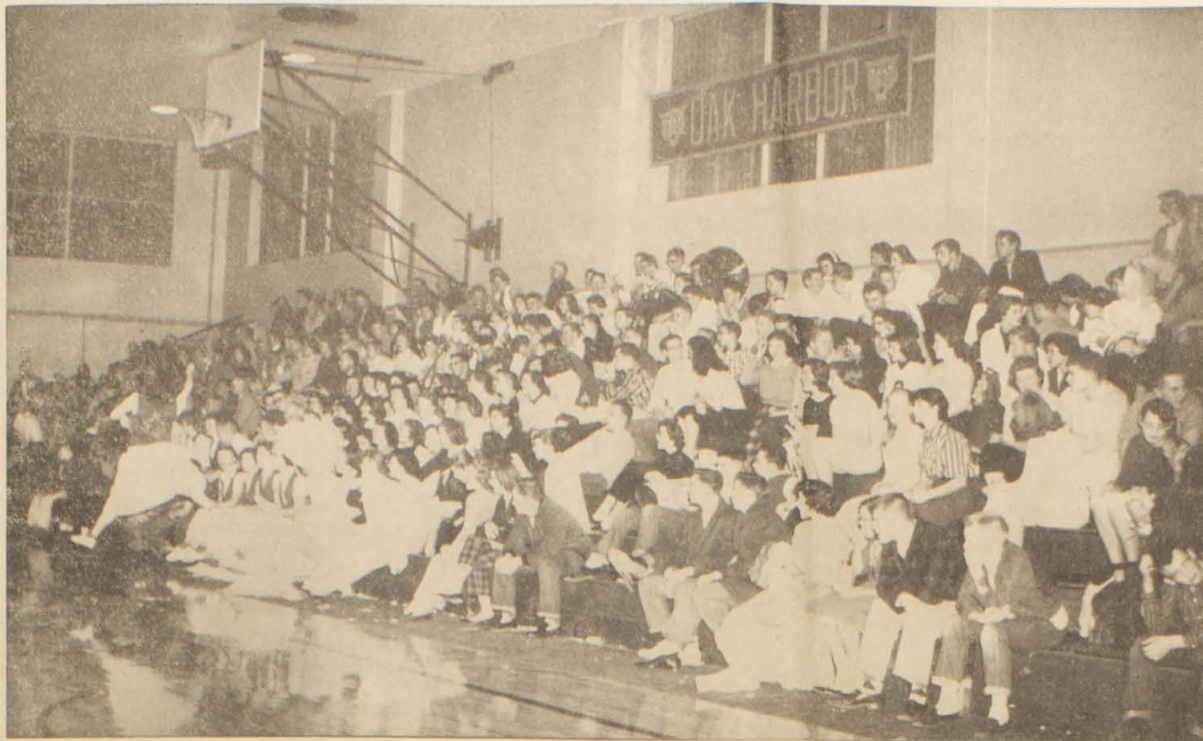

Storey was the Wildcats' second high scorer, behind Jaeger, with 10 tallies. Norm Janke, Bill Drivstuen, and Bruce Crowell, with 15, 12, and 10 points, respectively, were the leading Bearcat point-makers.

Oak Harbor's "B" squad dropped a close 32 to 27 call to the Bearcat B's in the preliminary game. Unable to find the range, Coach Tom Burrows' youngsters fell behind the Monroe reserves 12 to 5 at the first period mark.

THE MONROE B's continued to control the game in the second quarter and built up a 26 to 15 halftime margin. Both teams cooled in the third stanza as Monroe tallied but two points and Oak Harbor, one, to give Monroe a 28 to 16 third quarter lead.

Burrows' charges enjoyed their best quarter of the evening as they outscored the Monroe youngsters 11 to 4 in the final period. Time ran out cutting their rally short leaving them on the lower end of the 32 to 27 final count.

Walt Halley, Pete Whelan, and CHEERING SECTION at recent Oak Harbor basketball game yells lustily for home team during pause in play. A vocal student body, paced by active troops of cheer leaders, provides much of enthusiasm at local games.

Langley defeats Oak Harbor frosh hoopsters

The Oak Harbor High freshman basketball five journeyed to South Whidbey last Thursday afternoon and were defeated 35 to 23 by the Langley High Frosh.

The Wildcat Kittens jumped into the lead, 7 to 0, in the first quarter, but couldn't maintain the pace and fell before the sharp-shooting Falcon youngsters.

Coach Sid Parker's Kittens were unable to score a single point in the second period as the Langley yearlings popped in ten points to take a 10 to 7 halftime lead.

LANGLEY KEPT the pressure on throughout the third quarter and maintained a comfortable 10-point, 22 to 12 margin as the quarter ended.

The Kitts' enjoyed their best period of the contest in the fourth quarter as they counted for 11 points, but couldn't control the Southenders' offense and had to settle for the 35 to 23 loss.

The Langley victory evened the series between the two squads. Oak Harbor had won an earlier game played at the local gym early in the season.

THIS THURSDAY Parker takes his charges to Anacortes to meet the strong Seahawk frosh. The Anacortes youngsters won the first game of the series in a well-played contest here last month.

Parker, disappointed in his team's showing at Langley, indicated his starting lineup would be revamped for the important Anacortes fracas.

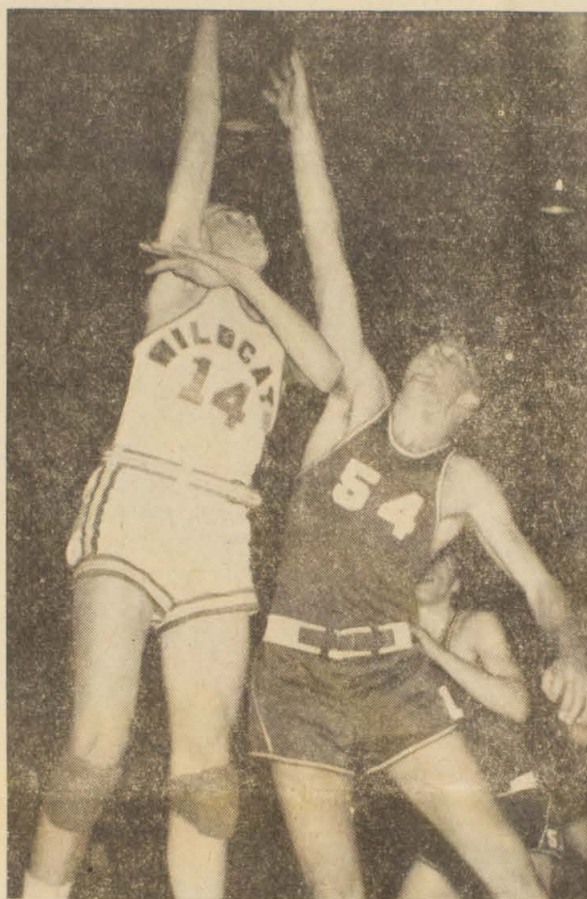

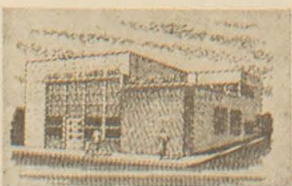

Bill Roberts led the scoring for the Wildcat B's. Halley scored 8, Whelan 7, and Roberts 6. Brommers of Monroe led all preliminary scoring with 12 points.

Coupeville still leads churchmen

Coupeville Methodists still top the church basketball standings with four straight wins in the second half of league play and 9 wins in the whole season.

They kept their record clean by downing a tough Oak Harbor Methodist team by 51 to 47.

It was a close game all the way. Hoffman and White led the scoring for the losers with 12 and 10 respectively while Vaughn picked up 18 counters for the winners to lead all scorers.

CHRISTIAN Reformed came out on top against First Reformed in another fine game which saw the latter go into an early lead, only to have Christian Reformed close the gap and go out in front to stay. The final score was 52-43 with Faber scoring 22 for the winners while Lang with 15 was high man for First Reformed.

The last game of the evening between the Lutherans and Baptists, was very close most of the way. The half-time score was 28-28. The second half saw the Lutherans pull out in front and able to hold a small lead until the final score of 60-55. Garrison was high for the Lutherans with 27 points while Layman and Nygren had 20 and 18 respectively.

OH bows to Langley in meet here

The Falcons of Langley High school traveled to Oak Harbor last Tuesday night to down the local five 30 to 21 in a low-scoring defensive basketball contest.

The Wildcats, starting smoothly, went into an 8 to 3 first quarter lead with Bob Raymond contributing four points to the 'Cats total. The Purple and Gold continued to dominate the game in the second quarter and held a 15 to 11 halftime advantage.

In a ragged, low scoring third period the visiting Falcons crept to within two points of the 'Cats at 19 to 17. Langley tallied six points in the period while holding Oak Harbor to four.

SOUTHERNDERS took control of the contest early in the fourth and final period and tallied 13 points while holding the bewildered Wildcats to a brace of free throws. The 'Cats counted but one field goal in the entire second half.

Bill Hanson, senior Falcon forward, led the scorers for the contest with 10 tallies. Langley's West followed Hanson with seven points. Bob Raymond and Bill Meche with 6 points apiece, paced the Wildcats meager total.

The Wildcat "B" squad made it two in a row over the Falcon "B" team as they downed the Langley youngsters, 49 to 35. Tom Burrows' Cat B's had previously downed the Southenders in a game played at Langley.

The Purple and Gold B's held quarter leads of 15 to 5, 28 to 11, and 39 to 20 over the visitors. Pete Whelan and Walt Halley were the leading Wildcat reserve scorers with 15 and 12 points, respectively.

Drury led the Langley B's with 13 points. Drury was followed by Grubb who counted for six tallies.

A tentative contest for the Panthers is set for this Thursday afternoon at the junior high gym with the Lakewood Elementary team of the Arlington district. The Panthers are determined to avenge an early season loss to the small but aggressive Lakers. Parents and others interested are invited to attend the game.

The local seventh-year youngsters fashioned a rally in the third period as they tallied 12 points while holding Anacortes scoreless. The fourth and final period saw the Mouw boys again outscore the visitors; this time 11 to 9, but time ran out on them and they had to be content to finish on the short end of the 38 to 28 final count.

Mike Smith led the scoring for the local seventh graders with 8 tallies, followed by George Gamble with 7. VanEngelen with

Arlington to ring down curtain on hoop season

Saturday night will ring down the curtain on the 1957-58 basketball season for the Oak Harbor High School Wildcats when they will entertain the Arlington Eagles in a Cascade League encounter.

The contest will mark the final game of the season for the Purple and Gold cagers and the last conference game for the visiting Eagles.

The Eagles, currently riding in second place in Cascade League standings will be heavily favored to down the local Wildcats. Arlington won the first game of the season between the two clubs, 74 to 62, in a game played at the Snohomish County school.

Saturday's fracas will mark the final game in the basketball careers of eight Wildcat varsity members. Captain Gene Jaeger, Bob Raymond, John Zeilstra, Bill Meche, Joe Short, Dave Nienhuis, Jack Taylor, and Lynn Weidenback will make their last appearance on the Oak Harbor maple court. Captain Jaeger, Raymond, Zeilstra, and Meche have seen considerable action as starters, while the others have been used mainly in reserves roles. Jaeger concludes his second season as an OHHS starter.

The Wildcats, inspired by the senior members of the squad, are determined to avenge the earlier loss to the Eagles and finish their final season on a successful note.

Jaeger chosen as honorary team captain

Senior letterman Gene Jaeger was elected last week by his teammates as their honorary captain for the Oak Harbor High basketball team for the 1957-58 season.

Jaeger is the Wildcats' regular center and has been the team's leading rebounder for the season. Though just six feet tall, Jaeger has battled on even
