PERSONAL

T. Intvelt was a visitor to Seattle during last week.

S. J. Patterson spent several days in Seattle the latter part of last week.

Reikele Zylstra, Jr., has been under the weather this week with an attack of la grippe.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Maylor enjoyed an automobile ride to Fort Casey on Sunday last.

Ed. Powers received a spic-and-span new J. I. Case threshing machine on Saturday.

Mr. Richards, of Stillacom, and Mr. Judson took dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald.

Mrs. E. A. Qvist, daughter and son, of Seattle, were visiting their parents in Oak Harbor during the week.

Born, in Oak Harbor, on Tuesday morning, Aug. 25, 1914, to Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Judson, a fine baby girl.

Miss Nellie Poolman and Peter Poolman, of Seattle, are visiting their grandparents near Oak Harbor.

Frank Barker, Mrs. J. Ely and Mrs. J. T. Rogers were among the passengers for Everett on Tuesday morning.

Vincent and Verna Jones, of Seattle, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart at Whidby during last week.

Mrs. S. J. Harmelling and Mrs. W. J. Blekkink, of Vashon, have been guests of the Loers family the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jones and J. H. Hart, of Richmond Beach, were visitors in Oak Harbor for one day this week.

Wm. Spoelstra this week bought seven head of good cows near Oak Harbor and shipped them to his farm near Munroe.

Tjart Strating and Leo Muyskens attended the merchants' state convention in Seattle on Friday and Saturday last.

P. Muller, Sr., reports that from 24 acres last week he threshed 706 full sacks of wheat. Other farmers are having good yields.

Attorneys R. B. and G. M. LeCocq left for Seattle and Olympia on Tuesday morning on important legal business for Chas. Wolfson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wiester and family, after three weeks outing at Camp Ish Ga Bible, returned on Monday to their home in Everett.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meyer, of North Yakima, were visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hulst, the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ellwanger were passengers on Tuesday morning's boat for Vashon, where they will visit friends for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hulst departed for North Yakima on Saturday last to visit Mrs. Hulst's father and pick hops for a couple of weeks.

Among the visitors to the W. C. T. U. convention at Langley last week were Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Frostad and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bowmer.

Jno. Powers motored over to Beachview the first of the week accompanied by Mrs. Heald and daughter Sybil and Mrs. Herber and Holloway.

Alfred Maylor and family automobilized to Everett on Saturday last, returning on the boat, as Mr. Maylor had some repairs to make on the machine.

D. M. Brosseau and family, of Bellingham, and Mrs. Frank Farrar and daughter, of Seattle, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bowmer at Camp Ish Ga Bible on Saturday and Sunday last.

Miss Hope Dickson, of Seattle, was an Oak Harbor visitor for a few days last week, during which time Nick Zylstra forgot all about the war in Europe, who killed Cock Robin or how old was Ann.

Died, near Oak Harbor, on Wednesday, August 26, 1914, Martha, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Mesman, aged 10 years. The funeral will occur from the Ch. Reform church at 3 o'clock this (Friday) afternoon.

ALL LOYAL CITIZENS READ THIS

The stockholders' meeting to be held in Oak Harbor tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at 2 o'clock for the purpose of perfecting the organization of a fruit growers and cannery association for this community will mark an event in our history which will take precedence above all others in so far as immediate local prosperity is concerned. For this reason every stockholder and all citizens, whether stockholders or not, should be present and aid in passing proper by-laws and constitution, electing the proper kind of directors and manager, discussing the acreage which can be put into berries and other marketable products available for a cannery or for packing for shipment east, the construction of a cannery building, location, etc.

Since the mass meeting held two weeks ago many more shares have been taken by farmers and land owners, and even by our business men and a number of ladies and young people; so it can be readily seen that this is a matter which is appealing to all as a splendid co-operative business proposition, not so much as to the individual profit on the investment in shares, but as a means of putting our land in a condition where it will bring results and thus bring in new population, and also as a medium through which our people eventually will have employment during the summer months and thus furnish the community with a channel through which money will circulate. We are essentially a farming and dairy community and cannot expect that factories will ever be established here; so our only means of employment of labor will be the cannery and dairy. The dairying interests of Whidby Island are limited, but the canning industry and small fruit growing could be extended to a business reaching into thousands of dollars per year, as has been proven in the Puyallup Valley, where the resources and soil are no better than here. At Langley the cannery has proven a big source of revenue to those who formerly went begging for a market, as stated to the News editor by a number of its stockholders, and it will not be long before the plant there will have to be enlarged. The same is said of the canneries at Ferndale and Nooksack in Whatcom county.

Thus and for the above reasons, we ask that our people all attend the stockholders' meeting tomorrow. Care should be taken in the selection of officials. Men should be chosen who are somewhat acquainted with soil values, berry culture, etc., and who will conduct the affairs of the association along strict business lines. It is of the utmost importance that, after organization and incorporation, the directors or a committee visit other successful cannery and fruit growers associations and secure all the data possible in order that we may make a proper start and not waste money. Others are making a big success of the cannery proposition, and there is no reason why we cannot do the same. We have the soil, the climate and the opportunity.

BREVITIES

Attend the cannery meeting tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon.

Jerome Ely and son Vernon took in the sights of Seattle on Saturday and Sunday.

The Zylstra Bros. harness shop looks bright and shiny in a new coat of paint. Next!—door.

The News job department is now engaged in printing the primary election ballots for Island county.

Don't forget the school mass meeting on Monday afternoon next. It is important. See notice elsewhere.

There were eighty-one passengers on the Calista for Everett on Thursday of last week to attend the big circus.

Every citizen, whether stockholders or not, should be present at the cannery meeting on Saturday (tomorrow) afternoon.

Farmers in this vicinity are not seemingly anxious to sell wheat at the current quotation. It is learned that some are holding for $30. Hope they get it.

G. V. Smith last week completed a contract of digging a well 195 feet deep for Mr. Pomeroy on Blowers Bluff. It is one of the deepest wells in these parts and has a splendid flow of water.

Wm. B. Ropes and family, of Mt. Vernon, W. E. Ropes and family of Sedro-Woolley, and Mrs. Edward Schnebele and son of Mt. Vernon, who are camped at Utsalady, came over in a launch one day last week and took in the sights of Puget Sound's Paradise.

Every person who has subscribed for stock in the Oak Harbor Fruit Growers & Cannery Association should be sure to attend the meeting of stockholders tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at 2 o'clock. There is important work to do in which all should have a part.

V. W. Richards, of Steilacoom, was a guest of Mr. Judson and family two days last week. Mr. Richards has charge of the poultry and stock department at the Steilacoom asylum. He was here looking after some school land he has leased on West Beach.

The school meeting held on Saturday last resulted in a negative vote on the proposition of moving the Central school teachers and pupils to the High School building. There were very few present. We understand the patrons of the school are pretty well divided on this question.

Miss Anna Peibenga, daughter of Mrs. Fred De Wilde, died on Saturday morning, August 22, after a lingering illness with tuberculosis. Deceased was aged 20 years. The funeral ceremony occurred at the Christian Reform church on Tuesday at 1 o'clock, Revs. Gelderloos and Brower officiating.

The forest fires in Crescent Harbor and the Dugalla Bay neighborhood have covered the island with smoke the past week and caused some damage to timber. James Neil's pole camp was in the track of the fire and some poles were burned. It is said the fire was started from a burning in some thistles and small brush.

A lady friend of the News sends in the following receipt for taking the feathers and down from a duck: Put the duck in a gunnysack, then dip the sack in boiling water, then fold the dry end of sack back over the duck and allow to steam 15 minutes, after which the feathers and down will come off easy. N. B. First kill the duck.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Binger, Mrs. Boynton and C. E. Franklin, of Concrete, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Franklin on Sunday. During the day they were joined by J. T. Rogers and family and V. L. Stroops and family in automobiles and all went to Port Nugent and enjoyed a breath of ocean breeze and a good luncheon.

Twenty-two extra sacks of parcels post mail were received at the Oak Harbor postoffice on Thursday evening last, and Friday morning the rural carriers had all they could do to get around to their patrons. A photograph was taken of their loads as they started from town. The extra mail was composed of catalogues for Squeers, Soebuck & Co.

SILVER MEDAL CONTEST AN INTERESTING PROGRAM

Without exception those who attended the Silver Medal oratorical contest held at Ladies Aid hall on Saturday evening last testified to their interest in the program, and especially in the efforts of the contestants to win the medal, all of whom did well. They were: Mary Christenson, Beth Izett, Angus Bowmer, Jean Izett, Agnes Erickson. We feel like giving just as much praise to those who failed to make perfect markings in memory, gesture, articulation, etc., as to the winner, because they were faithful in practice and worked hard, and next time they may carry off the prize. Miss Agnes Erickson was awarded the medal, and it was well earned. She had quite a difficult selection, but it was almost perfectly rendered, showing great natural ability and careful study for one so young—only 13 years of age. The judges were Rev. N. Gelderloos, Miss Pratt and Attorney G. M. LeCocq. The musical program was a pleasing feature, especially the colored quartette by Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bowmer and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wiester. On the part of the W. C. T. U. and Mrs. H. L. Bowmer, who had the training in charge, thanks are extended to the judges and all those who took part in the program. It is stated that this class may take part in a contest at Cornet Bay in the near future.

A BIRTHDAY PICNIC AND A SPLENDID TIME

Wednesday, August 19th, Audrey Morse and a number of friends had a birthday picnic in celebration of the former's twelfth birthday. Miss Morse had decided to have her picnic near Eerkes spring on the beach, so it was arranged to have the guests meet at her home at 10 a. m. At the appointed time all who were coming had arrived, so we took baskets, paper bundles and started for the beach on foot. We arrived where we were to have the picnic about 11 o'clock, so before dinner all of the girls went in wading. At noon four of the girls spread dinner—and such a feast! There were sandwiches, cookies of all kinds, doughnuts, salad, pickles, lemonade, the birthday cake, which was very nice, and last of all came a good sized watermelon. After the dishes and things had been cleared away (there weren't many eats) all but three girls went in bathing. Two of the girls had water wings and the others made rafts on which they went up and down exploring the shore. About 3:45 all of the girls dressed and got ready to go home. The basket wasn't so heavy as it was when coming down to the beach. At Eerkes' corner we separated into two parties, one going toward town the other up over the hill. If we could have such a good time every birthday I'm afraid some of us would want to grow old fast.

Mrs. H. Grashuis and Mrs. A. J. Brink and son spent a day with friends in Everett last week.

For County Clerk

THE News is pleased to call attention to the candidacy of John C. Richards for the office of County Clerk on the Republican ticket. We believe that the Republicans of Island county will do well to give all their strength to Mr. Richards at the primaries on Tuesday, September 8th, as he is a young man perfectly competent for the position, has many friends among citizens of whatever political faith and would be a sure winner at the general election. As a young business man he has made good and has the close friendship and confidence of his employers. Messrs. Kineth & Wiggins, in whose employ he has been for seven years past as bookkeeper. He has held several responsible public positions, such as city clerk of Coupeville and president of the Coupeville Commercial Club, and the citizens of that community gladly testify as to his ability, gentlemanly demeanor and moral worth. Mr. Richards is also among our most progressive young citizens and believes in making Island county as good a place to live as any in the state. Lastly, he was born in Island county, and in nominating him for county clerk at the forthcoming primaries our Republican friends will be paying a tribute to a native son.

The News, as before announced, is not bound by partisan ties and believes that our people should to the best of their knowledge select the most competent men to transact their county business. It is for this reason that we favor the candidacy of John C. Richards for the office of county clerk, and we believe that if nominated he will be elected by a large majority.

The Misses Nellie and Elsie Smith visited friends in Everett and Seattle Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

THERE IS NO REASON FOR RECENT ADVANCE IN PRICES

Since the war has advanced to serious proportions dealers in commodities of life have taken advantage of the situation and advanced the prices on certain things which place them beyond the reach of the common people. For instance, sugar has gone up from $5.15 a sack to $8 while flour has advanced fifty cents a 100 pounds. There is absolutely no necessity for these extreme prices. There is just as much sugar and sugar material in the country now as there was before the war was thought of, and as to flour its rise is perfectly ridiculous from the fact that we have more wheat than is necessary to supply the world. It is a subterfuge of the dealers in large cities who always take advantage of circumstances to profit at the expense of those who can ill afford to stand the pressure. The government of this country should take this matter in hand as England is doing, and see that speculators are deterred from profiting off the hard working class and those who cannot afford to dwell in luxury.

FOR COUNTY OWNERSHIP OF DECEPTION PASS FERRY

Much complaint is heard this summer regarding the delay occasioned in crossing the Deception Pass ferry and oftentimes people turn back on the Fidalgo side rather than wait for hours to cross over. There is only one remedy for this unfortunate feature in our means of rapid ingress or egress from this part of Island county, and that is county ownership of the ferry and a slight change in its location. We believe that a ferry properly managed and sufficiently equipped would be a paying investment to the taxpayers year in and year out. The past summer's travel has demonstrated this fact. Why not take this matter up, talk it over in a business way, and submit it by petition to the county commissioners? We know there is some prejudice against county ownership of a ferry, but we believe it is not founded on good business reasons. During the next year this matter should receive thorough investigation and agitation.

MASS MEETING CALLED

On account of the very small attendance at the meeting called for Saturday last, the board of directors of the Oak Harbor schools take this means of calling a mass meeting to be held in the Central school building on Monday, August 31, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of discussing the advisability of transferring the pupils and teachers to the High School building.

By order of the Board.
It J. T. ROGERS, Clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Angel, of Seattle, were guests of the Bantz family several days last week.

POPE PIUS X IS DEAD

Pontiff's Demise Hastened By Grief Over Great War.

Rome—Pope Pius X died at 1:20 o'clock Thursday morning. He had been ill for several days, but alarming symptoms did not develop until Wednesday morning.

Throughout the day Drs. Marchiafava and Amici devoted their utmost energies to stimulating their patient and keeping him alive. The cardinals were informed of the Pope's grave condition and some of them who entered the sick room describe the impressive scenes, especially when the pontiff, rousing himself from time to time, spoke.

"In ancient times the Pope by a word might have stayed the slaughter, but now he is impotent," he said once. Prayers were said by thousands and the papal secretary, who take charge of affairs in such an emergency, were out of Rome, so little was the death of the Pope expected.

Outside the apostolic palace the scene was mournful.

The Giornale D'Italia, discussing the difficulties of holding a conclave for the election of a Pope while the world is at war, says that even if Italy were among the belligerents every facility would be given the sacred college to meet. It expressed the belief that a new Pope might be chosen from among the foreign cardinals, for instance, Cardinal William Van Rossum, of the archdiocese of Utrecht, the Netherlands, who would be representative of a neutral power.

POPE PIUS X.

259th Incumbent of Papal See, Since Year 67, A. D.

the bells of the churches sounded when the sacrament was exposed upon all the altars. When the court learned of the Pope's condition there was the deepest concern. King Victor Emmanuel personally informed Queen Helena and the news was communicated to the Queen mother.

Extreme unction was administered by Monsignor Zampini, sacristan to His Holiness. The sisters of the Pope and his niece were overcome with grief. Cardinal Merry del Val knelt by the side of his bed, where other cardinals joined in, the members of the household intoning prayers.

The dying Pope, in a moment of lucidity, said:

"Now I begin to think as the end is approaching that the Almighty in his inexhaustible goodness wishes to spare me the horrors Europe is undergoing."

Wednesday was one of the most anxious days in the history of the papacy. The whole world knew that the Pope was indisposed, but it was supposed that he was suffering from his usual ailment, the gout. Up to noon even the members of the household were unaware of the seriousness of the developments. Almost without warning came the word that the Pontiff was at death's door.

All day his agony continued. At times he revived and was able to say a few words, but hope of saving him was finally abandoned. Several times throughout the city and at the palace the rumor spread that the end had come, only to be denied later.

In the presence of Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary, and Cardinals Ferrara, Cagiano and Bisleti, and the two sisters of the Pope, a bulletin on the condition of the Pontiff was posted early in the afternoon on the bronze door of the Vatican where the Swiss guards stood watch. A great crowd outside gazed with grief-stricken faces up at the Pope's chamber on the second floor.

Confusion reigned at the Vatican because those, with the exception of Early Career of Pope.

Giuseppe Melchiorre Sarto, known to the world as Pope Pius X., was elected to the Pontificate on August 4, 1903, since which time his administration of that exalted office has been confronted with some of the most momentous problems, religious and governmental, with which the Holy See has had to deal in recent times.

They have included, on the one hand, his determined attitude in maintaining the purity of Catholic faith, beginning with his syllabus condemning criticism of the holy scriptures and of the origin of Christianity, and later bringing forth the famous Encyclical "Pascendi" which expounds and condemns the system of modernism; and, on the other hand, the painful struggles which he had inherited with France over the separation of church and state, and later with Spain on similar issues, and more recently with Portugal as a result of the revolution which overthrew the monarchy.

Pope Pius was born on June 2, 1835, at Riese, in the Venetian provinces, the first child of Gian-Battista Sarto, a postman, and his wife Margherita. They were of the upper peasantry, if one may use the term, and besides the boy destined to be Pope there were seven children, a son and six daughters. The fathers' salary of 40 cents a day and the mother's modest earnings from making dresses afforded them only the necessities of life.

Giuseppe's early career was fortunately influenced by the village priest, who took a liking for the boy, taught him to read and write and drummed into the youthful head the rudiments of Latin. With this impetus Giuseppe at the age of 11 years entered the seminary at Castelfranco, not far from his birth place, and for four years every day, rain or shine, he tramped to school, usually barefooted, until he reached the outskirts of the village, where he would slip on his shoes to keep up appearances. Two pairs of shoes was his yearly allowance.

European War Will Not Hurt U. S., Says Expert

Washington, D. C.—Daniel C. Roper, for many years statistical expert of the ways and means committee and an authority on economic subjects, has prepared the following summary of the important economic conditions and changes in the United States, brought about by the war in Europe:

The European war has precipitated a distinct movement in the economic development of the United States, the potential benefits of which will be realized by our people regardless of what course that conflict may take or what its ultimate outcome may be. This movement begins with a certain shock to the economic organism. We have been called upon to liquidate large foreign holdings of American securities. Temporarily we have been cut off from much of our foreign supply of materials for manufacturers and from important foreign markets for our surplus food products, raw materials and manufactures.

This constitutes a disturbance of normal conditions sufficiently serious to cause alterations of the fundamental industrial organization and to create new channels of trade. The ultimate beneficial effect of such a disturbance is well known and eventuates even when the disturbance is accompanied by great disaster and loss, which is clearly not our case in the present instance.

Our country is in a self-contained and self-supporting state. It imports only $18 worth of goods per capita annually, and exports in return $25 per capita. This foreign trade is not large enough compared with our domestic commerce to be vitally essential to our national well being and such as it is, the balance is safely in our favor. The importance of our foreign trade, though great, is therefore easily exaggerated.

But there is no reason to fear any important stoppage of our foreign trade. Shipping is not suspended; our commerce can be adjusted to the changed conditions; the machinery for international exchanges remains unimpaired.

The circumstances of the war are such that at the present time the vessels of all belligerents except Germany and Austria, as well as the vessels of all neutral nations, are free to sail on the high seas without any danger of molestation that need deter them, especially in view of the provision by the several governments of war-risk insurance.

Only about one-sixth of the tonnage of our foreign trade has been carried under the flags of nations whose shipping is now suspended. It is reasonable to expect that the shipping measures now being authorized by congress will effectually supply any vessels needed in addition to those now available. Moreover, it is to be noted that cessation of shipping between belligerent nations and the establishment of effective blockades leaves free many vessels that may be employed in American trade.

Grain Exports Are Cut Nearly 100,000,000 Bushels

Chicago—The trade does not seem to grasp the fact that in the European war the allies' control of the sea removes Germany as a wheat buyer, says H. E. Rycroft. "She has been a direct buyer of from 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels each year, but in addition she has been the final market for a large part of the takings of Belgium and Holland.

"These two countries import an average of about 125,000,000 bushels a year and have a crop of about 20,000,000 bushels, making a supply of 145,000,000 bushels. Their own consumption, with a population of 13,000,000, is only 80,000,000 bushels, so that over 60,000,000 of their imports are destined for Germany. This trade is also cut off, so that the total European demand is reduced nearly 100,000,000 bushels on account of Germany's isolation.

"Should the allies obtain naval supremacy in the Mediterranean it will make possible to again draw Russian supplies from the Black Sea, and as she is not a wheat-eating country her wheat will come out in exchange for the credit she needs in prosecuting her arms. Instead of the war stimulating the demand for wheat in Europe it seems that the opposite for the present is more likely, and export business must be more or less restricted."

Carlsbad Refugees Arrive.

London — Steamers from Flushing, the Netherlands, brought here 650 Americans, most of whom were at Carlsbad when the war broke out. Among the passengers were Frank A. Munsey, the publisher, who has been active among relief workers at Carlsbad, and Archer M. Huntington, president of the American geographical society, and his wife, who were arrested at Nuremberg two weeks ago and held by the German police for a day or two as spies.

Smut Explosions Destroy 1500 Acres Fine Grain

Walla Walla — Fires starting from smut explosions, sparks, etc., have burned 1500 acres of grain near Prescott and Waitsburg since Friday. On the Joe Harvey ranch, near Prescott, Sunday and Monday, 600 acres of standing grain was burned. This is the third fire on the farm this fall. On the O'Dell ranch 400 acres were burned, and there were fires on the McLaughlin and Malloy ranches. A Hopson lost 130 acres of grain and a separator, and on the McKinney ranch, near Waitsburg, 400 acres were burned.

A Moser, who was fined $100 in justice court on being convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a minor by selling him liquor, put up an appeal bond of $500 and was immediately rearrested on a charge of maintaining a nuisance.

The city commissioners passed an ordinance requiring all taxicabs and other motor vehicles used for hire to pay an annual license fee of $20. This will protect the local concerns during Frontier Days and at other times when outsiders have offered machines for hire.

Commission Makes Direct Appeal to Crop Shippers

Olympia — Active steps have been taken by the public service commission to do all in its power to avert the shortage of cars, felt more keenly this fall than ever before because of the big crops of fruit and grain awaiting shipment. In order to facilitate the movement of the crops the commission has sent letters to all shippers and carriers urging them to employ haste in loading, unloading and moving cars.

Rate Expert O. O. Calderhead, of the commission, issued a statement in which he discussed at length the possible means whereby the supply of available cars can be increased. He said the reports received indicate a very heavy crop of grain and hay, that there also appears to be an increased demand in the lumber trade, while the movement of coal has been naturally curtailed during the summer months—all of which points to a car shortage of more than usual seriousness.

The commission, realizing that their jurisdiction does not extend to the shippers and consignees, felt that many complaints which would inevitably follow such a shortage could be avoided if the seriousness of delays in loading and unloading was called to the attention of the public. The commission can require carriers to furnish and move cars promptly, but if shippers and consignees are neglectful in performing their part in loading and unloading promptly, much of the benefit derived from the prompt handling by carriers will be nullified. This failure on the part of shippers and consignees is probably due to thoughtlessness, and the generally prevailing idea that carriers are solely responsible for car shortages.

As a matter of fact, the carriers in the state of Washington are really in a better condition as to the amount of equipment available than in many of the Eastern states, due to the fact that the state of Washington is a Pacific Coast terminal with large repair shops and car manufacturing plants. It would seem that, with the many advantages with regard to the supply of cars, and an effort on the part of the carriers to expedite movement, and an operation on the part of the shippers and consignees, the annual loss would be materially lessened.

Fruit Growers Prepare To Hold Present Crop

North Yakima — Storage for more than half of the apple crop of the valley can be provided in the warehouses now in condition to receive fruit if it becomes necessary to put away that amount on account of predicted demoralization of the market.

The total cold and common storage in the valley is given at 3275 carloads. Of this amount storage for 1460 carloads of it is cold storage, the rest common. Seven firms offering cold storage will be able to handle 1580 carloads; four houses offering dry cold storage can take care of 120 carloads, and the common storage is estimated at 1575 carloads. Thus half of the entire crop may be held until January and one-quarter until spring before it is necessary to market it. Much of the storage has already been contracted for, and inquiry in regard to it is active. Dealers predict that a large proportion of the crop will be held. Of the soft fruit crops of the valley one local dealer said that the recent advance in the price of sugar was the worst blow that had been dealt to the fruit industry of the Yakima valley for years.

With exports cut off and a prohibitive price placed on sugar for canning, he predicted that it would be impossible to give peaches away by the end of another week. He said that if the sugar dealers had deliberately planned to injure the fruit industry here they could not have hit upon a more successful scheme.

Commissioners May Build Jetty to Save Farm Land

Chehalis—Owing to the continued incursions of the Cowlitz river above the town of Toledo onto some of the fine farms in that vicinity on the south and east side of the stream the Lewis county commissioners are seriously considering the advisability of building a jetty for the purpose of changing the course of the stream. Already many acres of fertile land have been washed away by the recurring high waters of the winter season in the past few years, and the stream now bids fair to do still worse damage than ever.

It is feared that further washings will take more land, if not houses, barns and orchards. County Commissioners Gray and Long were at Toledo this week in company with Engineer Ward looking the situation over with the purpose of taking some definite action at an early date. A big steam scraper might be used effectively on part of the work in starting a new channel. While at Toledo the board members decided on certain needed repairs on the big span across the Cowlitz, and these will be made at once.

Canned Meat 25 Years Old Condemned by Inspectors

Olympia—That the pure food branch of the state department of agriculture made 4740 inspections during the year ending August 1, 1914, and that 388,159 cans and packages of food articles were condemned and destroyed during the year are facts contained in the report of J. J. Higgins, commissioner of that department. Some of the meat condemned was shown to have been canned for nearly a quarter of a century. The work was done by Mr. Higgins and two assistants, Will H. Adams, of Seattle, and Miss A. B. Wimple, of Tacoma. Miss Wimple's activities having been in bakery inspection except as she has made special inspections in other lines.

Canned fish afforded the greatest number of condemnations of any one article, 160,015 cans of fish having been destroyed. Soups condemned totaled 134,995 cans and beans 49,542. Other articles condemned were meats of various kinds, vegetables, sardines, sauces, relishes, fruits, jams, cereals, pickles and practically all kinds of food material commonly preserved in cans.

Hop Pickers Enough in Chehalis County Fields

Chehalis—All plans for picking the hop crops of the Chehalis and Newaukum valley yards are now about completed. Pickers are apparently to be plentiful, one of the big yards near town having almost its full quota already, with applications coming in daily.

As picking time approaches it is becoming more and more apparent to growers that the crop will be shorter perhaps than had been anticipated. Owing to the extreme dry spell and the warm weather the question of lice is giving the growers no worry, as few vermin can be found in any of the yards, and there has been less spraying done this season than for many years.

Abatement Decision Upheld.

Olympia—Affirming the decision of the Kittitas County Superior court, the Supreme court in a decision upholds the abatement proceedings brought under the red light law against Annie Schropfer, in relation of F. A. Kern. The defendants pleaded that the law was unconstitutional, but the validity of the law was sustained in another case presented at the same time.

State Land Sale September 1.

Chehalis — A sale of Lewis county lands and timber on state lands has been announced for September 1. The list includes holdings near Morton, near Mineral, near Winlock, and holdings southeast of Chehalis, about 20 miles, and others southwest of this city, in all aggregating appraisals to the amount of nearly $8000.

FROM COUPEVILLE

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Since I reported the presence of Mormon missionaries in this neighborhood, the Congregational minister has resigned and the Methodist preacher has taken his wife and went up Sound. These moves have been contemplated for some time.

Miss Mary Fullington, of this place, escaped a horrible death last week by just six pills. She was going to take a pill and commenced to talk to a fellow at the same time, and continued to do both without taking time to think; finally she discovered her mistake (I mean in the number of pills) and started on a sprint up the hill to the doctor's. When she arrived her heart seemed to beat about two hundred and fifty and she was sweating something fierce; but she did not want any one to know it till the last minute. Finally she noticed that her heart slowed down to normal, but she continued to sweat for about two hours. All at once she remembered that there was to be fried chicken for supper; so she hurried home, ate supper, and is still alive.

Frank Jenne, Will Race and Harry Race went camping at Holm's Harbor, and while out in a boat fishing and bathing were horrified on looking toward their camp to see it ablaze, everything going up in smoke. They hurried to shore, rushed into the burning tent, guns and shells exploding and smoke blinding their eyes. One bullet entered Will Race's leg and an exploding shell filled his skin with bird shot till he looked like a tattooed man. Everything was burned except a watch, a bathing suit and a blanket. Frank Jenne wore the bathing suit home, Will Jenne wore the blanket, while Harry Race had to content himself with the watch.

The Coupeville Wharf Company have completed a much needed improvement, viz: a screened in room for eggs, apples or anything rats will eat. Any one shopping in town can check a baby, a puppy or any other inconveniences.

Dr. Fullington had an attack of ptomain poison while here, and returned to Seattle accompanied by Mrs. Fullington.

Last week the light house tender put a put a new tremelo on the fog horn at Worden. The old one could not penetrate the smoke, fog and darkness of midnight. To any one who cannot sleep nights this is an increased aggravation and sounds like nothing on earth I have ever heard; and after stretching my imagination I can liken it to the sound a bull would make if compelled to eat a hive of live bumble bees. Proposed Amendment to State Constitution.

To be voted on November 3, 1914

"An amendment of section 33, article 2 of the state constitution, enabling alien residents of this state to acquire by purchase and hold lands lying within municipal corporations, and providing for the escheat of such lands to the common school fund in case the owner thereof becomes a non-resident of the state for the term of five years."

STATE OF WASHINGTON,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

To whom it may concern: In obedience to an act of the legislature, approved March 19, 1913, entitled as follows: "An act providing for the amendment of section 33 of article 2 of the constitution of the State of Washington, relating to the ownership of lands by aliens," there is hereby published for the consideration of the voters of the State of Washington the following proposed amendment to the constitution of said state:

That at the general election to be held in this state on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, 1914, there shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the state, for their adoption and approval or rejection, an amendment to section 33 of article 2 of the constitution of the State of Washington so that the same shall read, when so amended as follows:

Section 33: The ownership of lands by aliens, other than those who in good faith have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States, is prohibited in this state except where acquired by inheritance, under mortgage or in good faith in the ordinary course of justice in the collection of debts; and all conveyances of lands hereafter made to any alien directly, or in trust for such alien, shall be void: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to lands containing valuable deposits of mineral, metals, iron, coal, or fire clay, and the necessary land for mills and machinery to be used in the development thereof, and the manufacture of the products therefrom. Every corporation, the majority of the capital stock of which is owned by aliens, shall be considered an alien for the purpose of this prohibition. Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to conveyance of lands lying wholly within the limits of municipal corporations when made to resident aliens. In the event of a resident alien becoming a non-resident for the term of five years, his interest in lands in the State of Washington shall become vested in the common school fund.

There shall be printed on all ballots provided for the said election the words:

"For the proposed amendment to section 33 of article 2 of the constitution providing for the ownership of lands by aliens."

"Against the proposed amendment to section 33 of article 2 of the constitution providing for the ownership of lands by aliens."

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the State of Washington.

Done at Olympia this 1st day of July, 1914.
(Seal) I. M. HOWELL,
Secretary of State.

SYNOPSIS.

Eleanora de Toscana was singing in Paris, which, perhaps, accounted for Edward Courtland's appearance there. Multimillionaire, he wandered about where fancy dictated. He might be in Paris one day and Kamchatka the next. Following the opera he goes to a cafe and is accosted by a pretty young woman. She gave him the address of Flora Desimone, vocal rival of Toscana, and Flora gives him the address of Eleanora, whom he is determined to see. Courtland enters Eleanora's apartments. She orders him out and shoots at him. The next day Paris is shocked by the mysterious disappearance of the prima donna. Realizing that he may be suspected of the abduction of Eleanora Courtland arranges for an alibi. Eleanora reappears and accuses Courtland of having abducted her. His alibi is satisfactory to the police and the charge is dismissed. Eleanora flees to Lake Como to rest after the shock. She is followed by a number of her admirers, among them the prince who really procured her abduction. Courtland also goes to Como and there meets Jimmie Harrigan, retired prizefighter and father of Eleanora, whose real name is Nora Harrigan. Harrigan takes Courtland into his favor at once. He introduces Courtland to his daughter, but the latter gives no sign of ever having met him before. She studiously avoids him. Nora's confessor sends a inventory involving Nora and Courtland. He takes a strong fancy to the young man. Nora's suitors become more and more persistent.

"Abbey, I wouldn't climb those stairs for a bottle of Horace's Falernian, served on Seneca's famous citron table."

"Not a friend in the world," Abbott lamented.

Laughingly they hustled him into the hallway and fled. Then Courtland went his way alone.

Harrigan was in a happy temper. He kissed his wife and chuckled Nora under the chin. And then Mrs. Harrigan launched the thunderbolt which, having been held on the leash for several hours, had, for all of that, lost none of its ability to blight and scorch.

"James, you are about as hopeless a man as ever was born. You all but disgraced us this afternoon."

"Mother!"

"Me?" cried the bewildered Harrigan.

"Look at those tennis shoes; one white string and one brown one. It's enough to drive a woman mad. What in heaven's name made you come?"

Perhaps it was the after effect of a good dinner, that dwindling away of pleasant emotions; perhaps it was the very triviality of the offense for which he was thus suddenly arraigned; at any rate, he lost his temper, and he was rather formidable when that occurred.

"Damn it, Molly, I wasn't going, but Courtland asked me to go with him, and I never thought of my shoes. You are always finding fault with me these days. I don't drink, I don't gamble, I don't run around after other women; I never did. But since you've got this social bug in your bonnet, you keep me on hooks all the while. Nobody noticed the shoe strings; and they would have looked upon it as a joke if they had. After all, I'm the boss of this ranch. If I want to wear a white string and a black one, I'll do it. Here!" He caught up a book on social usages and threw it out of the window. "Don't ever shove a thing like that under my nose again. If you do, I'll hike back to little old New York and start the gym again."

He rammed one of the colonel's perfectos (which he had been saving for the morrow) between his teeth, and stalked into the garden.

Nora was heartless enough to laugh. "He hasn't talked like that to me in years!" Mrs. Harrigan did not know what to do—follow him or weep. She took the middle course, and went to bed.

Nora turned out the lights and sat out on the little balcony. The moonshine was glorious. So dense was the earth blackness that the few lights twinkling here and there were more like fallen stars. Presently she heard a sound. It was her father, returning as silently as he could. She heard him fumble among the knickknacks on the mantel, and then go away again. By and by she saw a spot of white light move hither and thither among the grape arbores. For five or six minutes she watched it dance. Suddenly all became dark again.

"Nora, are you there?"

"Yes. Over here on the balcony. What were you doing down there?"

"Oh, Nora, I'm sorry I lost my temper. But Molly's begun to nag me lately, and I can't stand it. I went after that book. Did you throw some flowers out of the window?"

"Yes."

"A bunch of daisies?"

"Marguerites," she corrected.

"All the same to me. I picked up the bunch, and look at what I found inside."

He extended his palm, flooding it with the light of his pocket lamp. Nora's heart tightened. What she saw was a beautiful uncut emerald.

CHAPTER XI.

A Comedy with Music.

The Harrigans occupied the suite in the east wing of the villa. This consisted of a large drawing room and two ample bedchambers, with window balconies and a private veranda in the rear, looking off toward the green of the pines and the metal-like luster of the copper beeches.

It was raining, a fine, soft, blurring Alpine rain, and a blue-gray monotone prevailed upon the face of the waters and defied all save the keenest scrutiny to discern where the mountain tops ended and the sky began. It was a day for indoors, for dreams, good books, and good fellows.

Here they all were. Mrs. Harrigan was deep in the intricate maze of the Amella Ars di Bologna, which, as the initiated know, is a wonderful lace. By one of the windows sat Nora, winding interminable yards of lace hemming from off the willing if aching digits of the Barone, who was speculating as to what his Neapolitan club friends would say could they see, by some trick of crystal gazing, his present occupation. Celeste was at the piano, playing (pianissimo) snatches from the operas, while Abbott looked on, his elbows propped upon his knees, his chin in his palms, and a quality of ecstatic content in his eyes.

What She Saw Was a Beautiful Uncut Emerald.

"Play the fourth ballade," urged Abbott.

As Celeste began the andante, Nora signified to the Barone to drop his work. She let her own hands fall. Harrigan gently closed his book, for in that rough kindly soul of his lay a mighty love of music. He himself was without expression of any sort, and somehow music seemed to stir the dim and not quite understandable longing for utterance. Mrs. Harrigan alone went on with her work; she could work and listen at the same time. After the magnificent finale, nothing in the room stirred but her needle.

"Bravo!" cried the Barone, breaking the spell.

"You never played that better," declared Nora.

"That's some!" Harrigan beat his hands together thunderously. "Great stuff; eh, Barone?"

The Barone raised his hands as if to express his utter inability to describe his sensations. His elation was that ascribed to those fortunate mortals whom the gods lifted to Olympus. At his feet lay the lace hemming, hopelessly snarled.

"Father, father!" remonstrated Nora; "you will wake up all the old ladies who are having their siesta."

"Bah! I'll bet a doughnut their ears are glued to their doors. What ho! Somebody's at the portcullis. Probably the padre, come up for tea."

He was at the door instantly. He flung it open heartily. It was characteristic of the man to open everything widely, his heart, his mind, his hate or his affection.

"Come in, come in! Just in time for the matinee concert."

The padre was not alone. Courtland followed him in.

"We have been standing in the corridor for ten minutes," affirmed the padre, sending a winning smile around the room. "Mr. Courtland was for going down to the bureau and sending up our cards. But I would not hear of such formality. I am a privileged person."

"Sure yes! Molly, ring for tea, and tell 'em to make it hot. How about a little peg, as the colonel says?"

The two men declined.

How easily and nonchalantly the man stood there by the door as Harrigan took his hat! Celeste was aquiver with excitement. She was thoroughly a woman; she wanted something to happen, dramatically, romantically.

But her want was a vain one. Nora hated scenes, and Courtland had the advantage of her in his knowledge of this. Celeste remained at the piano, but Nora turned as if to move away.

"No, you must sing. That is what I came up for," insisted the padre. If there was any malice in the churchman, it was of a negative quality. But it was in his Latin blood that drama should appeal to him strongly, and here was an unusual phase in The Great Play. He had urged Courtland, much against the latter's will this day, to come up with him, simply that he might set a little scene such as this promised to be and study it from the vantage of the prompter. He knew that the principal theme of all great books, of all great dramas, was antagonism, antagonism between man and woman, though by a thousand other names has it been called. He had often said, in a spirit of rally, that this antagonism was principally due to the fact that Eve had been constructed (and very well) out of a rib from Adam. Naturally she resented this, that she had not been fashioned independently, and would hold it against man until the true secret of the parable was made clear to her.

Nora saw that opposition would be useless. After all, it would be better to sing. She would not be compelled to look at this man she so despised. At the beginning she had intended to sing badly; but as the music proceeded, she sang as she had not sung in weeks. To fill this man's soul with a hunger for the sound of her voice, to pour into his heart a fresh knowledge of what he had lost forever and forever!

Celeste turned from the keys after the final chords of "Morning Mood."

"Thank you!" said Nora.

"Do not stop," begged Courtland.

Nora looked directly into his eyes as she replied: "One's voice can not go on forever, and mine is not at all strong."

There was a knock at the door. The managing director handed Harrigan a card.

"Herr Rosen," he read aloud. "Send him up. Some friend of yours, Nora; Herr Rosen. I told Mr. Jill to send him up."

The padre drew his feet under his cassock, a sign of perturbation; Courtland continued to unwind the snarl of lace dropped by the Barone; the Barone glanced fiercely at Nora, who smiled enigmatically.

Herr Rosen! There was no outward reason why the name should have set a chill on them all, turned them into expectant statues. Yet, all semblance of good fellowship was instantly gone.

Mrs. Harrigan smoothed out the wrinkles in her dress. From the others there had been little movement and no sound to speak of. Harrigan still waited by the door, seriously contemplating the bit of pasteboard in his hand.

Herr Rosen brushed past Harrigan unceremoniously, without pausing and went straight over to Nora, who was thereupon seized by an uncontrollable spirit of devilment. She hated Herr Rosen, but she was going to be as pleasant and as engaging as she knew how to be. She did not care if he misinterpreted her mood. She welcomed him with a hand. He went on to Mrs. Harrigan, who colored pleasantly. He was then introduced, and he acknowledged each introduction with a careless nod. He was there to see Nora, and he did not propose to put himself to any inconvenience on account of the others.

Herr Rosen instantly usurped the chair next to Nora, who began to pour the tea. He had come up from the village prepared for a disagreeable half hour. Instead of being greeted with icy glances from stormy eyes, he encountered such smiles as this adorable creature had never before bestowed upon him. He was in the clouds. That night at Cadenabbia had apparently knocked the bottom out of his dream. Women were riddles which only they themselves could solve for others. For this one woman he was perfectly ready to throw everything aside. A man lived but once; and he was a fool who would hold to himself in preference to such happiness as he thought he saw opening up before him. Nora saw, but she did not care. That in order to reach another she was practicing infinite cruelty on this man (whose one fault lay in that he loved her) did not appeal to her pity. But her arrow flew wide of the target; at least, there appeared no result to her archery in malice. Not once had the intended victim looked over to where she sat. And yet she knew that he must be watching; he could not possibly avoid it and be human. And when he finally came forward to take his cup, she leaned toward Herr Rosen.

"You take two lumps?" she asked sweetly. It was only a chance shot, but she hit on the truth.

"And you remember?" excitedly.

"One lump for mine, please," said Courtland, smiling.

She picked up a cube of sugar and dropped it into his cup. She had the air of one wishing it were poison. The recipient of this good will, with perfect understanding, returned to the divan, where the padre and Harrigan were gravely toasting each other with benedictine.

Nora made no mistake with either Abbott's cup or the Barone's; but the two men were filled with but one desire, to throw Herr Rosen out of the window. What had begun as a beautiful day was now becoming black and uncertain.

The Barone could control every feature save his eyes, and these openly admitted deep anger. He recollected Herr Rosen well enough. The encounter over at Cadenabbia was not the first by many. Herr Rosen! His presence in this room under that name was an insult, and he intended to call the interloper to account the very first opportunity he found.

Perhaps Celeste, sitting as quiet as a mouse upon the piano stool, was the only one who saw these strange currents drifting dangerously about. That her own heart ached miserably did not prevent her from observing things with all her usual keenness. Ah, Nora, Nora, who have everything to give and yet give nothing, why do you play so heartless a game? Why hurt those who can no more help lovin'; you than the earth can help whirling around the calm dispassionate sun? Always they turn to you, while I, who have so much to give, am given nothing! She set down her tea cup and began the aria from La Boheme.

NOT A NATION OF SAVERS

In the Matter of Thrift the United States Is Far Behind European Countries.

A table prepared by Dr. Henry S. Williams for Moody's Magazine places the United States at the bottom of a list of 15 countries as a nation of savers. The comparison is on the number of savings bank depositors per thousand of population and ranges from 554 in Switzerland to 99 in this country. Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Belgium and New Zealand follow the Swiss. France leads the big nations, then come Holland, Germany, England, Australia, Japan and Italy.

Our 10,800,000 depositors, with their $4,728,000,000 deposits, or almost $440 per depositor, may be contrasted with Germany's 22,500,000 depositors with but $4,942,000,000, or only $189 per head. The United Kingdom has almost 15,000,000 depositors, but only a little over $1,250,000,000. France has nearly as many depositors with a couple of hundred millions less, but this takes no account of the investments of French thrift. Russia has 8,000,000 depositors, but only $800,000,000 between them. Austria has 6,500,000, with about the same amount as Great Britain. Italy has as many depositors as Russia, but with one-fourth more deposits, Japan has about 20,000,000 depositors, but they do not average $9.

The savings habit, it can be seen, is very much more general abroad where the opportunity is very much less. Three-fourths of our saving is being done in the New England and Eastern States. Then come the Middle West, the Pacific Coast, the South and the Western States.

FEET TO BECOME OBSOLETE?

In View of Present Cheap Electric Conveyances There Seems to Be Such a Possibility.

As a result of the quick and cheap modes of conveyance prevalent nowadays people are not walking so much as formerly, asserts a writer in London Answers.

There was a period when we were able to move our ears at will, but disuse of the organ did away with the power. It is possible that our feet may one day become obsolete.

In the year 1912-13 3,219,857,293 was the stupendous total of the number of passengers carried on the electric tramways and light railways of the United Kingdom.

In the steam period of 1898 the number of passengers carried was 858,485,542, and in the day of the horse, 1879, the figure reached 150,881,515.

The public have certainly gained in convenience, but not in health. There has never been any dispute of the fact that walking is the most health-giving and natural exercise possible. And yet it does not come within the daily curriculum of the average man and woman to exercise nature's own equipment, but bus or car is hailed.

Four Precepts.

Four precepts to live by: To break off old customs; to shake off spirits ill-disposed; to meditate on youth; to do nothing against one's genius.—Hawthorne.

Nothing Like an Understanding. "I beg your pardon sir—" "Granted; but it's no use begging for anything else!"—Glasgow Record.

NEVER TENDER FATHER

LEO TOLSTOY NOT A MAN TO INSPIRE AFFECTION.

His Son Writes That He Only Said "Good Night" and "Good Morning" to His Children as a Matter of Duty.

There was one distinguishing and, at first sight, peculiar trait, in my father's character, due perhaps to the fact that he grew up without a mother, and that was that all exhibitions of tenderness were entirely foreign to him.

I say "tenderness" in contradiction to heartiness. Heartiness he had, and in a very high degree.

His description of the death of my Uncle Nikolai is characteristic in this connection. In a letter to his other brother Sergei Nikolaevitch, in which he described the last day of his brother's life, my father tells how he helped him to undress:

"He submitted, and became a different man. He had a word of praise for everybody, and said to me: 'Thanks, my friend.' You understand the significance of the words as between us two."

It is evident that in the language of the Tolstoy brothers the phrase "my friend" was an expression of tenderness beyond which imagination could not go. The words astonished my father even on the lips of his dying brother.

During all his lifetime I never received any mark of tenderness from him whatever.

He was not fond of kissing children, and when he did so in saying good morning or good night, he did it merely as a duty.

It is therefore easy to understand that he did not provoke any display of tenderness toward himself, and that nearness and dearness with him were never accompanied by any outward manifestations.

It would never have come into my head, for instance, to walk up to my father and kiss him or to stroke his hand. I was partly prevented also from that by the fact that I always looked upon him with awe, and his spiritual power, his greatness, prevented me from seeing in him the mere man—the man who was so plaintive and weary at times, the feeble old man who so much needed warmth and rest.

The years will pass. The accumulated incrustations which hide the truth will pass away. Much will be wiped out and forgotten. Among other things my father's will will be forgotten—that will which he himself looked upon as an "unnecessary outward means." And men will see more clearly that legacy of love and truth in which he believed deeply, and which, according to his words, "cannot perish without a trace."

In conclusion, I cannot refrain from quoting the opinion of one of my kinsmen who, after my father's death, read the diaries kept both by my father and my mother during the autumn before Lyoff Nikolaevitch left Yasnaya Polyana.

"What a terrible misunderstanding!" he said. "Each loved the other with such poignant affection, each was suffering all the time on the other's behalf, and then this terrible ending! . . . I see the hand of Fate in this."

—From Count Ilya Tolstoy's "Reminiscences of Tolstoy," in the Century.

Humane Gaffer.

The St. Louis Times tells how a workman grafted a new tail on a cow. The animal lost hers in an accident and he grabbed a fresh one from the slaughter-house and successfully attached it to the suffering animal. This man is about the most humane gaffer St. Louis has produced in many a day.—Houston Post.

House Cat Mothers Baby Wildcat.

Frank T. Robinson, a Baltimore & Ohio engineer of Cumberland, Md., has a house cat that is mothering a baby wildcat. Two kittens, tabby's own, share with the wild one the favors of the mother.

A groundhog hunter ran across a den of four wildcats near Foley, a few miles north of here, on top of the Alleghenies. He brought two home and gave one to Robinson, who placed the little wildcat with the mother cat, and it is thriving, being nourished along with the kittens.

Sheepmen Fined.

Two sheepmen of Idaho were fined $100 each in the federal court for violating the government laws by moving a flock of sheep from one district to another without the required government inspection.

It is reported that Germany will refuse the ultimatum of Japan to evacuate Kiau Chau, China, and will fight to the last.

The U. S. cruiser North Carolina has landed in England and France $3,000,000 in gold to relieve the stranded Americans.

Reports in Mexico City are to the effect that the United States will recognize the Carranza government immediately.

The Belgian capital has been moved because of the advance of the German cavalry. The new seat of government is now at Antwerp.

A proclamation was issued formally from Washington setting forth the neutrality of the United States in the war between Belgium and Germany.

In Paris 600,000 are out of employment, and the government proposes to put to work finishing buildings under construction, all youths and old men.

A company of "Rough Riders" is being organized in Paris. Three Americans have promised to furnish the best mounts money can buy for the entire body.

According to information from Berlin, the Spanish government has notified Germany of its strict neutrality, denying at the same time having any treaty with any power.

A war appropriation of $50,000,000 has been put through the Canadian house of commons. There was no opposition or criticism. The proceeding occupied just one minute.

Americans Abroad in Need Lower All Social Barriers

London—Thousands of Americans gather daily at the Savory hotel, where the great ballroom and a score of tea-rooms and private dining rooms have been given over to the Americans and American resident committees, which are providing for the wants of visitors from the United States stranded in Europe.

Every morning when the doors of the relief headquarters are thrown open at 10 o'clock an army of American tourists rushes to the various information booths in search of news concerning the probable sailing of ships to the United States. Ten bankers and their clerks are kept busy at work providing money for travelers with letters of credit, while committees of representative men and women investigate credentials of persons who have exhausted their fund, but hold tickets on the steamship lines which have discontinued sailings.

A large postoffice force handles the mail for the stranded Americans. All letters and cablegrams sent in care of the American embassy are now being turned over to the committees with their trained assistants.

Men and women of all ages, millionaires, humble workmen, school-teachers and society leaders dressed in elaborate Parisian gowns, move shoulder to shoulder in the crowd seeking assistance from the relief workers. The war has levelled all social barriers and put all travelers on one level.

Americans who straggle into London from Copenhagen, Rotterdam and Cherbourg are equally helpless. Most of them are provided with travelers' checks or letters of credit, which were of little use to them in Berlin, Geneva and Rome. From Austria, Switzerland, Germany and France Americans have made their way to England as best they could. Few of them were able to get sleeping car accommodations, and nearly all of them lost their baggage.

American Consul Jailed by Mexicans at Hermosillo

El Paso—Louis Hostetter, American consul at Hermosillo, Sonora, has been placed in jail by the Mexican authorities, according to assertions made by Carranza officials along the border. It was not made known whether he had been released.

The responsibility for the consul's arrest is the subject of dispute between the Carranza and Villa factions. General Villa, commander in chief of Chihuahua, whose warlike preparations recently have occasioned so much misgiving, telegraphed Colonel Elias Calles, a Carranza officer, blaming him for Hostetter's arrest. Rodolfo de la Huerta, a Carranza official, telegraphed agents here that Hostetter had been imprisoned by order of Jose Maria Maytorena, the governor of Sonora, who is in open revolt against the Carranza central government, represented by Calles.

Villa remains at Chihuahua City. It was reported that throughout his zone recruiting of troops and the arming of them with rifles smuggled over the border here continued with unabated vigor. Villa's agents here have arranged for the delivery of large hospital supplies suitable for a long campaign.

Methodists Fight Proposed Federal Tax on Liquors

Topeka, Kan.—Asking them to unite in vigorous opposition to any effort to increase the Federal tax on liquors, a call was sent to 17,000 pastors of Methodist churches in the United States from the office here of the general secretary of the Temperance Society of the Methodist Church.

"Any extension of this iniquitous participation in the profits of this vicious and inherently wicked trade will be fought to the last ditch by every church member who realizes its shameful nature," sets forth Clarence True Wilson, general secretary. "Doubling the Federal tax on liquors will quadruple the difficulties now facing the Hobson-Shepherd prohibition amendment bill."

All Missouri Digs Dirt.

Kansas City—Residents of 90 Missouri counties spent Thursday improving the highways in their vicinities, and when the fast tired worker lay down his pick and shovel and the teams had been "put up," it was estimated that Missouri roads had been improved to the extent of $1,000,000 by the 150,000 earnest, hard-working road-day volunteers.

Although the day was hot, Governor Major stuck to his task of directing the work of 25 picked convicts from the penitentiary. The governor wore overalls and "bossed" the job as well as if he were a professional roadbuilder.

Servian Reservists Ask Aid.

New York—Approximately 10,000 Servian reservists in California and Arizona expect to go to Canada to seek the co-operation of the British government in landing them on their native shores, it was announced at the Servian consulate here Thursday.

NORTHWEST MARKET REPORTS.

Portland.

Portland—A steady market, with many sales, characterized the Portland livestock trade. Cows were up a little and prices of other lines held steady. They brought $6.25.

Hogs were firm at $9.50 for the top, which made Portland about the highest market in the country. Wethers were up a little, sales being made at $5, a slight advance over recent transactions.

Prime Cattle—Steers, $7 @ 7.25; choice, $6.75 @ 7; medium, $6.25 @ 6.75; choice cows, $6 @ 6.25; medium, $5.25 @ 5.75; heifers, $5.50 @ 6; calves, $6 @ 8.75; bulls, $3 @ 4.50; stags, $4.50 @ 5.75.

Hogs—Light, $9.25 @ 9.50; heavy, $8.35 @ 8.50.

Sheep—Wethers, $4 @ 4.75; ewes, $3.50 @ 4.25; lambs, $5 @ 6.

Wheat—Track prices: Club, 86c per bushel; red Russian, 84c; bluestem, 93c; forty-fold, 87c.

Millfeed—Bran, $23 @ 23.50 per ton; shorts, $27; middlings, $32.

Oats—No. 1 white, $24.50; feed, $24.50.

Barley—No. 1 feed, $20.50 per ton; brewing, $21; rolled, $23.

Hay—Old timothy, $16 @ 17 per ton; new crop timothy, $13 @ 15; grain hay, $8 @ 10; alfalfa, $11 @ 12.

Corn—Whole, $35; cracked, $36 per ton.

Garlic has doubled in price on Front street within a few days and the price is yet unsettled, all because of the European war. One commission house is selling it at 15 cents a pound, and the dealers believe they are under the market at that. The usual price is about 6 or 7 cents. With importations from Italy to the Atlantic Coast market cut off, the Northwest crop is in demand, and prices are high as a result.

Vegetables—Cucumbers, 50c box; eggplant, 10c per pound; peppers, 7 @ 10c; head lettuce, $1.70 crate; artichokes, $1 dozen; tomatoes, 50 @ 65c crate; cabbage, 1 1/2 @ 2c pound; peas, 5 @ 6c; beans, 4 @ 6c; corn, $1 per sack; celery, 35 @ 75c per dozen.

Onions—Yellow, $1.25 per sack.

Green fruit—Apples, new, 75c @ $2 box; cantaloupes, 50c @ $1.40 per crate; peaches, 50 @ 75c per box; plums, 60c @ $1; watermelons, 50 @ 75c per hundred; casabas, $2.50 dozen; pears, $1 @ 2 per box; grapes, 75c @ $2 per crate.

Potatoes—Oregon, 1 @ 1 1/2c per pound; sweet potatoes, 4c.

Eggs—Fresh Oregon ranch, case count, 23 @ 24c per dozen.

Poultry—Hens, 15c; springs, 16 @ 17c; turkeys, 20c; dressed, choice, 22c; ducks, 10 @ 11c; Pekins, 12 @ 13c; geese, 10c.

Butter—Creamery prints, extras, 35c; cubes, 31c.

Pork—Block, 12c per pound.

Veal—Fancy, 14 @ 14 1/2c per pound.

Hops—1913 crop, nominal; 1914 contracts, 14 @ 15c.

Wool—Valley, 18 1/2 @ 20 1/2c per pound; Eastern Oregon, 16 @ 20 1/2c; mohair, 1914 clip, 27 1/2c per pound.

Cascara bark—Old and new, 4 1/2c per pound.

Seattle.

Seattle—Seattle is still receiving its full quota of cantaloupes, peaches and apples.

Good peaches are now selling at 30 @ 60c, while cantaloupes are bringing 50c @ $1. Late strawberries are still coming in. There are not very many in a shipment, but what there are of them bring the rather fancy price of $3.

The butter and egg market witnessed a stiffening, which is expected to result in a rise of prices this week. Most of the commission men are hard pressed on the fresh local commodities and the anticipated rise will not be difficult to understand.

Many commission men on the street were getting 36c for cottoned eggs, although there was no other rise reported in other qualities.

Washington creamery butter has been marked for a 2c raise, making the cubes 23c and the bricks 34c.

Eggs—Select ranch, 34 @ 35c; Chinese, 18c; Eastern Aprils, 26 @ 28c; local Aprils, 28 @ 29c.

Butter—Washington creamery firsts, cubes, 33c per pound; do. bricks 34c; city creamery, bricks, 32c; Oregon, 28c.

Poultry—Hens, 16 @ 17 per pound; squabs, $2.50 @ 3 per dozen; 1914 broilers, live, 18 @ 19c; per pound; ducklings, 14 @ 15c; old ducks, live, 13 @ 14c; geese, live, 15 @ 16c.

Dressed Veal—15c per pound.

Dressed Hogs—Whole, packing house, 13c per pound.

Dressed Spring Lamb—13c pound.

Dressed Mutton—10 @ 11c per pound.

Artichokes—$1 per dozen.

Beans—String and wax, 5 @ 6c pound.

Beets—New, $1.50 per sack.

Cabbage—Local, $2 per cwt.

Corn—Green, local, $1.75 per sack.

Onions—Green, 25 @ 30c per dozen; Walla Walla, $1.25 per cwt.

Potatoes—Local, 1 1/2c per pound.

Radishes—Local, 15c dozen bunches.

Spinach—Local, 75c per crate.

Tomatoes—Local hothouse, 50 @ 75c.

England's Army Landed to Join Forces of France

London—The most important revelation of Wednesday was that of the landing of a British expeditionary army on the shores of France. Everybody in England has known for two weeks that a large army was crossing the channel. The troops had been assembled at different bases, one of the largest contingents embarking at Dublin, Ireland. Many other regiments sailed from Liverpool, while still others took ship at Eastbourne, Southampton, and other ports along the coast of the English channel.

Even now the strength of the expedition, the names of the regiments composing the contingents and the ports where they landed are not allowed to be made public.

It is known, however, that a large proportion of the best troops of the British regular army are now on Continental soil. The reception of the British soldiers in France was enthusiastic. The officers and men of the two armies fraternized warmly.

Now that the three allied armies are working together on a coherent campaign scheme, the policy of secrecy has been extended to Belgium, and as a fountain of picturesque news that country has suddenly dried up.

Every man of the expeditionary force carries in his knapsack a little pamphlet signed by Earl Kitchener, containing 200 words of sound soldiery advice. The field marshal tells them to fear God and honor the king and their country, to remember that they will be fighting on the soil of a friendly nation, to abstain from liquor and looting and to be courteous to women and no more than courteous.

The official news bureau announces that General Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien has been appointed to command one of the army corps of the expeditionary forces in succession to Lieutenant General Sir James Grierson, who died recently.

A stirring message from King George to the expeditionary force was read out to each regiment as it left its port of departure under sealed orders. It was as follows:

"You are leaving home to fight for the safety and honor of my empire.

"Belgium, whose country we are pledged to defend, has been attacked and France is about to be invaded by the same powerful foe.

"I have implicit confidence in you, my soldiers. Duty is your watchword, and I know your duty will be nobly done. I shall follow your every movement with the deepest interest and shall mark with eager satisfaction your daily progress. Indeed, your welfare will never be absent from my thoughts.

"I pray to God to bless and guard you and bring you back victorious."

GERMAN FORCES CLAIM BRUSSELS AND LIEGE

London—Liege has fallen, her forts battered into ruins by the Germans' heavy artillery, but the defense of those forts held out to the very last against six German army corps, by the heroic Belgians. The quaint old town has won fame as imperishable as Ramillies, Malplaquet and Waterloo.

Near the field of Waterloo another great engagement is pending where lie the dead of Marlborough, Wellington and Napoleon.

In Brussels there is no scene of revelry, for as this dispatch is filed it is reported the Belgian capital is taken by the kaiser's troops.

Rotterdam—It is asserted here that the forts at Liege were dynamited by the Belgians after they had been evacuated, the action of the Belgians being due to the arrival of Germany's heavy motor batteries.

Japan Will Limit Field of Action, Says Okuma

Tokio—Count Okuma, the Japanese premier, in addressing a gathering of business men from various parts of Japan, reiterated the statements he had made to the members of parliament, merchants and industrial men of Tokio:

"Japan's warlike operations," he added, "will not extend beyond the limits necessary for the attainment of the object of the defense of her own legitimate interests.

"The imperial government will take no such action as could give to a third party any cause for anxiety or uneasiness regarding safety of their territories or possessions."

Austrian Cruiser Sunk.

London—An official message received in Rome from Vienna says that the Austrian cruiser Zenta was sunk in a naval battle off Antivari last Sunday, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. The cruiser Zenta, which was built at Pola in 1897, was 303 feet in length and displaced 2264 tons.

JAPS DECLARE WAR

Emperor's Ultimatum to Germany Goes Unanswered.

Bombardment of Tsing Tau Commenced by Nipponese—United States Neutrality Liked.

Tokio—The Yamato in an extra edition Monday says that the bombardment of Tsing Tau by the Japanese fleet has commenced. This message was passed by the censors of the navy department.

Washington, D. C.—The Japanese ambassador here announced that a state of war existed between Japan and Germany since noon Sunday (Japanese time) and that a declaration of war was issued at 6 p. m.

Japan's declaration of war has reached Berlin, according to official reports received in Washington. Whether the declaration was sent by cable or wireless was not indicated.

Viscount Chinda, in making his announcement, repeated assurances recently given by Great Britain that Japan's actions would be confined to the Far East.

Aside from informal verbal exchanges between Viscount Chinda and Secretary Bryan in Washington and between United States Ambassador Guthrie and the foreign office in Tokio, however, there is nothing of record so far to commit the Japanese to this limited field of war.

The impression prevails here among diplomats, however, that the statement of Chinda taken in connection with the speech in the Japanese Diet last week of Count Okuma, the Japanese premier, is quite sufficient to bind the Japanese government to a strict performance of its obligations in regard to the return of Kiau Chau to China and of the limitation of the field of hostilities definitely set out in the British statement.

No mention was made by Ambassador Chinda of the status of the railroads in Shantung province directly or indirectly controlled by the Germans.

It was said at the Japanese embassy here that in all probability the Japanese army would content itself with the seizure of the railroads running inland to Tsinan, about 200 miles in length, because this was German in every respect. It was not expected that any attempt would be made to take possession of the system of railways lying between Tientsin and Nanking, because, although these were financed by Germans, they were nominally Chinese railroads.

Tokio—The proclamation of the emperor who declared war on Germany has sent a thrill through the country. Japan's entrance upon the fulfillment of her obligations to her ally, Great Britain, responds to the popular will from one end of the land to the other. Cheering crowds assembled before the buildings occupied by the department of foreign affairs and the administration of the navy.

Count Von Rex, the German ambassador in Tokio, has received his passports. He probably will leave here for America. George W. Guthrie, the American ambassador, will represent Germany.

It is reported here that Germany has been trying to transfer the German railroad in Shantung, China, to America. Tokio believes, however, that the United States, pursuing the policy of neutrality, will not accept the offer.

Girls Dance With Enemy.

London—A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Ostend says:

When the Germans entered Brussels they removed the British and French flags and in the center they flew the arms of the city of Brussels with the colors of Belgium and Germany on the right and left.

In their dealings with the shopkeepers the German privates are compelled to pay cash, but the officers are giving checks which the shopkeepers are required to accept, although they regard the chances of cashing them as rather dubious.

There have been some lively scenes in the city. At evening the German officers gather at the principal hotels, where they drink champagne and dance with the pretty girls of the town. The private soldiers and the inhabitants mingle freely, eating, drinking and smoking together.

Italy May Fight Austria.

Paris—There are indications of acute diplomatic tension between Vienna and Rome, according to the correspondent of the Petit Parisien in the latter city. "Austria, it is declared, has reproached Italy for according facilities to the allied fleets in the Adriatic and it is possible that a declaration of war between Italy and Austria will be announced early next week.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

[Special Correspondence.]

But few delegates had gathered September 20th, but quite a good audience greeted M. B. Platt, state president, after a well worded welcome by the Langley mayor. Her theme was chosen by the program committee, "Woman, Home, God and Native Land." Her address was the best we ever heard from even her logical, versatile mind.

Promptly at 9:30 a. m., August 21, the county president, Mrs. Sarah Montgomery called the executive committee to order. Bills were ordered paid and committees appointed. At 10:45 the program was begun. In the absence of the recording secretary Henrietta Frostad was appointed secretary pro tem, which position she had to hold all through the session. Good feeling prevailed and while material enough to fill two days had to be boiled down to but one, we all voted it an excellent program and the county president presided with beautiful dignity and great parliamentary skill. The only minor note of the day was the withdrawal of her name after receiving a majority of all votes cast for president.

The physician of Langley, Dr. Clark, gave a fine address on Eugenics, and untiringly answered questions at the close of his address. A half hour after the noon hour had come we were entertained and edified by a fine non-alcoholic medication talk.

Mrs. Platt was so helpful in her address, "The Effect of State Wide Prohibition on Public Morals and the White Slave Traffic." At our next Mother's meeting a paper will be given bringing forth Mrs. Platt's arguments in her address and Dr. Clark's ideas also. We bespeak for that meeting a large attendance of mothers. It will probably be held in the near future.

The papers on "The Picture Show:" 1st: Harm of the Picture Show; 2nd: Benefits of Picture Show; 3rd: How We Can Improve It. The latter paper was by a dear little white haired saint, so well known in all West Washington, Mrs. B. R. Baker, of Langley. She has the real welfare of all boys and girls at heart, and her mind is keen, her heart warm; therefore the paper was forceful.

Our Charlie Bowmer and wife charmed all present with their sweet gospel songs.

The Evangelistic superintendent of the county wants to get a Bible reader into every union of the county to hold services and we, at least, hope to have Mr. and Mrs. Bowmer for our singers.

The election of officers was held in the afternoon and the following officers were chosen for the year 1914-1915: President, Mrs. H. Frostad, Oak Harbor; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lenora Arnold, San de Fuca; recording secretary, Mrs. S. Montgomery, Maxwellton; Treasurer, Mrs. Eva Crow, Clinton.

God speed the day when the evil seed now being sown in pool room, saloon and brothel may be checked in the germinating, and the chance for good seed to be sown in lives now being made rotten and polluted by even parents and relatives.

HENRIETTA FROSTAD.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs.

DID UP THE CHAMPION
AMERICAN SOLDIERS HAD BIRD
THAT WAS SOME FIGHTER.

Some Might Have Called It a "Ringer,"
But Main Thing Was That It Lowered the Pride of the Filipinos.

The Boverie, Captain Harper, a British steamship, which lay at the American piers, Tompkinsville, N. Y., brought from the far East a yarn concerning several United States infantrymen in Manila, one bald-headed eagle, one Filipino game cock and several gulleless Filipinos.

According to the story the Boverie's officers went to a cocking main at Manila. As they entered the enclosure the sailors met a party of United States Infantrymen, one of whom carried under his arm a canvas bag.

Several fights took place of minor importance. During this time more soldiers kept entering until there were more than a hundred in the enclosure.
Finally a Filipino, bearing under his arm a beautiful fowl, stepped into the place and made an announcement that caused much excitement.

"That's the champion bird around here," a sergeant told the Boverie's people. "He's beaten everything that has been put up against him, but now he's going to get what is coming to him. Here goes," and he clambered down into the plaza.

The owner of the game cock had just finished challenging all comers, when the sergeant, his bag under his arm, clambered down beside him and dumped its contents on the ground.
The contents consisted of one bird, the most disreputable fowl that anyone in the assemblage ever laid eyes on. A howl of derision greeted the appearance of the strange object as it staggered to its feet and gazed about.

The Filipino readily agreed to match his beautiful bird against the shape-less mass of feathers that huddled in the pit. The bets were made, spurs were put on both birds and they were left alone in the ring.

The American bird shook his legs a couple of times, then huddled again.
The Filipino cock saw the other fowl and walked about him a couple of times, then, lowering his head, made a vicious run for him. The American bird went rolling at the shock, picked himself up, and again composed himself.

Once more the Filipino bird ran at him, this time the sharp steels striking home. Out of the tangle of feathers a large claw reached out, pinning the Filipino champion to the ground.
Then a head shot viciously from the dirty ruffled plumage of the American bird, a curved beak grasped the head of the gamecock and wrenched it from its body.
"Not till I saw that head and beak in action did I realize just what it was," said one of the Boverie's officers, in telling the story. "Those Yankee soldiers had slipped in a bald-headed eagle. They told me afterward it was their regimental mascot. The Filipinos were a sore lot, but they paid up."

Motorcycle as Chaff Cutter.
A farmer at Bantnall, Salop, England, has fixed his motorcycle on a stand against the wall of the farm buildings, and it drives a chaff-cutter,
and turnip cutter at the same time.
It does not cost much to work it. The turnip cutter is on the same level as the cycle, and is connected by a kind of bicycle chain. The chaff-cutter is placed above the turnip-cutter on another floor and connected by two-inch belting. After it has been on some little time the engine gets hot, so a fan is made to revolve by the side to keep it cool. It is also used for churning milk. This saves a great deal of time for the workmen because it can do the two jobs at once.

New Method of Finding Longitude.
The novel method of finding longitude lately tried by Professor Lipp-mann, the French astronomer, is the comparison of simultaneous photographs of the sky taken at two stations.

The zenith being shown by an artificial star, the difference in the places of natural stars very accurately indicates the difference in longitude, and if the longitude of one place is known that of the other can be fixed with an uncertainty claimed to be only a few feet—perhaps ten or fifteen.

Not a Mathematician.
Judge—What is your occupation?
Witness—I'm an expert on figures.
Judge—Oh, a mathematician, eh?
Witness—No, your honor. I select the chorus girls for the musical comedies."

New Lands Surveyed.
British Columbia in 1913 surveyed
1,000,000 acres of new lands.

Baskets are used a great deal by the German army for carrying shells and cartridges.

Lightning Rods.
Reappearance of the lightning rod agent can soon be expected. According to a bulletin of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, 13 years of investigations demonstrate that lightning rods are now 94 1/2 per cent efficient in the province. In the state of Iowa they are 98.1 per cent efficient and in Michigan 99.9 per cent.

Total lightning claims paid by insurance companies on rodded buildings in Iowa during eight years was only $4464, while on unrodded buildings, which were of the same number, they paid $341,065. In Ontario, out of every 200 farm buildings insured, 42 are rodded. Yet out of every 200 struck by lightning in 1912 only three were rodded buildings.

But don't let the agent put up rods that run through glass insulators. According to the Ontario bulletin, they should be in metallic connection with the building and no insulators should be used.—Wall Street Journal.

A Suggestion to Rossetti.
Dante Gabriel Rossetti once showed Whistler a sketch and asked his opinion of its merits.

"It has good points, Rossetti," said Whistler. "Go ahead with it by all means."

Later he inquired how it was getting along. "All right," answered Rossetti, cheerfully. "I've ordered a stunning frame for it."

In due time the canvas appeared at Rossetti's house in Cheyne Walk, beautifully framed.

"You've done nothing to it since I saw it, have you?" asked Whistler.

"No-o," replied Rossetti, "but I've written a sonnet on the subject, if you'd like to hear it."

He recited some lines of peculiar tenderness.
"Rossetti," said Whistler, as the recitation ended, "take out the picture and frame the sonnet."—New York Globe.

RESINOL STOPS DANDRUFF AND SCALP ITCHING

If you are troubled with dandruff, eczema or other scalp, itching scalp affection, try shampoos with resinol soap and an occasional treatment with resinol ointment. You will be surprised how quickly the trouble disappears, and the health and beauty of the hair improves.

Resinol soap and ointment also heal skin eruptions, clear away pimples and blackheads, and form a most valuable household treatment for sunburn, heat-rash, etc. Sold by all druggists. Prescribed by doctors for 19 years.—Adv.

Justifiable.
"Why did you beat this man so terribly?" said the judge, indicating the beaked figure of the plaintiff.
"I asked him why a horse had run away, your honor," explained the prisoner, "and he told me that it was because the animal had lost his equine-lity."
"H'm," said the judge. "Discharged."

Keeping It Dark.
"Isn't it very embarrassing? Mr.
Skittles can hardly tell his wife from his sister who's come to stay with them."
"Is he worrying?"
"Oh, no! He'd just as soon remain

Light Weight
Hammerless
Repeating Shotguns
12, 16 AND 20 GAUGES, MODEL 1912
This is the lightest, strongest and handsomest repeating shotgun made. Although light, it has surpassing strength, because all the metal parts are made of Nickel steel, which is twice as strong as ordinary steel. It is simple to load and unload, easy to take down, and works with an ease and smoothness not found in repeaters of other makes. Look one of these guns over at your dealer's. They are
"THE MOST PERFECT REPEATERS."

When Marriage is a Failure.
Mr. Gladstone once said that he had solved the domestic problem in this way: "Whenever Mrs. Gladstone insists I submit and whenever I insist she submits." He didn't say, however, whether they took turns about insisting and submitting. Marriage is a failure when one of the parties insists on being the insister, and doesn't take turns in insisting to be the submitter.—Boston Transcript.

Cause for Gratitude.
The fare of a certain boarding house was very poor. A boarder who had been there for some time, because he could not get away, was standing in the hall when the landlord rang the dinner bell. Whereupon an old dog that was lying outside on a rug commenced to howl mournfully.
The boarder watched him a little while, and then said:
"What on earth are you howling for? You don't have to eat it!"—Current Opinion.

Dusting.
Mrs. Florin had a new maid, and one morning as she entered the library she was somewhat surprised to find the girl seated in one of the chairs with her hands folded.
"What!" cried the mistress. "Here you are sitting down! Why, you were sent in here to dust the room!"
"Yes, ma'am," was the girl's reply.
"I have lost the duster, and so I am sitting on each of the chairs in turn."

Remedy for the Cat.
"Doctor," said he, "I'm a victim of insomnia. I can't sleep if there's the least noise, such as a cat on the back fence, for instance."
"This powder will be effective," replied the physician, after compounding a prescription.
"When do I take it, doctor?"
"You don't take it. You give it to the cat in a little milk."

Purifies Blood
With Telling Effect

Gives Conscious Evidence of Its Direct Action.

S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, almost talks as it sweeps its way through the circulation. Its action is so direct that very often in some forms of skin affliction the appearance of the eruptions changes overnight, the itch and redness are gone and recovery begins immediately.

As a matter of fact, there is one ingredient in S. S. S. which serves the active purpose of stimulating each cellular part of the body to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. That is why it regenerates the blood supply; why it has such a tremendous influence in overcoming eczema, rash, pimples, and all skin afflictions.

And in regenerating the tissues S. S. S.
has a rapid and positive antidotal effect upon all those irritating influences that cause rheumatism, sore throat, weak eyes, loss of weight, thin, pale cheeks, and that weariness of muscle and nerve that is generally experienced as spring fever. Get a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store, and in a few days you will not only feel bright and energetic, but you will be the picture of new life. S. S. S. is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 534 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., who maintain a very efficient Medical Department, where all who have any blood disorder of a stubborn nature may write freely for advice and a special book of instruction. S. S. S. is sold everywhere by drug stores, department and general stores, but beware of all substitutes.
