Success Secret Told

Wise budgeting of her time, and a cooperative husband were listed as the secrets of her success by Mrs. Wilbur (Grace) Sherman, of Coupeville, who was named as this year's Woman of Achievement by the Oak Harbor Business and Professional Women's Club.

ional Women's Club.

The annual Women of Achievement Dinner was held last Friday evening in the 100F hall, with 105 women attending. From a list of eight mominees for the title, the award went to Mrs.
Sherman who had been nominated by the Women's Missionary Society of the Coupeville Methodist Church.
Judges were Tom Moore,
Clarence Wright, Rev. Iwerks, and Donald Goodwin.

The wife of an Ebey's prairie farmer, and the mother of three daughters, Mrs. Sherman finds her day pretty well taken up with the job of homemaker. But she still manages to devote several hours of every day to her outside activities. These include in particular youth and church work. She is a member of PEO, lecturer of the Ebey Grange, an active member of the Women's Society of Christian Service, youth secretary of the First Methodist Church, member of the Historical Society, of the Homemakers Club of the County Agent office and has long been active in 4-H work. "I'm not one to join to

"I'm not one to join to just be a member, " Mrs. Sherman explained. " I like to be active. It means that I have to budget by time carefully. I don't have any trouble. I have to be a little sterner with the children, but youngsters want some discipline."

Her "cooperative husband' Wilbur farms 106 acres of squash and other crops, on the west side of Whidbey Island on Ebey's priarie, offers needed encouragement, and complains hardly at all at his wife's busy schedule.

Mrs. Sherman was born in Wisconsin, came to Whidbey Island in September 1930 and is a former Coupeville school teacher. The Shermans have three daughters, Susan in Seattle Sara, a freshman at Oak Harbor high school, and Cheryl in the 7th grade at Coupeville. With her daughters, she has been active in 4-H work. She has received her 10 year pin in 4-H and has been adviser for the Stir and Stitches 4-H group. One of her former 4-H club members, Betty Jo Schriber will leave for India this summer under the IFYE program. Mrs. Sherman has also been county officer in charge of the 4-H program.

Guest speaker of the Woman of Achievement Dinner was Lulu M. Fairbanks, Seattle newspaper woman, who spoke on women in Alaska, and growth of Alaska. Chairman of the dinner was Helen Gines. Assisting her on committees were Virginia Stevenson, Judy Dunn, Frances Alexander, and Dorothy Boyer.

ISLANDER EDITORIALS...

On Planning

Island County has an important stake in a bill now pending in the State Legislature. It concerns the authority of county planning commissions to conduct the orderly development of the areas outside of incorporated communities.

City Planning authority has already been well established and tested in the courts. However, the counties haven't had this clear cut authority to make the same decisions.

Island County already has a planning commission and a pending county planning code. If and when the Legislature completes action on the bill and it is signed by the governor, the way will be clear for the commission.

Few doubt the need for county planning. Island County in the next few years will experience considerable changes More homes, in addition to military housing, will be constructed. New businesses will be established. It would be criminal if through hodge podge development, this beautiful island were allowed to be defaced. The wealth of Island County lies in its beauty. It will take wise heads making wise decisions to protect what we have.

We urge our state legislators to complete action on the bill so that it will become law.

'Always Ready'

Hats off to the two Coastguardsmen who swam 600 feet through icy Puget Sound waters to rescue two men from a capsized small boat off of West Point in Seattle last

The action of Coastguardsmen Donald Werth and William Bowen was in keeping with the high traditions of their service. The Coast Guard is responsible for the saving of many lives by vigilant patrol of the Sound. With thousands of boats using the Sound during the summer, the job of the Coast Guard is complex.

Even though the two heroes could not get the motor of the rescue boat started, they were not stopped. Their action demonstrates that the Coast Guard is Ready.

Adult Delinquency

There's a lot of talk these days about juvenile delinquency, but hardly a mention of adult delinquency, Take driving, for instance. Hardly a second goes by on our highways out some serious breech of the law by an adult.

This past week we have seen gas trucks, a large passenger bus and private cars driven by adults doing 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone. By comparison, the juvenile offenders were in the minority.

It's time adults took notice of their own delinquency along with their concern for the juveniles. After all the kids had to learn how to do the wrong things from someone. Abolish adult delinquency and juvenile delinquency will wane.

'Collapse Day'

Note to the Washington State Legislature: "Michigan State has temporarily staved off collapse day by having industry pay taxes in advance. $35, 500, 000 has been voluntarily paid by various industries after an appeal by Governor G. Mennen Williams. " the present session of the Washington state Legislature might do well to watch what is happening in Michigan. Unless expenses are kept in line with income, this state might also face "collapse day." There might not be enough industry around ready and willing to pay taxes in advance. As our old pappy said, "Credit's fine, son, but don't spend more than you've got coming in."

Bible Comment:

How Jesus' Realm Differs From a Worldly Kingdom

It was of little children that Jesus said, "Of such is the kingdom of Heaven. "He also said "Blessed are the poor in spirit for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven.

It is good to think on the meaning of His kingdom during this Lenten season.

h is the child-like whose characters can be formed by God. Those whose very pov-erty of spirit makes possible their enrichment by being filled with the Spirit of God are fit subjects of Christ's kingdom.

Jesus said that His Kingdom was here and now. It is with-in you, or "in your midst, " in whichever way we may translate His words.

The principles of the kingdom that Jesus proclaims are love and service; not getting but giving. "It is more bless-ed to give, than to receive."

An announcement was made at the January meeting to the effect that a fine old pioneer home may be given to the Historical Society as a Memorial Museum in which to depict the pioneer way of life.

The donor does not wish to be t identified at this time and stipulates that the Society must prove its ability to support such a Museum before a deed can be given. This is an inspiring and wonderful goal for which to work and we urge each and every resident of the County to join in help-ing make this acquisition of property possible. Museum, with authentic furnishings, could be a source of pride and pleasure to all of us who live here and a spot of keen interest to tourists and visitors. Most of our children do not even recognize many of the implements used daily by our grandparents as a necessary part of their existence. Let's all work to preserve what remains of the Heritage left us by the gallant pioneers who built our great Northwest. The Historical Society's annual dues are only $1.50 per person. Do your share, be a member, and show your attractive membership card with pride. Any officer or member of the Society will be glad to accept your dues and see that a membership card is mailed to you promptly.

Good Planning Makes Better Fences

Planning avoids some of the putalls most "do it yourself" builders make when they go a-bout building a fence around

First there are the ordinances rigulating fences to consider. In Oak Harbor, property owners may build a fence no higher than 36 inches and at least per cent open. Fences in the back yard may be no higher than six feet and can be constructed solid for privacy. Side yard re-gulations depend if the yard fa-ces another house or a street. Best bet is to check your individual plan with the city engineer before the fence is constru-

Out in the county, beyond the corporate limits of a city regu-lations are still in doubt. County Engineer George Norris expexts that the regulations will be made clearer after the current session of the state legislature.

Lumber yards here on Whidbey have specific information on the various types of fences and what the cost per foot will run. However, here are the rules of thumb: solid or horizontal louvers are most expensive; vertical louvers or board and board about medium priced; and pickets and post and rail the least costly. How you finish the fence and the method you use to set the posts will also be a factor in the total cost of the fence.

The first step in laying out fence lines is to locate the surveyors lot stakes. They are usually pipes driven into the gro-und at the corners of your lot. Stretch string lines from batter boards directly over lot stakes and build the fence on your side if you are doing all the work yourself or right down the center if your neighbor is sharing the work and expense. EARLY FERRY SERVICE STARTS

Earlier than usual Ferry Service to Sidney, B. C. opens today from Anacortes, according to I. D. Birse, general manager of the Washington State Ferries.

The Sidney service, previously provided only during the tourist season, is opening early this year because of the discontinuance of wintership service between Seattle and Victoria, B. C., by the Canadian Pacific Railways.

The last winter sailing by the C. P. R. will leave Seattle at 4 o, clock Wednesday afternoon. Summer service will begin about May 15.

Beginning Thursday, a ferry will leave Anacortes at 9:15 a. m. and arrive at Sid-Hess said he based his pre- ney at 1 p. m. It will leave Anacortes at 5 p. m.

The first ferry will leave Friday Harbor at 6:45 a. m., instead of 7 a.m., and will depart from Anacortes at 9:15 a. m., instead of 10 a. m. The Sunday schedule also will have minor changes.

Birse said the Greyhound Line will provide bus service from Seattle to Victoria with the start of the Anacortes-Sidney service.

Navy Housing To Mean Big Changes

The view won't be quite the same from the Lee Holt farmhouse in a few months. Where the Holts now look out across a quiet, serene Country side, they soon will be seeing the mushrooming growth of a Navy housing development.

Located on the Crescent Harbor Road, the Holts are just across the street from where the new Capehart housing for 390 enlisted men and their families will be under construction soon. Although they are used to the sounds of a busy farm with cows and turkeys, and have three noisy boys of their own, the Holts may have a little trouble adjusting to the immigration of more than 1200 persons which will probably include several hundred children.

Meanwhile the three Holt youngsters, being the proud possessors of the only barn within a mile, are wondering if there will be enough room in it for all the new kids to play. Although their parents are a little wary of the future the children are pretty excited about the countryside changing. Their nearest neighbors now, Glen Westerdyke and Tom Koetje, are about a mile

The Holt farm was established around the turn of the century by William A. Holt, Lee Holt's father. In those early farming days, the elder Holt, who was a nurseryman, cleared the land himself and on his small farm, managed to grow most of the staples to sustain his family. Located four miles out the Crescent Harbor Road from Oak Harbor the 23 acre tract is now plan-ted in wheat, hay and pasture and supports 18 head of Guernsey cows. Last year, young Holt raised 6400 turkey hens. He's biding his time now to see if the market will be any good, before he decides if he will raise more this year. Holt doubts that he will continue farming for many more years. Even without the new housing things are changing for the small farmer, Holt explained.

"It takes a lot more money to keep a farm going, now-adays, "Holt said. "The small farmer has a hard time making a living. Even the big farmer is finding it difficult making a go of it. "

Holt doesn't know what he will do, but figures his land will increase in value and he may eventually have to sell. Farming in a crowded countryside is pretty difficult, Holt went on.

'We've seen a lot of changes on the Island. Now we're getting them right on our doorstep", Holt said.

But meanwhile, life goes on, and Mr. and Mrs. Holt, along with sons Don, 9, Harry 7, and Richard 4, and the 18 cows and possible 6400 turkeys, will be on hand in the fall, to offer a welcoming handshake, cheerful smile, a friendly Hi, or only a cautious moo or an excited gobble gobble, when their new neighbors being moving in.

SEE BIG CHANGE COMING--Members of the Lee Holt Family expect that there will be quite a few changes coming to the rural countryside around Holt's Corner on the Crescent Harbor Road. Plans for the construction of 390 houses, part of the Navy Capehart project across the road from the Holt Farm. Shown are Mr. and Mrs. Holt and their three sons, from the left Don, 9, Richard, 4, and Harry, 7. The dog is named Spike. Holt was born in the house in the background which was built by his late father William A. Holt.
