tined here in an effort to reach a new waterfront working agreement but little progress was reported.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—An assertion that west coast shipowners are not willing to deal fairly with seamen and other unionized personnel was laid before the federal maritime commission today by Harry Lundberg, head of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific, who said he told the commission, "see what you can put the heat on those donkeys."

Chairman Wiley of the commission said negotiations for settlement of the maritime dispute are lagging because of Lundberg's absence from the coast, but the SUP head said any delay could be attributed to the owners.

Lundberg said the commission told him to return to the west coast and sign agreements with shipowners regarding points over which there is no controversy. He added, however, that the SUP "has not agreed to anything."

Lundberg said the seamen took the position before the commission that none of the "millions given to shipowners" in subsidies was being passed on to the seamen in the form of better working conditions and higher pay.

"We believe the government, if it wishes, has enough power to make the owners deal with us," Lundberg said. He added, however, that the men were opposed to arbitration of fundamental questions such as union recognition and the right to collective bargaining.

The SUP leader said his conference with the commission confirmed him in the case of the seamen "has been well presented" but that Admiral Wiley "was not willing to make concessions" but that Admiral Wiley "was not willing to make concessions."

"Even WPA workers are better off than our cooks and stewards," he said.

"They work 70 hours a week and make $5 a month, while our cooks and stewards work 70 hours a week and get $30 monthly."

He said he was not certain if the 17,000 workers he represents would agree to an extension of the 15 day waterfront strike, saying "they are fed up with all this stalling. That is why I am here."

Lundberg planned to confer with J. B. Weaver, director of the steamboat inspection service, on a proposed 90 day postponement of the effective date of the Copeland safety act, which the sailors oppose on the grounds it infringes their rights.

International Convolve
GENEVA, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—A conference of international maritime labor organizations opened today, delegates from 15 nations agreed to improve sailors' working conditions.

To be sought for seamen were shorter hours, sickness insurance, paid vacations and other working improvements.

A total of 28 delegates and 108 advisers, representing 28 nations which control 82 per cent of the world's merchant marine tonnage, attended the session. Germany and Italy were the only powers whose maritime nations not represented.

Rules Listed For Maui Doll Show

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
WAILUKU, Maui, Oct. 6.—Rules for the doll exhibit at the 19th Maui county fair have been announced by Margus F. Calmes, publicity chairman.

The doll show, which is under the direction of Miss Mildred Lee, will be housed in the territorial building. Exhibits must be left at the building before noon Wednesday.

Following are the doll show rules: Have all dolls at the territorial building by noon Wednesday. Attach a small typewritten slip of paper with the name of the country the doll represents on the front of each doll in the collection. In a corner of the slip, write the exhibitor's initials.

Dolls may be displayed in glass cases supplied by the exhibitor. Arrangements for transportation of the cases can be made with Miss Lee.

The dolls will be guarded during the fair and locked up at night, but the fair does not assume responsibility for replacing dolls if they are lost or stolen.

Itasca Leaving October 15 For Southern Isles For Further Colonization

By JOHN WILLIAMS
Two Honolulu youths, Paul Yai Lum and Harold Chin Lum (no relation), are taking their leave from the fleet air base, Pearl Harbor, so they can leave on the Itasca, leaving October 15 to make air observations at Jarvis and Howland islands, U. S. equatorial possessions being colonized by other Honolulu youths for the department of Interior.

They are learning reading and mapping of upper air wind directions and velocities, and thermometer and barometer readings from Chief Aerographer Theodore F. Lindeman and Freeman W. House, aerographer third class. The upper air observations are made with special theodolites and hydrogen balloons. The balloons rise upward at the rate of 600 feet per minute.

"By October 15 the boys will be classified as student aerologists," Richard B. Black, aerographer of interior field representative who has charge of the islands, said today.

"The boys besides are first class amateur radio operators and there will be plenty for them to do in January when transmitting and receiving radio will be established permanently on the two islands, and Baker besides."

Local Water Supply
"The government intends to go ahead with permanent occupation of the three islands which may be of some use to projected airlines to the Antipodes."

"When the Itasca sails October 15 we will take an 800 gallon tank for each island. These will be buried below the surface for the purpose of building up a useful water supply."

To date the water has been taken down periodically in drums but this is unsatisfactory. Much rain water can be caught and diverted into the underground tanks. "We want all the water we can collect because we are planting more and more fruit and shelter trees on the islands. We will pick up another load of young coconut palms on the way down. With plenty of water daily, they thrive on the arid equatorial islands. When the various fruit trees bear, it will mean a fine supply of fresh foods for the boys."

Mr. Black on October 15 will take with the following Honolulu boys to replace others already on the islands, if not being known how many will remain: James Kamakahi, who will lead the boys on Howland; Charles Ahia, Albert Akana, William Tavares, Eugene Burke, Henry Mahika and Gabriel Victor.

Manuel Symon and Yai Fat Lum (no relation) will return to Honolulu by the Itasca, arriving November 2.

New Cutter Has Airplane
In all probability this will be the last visit of the Itasca to the islands. The next trip in January will be made by the new coast guard cutter Roger B. Taney, 327 feet length, 30 knots, which will be stationed in Hawaii as from the day of this year.

The Roger B. Taney will carry an airplane and photographic surveyors of the islands will be made from the day of this year.

James Kamakahi is most excited about returning to Howland where he lived from March, 1935, until January, 1936.

James likes the fishing there. His record: 365 silver ahiholes in 10 minutes with a musketeer net. He snared the lot for sale in Honolulu.

Best fun: Watching the frigate birds take the bait that swam the island. A bird picks up one, flies 300 feet, lets the rat drop, but the bird swiftly dives, catches the rat before it strikes the earth, returns to 300 feet again, repeats the process until the rat dies. Other frigate birds chip in at the same rat, until three or four bump heads and squabble in diving for it.

Best food: Goosey bird squab fried brown with plenty of spice.

Needless Driving Charge—For driving a motorcycle heedlessly and recklessly September 29, when he was involved in a collision with an auto at Harding Ave. and Kapiolani Rd. Paul H. Lewis of the commissary store, Pearl Harbor, was sentenced to five days in the city-county jail this morning by Judge Harry Steiner. Lewis pleaded not guilty but was convicted. He entered a guilty plea to another charge of driving without a license and was given a 15 months' suspended sentence.

Relief Tax helps but can't do it all

The Territorial 1/2-per cent relief tax money has proved a very substantial help in meeting Oahu's community problem.

It affords direct relief—food and shelter to many who are unable to work on Federal relief jobs. It supplements what United Welfare allots to the Social Service Bureau. Without its aid from these Territorial funds the Social Service Bureau would find the load greater than it could bear.

ITASCA SEARCH FOR CRAFT VAIN

saret Payne has drifted approximately 100 miles farther south from the position she originally reported to the Itasca.

This information was contained in radio messages from the ship. She further reported that she was in the vicinity of the Itasca's position readings.

Army radars reported they were unable to ascertain actual position of the persons aboard the Itasca but said she operated under the Itasca's radar beam all night.

Messages from the craft, they said, indicated it probably was a private vessel and that her owners probably were aboard.

Officers of the USCIS cutter Reliance here reported the Itasca probably will have the Marconi Payee to Honolulu if she successfully makes contact with her.

Agronomy Section Rules Announced
WAILUKU, Maui, Oct. 6.—Rules for exhibits and awarding of prizes in the agronomy section of the 19th Maui county fair have been announced by Laurence S. McLane, executive chairman.

All exhibits must be on the floor of the fair not later than 8 Thursday morning. Exhibits must be marked with identification card but no other marks. These will be supplied by the secretary of the section.

All exhibits must be marked with the exhibitor or under the exhibitor's supervision.

St. Louis Lots To Be Auctioned
Four St. Louis Heights lots owned by the city-county will be auctioned to the highest bidder in the office of Treasurer David L. Conkling, October 23, that official announced today.

Default of payment on improvement district assessments resulted in the lots, about 7,000 feet each, to the municipality. Four are at the junction of Dule St. and St. Louis Ave.

Postoffice Will Have Own Exhibit
WAILUKU, Maui, Oct. 6.—The Kahului postoffice, of which Lemmon W. Holt is postmaster, will have a display at the 19th Maui county fair consisting chiefly of information concerning United States savings bonds, the United States postal savings service, parcel post, the post money order system, domestic insured and COD mail, the registry system, the international money order service, first class mail, the special delivery system, the special handling system, unmailed matter, second class mail, third class mail, fourth class mail and the air mail system.

tended to five days in the city-county jail this morning by Judge Harry Steiner. Lewis pleaded not guilty but was convicted. He entered a guilty plea to another charge of driving without a license and was given a 15 months' suspended sentence.

HILL WILL NOT CONTEST VOTE

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
HILO, Hawaii, Oct. 6.—"By no means will I contest the election. It is all over and that's all there is to it."

That was the reply made today by Senator W. H. Hill, Republican candidate for reelection who lost the Republican nomination for 14 votes, when he was asked if he planned to demand a recount.

The Hill will meet their daughter, Patricia, on the west coast and put her in school in southern California. She has been in New York for several years. Their younger daughter, Shirley, is remaining in Hilo.

"I plan to be back in Hilo on October 23, in time for the general election," Mr. Hill said. "I am going away for a short combined business trip and rest."

Papaikou Man Hit By Hilo Auto Dies
(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
HILO, Hawaii, Oct. 6.—Funeral services for Olokehi Sierbro, 72, of New Camp, Papaikou, were held Monday afternoon with the Rev. Freda Harris officiating. The body was cremated at the Honolulu cemetery.

Mr. Sierbro died as a result of injuries received when he was struck by a car allegedly operated by Souji Masukawa of Kaimama on Saturday evening as he was attempting to cross a Hilo street.

Mr. Masukawa picked up the injured man and rushed him to the Hilo memorial hospital where he died early Sunday morning.

Relieved His Own Mother's Torturing Neuritis Pain

So quickly does Nurlin ease the torturing pain of sciatica, rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago and neuritis that the head of the syndicate which purchased this equipment said that he had never known his own mother with it. Although 73 years old he found great comfort through it. Other sufferers the country over report the same quick and lasting relief from pain after a few doses of Nurlin. Best of all—it has eased their suffering without the use of narcotics or opiates. If you're tired of using ineffective remedies, make this simple test: Go to your druggist and ask for Nurlin. If the very first dose does not relieve the most intense pain, your money will be refunded without question. Don't wait a single unnecessary minute—go to your druggist right now.
