

KAMEHAMEHA PLANS HUGE NEEDY DRIVE

Welfare Campaign Leaders
Quite Positive That New Drive Will Pass Old Marks

The annual Welfare drive is in full swing and Kamehameha is determined to overshadow all previous marks. Powerful speakers have tried to instill the spirit of giving generously, to our less fortunate comrades, into the hearts of the students at Kamehameha.

The low-eleventh class, under the able leadership of Isaac Kaopua, has been chosen to collect the funds from the other classes.

The treasurers of the various classes have been busy collecting the donations of their classmates, and from early reports, the 100 per cent mark is expected to be reached.

Three Pupils Write School

Boys Enjoy Visit And Work
At Station, Wake Island

Mr. Claude G. Banning, instructor-in-charge of part-time work received word from three boys stationed at Wake Island. According to Mr. Banning the boys were interested in the things in general, and they also had a very fine trip on the clipper.

"Well, here we are at Wake Island," began the boys in their letter.

"We arrived at 4:45 p.m. at Midway Island, the only stop we made enroute to Wake Island. It was too shallow for the clipper to taxi to the shore, so it was necessary for us to board a launch about half a mile out from shore.

"Midway is a city in itself. There is a large hotel situated in the heart of the island. The electric system there is perfect. Hot and cold water is available in every room.

"We stayed in the hotel over night and promptly at 5:17 a.m. we were on our way to Wake Island.

"Wake Island is also a modern city, and has a hotel very similar to that of Midway.

"Our living quarters are very similar to those of our dormitories in school. The food here is just as fine and tasty as that of the Young hotel.

"There is an abundant amount of birds and fish here. The fishes are easily caught by lines and nets."

The boys went on to say:
"As our present job we are reconstructing the pier which has been washed away in a recent storm. This work is fairly hard, but we are enjoying every bit of it.

"We three boys would like to express our thanks for being granted this wonderful opportunity of making this fine and wonderful trip. And we close now with the best of luck to the football squad and to the school," the boys concluded in their letter.

The letter which Mr. Banning received from the boys was enclosed in a very beautiful envelope. The envelope, in addition to the ordinary ornaments of our common air mail envelope, has a small photographic picture of the clipper. The picture of the clipper is surrounded by ornaments of gold embossing.

The gold embossing surrounding the clipper depicts a very large city with a large harbor. At one end of the city, a clipper can be seen just arriving at the harbor, while another clipper is already moored there.

Another interesting fact about the envelope is that the "cover" had to be stamped in Honolulu, as soon as it had arrived from Wake Island because there isn't a single post office on Wake Island.

Incidentally, Mr. Banning is a stamp and "cover" collector and he is very proud of the "cover" sent to him by the boys at Wake Island.

MR. M. J. BALLENGEE LECTURES ON BINDING

"The bindery teaches girls to act and think at the same time," said Mr. Milton Ballengee, instructor of general science, chemistry, leathercraft, and the adviser of the senior class at the school for girls.

"It gives you an opportunity for co-ordination of mind and body. Bindery work is a foundation on which to base any principle of trade. This bindery work offers training that assists in club and camp activities or occupational therapy. It gives one a good background such as hand work which every one should learn. It will help girls in their library work, such as simple repairs, cataloging, treating books against mildew and any kind of book worms. This work also gives you a better appreciation of books."

MR. C. V. BUDD'S HOME MOVED FROM OLD PREP

Moving of the building that had been Mr. Clarence V. Budd's home, until the close of the month of July, caused Mr. James C. Gilbert, agricultural instructor at the Kamehameha School for Boys, much worry as the building was moved across his corn patches, along the inside fence of the Kalihi street boundary.

The house now stands on the opposite side from the school across Kalihi street.

Mr. Budd is now occupying the former home of Mr. Leslie Eichleberger on the west side of the boys' campus.

Jarvis Boys Hear K.S.B. Program

Amateur Station K6GAS Used For Broadcast On Sunday

Four members of the Kamehameha faculty had the privilege of communicating with the boys on Jarvis Island on Sunday evening through the facilities of Henry Lau's amateur broadcasting station K6GAS, on Kanealii street.

Mr. Donald Mitchell, instructor of science and biology at K. S. B., thought it a good plan to contact the boys and let them know what was happening at home, while Mr. James Triolo, social science and English instructor of K. S. B., read the football scores of local and coast leagues. Mr. Benjamin Norris, instructor of art at K. S. B. and Mr. John K. Walker told the boys what they thought of the Kamehameha Schools.

A radio set was sent to Jarvis Island about the middle of July, but something happened to the set about the end of July and communication was not re-established until September 31. Yau Fai Lum, the radio operator of Jarvis Island, after much concentrated effort got the set to work again.

Messages sent from Jarvis to Honolulu must be sent by the international code, but messages sent from Honolulu to Jarvis can be heard directly.

The occupants of Jarvis Island are Jacob Haili, Solomon Kalama, Manuel Sproat and Yau Fai Lum.

Manuel Sproat, a present senior, will return home on the next boat.

A boat leaves for Jarvis Island on October 15.

SOCIAL SERVICE HEAD ENCOURAGES BOYS TO SUPPORT INSTITUTIONS

"Loving your neighbor as you love yourself is one of the greatest things one can do," said Miss Finley, director of the Social Service Bureau in Honolulu, as she spoke to students at the Kamehameha School for Boys on the "1936 Welfare Campaign" during a daily assembly.

"You could prove your love for your neighbor by donating something to the 'United Welfare Campaign' budget," continued Miss Finley. The amount you wish to give depends upon yourself.

Miss Finley went on telling of various kinds of people the Social Service Bureau aids with proceeds from the Welfare Campaign; the 500 old Chinese men, 5000 sick mothers, numerous homeless youths, and others.

Miss Finley has for 16 years been connected with the Social Service Bureau. At present she is director of the bureau. She has been on the mainland recently and attended the Social Service conference where she was elected to a rather important position.

Letter Received By Dr. Homer F. Barnes From Boys On P.A.A. Island

Dr. Homer F. Barnes, principal-in-charge of the Kamehameha Schools, received a letter from Levi Kini Pea and Leith Caceres, members of the senior class of K. S. B., and Irving Maby, a graduate of last year's senior class who are stationed on Wake Island.

The boys stated that the trip to Wake Island, on the clipper, was enjoyed by everyone.

The food and the living quarters on the island are second to none and they are enthusiastic about everything, including their jobs, because they are in the water while on the job.

"We will try our utmost to leave a good impression of Kamehameha upon the minds of the men of the Pan-American Airways system," quoted the three boys.

Here's wishing these three boys from Kamehameha all the luck and success which will enable them to achieve something for which the Kamehameha Schools may be proud.

The gala occasion, an annual affair, will be featured by many forms of entertainment, both for girls and boys. Among them will be football, baseball, volleyball, and swimming.

The food will be taken care of by Mrs. Ballengee, adviser of the seventh grade at the school for girls, while transportation, according to reports, will be taken care of by the boys.

The picnickers will embark for Kailua at 1:30 p.m. and will be home by 7:30 p.m.

Miyamoto Is Ninth Grade Prexy

Alfred Miyamoto eked out a close victory over Ralph Miller to be elected to the helm of the ninth grade at the school for boys. One point separated the two candidates. Miller was eventually elected to the vice-presidency. James Sims was made class secretary while Ikua Hanchett, last year's president, was elected treasurer.

Alama Is Eighth Grade President

Bernhardt Alama was elected president of the eighth grade at the school for boys. James Gomard, last year's prexy, was elected to the vice-presidency. When secretarial returns were counted Alvin Shim was found to be out in front by a comfortable margin. Charles Yim was then elected to be class treasurer.

Mr. Mitchell Heads Party Of Five Men On Sight-seeing Tour

A trip around the island was made on Sunday, October 4, by Mr. Donald Mitchell, two of his friends, and three other members of the faculty.

The sight-seeing tour was composed of the following: Mr. J. Lovewell, Mr. M. Garlinghouse, Mr. James Triolo, Mr. Benjamin Norris, and Mr. John Walker. With the exception of Mr. Mitchell, none of the above mentioned had been around the island before Sunday.

Since Mr. Mitchell knew a lot of old legends and traditions of the places visited the group was highly entertained.

One of the places visited by the group was Kolekole Pass. According to reports its location and high elevation provided a favorable position for an excellent view of the territory for miles around.
