

Kamehameha Boys Tell Of Trip To Southern Islands

Kamehameha school students have been eager to hear stories brought back by their fellow students who went with the recent scientific expedition to the equatorial islands of Howland, Baker and Jarvis.

The high spots of the trip down were the ceremonies attendant of the crossing the equator, and the stop at Palmyra, in the opinion of Arthur Harris and Louis Suarez.

"Regarding the first, it was an initiation worthy of the honor it bestowed," said Harris. "King Neptune, his queen, Davy Jones, the ungrateful judge, a helpless priest, a doctor with a nice smile and nicely soaped gills, a worthless defending lawyer, and a host of pirates, lazers, mermaids and other denizens of the sea passed judgment on me (also the others) crossing the equator."

"You enter the court a 'polliwog' and emerge beaten on the body, but happy in the thought of being 'new' and forever a certified 'shellback'!"

University of Hawaii Theater guild play, will be played on sale today at the Theater Place Co., 116 S. Bishop St.

The play will open at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday in Farrington hall and will be repeated Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

Lady Precious Stream is a famous old Chinese play translated into English by S. I. Hedong. It has been a sensational success in both London and Shanghai this season and will open in New York in a few days.

The play will be performed here in the traditional Chinese manner by a cast of 30 university students of Chinese descent under the direction of Arthur E. Wynant.

CLASS IN MATHEMATICS

Practical mathematics will be taught in an evening course in the University of Hawaii by Elvin A. Hoy, assistant professor of mathematics and engineering, according to Dr. R. R. Scott, director of the adult education division.

The course is designed for persons with little or no high school mathematics and for others who wish a short review of algebra and trigonometry.

Meetings will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 8 p. m., with the first meeting on January 20. Anyone may attend the first class without charge.

FRANKIE IS SPEAKER

Harry A. Frank, traveler, author, lecturer, but better known as "Frankie the Vagabond," spoke before the students of the University of Hawaii last Wednesday.

The talk was based on Mr. Frank's first trip, a journey around the world, and was illustrated with colored pictures.

He completed his trip in 16 months, doing all sorts of odd jobs to earn his way. At Marcelline he became a sailor and worked his way to Port Said, Suez canal. Returning to America, he landed at Vancouver, B. C. From there he took charge of transporting steers to the Chinese stockyards, where his journey came to an end.
