SUPPORTING KEYS ARTISTS

Clarice Yentsch, president of the Waypoint Foundation, a not-for-profit organization in Key Largo that helps artists in all areas to 'find the space and freedom to create here in the Upper Keys,' recently returned from a five-day seminar in Stockholm, Sweden, furthering her studies in human dynamics. She was accompanied by C.J. Berwick, co-owner of the Fish House Restaurant. She said she plans to use her 'human dynamics understanding to further the education and development of aspiring artists.'
