Originally, the Sand Key Lighthouse was a brick structure -- which only lasted twenty years before a mighty hurricane swept it into the sea. The lighthouse was rebuilt in 1852, remaining intact until a devastating fire in 1989. Restoration of the Sand Key Lighthouse is pending ... again! (Photo courtesy Monroe County TDC)

SHINING TREASURES

Guiding us through the seas to the Keys

"It saves lives. It makes no profit. It serves everyone equally and cannot discriminate ... The lighthouse symbolizes all that is good in mankind."

George Bernard Shaw

The Key West Lighthouse has been restored to its turn-of-the-century prime and now houses a first rate maritime museum. (Photo by: Carol J. Perry)
