Personal
Last Minute
Habits

Sometimes I find that I wait until the last minute to do things that really need doing. I suppose that we all do every now and again.

Last summer, we were planning to purchase a new air conditioner for our family room. We made the mistake of waiting until the weather was almost unbearable before we tried to buy one. Note, I said "tried" because when we began to make inquiries there wasn't one to be found, so we had to order.

Buy While You're Cool

You can imagine how upset I was because I have noticed that as I get older, I can take less extremes in temperature. I'm sure many of you know what I mean. Sears is offering you bargains in air conditioners now because they understand how important it is to buy early while the weather is still comfortable and the rush hasn't begun.

What Do You Need?

They have units to fit each of your air conditioning needs. For example, 5,000 or 6,000 BTU Coldspot bedroom air conditioners in compact lightweight styles with durable, sturdy and attractive constructions and whisper-quiet cooling. The 14,000 BTU multi-room window units have set-and-forget automatic controls. And, these Coldspot air conditioners come in a wide range of sizes to fit just about any window frame. When we were looking for a unit for my son's room, Sears was the only place where we could find one to fit his small window.

For those of you who prefer central air conditioning to the window type, they offer 30,000, 37,000, 42,000 and 48,000 BTU systems. These systems include everything necessary. And, if you don't know which size you need, the Sears people will be happy to help you decide.

Hot Days Ahead

All of these air cooling units are at prices you will like with terms convenient to your budget. So, don't put it off any longer. Prepare your home for the hot months ahead by getting your Coldspot air conditioner from Sears today.
