Within a month after the first run the Eldorado Springs branch had been electrified and management had settled on running times and scheduling, permitting release of the first permanent timetable dated July 27, 1908. While scheduling adjustments were made and the number of round trips was later reduced, in general the scheduling pattern changed little over the years.—

Broomfield

The M-158 pauses in Broomfield, so named for the boom corn once widely cultivated in the area. L.C. McClure took this view (below) of Broomfield about 1910. By the mid-1980s the same location, now served by the Burlington Northern, is a busy Denver suburb.—Above, CRRM; Below, DPL
