I Interviewer 00:08
I remember house up here when I'm going

E Elizabeth Brunner 00:10
Oh, yes. No, it was a white white house big two story white house. Wasn't anything in here because they farmed it all

I Interviewer 00:23
Well, there wasn't when I moved here either. And there really isn't a whole lot here now. If you I think if we get some of those big wild wind storms there won't be anything

E Elizabeth Brunner 00:36
That's about right.

I Interviewer 00:37
I've been, we watched them when they were building these houses. They get up on the top to put the roof on and the whole structure would just shake.

E Elizabeth Brunner 00:46
Sure I know, I know what you mean

I Interviewer 00:48
must be awful when the wind blows.

E Elizabeth Brunner 00:57
We don't know what happened down here. On the other side of these buildings, cause they had it all splayed out, starting to lay the foundation and everything and then there wasn't any

I Interviewer 01:13
Cause they ran out of money.

E Elizabeth Brunner 01:14
He quit! He quit right now.

I Interviewer 01:20
And there was never well, that place. It's kind of across the street from your place. Was that there's an older house up there. But was that anything or? This one up here?

E Elizabeth Brunner 01:33
Yeah, I know what you mean. Yeah. That was. I know the people who lived in that and he built that. He built that after I came out here though. And that was a minister. [unclear]. Run that elevator. Okay. He lives in that little house where I said that Glen lives now.

I Interviewer 02:19
Okay.

E Elizabeth Brunner 02:20
Yeah.

I Interviewer 02:20
Okay. Yeah, I've heard that name.

E Elizabeth Brunner 02:22
Yeah, I know. I told you about that course be.

I Interviewer 02:33
Anything else?

E Elizabeth Brunner 02:35
I think that's just about it. Covers. I could find to find that out tonight. Oh, yeah.

I Interviewer 02:43
That's right. straight north of here. Yes. Below 10th Avenue.

E Elizabeth Brunner 02:48
Right over there.

I Interviewer 02:51
Yeah, I'd like to know who it was. If you if you feel like yeah, I will. I'll get that. Okay. I know the gal that lives there. Okay, so many years,

E Elizabeth Brunner 02:55

I Interviewer 03:00
that'd be great. Because anything we know, the more we know, the better. I don't know what we're going to do with all this is in addition to the tape, the tape ran out on the other side without my realising it. While she was telling me about the Mitce place, which is located just off of Pierce Avenue, on the south side of 100, of 287. Up on Greenway drive up on the hill. And we went up there to look at the buildings that were up there. A group of small trees there. And she did say that the the first building that you see there on Greenway drive straight north of the Greenway Park. Swimming pool was Mitce's garage. This is another addition to the tape. Mrs. Brunner called me back on August 28, about the people who had the farm that was straight north of their home at about 10th Avenue. The name of the people is Jake caliber. I'm not sure about that pronunciation. The spelling is Kal b e r e r. They had a daughter Marie, who apparently is still living. The farm apparently was built was there in about 1924 When she came when Mrs. Brunner came here. She said there were a number of big buildings there. And that's all we know about that.
