

Historic Red Hook Diner

RHWG: In the National Historic Register. This is the first diner in New York State to be listed on the state and national Historic Registers. The original Silk City Dining Car was built at the railroad yards in Patterson, N.J. in 1927. In the 1940s it was located at Astor Flats in Rhinebeck (southwest intersection of routes 9 and 9G) where it was known as the Half-Way Diner. It was moved to its Red Hook Village location in 1950.
