

Red Hook Class reunites

Members of Red Hook Central School's Class of 1949 along with some of their teachers gathered for a night of nostalgia at their 30th year reunion Saturday at the Stage Coach Inn in Blue Stores. Of the 41 graduates, 25 attended. They were William Anagnos, Jean Baldwin Haight, Burton Bathrick, Martin Berrigan, Patricia Berrigan Krizenesky, Glenn Brenzel, Jack Campisi, Doris Collier Sullivan, John Kulich, Shirley Doyle Kilgour, Lael Finkle Muller, Clifford Gubler, Madalyn Higgins Gardinier, Lucille Ingleson McCagg, John Lewis, Zelda Lynk Triebel and Charles Triebel, Donald "Red" Moul, Richard Redder, Margaret Riddleburgh Doty, Audrey Schultz Zietz, Bonnie Teator Asher, Bruce Teator, Ronald Teator and Robert Unson, along with teachers Hilda Aiken, Marian Champlin, Lindsay Nathan and Kathleen Hapeman. (pm)
(Register-Star photo by Peter D. Zietz)

Red Hook High class of '49 catches up on 30 years

BLUE STORES - Red Hook High School's Class of 1949 reminisced about old times and how their lives had changed since graduation at the 30-year reunion Saturday at the Stage Coach Inn here.

More than 60 per cent of the 41 member class and some former teachers attended. Teachers were Hilda Aiken, Marian Champlin, Lindsay Nathan and Kathleen Hapeman.

Although many class members stayed in this area, some have moved as far away as California.

Two members, Lois Shaw and Daniel Higgins, are deceased.

Among the careers represented were a state police sergeant, a professor and town supervisor, an elementary school principal and a guidance counselor.

William Anagnos, the state police sergeant, and his wife Jeanette have two children and live in Red Hook.

The former Jean Baldwin married William Haight. They have three children and live in Red Hook. Bonita Barich lives with her sister, Bernice, in Clearwater, Fla.

Burton Bathrick, his wife, Elizabeth and three children live in Hyde Park. He is a senior assembler specialist with IBM.

Martin Berrigan lives with his wife and two children in Potomac, Md.

Patricia Berrigan married Luke Krizenesky. They are the parents of five children and reside in Gaithersburg, Md., where she works as an office manager.

Glenn Brenzel, his wife, Marjorie and four children live in Germantown, where he teaches at Germantown Central School.

Virginia Buschman and her husband, Donald Hanson, live in Stamford.

Jack Campisi is a professor at the State University College at New Paltz. He is Milan's town supervisor. He and his wife, Beverly, have three children.

Doris Collier married Bill Sullivan. They have five children and live in Sparta, N.J.

John Kulich works for the East Hudson Parkway Authority. He and his wife, Faith, have two sons and live in Red Hook.

Shirley Doyle married Jim Kilgour. They have five children and live in Red Hook. Mrs. Kilgour, who was graduated from hairdressing school in 1950, married in 1953 while her husband was in the Air Force. They lived in Fort Worth, Tex., and Limestone, Me., before returning to Red Hook in 1955.

Edith DuBois married Bill Cole. They have one daughter and live in Mt. Airy, N.C.

Lael Finkle Muller is the mother of three children and is a teacher's aide at Red Hook Central School.

Roger Hard and his wife, Kathryn, live in Randolph, Vt. Madalyn Higgins married William Gardiner. They have four children and live in Germantown.

Lucille Ingleson McCagg is the mother of two married daughters, works at Stamp, Inc. and lives in Red Hook.

Alex Jezsu moved to El Cajon, Calif. Another Californian is Valeria Jones, who lives in Slaving with her husband, Dr. Francis Foresta.

Barbara Kahle is the wife of Floyd Moore and they live in Germantown.

John Lewis is principal of Mill Road School here. He and his wife, Joan, have two daughters.

Zelda Lynk married classmate Charles Triebel. They have five children and live in Vestal, where he is an electrical engineer with General Electric.

Donald "Red" Moul married the former Maryann Carley. He is Red Hook's village clerk, town-village recreation director, Town Recreation Park director and Red Hook sports reporter for the Register-Star. He and his wife have four children and reside in Red Hook.

Carolyn Peer is Mrs. Mundy and lives in Ballston Spa.

Richard Redder and his wife, Eleanor, have three children and live in Saugerties, where he is guidance director for the Saugerties School District.

Margaret Riddleburgh is Mrs. William Doty. They have three children and live in Red Hook. Mrs. Doty was Red Hook town tax collector for two terms and was elected town clerk in 1977.

Richard Schrader and his family have a farm in Romulus.

Audrey Schultz is Mrs. John Zietz Jr. They and their three children live in Rhinebeck, where she is a housewife and waitress.

Doreen Snyder married John Snyder. They have three children and live in Hudson.

Bonnie Teator is married to G. Vincent Asher. They live in Hyde Park. She worked for the Poughkeepsie Journal as a reporter and women's page editor.

Bruce Teator and his wife, Beverly, have five children and live in Tivoli.

Ronald Teator is self employed and lives in Red Hook.

Bob Unson is employed as a driver for UPS. He and his wife, Gladys, have two daughters and live in Tivoli.

Gerald Vevon, his wife and five children live in Charleston, S.C.

Eleanor Webster married Harry Slater. They live in Germantown. She worked at Smither Tool and Machine Shop until her daughter, Brenda, was born. She and her husband were involved in politics for 10 years, when he was town clerk and she was deputy town clerk.

She belongs to the Clermont Fire Auxiliary, teaches Sunday school and does volunteer work for organizations. (pm)