OBITUARY: Poughkeepsie Daily Eagle Monday 24 Decmeber 1900

John E Losee M.D. Dead

"An Old Resident of Upper Red Hook Passed Away"

A year ago last September this beloved physician of Northern Dutchess was stricken with an affliction of the nerves, which held him back from active service, and caused intervals of ??? suffering, finally leading to death. For over fifty years Dr. Losee traveled the country far and near, ministering with skill, enthusiasm, gentility and generosity to the bodily ailments of ???, ??? ??? at the same time with words of sympathy, hope and strength for both the suffering and their sorrowing households. At length he who had helped so many was himself made helpless by a rarely occurring malady that refused to yield to treatment.

Dr. Losee was born in the town of Washington, September 16, 1826 and was one of eight children. In boyhood he removed with his father's family to Saratoga County, where he lived for six years with an uncle, working at farming. Later by teaching and efforts in other directions the young man earned his way to a medical education. Graduating at the Albany Medical School in 1852, after a period of service in the old New York Hospital, Dr. Losee accepted an opportunity to settle in Upper Red Hook in December 1853 as partner with Garfield Wheeler, M. D. This partnership terminated after some months and the young doctor built up rapidly an independent and highly successful practice.

On June 26, 1862 Dr. Losee was married to Miss Mary E, daughter of Edwin Knickerbocker of Madalin. Two sons, Edwin K and Harvey, were given to them, both physicians and successors to their father's practice. The elder Dr. Losee (Egbert Losee) became a professing Christian and church member while still a young man, uniting with the Reformed Church of Northumberland, Saratoga County whence he took his brother to the Reformed Church of Upper Red Hook in 1858.

A younger brother (Harvey S Losee) became a lawyer and died in New Orleans. An Older brother (Alexander T Losee) was a physician for many years in the town of Germantown. Two sisters, Mrs. Eliza Chantz (Mrs. Leon Chantz) of Saratoga Springs and Mrs. Sarah Tile (Mrs. Leverette T. Teel) of Mechanicsville (Stillwater, north of Mechanicville), survive.

A long life well spent has left behind amble legacy of cherished memories. The long months of invalidism brought many comforting recompenses to both the patient and the family circle. The end came suddenly and peacefully on Saturday, at daybreak. Dr. Losee knew intimately the older physicians of Poughkeepsie, and was a frequent visitor to the city.

Notes for Mary Elizabeth Knickerbocker:

Ron Losee writes: "At Age ten, plus or minus, in 1930, I used to hear about "Gamma" Losee as Mary Knickerbocker Losee was called by my father, Uncle Jim and Aunt Ag. She had an obsessive-cumpulsive behavior of counting how many times it was necessary to wash right hand, left hand etc. Uncle Jim would tell about the time his grandmother just had the luxury of a flush toilet upstairs in the Thomad House in which they lived. Sunday afternoon lady guests would visit. One by one they each would go upstairs to try the new apparatus. As they left the parlor "Gamma" would call out, "Don't forget to pull the chain!" The entrance to the new toilet was dangerous. It had a shelf overhanging the top back steps that one had to step on before entering."

Notes for Harvey S Losee:

"Died at his residence in this place after a lingering illness on Wednesday night last, Harvey S Losee, aged 41years a native of Dutchess County New York. Some one of his numerous friends will doubtless pay a fitting tribute to his memory in the shape of an obituary, and we can say what we know of him in a long acquaintance, that he was an honorable, modest, unobtrusive gentleman who by his professional acquirements and business habits made a comfortable living for his family and left them well provided for." - The Rapides Gazette Oct 19 1872

He became a lawyer, removed to Louisiana and practiced law there before the Civil War broke out.

Descendants of Hans Henrich Froehlich

Generation 6 (con't)

Because of his friendships there, he fought for the Confederacy and was wounded in The Battle of Shiloh.

Ron Losee reports, he's seen a letter that he wrote to his brother, John Eckert Losee. In the letter, Ron sensed that Harvey was sorry for embarrassing his brother for having rebelled. There was love of brother for brother because John E named his second son Harvey, after his rebel brother.

Was on intimate terms with Gen. W. T. Sherman who taught at military school nearby in LA.

Harvey was living in LA when the war broke out. He decided that rather than risk his family's life he'd stay and fight for the south. He refused to be an officer and entered the war as a private. At the battle of Pittsburg Landing, Gen. Beauregard found him leading his company after all the officers had either fled or been killed. After this the General gave Harvey a sword.

He was wounded at the Battle of Shiloh where a musket ball struck his hand, causing the loss of some fingers.

Toward the end of the war he was thrown from a carriage and received internal injuries which would lead to his death.
