

Conductor #1260:-

Enclosed herein you will find the one cent piece, which I refused to pay you when riding on your car the morning of 4-22-47. After reaching my destination I had a conversation with one of your company officials who was kind enough to tell me that they were requesting you conductors to receive an extra penny with each token fare. Which I will admit is one hell of a job when on the face of the token it reads that it is good for one fare., but I will also be willing to bet that before this little occasion is over with you will be accepting tokens with no additional fare.
