FIRST BERMUDA RAILWAY IN PROCESS OF CONSTRUCTION.
The first railway in Bermuda is now being completed following years of strenuous opposition by its opponents who believed it would mar the landscape and detract from the inherent beauty of the Island. In the above photo the engine is making its firstrun through the quaint streets of Hamilton, the capital where motors are forbidden and engines never were before. The railroad, which will run from one end of the island to another is still being delayed in construction due to opposition by owners who refuse to sell their land, but recently construction is moving forward much more rapidley than in the past.
